Dressed beef and dressed lamb prices have shown good gains during the past few weeks. Dressed pork prices also have advanced substantially above the low level existing a year ago. Wholesale prices on various cuts of beef in large cities are from 1c to 11c per pound higher than a year ago. The average wholesale price on No. 1 ribs at Chicago recently was 18c compared with 12c a year ago. No. 1 loins were quoted at 27c compared with 16c a year ago and No. 1 rounds at 13c showed a gain of .4c over a year ago. Lamb loins are selling at 27c now against 13c a year ago.

Altho dressed pork shows gains of from 3c to 5c per pound over a year ago, live hogs are selling below last year. Average price paid by consumers in 51 cities for pork chops last month was 24c per pound.

These figures seem to indicate that the processing tax on pork is being used as an argument by the retailers for boosting prices and the consumers are apparently revolting at the advance by purchasing other meats. The fact that direct buying of hogs has eliminated nearly half of the buying competition from markets, also has a decided detrimental effect on the hog market.

VETERAN LAW INSTRUCTOR AT MINN. U. WILL RETIRE

Attorneys in every part of Minnesota, including every attorney who ever attended the University of Minnesota Law school, will be interested in the announcement last week that James Paige, a member of the law faculty since 1890, is to retire at the end of this year. "Jimmy" Paige entered the University law school in the fall of 1888 with its first class, and so has been associated with it from the very start, for two years as a student and for 44 years as a member of the faculty. Every man who ever attended that school has known him as a fellow student or as a teacher. Mr. Paige also has been "faculty representative" for Minnesota to the Western conference, or "Big Ten" since 1906 and has played a major part in shaping the athletic legislation which admittedly has made the conference the best governed athletic body in America. He will be honored by students, faculty members and alumni of the Law school the night of May 16 at the annual school banquet. A portrait of him will be presented to the school at that time.

SUMMER SCHOOL SERVES TEACHERS OF MINNESOTA

The University of Minnesota will resume one of its major services to Minnesota teachers on June 20, when the first Summer session is scheduled to begin. Several thousand Minnesota teachers are included each year among the 4,000 to 5,000 who attend summer classes at Minnesota, together with teachers from other states and a number of undergraduates.

The usual plan will be followed this year in that two Summer Sessions have been scheduled, the first running from June 20 to July 28 and the second from July 29 to September 1,

A majority of the instructors for the coming summer will be members of the Minnesota faculty, T. A. H. Teeter, associate director, has announced.

A varied and interesting program of entertainments will be a factor in the summer sessions, including plays, musical performances, visiting speakers and special lectures by members of the faculty. There also will be a series of tours to points of interest in the Twin Cities and facilities for golf and other outdoor recreations.

One of the special projects will be an "International Affairs Week," during which a number of authorities in international matters will be brought in to give their views to summer students. There will be a series of special lectures and conferences on agriculture problems at University Farm.

IOWA TO PAY $25 UNDER THE OLD AGE PENSION

DES MOINES, Ia.—Needy citizens, 65 years old or over, are entitled to pensions up to $25 a month beginning next November 1, under the Iowa old age pension law signed by Governor Clyde Herring. Persons with less than $1 a day incomes and with no near relatives able to provide support can receive aid. Applicants must have been citizens 15 years and have resided in Iowa 10 years.

The pension fund will be supported by a $2 annual head tax payable by all adults. In 1934 a $1 per capita tax will be collected to start it.

TRUCKERS TO MEET IN MINNEAPOLIS, MAY 14TH

Truck operators from all parts of Minnesota, Iowa, Wisconsin, North and South Dakota will congregate in Minneapolis, Monday May 14, to inaugurate the NRA trucking code in the Northwest, and to attend the annual convention of the Regulated Motor Transportation association.

The three large trucking associations of the state, the R. M. T. A. the Minnesota Truck Owners association and the Minnesota Truck federation, are cooperating to make this meeting the largest of its kind ever staged in the Northwest. Speakers of national prominence are coming to the Twin Cities from Washington, D. C., to address the afternoon code inauguration meeting, at 1:30 p. m., Monday, May 14, in the Moorish room of the West hotel.

Ted V. Rogers, chairman of the National Trucking Code Authority, and president of the American Trucking association, heads the program with a careful explanation of just what the trucking code is, and what it will do for operators of the Northwest. He will be followed by James E. Murphy of St. Paul Park, Minnesota who has spent the last six months in Washington, representing Northwest truck operators in code negotiations.

Arthur W. Trenholm, Jr., of Minneapolis, chairman of the state code authority, and other members of the state authority, are in charge of the code meeting. "Every truck operator in Minnesota and the Northwest is invited to attend this meeting," Mr. Trenholm declared. "We are fortunate in having been able to obtain such authorative speakers as Mr. Rogers and Mr. Murphy, and this is our big opportunity to learn all about the code and to get started right in this region. The code may mean the salvation of truck operators, and it is up to us to make the most of it. Opportunities for registering under the code will be provided at this meeting. Failure to register will make a truck operator subject to heavy penalities under the law."

Roy Steller, president of the Regulated Motor Transportation association, organization of common and contract truck operators, stated that members of his group are inviting all visiting truckers to attend the annual R. M. T. A., banquet and fun-fest at 6:30 p. m. immediately following the code meeting, and also in the Moorish room of the West hotel. He also stated that members of the R. M. T. A., will hold their annual meeting and election of officers at noon, of the same day, and their first annual invitational golf tournament on the preceeding Sunday afternoon.

STUTTERING IS CAUSED BY OVER-ANTICAPATION

Stuttering is a serious disability and a disability which psychiatrists believe can be prevented with wise care in childhood, says a bulletin issued by the Public Health Education Committee of the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

Several theories have been held by different people at different times as to the origin of stuttering, according to the bulletin. One that was there was something wrong with the anatomy of the throat or the voice mechanism. That has been largely discarded. Another, that stuttering was the result of struggle for dominance between the two hemispheries of the brain is also open to much question.

The "common sense" theory is advanced in this bulletin as the most likely, based on evaluation of all the studies made on the subject.

"The common sense therory," say the physicians, "is that stuttering in the first instance when it is uncomplicated by fear or humiliation, is the result of emotional excitement: of over-anxiety, over-stimulation, over-anticipation, over-enthusiasm,

"So great is the speech rush and hurry that the child endeavors to say a whole syllable or word or sentence or even a whole story in an instant Thus he stumbles accidentally into incipient stuttering. If the over-strain and over-excitement which led to the first accident is allowed to continue, the stuttering becomes a habit. That habit leads to the fear and humiliation and embarrassment caused directly by the habit and making the habit worse."

The doctors counsel great care on the part of adults to avoid situations that lead to highly emotional and excited states on the part of children. Parents who insist on "showing off" an over-enthusiastic child are particularly culpable in medical opinion.

Wild Ass Is Speedy

Wild asses are marvels of speed and endurance according to a representative of the American Museum of Natural History, who has frequently hunted and photographed them in the interior of Asia where they still roam in large herds. He tells of one full-grown animal which he pursued for more than 20 miles in a motor car before it would acknowledge itself beaten, and which reached a top speed of 40 miles an hour during the chase. Its average speed for most of the distance was approximately 30 miles an hour.

ELABORATE FLOATS WILL FEATURE SHRINE CONFAB

With the 60th Annual Convention of the Shrine to be held at Minneapolis during the week of June 17, less then six weeks away, a committee of 5000 Nobles are working feverishly to complete final plans for this great event.

Shriners in Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth were putting the finishing touches on the six big major entertainment features to which the general public will be invited for the Imperial Council Session of the Shrine.

The arrival of the 14 freight car loads of Hollywood electrical floats last week was the final step in assembling the component parts of the elaborate night pageant to be given in the University Memorial stadium on the night of June 21. This electrical pageant, according to the entertainment committee of the Shrine, will be the most colorful display of night-time pageantry ever to be shown in Minnesota.

In addition to this great parade of electrical floats, the Shrine committee has scheduled two elaborate Shrine parades to be held in Memorial Stadium in which uniform bodies of all Shrinedom will parade in royal grandeur.

Other leading entertainment features to which the general public will be invited the All American Rodeo at Fort Snelling in which leading riders of the western ranches will compete for cash prizes; the International Outboard Speed Boat Races at Lake Calhoun in which 125 of the daredevils in this water sport will be seen in action and a varied program of entertainment "for the entire family" will be presented at Excelsior Park.

MANY LOSE RIGHTS TO DRIVE THEIR AUTOMOBITES

During April, 141 automobile drivers lost their right to operate motor vehicles on Minnesota highways according to a report from the drivers license division of the state highway department.

Loss of license was due in most cases to conviction on charges of drunken driving, while some suspensions were made for hit and run offenses and reckless driving. The licenses were recalled for periods ranging from a few weeks to a year or more, depending on the offense.

All justicies of the peace and other courts are required by law to report to the highway commissioner all convictions under motor vehicle laws.

USE OF VARIOUS ROADS IN NOW BEING STUDIED

Workers in the road study being conducted in Minnesota by the U. S. Bureau of Public Roads and the state highway deparment are now engaged in determining the origin of the traffic which uses each class of highways.

This part of the study, says a highway department bulletin, will show who makes the greatest use of township roads, county roads, state trunks and city and village streets. For example, it will indicate whether township roads serve more than local traffic, and to what extent. It will also determine the proportion of city and county traffic on state and county roads.

Another phase of the study will show who pays for the various classes of highways. This data, with the figures showing the use made of the roads, is expected to reveal whether or not present methods of financing the roads are equitable.

The road use study is being made means of a large number of interviews with representative drivers in each county. This system has been used by the U. S. Bureau of Roads previously and declared satisfactory.

Oak Vats Used 100 Years

Dismantling of oak vats which survived 100 years of service in a London brewery has given impetus to the use of wood vessels for use in chemical industry, the textile and leather trades, the film industry and manufacture of fresh juices.

Rank Fascism Budding in American Industry, Swope

Head of General Electric Admits Conference of Great Industrial Leaders Had No Equal Outside of Fascist Italy.

By Harvey O'Connor
Federated Press

WASHINGTN.—Fascism is in tha making in Washington. Gerard Swope head of General Electric, underlined for the blind the significance of the recent code authorities' conferences when he asserted that "there never has been such a meeting anywhere except, perhaps, in (Fascist) Italy.'

Swope is chief spokesman in the national capital for Big Business. As a member of the NRA industrial advisory hoard, of the national labor board and chairman of the business advisory and planning council, he occupies key positions in the "new deal.'

The country's leading would-be fascists are collected together in the husiness advisory and planning council, which has governmental status as a branch of the U. S. department of commerce. This council was organized by Secretary of Commerce Roper in June, 1933, when the blue eagle was hatched. From the council's 60 members are chosen the members of the NRA industrial advisory council. In comparison with the industrial board, the labor and consumers advisory hoards are mere shadows.

Collective Bargaining

From the husiness advisory and planning council also come the employer members of the national labor board. This same council several weeks ago, released a report by Waletr C. Teagle of Standard Oil of New Jersey praising company unionism as the proper method of labor organization. The council announces that it is now studying "collective hargaining," a term which it encloses in quotation marks.

This is the same council which is preparing, according to chairman Swope, a "permanent plan that may possibly succeed NRA," in other words, the Swope plan which was announced last fall and indorsed by Mr. Johnson. This plan provides for the U. S. Chamber of Commerce taking over the functions of NRA in June 1935, when the recovery act expires. Such a plan is strictly along the lines of the "corporate state" as advocated by Mussolini. Swope aaid he hopes to merge the husiness advisory and planning council with the two committees left hehind in Washington by the recent code authorities' conference.

Big Industries In Change

The committees were chosen by the capital goods and consumers' goods sections of the code authorities. The consumers goods group is headed hy George A. Sloan of the Cotton Textile Institute and Lammont DuPont, of munitiona fame, and J. D. A. Morrow of Pittshurgh Coal are members.

The capital goods industries' committee is headed by Geo. H. Houston, president of Baldwin Locomotive and vice-president of the hitterly anti-union National Association of Manufacturers. This group wants all corporation earnings reinvested in capital goods exempted from federal taxation. Both groups are a unit in demanding modification of the securities act aimed to protect investors in stocks and bonds, and the stock market regulation bill.

Opposed to Short Hours

The consumers' goods committee also as another bright idea for dipping its fingers in the federal treasury, that of government loans to industry. President Roosevelt is considering this proposal. At the committee meeting it was proposed to set up now the apparatus of Mussolini's "corporate state" in the shape of a "congress of code authorities."

Both committees, as well as Swope's business advisory and planning council, are unanimous in opposing the shorter hours program. The capital goods industries' group has established headquarters with the Machinery and Allied Products Institute, a group of notoriously anti-union bosses whose code proposals recently evoked protests even from NRA deputy administrators.

SOUTH HICKORY

Miss Christine Nelson and her friend, Miss Beulah Messelt of Winger enjoyed the week nd at the home of the former's parenta, Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson. They were accompanied to McIntosh on Sunday afternoon by Mr. and Mrs. Olaf Nelson and son John.

Thorwald Bjornaraa, Gilmer Oftelie and Erick Johnson were business callers at Thief River Falls on Friday. They were accompanied home by Borghild and Sigurd Bjornaraa and Miss Irene Tasa who spent the week end at their homes.

Rev. Sigurd Fladmark was a business caller at Thief River Falls on Monday.

A MUSIC LOVER'S DELIGHT

Music lovers of this community enjoyed a real treat last Sunday afternoon in the program rendered by the St. Olaf choir at the municipal auditorium. Music has been only a sideline and a hobby with us and we can not therefore set ourselves up as a critic able to pass on the technical points of choral redition. We can only state that as far as we are able to judge the singing presented by this group was perfect. It seems to us that Christianson's interpretation can-not be surpassed.

Imagine a great pipeorgan played by a master, and you have Christianson directing the St. Olaf choir. A grizzled Viking playing upon vast harp strngs; upon heart strings, a stirring symphony of harmony.

We were particularly impressed with the number "Lullaby on Christmas Eve" in the third part of the program. The movement started with a full low chord, almost inaudible, more felt than heard, swelling and billowing thru the large auditorium in a gradual crescendo which again died down to a pianissimo; swelling; rising; falling like a great tide of rapturous melody. Gradually; ever so gradually, we became aware of a crystal clear, fullthroated soprano voice playing within that billowing chord, a Christmas carol.

They are a fine group of choral artists wonderfully directed and we hope to have an opportunity of hearing them again.

HONORING MOTHER

Sunday is Mothers' Day. A day set aside in honor of the mothers of the nation. Thousands of people will wear a red caration in honor of a mother still living and other thousands will wear a white carnation in honor of a mother forever passed to her reward. And with that little gesture most of us will let it go and will give scant thought to her who planned for us even before we existed; who danced and laughed with us in our joy and wept with us in our sorrows. Who worked for us and skimped that we should have. Who cried for us,. yes, and lied for us. In the cemeteries a few new monuments will be erected in honor of mother A stone in honor of mother. "I ask for bread, and ye give me a stone."

To be sure we should wear a carnation in honor of mother on Sunday, And to erect a monument in her honor is commendable. But how much more commendable will it not be that we resolve that we will make the world better for mothers. That we resolve to rebuild out of the present economic chaos a social order whereunder mother's plans can oftener be crowned with success and her boy and her girl can ofterner become the honorable, upright citizen that she desires to make them. A society where mother's guiding hand can at least have equal power with the pressure of economic circumstances. And that we carry out that resolve to its successful conclusion.

THE AAA, THE NRA AND FASCISM

There are three items in the news this week which we wish to call to the attention of our readers because of the very pertinent points they drive home.

The first story, that bearing on the comparative prices of meats has been culled from the weekly bulletin issued by the Central Co-operative association at S. St. Paul and shows that the cost of meats to the consumers has increased since this time last year by very considerable gains. Wholesale price on beef, the bulletin states has increased up to eleven cents per pound. At this ratio the price of beef on the hoof should have raised from $5.00 to $7.00 per hundred. Or in other words a thousand pound steer should bring the producer from $50 to $70 more this year than it did last year. Does it? Some of you farmers tell us.

The same bulletin also tells us the pork is selling at from 3 cents to 5 cents higher than a year ago and that the price of live hogs is lower than a year ago

Some people will assure us that all this come about because of the processing tax on hogs, to which we would respond that there is no processing tax on beef but the discrepancy in the prices on beef is as large as on pork.

The story simply emphasizes the fact that the NRA and the AAA is being used primarily to produce bigger and better profits for big business and that the farmers and the consumers are "paying the fiddler."

The second story we want to call your attention to, is one telling us about a large convention of truckers to be held in Minneapolis in the near future. The convention will be used as a convenient opportunity to acquaint the truckers with the trucking code recently signed by the president, so that as the chairman of the truck code authority says "we can get started right in this region." The chairman further states, "The code may mean the salvation of the truck operators and it is up to us to make the most of it. Failure to register will make a truck operator subject to heavy penalties under the law,"

The trucking code, as all other codes was written by the big boys. The big shots within the trucking industry wrote the trucking code, just as the "big shots" within the publishing industry wrote the graphic arts code and just as the big shots in every industry has written the code governing that particular industry. We mention the trucking code at this time because the news item referred to proves probably more conclusively than any other argument can, that the small business men, labor and the consumer has been entirely ignored in the setting up of the codes. We have hundreds of truckers in our community. If any of them has had a hand in the writing of the trucking code we would like to hear from him. Yet he will be expected to be bound by the provisions of the code and if he fails he will be subject to heavy penalities under the law."

There are hundreds of truck drivers in this community, there are some 95 of them listed as of out of work with the local NRS. The truck drivers represent the element of labor which is vitally interested in any code which affects thier trade. If any of them were consulted we would like to hear from them.

The farmer and the merchants of this community and in fact of the entire country are the consumers of trucking. They are vitally interested in any code that may be set up to regulate that industry. When anti-trust laws are scrapped and codes designed to stabilize and bring into uniformity the price of any commodity, whether it but if any of our farmers or business men were consulted but if any of our farmers of business were consulted in in the writing of the trucking code, (or any other) code we would like to hear from them.

The two stories mentioned will be found on page two. The third story we refer to is found on page three and is entitled "Rank Fascism Budding in American Industry." It was written by Harvey O'Connor, Washington correspondent of the Federated Press, Read it and consider it in the light of the news items referred to above and along with other Washington news bearing on the gyrations of General Hugh (Bombast) Johnson, Smiling (All too smiling) Roosevelt and the other administration leaders including Secretary (Regiment 'em) Wallace and you will probably agree with us that the American constitution and American institutions are in more danger from those who howl the loudest about the "red menace in the Farmer-Labor platform than from any action that the Farmer-Laborities can possibly take.

The arguments of the communists that it requires revolution or other forms of mass action is silly and pointless today. If the present trends of government is continued and all liberties of action are taken from the people with Fascist dictatorship, the remedy prescribed by the communists will be the only remaining method of preserving American liberties. That will mean another "Boston Tea Party" with the difference that there will be blood spilled instead of tea.

No thinking person wants to go back to "Hooverism" and Americans will not tolerate Fascism. There is only one course left and that is the cooperative commonwealth. Under a cooperative commonwealth we can protect our American institutions, we can protect and extend our democratic self-government.

The vehicle is waiting for you Mr. Citizen, to vote the Farmer-Labor ticket costs you nothing, to join the Farmer-Labor association ranks costs you only one dollar a year.

FRAZIER BILL NEEDED 4 VOTES

Farmer-Labor Leader

Just how important to the common people of Minnesota is the election of Farmer-Labor candidates is shown by the fact that had four more F-L Congressmen gone to Washington last election the Frazier bill would have been brought from committee—and nothing could have stopped it.

At one time the motion needed only four more votes in the House. Had there been eight Farmer-Labor members from Minnesota instead of but five the bill would have come to a vote with more than enough pledged for its passage.

Opponents of farm financing which will not enrich chain banks and further chain the farmers will will be glad that Minnesota did not send the needed four. But farmers, workers and independent business men whose business goes up, down or collapes altogether according to Minnesota farm conditions will see the necessity of electing nine Farmer-Labor Congressmen in Novembe. of this year.

NOTHING TO BE AFRAID OF

Pope County Tribune

A local Republican paper tries to scare the voters by inferring that the Farmer-Labor Party is socialistic because of the platform adopted at the spring convention and because certain members who are now affiliated with the Farmer-Labor Party once belonged to the Socialist Party. While the Tribune editor has never been a socialist nor a Republican (we were a prohibitionist before the Farmer-Labor Party came along) we think it is no disgrace for anyone coming from the Socialist Party. Prior to the time the Farmer-Labor Party came into existence a man had to be either a Republican, a Democrat, or a Socialist if he wanted to belong to a leading party. There was no other place for a voter to go. Many who belonged to the Republican Party and the Socialist Party were looking for a party that was not as radical or as conservative, and the birth of the Farmer-Labor Party gave them a place to go where they could feel at home.

Considering the state of affairs the Republican Party has left this country in, it would appear to be more of an honor to have come from the Socialist Party than from the Republican Party. The Republican Party which has been in control of this country most of the time during the last half century has allowed a capitalistic system to be built up where the wealth has come into the hands of the few. Facts show that one man ou of 100 today in this country holds as much as 59 of the others Under protection of our laws which were passed by Republican law makers in the past, we have allowed money trusts to take over the material wealth of this country. This capitalistic system has broken down. The people are still in want in this country in spite of the fact that we have such a large surplus that we have to destroy small pigs, plow under cotton, limit the acreage of corn, wheat and other grains.

SUFFICIENT EVIDENCE

St. Louis County Independent

A visit to the relief headquarters on Fifth avenue will convince anyone that something drastic must be undertaken to take care of the hundreds of unemployed who are clamoring for aid. These unfortunate men and women do not want charity, but under our unsound economic structure, they are compelled to ask for the more pittance that is being dished out to them. It is generally admitted that there is something wrong, and that something must be done. But when the Farmer-Labor Party proposes something different from the old social and economic (dis)order, there is an unholy howl set up by those same people who admit that "something must be done" about the red menace, Socialism, communism and taking away from the people the individual initiative that is so necessary to perpetuate the prosperity that we are now experiencing.

It was not so very long ago that an outstanding English financier made the remark that "capitalism was on trial," and if inadequate to cope with the present situation it should be discarded. The trial is just about ended, and there can be no doubt as to the outcome, for the untold suffering and misery in the midst of plenty is the concrete evidence that foretells the verdict.

In a German legend, a Fool stands by the side of the road and watches the approach of a body of armed trops.

"Were do these men come from?" he asks.
"From Peace."
"Where are they going?"
"To War."
"What do they do in the War?"
"They kill the enemy and burn their cities."
"Why do they do that?"
"To make peace."

"I cannot understand," says the Fool. "To come from Peace and go to War, in order to make Peace! Why don't they stay at Peace in the first place?"

—From World Events

Very conspicuous by its absence at the Republican state convention, was any reference to or relief plans suggested, for thousands of idle men in this state; cattle dying for lack of feed, men women and children going hungry and without suitable clothing and shelter. The veterans pleas for payment of the bonus were buried alive. It was nothing less nor more than a "wake" held over the c"orpse" with the mourners bench occupied solely by the "old school" reactionaries. —Bovey Press

W. C. T. U. NOTES

NEXT TIME

"The prohibition law was not enforced." We still hear this on every hand. If it wasn't enforced, then who was responcible for its not being enforced? In whose hands was enforcement during the major part of the life of the Eighteenth Amendment? It was the Republican Party was administering the affairs of government—don't for get that—it was that Party which was in power. The point is, the enforcement of the law was mixed up in ptiolics—wet politics. The whole question was in the hands of a millionaire Republican politician, who made his millions distilling liquor, and who was wat and did not want the law enforced. Under his authority wet Republican politicians named the Prohibition law-enforcement agents—and in nine cases out of ten exsaloonkeepers or men opposd to the dry law were named as enforcement officers. The marvel to us is that under these circumstoncs the law prohibited more than 00 per cent, which was well worth while. Another dry law in our Constitution would meet with the same treatment as did the Eighteenth Amendment—that is—if a wet administration were in power. Political football was the popular sport with our wet politicians for fourteen year.

And today with 700,000 "cesspools of iniquity" on the corners instead of 177,790 in the old days, wet politics is still doing business at the same old stand and still handing out political plums in the way of "enforcement" and "liquor regulation" jobs. How long, oh Lord, how long. Echo answers! Until the millions of sober, sane voting citizens go to the polls and vote together—vote for a dry administration, from President down to justice of the peace.

FARM AND MARKET

By
R. A. Trovatten
Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Dairy and Food.

According to the statistics compiled in this department relating to rainfall in the state, it looks like another dry year. In fact. the precipitation for the first three months of this year is considerably behind last year. This applies also to the major drouth districts—Mora, Little Falls, Montevideo, Morris Roseau.

Last year, the average rainfall for January, February and March in the territory around Mora was 2.09 inches. For the same period this year it dropped to 1.38 inches. At Little Falls the decrease was less; 1.53 inches in 1933, 1.07 inches in 1934. The Montevideo section is extremely dry this year. Rainfall there fell of from 2.45 inches to 1.41 inches. At Roseau the decline is not so great—1.01 inches to 1.04 inches. The situation in the Morris area is most discouraging; rainfall at Morris fell from 2.49 inches for the first three months in 1933 to only .06 for the same month in 1934.

Most parts of the state have had less rainfall this year with the exception of pipestone and St. Cloud. Both of these districts enjoy a slight increase. Duluth and Crookston, however, are holding their own with the same amount of precipitation this year as last.

Winona is drier by 1.03 inches; Alexandria by .36 of an inch; Hallock drops by 1.12 inches; Ada received .22 of an inch less moisture.

Minneapolis and Fairmont suffer with less than one half of last years rainfall; Bemidji has a serious loss—2.64 inches less, a drop of over 60 per cent.

There is little consolation for farmera in rainfall statistics to date. Minnesota needs moisture and needs it badly. It is to be hoped that the tide will change.

CLERYGMEN DECLARE THEMSELVES IN FAVOR OF A COOPERATIVE COMMONWEALTH

Eighteen thousand, three hundred and twenty-four ministers out of 19,359 who answered a questionaire as to which system the favored, rugged individualism or a cooperative commonwealth, answered in favor of a co-operative commonwealth.

Only five per cent of the 20,870 clergymen answering the questionnaire were in favor of rugged individualism.

The questionaire, of which the above question was but one of several answered, was sent out by Kirby Page, editor of The World Tomorrow, and made public this week

Accompanying the questionaire was a letter signed by S. Parkes Cadman (congregational), Harry Emerson Fosdick (Baptist,) Edward L. Israel (Jewish,) M. Ashby Jones (Southern Baptist), William P. King (Southern Methodist), F. H. Knubel (Lutheran), Francis J. McConnell (Methodist), D. McGeachy (Southern Prespyterian), Kirby Page (Discilpes), Daniel A. Poling (Dutch Reformed), and William Scarlett, (Episcopal).

In answer to a question as to whether they favored national unions of workers instead of local company unions, 11,304 ministers voted in favor of the national unions, 2,567 for the company unions and 5,712 were in doubt on this question.

Compulsory unemployment insurance under government administration is favored by 13,200, 2,617 are opposed, and 4,064 are in doubt.

The question which the ministers answered regarding a cooperative commonwealth and rugged individualism follows:

"Which economic system appears to you to be less antogonistic to and more consistent with the ideals and methods of Jesus and the noblest of Hebrew prophets Captilism ("rugged individualism" as in the United States prior to 1929), or a cooperative commonwealth (in which the service motive is predominant in individual life and in all social arrangements.")

To that query, 18,324 ministers were for a cooperative commonwealth and 1,035 for rugged individualism.

Nearly 13,000 clergymen, in answer to the questionnire, declared their determination not to sanction or participate in any future war.

That the churches should now go on record as refusing to sanction or support any future war is the conviction of some 14,000 ministers, while approximately 16,000 favor substantial reductions in armament even if the United States is compelled to take the initative and make a proportionately greater reduction than other countries are yet willing to do.

Less than 2,600 of those answering the questionaire favor military training in the public high schools and civilian colleges or universities, and fewer than 8,600 declare that they could conscientiously serve as an official army chaplain on active duty in wartime.

That there should be drastic limitation, through the inheritance tax, of the amount of wealth that may be inherited of more than 16,500 clegymen, and about 15,800 favor the drastic limitation, through the income tax and the removal of tax exempt sources, of the annual income that may be legally retained by an individual.

That seminary students are more liberal or radical than the average of ministers generally is shown in replies from students in which capitalism is favored by only 31 students out of 1,463, while the students' vote for the cooperative commonwealth is 95 per cent.

It is considered enlightening indeed that more than 20,000 ministers of the 100,000 to whom the questionaire was sent should find time to answer the 15 complex questions and respond to them in the manner they did.

Compilation of answers to the questionaire are certified to by Apfel and Englander, certified public accountants.

Do you know what I read in a newspaper? "The large industries are in big wage raising scramble. Down with Capitalism." I'm sorry to notice that the price raising scramble, which is by far the biggest scramble being made, wasn't even mentioned.

Hooray, the communists have come to our town. I had more fun watching and listening to our "pal" Boumann than I've ever had at a circus (that's saying something.)

I was quite disappointed with our "pal" tho'; I wanted to see if he could stand on his head and open his mouth without that nut rolling out. It must be a nut or else why does he always want policemen to crack his head.

MOTHERS DAY

"A Lantern in Her Hand" is a good book to read around Mothers' Day.

No doubt the title was taken from Longfellow's poem of Florence Nightingale:

A lady with a lamp shall stand
In the great history of the land
A noble type of good
Heroic womanhood.

Yes, mother is the lady with a lantern in her hand.

She held the lamp that lighted our childish feet through the mysteries of the early years.

Mother held the lamp that brightened our hours of sickness and discouragement until the sun of new strength and courage returned.

Mother held the lamp of faith and trust when into the paths of waywardness we wandered.

Mother held the lamp of inspiration when we went out into the world of competition and, her encouraging words brought new hope and determination to our fearful hearts.

Should we have many more dry years, we will be obliged to import food products from foreign countries that our people be fed. The AAA, however, fails to take this into consideration—their policy is to destroy in order that surpluses be removed. By the looks of things nature will do her own destroying.

Instead of preaching reduction here and reduction there, the AAA might heed the teachings of Joseph. Biblical history recalls that Joseph, during the "seven fat years", stored up foodstuffs for the "seven lean years." Should there be a return of the "seven lean years," the AAA assures the people of this country "empty bins."

Gee, I was surprised when our "progressive" county commissioners allowed a minimun wage scale of thirty cents an hour sound like a large wage for common labor. Seems to me that twice that would have been more adequate.

God Give Us Men.

"God give us men; a time like this demands
Stout hearts, clear minds, true faith and ready hands.
Men whom the lust of office will not kill,
Men whom the spoils of office cannot buy,
Men who possess opinions and a will,
Men who have honor; men who will not lie.
Men who will stand before a demagogue
And damn his traitorous flattery without winking
Strong men, sun crowned, who live above the fog,
In public duty and private thinking.
For while the rabble with their thumbworn creeds
Their loud proffessions and their little deeds
Mingle in selfish strife; lo Freedom weeps;
Wrong rules the land and waiting Justice sleeps.

Gold Hoarding

The currency and bank notes act of Great Britain contains a provision that the Bank of England may call in any gold hoard exceeding $50,000. This was written to prevent private banks from hoarding gold at times when gold might be needed as reserve by the Bank of England for national use, but the law would operate against individuals as well. Under the German and Italian dictatorships gold hoards can be seized.

Grand Forks Men Are Arrested For Violation Of State Fishing Laws

Two men giving their names as Henry Meager and Sam Syvertson of Grand Forks were teken into custody by Game Warden W. H. Quist Tuesday evening on tha charge of being in illegal possession of fish. The men had about 600 pounds of fish with them, mostly pike, which they had admitted having purchased from the indians at Red Lake.

The car which they were driving carried the drivers license card of a women in Minneapolis attached to the steering column and Mr. Quist wired the woman to establish ownership of the car. The woman who was visiting at Grand Forks came to this city Wednesday but did not have proof of ownership with her. Proof was established by wire from Mike Holm's office today however.

In the meantime the men had been arraigned in Municipal Court where Meagher pleaded gutilty and was fined $75 and costs. J. M. Bishop, attorney for the accused demanded a jury trial for Syvertson and the trial is pending. Now Syvertson claims to be minor and investigation is heing made at Grand Forks to establish the authenticity of the claim. If it is ascertained that he is under 18 years of age the case will go to Juvenile court. Meagher who paid his fine and costs and was released stated that the young man was along with him for the ride and not implicated in the possession of the fish.

VOLUME THREE NUMBER 6 | OFFICIAL PAPER OF PENNINGTON COUNTY, THIEF RIVER FALLS, MINNESOTA. | THURSDAY MAY 17, 1934

ALLIED DRYS WILL HOLD CONVENTION ON TUES. MAY 22

Speakers of National Prominence To Address Two Sessions In Auditorium.

The County Convention of Allied Drys to be held here May 22, is a part of a great state-wide campaign now in progress. The Flying Squadron Foundation, a national prohibition organization, has sent into our state its President, the Honorable Oliver W. Stewart and its Vice President, Miss Norma C. Brown, to conduct this crusade in full cooperation with and upon the invitation of the Allied Drys of Minnesota, of which Mr. T. H. Colwell, is president; Mr. Herbert H. Parrish, Director; and Mr. W. G. Calderwood, Chairman of the Civics Committee. The campaign began April 2nd and is scheduled to close June 17th, the day before the legislative primary.

The speakers are holding meetings the rate of four each week days and six on Sunday. The entire campaign contemplates some 330 addresses. Included in these meetings are county conventions. Such a gathering for this county is announced for Thief River Falls, with an afternoon session on Tuesday, May 22nd, at 3 P. M. addressed by Hon. Oliver W. Stewart, and at closing evening session on the same date at 8 p. m. addressed by Miss Norma C. Brown. Both meetings are to be held in the City Auditorium.

Miss Brown came to the national platform when she was but a year out of college, and is soon to complete thirteen years given to similar campaigns. She was the one women speaker of the Allier Forces in the great campaign of 1931-32, in which she spoke in every capitol city and other important centers.

Mr. Stewart is a former member of the Illinois Legislature, and an internationally known speaker. He came into Minnesota first in 1898 for a great campaign arranged and managed by W. G. Calderwood, then Secretary of the State Prohibition Committee. He is well remembered in the Twin Cities, Hutchinson, Red Wing, Fergus Falls, and Duluth for a series of three cornered debates in which he participated in 1903, the other disputants bing Prof. C. J. Caton and Congressman J. Adam Bebe.

At the county convention, steps will be taken to organize the county thoroughly. The convention sessions are open to the public and representation is urged from the smaller communities.

Dr. Boe of St. Olaf to Address Lutherans In Assembly Here July 1

Dr. L. W. Boe of St. Olaf college has promised to be the speaker at the North Western Lutheran assembly which will be held in this city Sunday, July 1st.

Summer School Will Start on June 11th.

A summer school which will give the high school pupils an opportunity to review subjects in which they have been unable to make a credit during the regular term will open on June 11 to continue until July 20. It will enable young people to take some subject which they are unable to take during the regular term, or to take some subject so as to lighten their load during the regular term and allow time for other activities. Adults will be given a chance to complete the commercial work which they began during the winter. W. C. Stephens, who has had a wide, varied experience, not only in school work, but in the actual field of business as well, will conduct all commercial classes.

Day classe are now being formed in Geometry, Social science, Chemistry and General Science. Evening classes for adults will depend on the number registering.

In addition to the regularly offered academic subjects, this school, under the direct supervision of G. H. Mayer-Oakes, will offer for the first time, a complete, comprehensive course in the immediate money-making subjects, the commercial work, including shorthand, typewriting, business correspondence, government civil service work etc.

All prospective students should consult Mr. Mayer-Oakes, whose telephone number is 454-W as soon as possible.

Norden F-L Club to Meet Friday, May 25

The Norden Farmer-Labor Association club will hold a meeting at the school house four miles west of the city on highway number one, on Friday evening May 25, at 8 p. m. Election of officers and talks by several speakers are on the program. An effort is also being made to enlist the young folks to assist in the entertainment with some musical numbers, according to Gordon Olson.

The Norden Farmer-Labor club was organized only a short time ago and boasts a large membership for so short a period. The meeting is to be held for the purpose of electing officers for one year, as well as two members of the permanent county central committe. As soon as the other clubs in the county has held similar meetings and elected their members to the county committee the present committee which was elected as a temporary body by the bi-annual convention held in March will turn over the reins of the Farmer-Labor organization in the county to the new body. Adoption of constitution and by-laws are also on the program.

Senator Laura E. Naplin, candidate for clerk of the Supreme Court, P. A. Harris, candidate endorsed by the 65th district Farmer-Labor convention to succeed Senator Naplin in the Senate and H. O. Berve will address the meeting.

PER CAPITA CWA WAGE PAYMENTS ARE MADE PUBLIC

Pennington County Below Average in District With $6.12.

Six dollars and twelve cents per capita was spent in Pennington county on CWA work according to a survey just completed by the Third District Engineer's office here. This is $2.18 cents below the average for the eleven counties in the district, Lake of the Woods county being the highest with $12.30 per capita being spent and Marshall county lowest with $4.30 per capita. These figures include only CWA wage expenditures and up to and including March 31.

According to the bulletin the last report of the Statistical Division shows that there were 5,101 persons employed on CWA in Minnesota on November 23, 1933 and on January 25, 1934, which was the peak, there were 104,946 people employed. By March 31 this number had been reduced to 25,704.

The per capita CWA wage expenditure in the eleven counties of the Third District were as follows: Kittson, $4.35; Roseau, $4.41; Lake of the Woods, $12.30; Marshall, $4.30; Beltrami, $12.20; Pennington, $6.30; Red Lake, $5.15; Polk, $5.04; Norman, $4.96; Mahnomen, $8.39; and Clearwater, $7.28.

Improved Type of Surface to be Used On T. H. 32 So. 7.5 Miles of R. L. Falls

Contract for bituminous treatment of T. H. 32 between Red Lake Falls and south to the Red Lake county line; about 7.5 miles has been let to Jay W. Craig of Minneapolis at a contract price of $21,670, according to a bulletin received from the highway department Tuesday.

Specifications for the improvement have been drawn to assure a superior type of bituminous surface which should give better service than bituminous treatments previously put down in this area, the department stated. The work to be done is described by department engineers as follows:

The treament for this project is to consist of a road-mix type surface employing tar as a binder and utilizing the gravel base previously constructed. The tar binder is to be applied in two applications, totaling 1.10 gallons per skuare yard of surface. Each application of tar is to be mixed with definite quantity of the gravel so that a uniform mixture of the tar and gravel is obtained. Following the mixing operation, the tar coated gravel will be spread uniformly over the surface to a total width of 24 feet. The final compacted thickness of the tar mat will be approximately two inches. The primary purpose of the treatment is the stailization of the upper portion of the gravel base. The construction of the gravel foundation course and the methds employed in the preparation of the bituminous mat will provide a smooth riding surface and better service than previous treaments made in this area. This surface also will provide an excellent foundation for any future bituminous treatments of a higher type.

Annual Anglers' Trek To Lakes Start Tues.

Minnesota Isaak Waltonites took to the lakes and streams Tuesday with the opening of the fishing season, variously equipped to foil and beguile the finny tribe.

The season opened Tuesday morning on wall-eyed pike, sand pike, pickerel, great northern pike muskellunge and yellow perch. Many parties of local fishermen left Monday evening while others departed Tuesday and Wednesday. The cool weather is a determining influence on all but the most hardy (or rabid) fishing fiends however.

Sale of fishing licenses has been progressing rapidly all week with about a hundred sold by the county auditor at this writing but a large number is being sold by the sporting goods dealers, who are agents for the game and fish department in the sale of licenses.

Meanwhile many anxious anglers are attacking atrocious atmospheric amorphism and avow ambidextrious amblings aquawnrd anon. In other words, if the weather will warm up over the week end they will be up and at 'em.

Smiley Community Club To Present Program and Dance Friday Eve May 18

The Smiley Community club will sponsor a short program and dance at L. A. Nelson's farm on highway 75, five miles southeast of the city on Friday evening May 18th.

The Smley club of which Wm. McCrum is president and Sigue Valsvick is secretary-treasury has been organized three years, and in that time has shown splendid growth. So much in fact, that new quarters are necessary to house its meeting. The proceeds of the entertainment is to be used to start a fund to finance the building of a hall to be erected on the river bank on the Walter Lendobeja farm. Mr. Lendobeja has donated a plot of ground for the enterprize and plans contemplate a building 30 by 50 feet.

Oscar Widseth and his "Moonbeam Serenaders" will furnish the music for the event. There will be plenty to eat and a good time is assured according to Mr. McCrum who announced the program.

Community Garden Project Has Forty Acres Plowed

The community garden project is advancing rapidly according to Federal Relief Officer Olson. The project which is under the supervision of Miss Ironsides, has forty acres plowed to date.

Industrial Training and Home Economic Classes Present Program Tuesday

The open house which was held last Monday evening by the home economics training departments of Lincoln High school was a huge success. The program included a style review of the garments made by the clothing classes, two clever skits by the Industrial Arts and Foods Departments, and a song by little Airline Mikels. The music for the style review was furnished by Helen Granum. The style review, which displayed pajamas, sports dresses, and cotton, silk and wool dresses, showed what the well-dressed young lady should wear in 1934. Open house of the department was held after the program, displaying the products and accomplishments of the pupils. The exhibition was supervised by Miss Ruth Fletcher and Miss Emily Samuelson, instructors in home economics, and Clarence Pope, industrial training teacher.

Townley Will Talk Here On Saturday, May 26

A. C. Townley, candidate for congress on the Farmer-Labor ticket will address an open-air meeting here on Saturday, May 26 at 8 p. m. according to an announcement made this week.

Mr. Townley who was a candidate for congressman at large two years ago was in the running until the last votes were counted at that time. His opponents in the primary are Judge Nycklemo of Fergus Falls and Senator R. T. Buckler of Crookston. Mr. Buckler received the endorsement of the ninth district Farmer-Labor convention at Erskine some time ago, defeating Mr. Townley by 37 votes out of a total of 589.

Many who supported Mr. Townley at the Erskine convention are dissatisfied with the endorsement made

Fire Underwriters Recommend That City Provide for Two Motor Units

F. W. D. TRUCK PURCHASED

Will Re-Advertise for Bids on One More Unit of Smaller Capacity

Following opening of bids for motorized fire fighting equipment by the city council Tuesday evening an informal ballot was taken which showed five votes for the FWD fire truck bid on which was submitted by the Oen Mercantile company and one vote for the Mac truck. The two bids were respectively $9500 and $8250. Resolution to purchase was passed unanimously.

Members of the council apparently felt that a four-wheel drive truck would be desirable because of the possibility of deep snows to plow thru in the winter time and chose the FWD because of the four-wheel drive feature.

Bids were called on three propositions; for a truck equipped with a 750 gallons per minute pump; for two trucks equipped with one 500 gallons per minute pump. Inasmuch as the city has been advised by the fire underwriters that the 750 g.p.m. unit is the least that the city can buy and remain within the present insurance class, i. e., class 8, this size was decided upon.

Assurance was received from the underwriter that if the city is to purchase another unit of not less than 350 gpm capacity and the completion of the tie-up of the deadends of the water mains, that a lower rate can be secured amounting to about 7 per cent reduction on business property. There would be no reduction on residences.

With possible reduction in rate in mind the council decided to readvertise for bids on a smaller truck; the proposition being one 500 gpm unit or one 350 gpm unit.

Bids submitted on 750 gpm units were as follows; Peter Pirsch Co., $7500 mounted on their own chassis and $6200 on a Dimond T chassis; American La France Co., quoted two models one at $12,175 and the other at $13,175; Borchert-Ingersol Inc., a 12 cylinder unit at $13,175 and a six cylinder unit at $12,175; FWD bidding thru Oen Mercantilt Co., $9500 which with the discounts off and the freight on brought the price to about $9042.75 F. O. B. this city.

Thronson Motor company made no bid on the 750 unit explaining that the motor of their truck was not recommended for a pump larger than 600 gpm.; the Mac Corp., $8250; Gustafson and Son, $8990; Borchert-Hill Motor Co., $6000. Lund and Tunberg placed no bid on the 750 gpm size.

Bids for the smaller units were rejected and new bids will be called as stated above.

The underwriters stipulations for a reduction of the rate from Class 8 to 7 are as follows: install a 100 gpm pump at the water works, install additional water mains to act as feeders and connect the deadends, provide a motorized fire truck with 750 gpm pump and accomodation for 100 feet of 2½ inch hose, provide a second truck equipped with ladders to reach the top of the city's highest building, and a 350 gpm booster, provide for one full-time driver to be on duty at all times at the fire station; increase the fire department to not less than twenty-five members on "call" basis; install electric siren equipped with control switches at both the telephone office and at the fire station; revise and adopt ordinances covering construction and the handling of hazardous materials.

Senior Class Will Stage 'Boomer' at the Auditorium Friday

The members of the senior Class of Lincoln high school will present their class play, "The Boomer" on Friday evening, May 18, at the auditorium. The play is under the direction of Miss Victoria Edberg, the dramatic coach.

The story concerns Elmer Carter, the Hoopstown Boomer, who meets in the person of Miss Bartlett, serious opposition to his plans to liven up the village by selling land to a factory.

The plot is brimful of humor and while the ending can perhaps be anticipated, the event leading up to it are designed to keep very one guessing.

The cast of "The Boomer" is as follows:

Miss Bartlett, Luma Landry; Mrs. Bowman, Marion Sponheim; Mr. Bowman, Jarvis Prichard; Nellie Bowman, Stella Myrom; Daisy, Dellys Ericson; Mae Morris, Violet Kelly; Roberts, David Belcher; Carter, Robert Shoberg; Ephriam, William Korstad; Cy Green, Douglass Adkins; Johnson, Walton Myrom; Paulina Hicks, Edna Battenfeld.

U. S. MAPS NEW WAR ON CRIME

$3,000,000 To Be Spent on Machine Guns, Armored Cars and Arsenals.

Washington—A war chest of between $2,[illegible],000 and $3,000,000 to equip the government's crime fighters was disclosed as being under consideration by justice department officials and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget. Establishment of 10 or 12 additional offices of the division of investigation, enrollment of 270 men and the purchase of 20 armored cars, [illegible] squad cars and a quantity of submachine guns, rifles, bullet proof vests and tear gas equipment are contemplated. The department now has 419 agents in 24 offices.

With the 12 point legislative program [illegible] by Attorney General [illegible] being gradually accepted by congress, the justice department has been represented as in need of additional administrative facilities. In addition to wanting equipment, officials pointed out that facilities for prosecution would also need extension. Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. [illegible] conferred at length with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, over the week end and announced there [illegible] agreement between him and Green on the so-called anti-[illegible] bill. The measure, designed to stamp out violence and [illegible] against the movement of goods in interestate commerce, has passed the senate and is now in the judiciary committee.

[illegible] action on seven of the [illegible] measures—ranging from one to permit the death penalty in kidnaping cases to another which would make it a federal offense to flee across state lines to [illegible] for crime—appeared likely to be taken soon.

Roosevelt Maps Out Drouth Relief.

Washington — President Roosevelt has [illegible] plans for the drouth [illegible] which are expected to [illegible] care of needs without [illegible]. The program [illegible] Continuation of direct relief [illegible] and their families; [illegible] feed and seed for [illegible] crops; purchase of [illegible] number of cattle in the drouth areas for [illegible] relocation of [illegible] farmers who have [illegible] and corn reduction contracts [illegible] to raise summer [illegible] additional work by the federal relief administration to [illegible] and a request that [illegible] cooperate in [illegible] cattle moving out of the [illegible] belt and on feed [illegible].

Roosevelt [illegible] U. S. Debt View.

Washington — A restatement of the American [illegible] toward war debts came from President Roosevelt and shortly thereafter the ambassadors of two nations that are in default—Belgium and France—called at the state department to discuss the matter. The position outlined by the President called for an insistence upon payment by the debtor nations, but a willingness to talk over their individual problems separately and give consideration to proposals for token payments [illegible] for new terms of settlement.

Los Angeles Millionaire Is Freed.

[illegible] sheriffs [illegible] a gang of kidnapers [illegible] raided the [illegible] four men and two women [illegible] the victim without any payment being made as ransom. William F. Gettle, wealthy oil man was kidnaped a week ago and held for $[illegible]. Police uncovered the lair used by the kidnapers and went to work.

Johnson to Seek Price Veto Power.

Washington—Federal power to veto prices which private businesses are charging their customers may soon be asked by General Hugh S. Johnson, it is reported. Johnson's request, the opening [illegible] in a battle against charges that the NRA is fostering monopoly and high prices, will have to go to President Roosevelt for approval.

Six Year Old Kidnaped Girl Found.

Tucson, Arizona—Six-year-old June Robles was found alive, chained in a [illegible] covered hole in the desert, and was returned to her parents without payment of ransom. She had been held for two weeks by kidnapers who asked $20,000 for her release. Police are working on the case in an endeavor to arrest the guilty parties.

He Slaps Her, So She Bites Off Ear.

Juarez, Mexico—Rebecca Hernandez, 2[illegible], bit off the ear of Manuel Medina McDonald because he slapped her, she said in the Juarez jail. Police charged her with aggravated assault, and are holding the ear as evidence.

Tries to Miss Dog, Kills 7 Persons

TRADE CANNOT BE LOST BURNED OR THROWN AWAY

Young men graduating from high school should keep in mind that trade training cannot be lost or burned or thrown away.

After high school there are three paths:

(1) Continue in an institution following higher branches of learning.

(2) Enter some vocational or training institution like a business college or a trade school,

(3) Secure employment.

There are advantages in favor of each of these paths.

Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis, has given a great deal of thought in an effort to help young men at this very important point in their path through life, i. e., at the time of graduation from high school, and respectfully offers the following proposal for consideration.

Trade Try-out Courses in the following lines: Automobile work, building construction, drafting, electrical work, machine shop, printing and highway construction open up on August 16 and continue until on or about September 8.

This gives an excellent opportunity for a young man to actually try out one or more of the above lines to see if he is interested in the same and as he has the ability which would best function in the selected trade.

These tryout courses are specifically scheduled before the University and other advanced institutions of learning open in the fall so that the three-week trade try-out those who find that they are not interested or do not have the special abilities required for the training at Dunwoody may enter some other institution of learning without 'getting out of step' with their former classmates.

HOGS SHOULD BRING $6 OR MORE ON PRICES OF PORK

No one would think of saying that hogs are bringing $6.00 or more, but that is what they are doing on our market today, judging from a consumer's basis, says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Cooperative Association of South St. Paul. Excluding the processing tax, prices that consumers are being charged for pork justifies a live hog market nearly twice as high as it is at present.

Retail and wholesale cuts of pork are from 3c to 5c per pound higher than a year ago. Hogs, on the other hand, are right at 1c per pound below a year ago.

For twelve successive weeks, the weekly average hog price has declined. This is extraordinary and perhaps a record. The cause for this cannot be found in too many hogs by what would be regarded as too many under normal conditions.

The following table gives average hog conditions.

February 24	$4.15
March 3	4.08
March 10	3.97
March 17	3.91
March 24	3.81
March 31	3.83
April 7	3.74
April 14	3.51
April 21	3.40
April 28	3.33
May 5	3.20
May 12	3.05

Average hog prices have declined $1.10 per cwt. since just prior to the final increase in the processing tax and from the conversation of hog producers who bring their shipments to market, the processing tax is not receiving much favor. The tax, since March 1, has been $2.25 per cwt. on live hogs.

The difficulty is attributed to poor demand and it seems that consumer resistance to pork, because it bears a tax, is having a greater influence than most of us think.

MINNESOTA PRODUCTION CREDIT LOANS $582,940

Total production credit loans to farmers of Minnesota were $582,940 up to April 30 inclusive, according to a preliminary report for April just released at Production Credit Corporation headquarters in St. Paul. For the 7th district, embracing North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan the total loans to April 30 were $849,047.

These loans are made for general farm purposes, for purchase of dairy or feeding stock, necessary farm supplies and equipment. Membership in the associations, and the opportunity to share in loans through the associations is obtained by purchase of one $5 share for each $100 that the farmer wants to borrow. Every farmer in the state is a potent member and borrower, the condition being that the property he offers as security is sufficient for his loan.

To assure himself the amount he will need for his season's operations, the farmer may borrow the whole amount and have it placed to his credit, while paying interest only on that portion he withdraws for use from time to time. The remainder "earmarked for him is held to his credit witohut interest until he calls for it.

The average size of loans in Minnesota is $584. For the first week of May there have been 203 additional loans approved for Minnesota farmers, and 125 closed and made available to them by PCA's. Every association of the 31 organized in the state have borrowed funds from the Interstate Credit Bank of St. Paul to loan to their members, discounting members notes and mortgages with the Intermediate Credit Bank.

Money Await Depositors in Closed Banks

The depositors who are litsed below have money waiting for them. They reside, or at one time did reside, in this community. Anyone who knows their whereabouts will be doing them a favor by writing to Elmer A. Benson, Commissioner of Banks, State Office Building, St. Paul.

They are lost depositors of closed banks. In the liquidation of closed banking institutions, dividends are to be paid to depositors from time to time. In the case of the depositors on the list below, the checks have been mailed to the last known address and have been returned to the Banking department offices by the local postoffice. Perhaps they have moved and left no address or the address at the bank was faulty. For some reason these checks have not reached the proper hands.

The undelivered checks have accumulated until there are thousands, some dating back as far as 1923. Altogether, approximately $168,00,00 is tied up in uncalled for checks in the hands of the Closed Banking Department. An attempt is being made to find the depositors and get this money to them. Many of them have been found, but there are thousands yet to be located.

Those whose names are on the list, or friends who know where they can be located, or anyone who believes that he may have money due him from a closed bank which is not reaching him should write the Commissioner of Banks. Proper indentification will be required before the checks are turned over.

FIRST CORN-HOG PAYMENTS COME THRU IN THIS STATE

The influx of AAA corn-hog payments to Minnesota farms was started last week when 25 Scott farmers received their initial payments totaling about $2,400. These payments represent about two-fifths of hog payments and about one-half of the corn money which these producers will receive from the administration in the next nine months.

Although insignificant in amount these payments are the first trickle of an oncoming flood of $25,000,000 that will flow through the pockets of some 80,00 Minnesota farmers, enabling them to catch up on purchases and tax payments long overdue. This money should give support and impetus to business and set revolving a cycle of benefits that will reach back again to the farms and be repeated over and over. This continuous cycle of interchange between agriculture and industry is the real foundation of a permanent prosperity, say sponsors of the AAA program.

Only one other state, Iowa, has so far had a toste of corn-hog payments. For the United States as a whole, the total payments for corn-hog reduction will amount to about 350 million dollars to be distributed among nearly 1,200,000 contract signers.

MINNESOTA IS NAMED ON BEEF COMMITTEE

Minnesota will be represented on the Committee of Twenty-five for beef production by A. Olson, Pres. of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. Mr. Olson's appointment was announced from Washington, D. C. following an organization meeting of the beef producers of the country. The committee will decide whether a beef production control plan shall be drawn up for presentation to the producers and will develop plans for procedure.

At a preliminary meeting of cattlemen held in Chicago on April 26, at the call of E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, it was urged that the beef group contain persons interested in dairying as dairymen also have a vital interest in the beef business. Mr. Olson fits into this category, as he has a herd of about sixty dairy animals as well as a large number of beef cattle.

As negotiations got under way, was indicated that one of the first recommendations of the beef producers would be that greater quantities of beef be used for poor relief purposes.

"RECORDING ANGEL" KEEPS RECORDS OF CARELESS DRIVERS

Habitually careless automobile drivers who in the past have been "getting by" with repeated law violations with no special study being given their past records are due for an awakening in the future. According to officials of the drivers license bureau of the state highway department, steps have been taken to keep individual records of all drivers convicted of traffic offenses in any part of the state.

A driver who violates laws in half a dozen different towns or habitually in one town will find that his name is accumulating "black marks" in the drivers license bureau. This record will be important in determining decisions on suspensons of lcenses.

WOOL POOL BUILDS ON ASHES OF FIRE THAT TOOK PLANT

Fire on the night of May 8 completely destroyed the wool and seed warehouse of the Minnesota Co-operative Wool Growers' Association at Wabasha. On the morning of May 10 negotiations were well under way for the erection of a larger plant. Meanwhile wool was being received in quantities and handled through temporary quarters, with no letup in service, the Minnesota Farm Bureau was informed by Alex Huddleston, president of the wool co-op.

No loss will accure to members because of the fire, as the business was fully insured, said R. E. Jones, manager. About 34,000 pounds of wool and two carloads of seed were destroyed.

In addition to the centeral warehouse at Wabasha, the pool has branches open for deliveries and advances at Mankato, Duluth, Morris, Carlos, Verndale and Thief River Falls.

RIVERSIDE SCHOOL CLOSES SUCCESSFUL TERM MAY 5

The Riverside school, of district 54 closed a very sucessful school year lest Saturday with Miss Selma Wilson as teacher. The program consisted of a declamatory contest, spelling contest and awarding of prizes for perfect attendance. A lunch was served following the program.

Five pupils took part in the declamation contest, the winner was Rupert Wolfgram. Timothy Lardy and Dorothy Bothman placed second and third respectively. Perfect attendance awards went to Dolores Randorf, Milton Wilken and Timothy Lardy. The spelling contest prize was won by Eugene Lardy.

Judges for the declamatory contect were Miss Alice Stapleton, Miss Samuelson and Miss Rossette.

Miss Wilson who has taught at the Riverside school for the past two years was retained for the coming term.

PENNINGTON COUNTY CORN-HOG QUOTA IS DELEYED

Word has reached County Agent R. M. Douglass that the corn and hog quotas on which the Pennington county contract will be based, soon will be set by the State Board of Review in St. Paul. Additional county dato on which to base these quotas has recently been forwarded to this beard.

"The contracts can not be formally completed and shipped to Washington until these quotas have been set and the contracts adjusted to them," Mr. Douglass says. "The enormous numbers of conracts submitted, the necessity of protecting all claims honestly made, and the analysis of available information upon which to base the county quotos have made the final adjustments much slower than orignally could be foreseen.

"However, farmers should not put off spring planting because of this delay. My suggestion is that they proceed with their operations according to plans they laid when applying for contracts. Minor adjustments that may be required later in contracted acres and in the number of hogs finished should make no special difference in farm plans now.

"The aim should be to plant approximately what the contract will permit according to the 1932-33 history of the farm. A little less corn than is permissible, rather than a little more, should be the practice if in doubt. The extra acre or two kept out of corn production may be planted to cerial crops for hay and pasture. If a little more corn should be planted than the contract permits it may be disked un later and the land sown to millet or other crop for hay.

"According to Andrew Boss, state director of the production control campaign, anyone who seriously tries to meet the requirments of the contract, as outlined above, need have no fear of being penalized if a slight discrepancy occur."

Cooked Pearls

Only pearl oysters and certain fresh water mollusks have sufficient irridescence and translucence to produce valuable pearls. Stories of persons finding pearls on common edible oysters which would have been valuable if not spoiled by cooking are nutrue, according to the United States bureau of fisheries. While it is a fact that cooking would deaden the luster and destroy the color of valuable pearls, the common edible oyster never produces pearls of commercial value.

Read the following indorsement by the Farmer-Labor Leader:

The book shows the background of most of the controversies which arose over the income tax proposal, the unemployment insurance law. the chain store tax and other measures. It points out the weaknesses of certain groups in both House and Senate, and dissects the political intrigues with considerable skill. All in all, it is an excellent record to be used in the 1934 campaignand everyone interested in the political developmentsinthe state should hav a copy for reference purposes.

U. S. MAPS NEW WAR ON CRIME

$3,000,000 To Be Spent on Machine Guns, Armored Cars and Arsenals.

Washington—A war chest of between $2,500,000 and $3,000,000 to equip the government's crime fighters was disclosed as being under consideration by justice department officials and Lewis Douglas, director of the budget. Establishment of 10 or 12 additional offices of the division of investigation, enrollment of 270 men and the purchase of 20 armored cars, 200 speedy squad cars and a quantity of submachine guns, rifles, bullet proof vests and tear gas equipment are contemplated. The department now has 419 agencies in 24 offices.

With the 12 point legislative program proposed by Attorney General Cummings being gradually accepted by congress, the justice department has been represented as in need of additional administrative facilities. In addition to wanting equipment, officials pointed out that facilities for prosecution would also need extension. Assistant Attorney General Joseph B. Keenan conferred at length with William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor, over the week end and announced there was general agreement between him and Green on the so-called anti-racketeering bill. The measure, designed to stamp out violence and intimidation directed against the movement of goods in interstate commerce, has passed the senate and is now in the judiciary committee.

Final house action on seven of the Cummings anti-crime measures—ranging from one to permit the death penalty in kidnaping cases to another which would make it a federal offense to flee across state lines to escape prosecution for crime—appeared likely to be taken soon.

Roosevelt Maps Out Drouth Relief.
Washington — President Roosevelt has shaped relief plans for the drouth areas of the mid-west which are expected to take care of needs without additional legislation. The program includes: Continuation of direct relief to farmers and their families; provision for stock feed and seed for emergency forage crops; purchase of a substantial number of cattle in the drouth areas for cash; relaxation of restrictions on farmers who have signed wheat and corn reduction contracts to permit them to raise summer forage crops; additional work by the federal relief administration to provide increased water supplies and a request that railroads co-operate in reducing freight rates on cattle moving out of the parched belt and on feed moving in.

Roosevelt Restates U. S. Debt View.
Washington—A restatement of the American attitude toward war debts came from President Roosevelt and shortly thereafter the ambassadors of two nations that are in default—Belgium and France—called at the state department to discuss the matter. The position outlined by the President called for an insistence upon payment by the debtor nations, but a willingness to talk over their individual problems separately and give consideration to proposals for token payments or for new terms of settlement.

Los Angeles Millionaire is Freed.
Los Angeles—Police and sheriff's pulled a fast one on a gang of kidnapers here when they raided the hideout, captured four men and two women and released the victim without any payment being made as ransom. William F. Gettle, wealthy oil man was kidnaped a week ago and held for $60,000. Police uncovered the lair used by the kidnapers and went to work.

Johnson to Seek Price Veto Power.
Washington—Federal power to veto prices which private businesses are charging their customers may soon be asked by General Hugh S. Johnson, it is reported. Johnson's request, the opening gun in a battle against charges that the NRA is fostering monopoly and high prices, will have to go to President Roosevelt for approval.

Six Year Old Kidnaped Girl Found.
Tucson, Arizona—Six-year-old June Robles was found alive, chained in a cactus-covered hole in the desert, and was returned to her parents without payment of ransom. She had been held for two weeks by kidnapers who asked $20,000 for her release. Police are working on the case in an endeavor to arrest the guilty parties.

He Slaps Her, So She Bites Off Ear.
Juarez, Mexico—Rebecca Hernandez, 28, bit off the ear of Manuel Medina McDonald because he slapped her, she said in the Juarez jail. Police charged her with aggravated assault, and are holding the ear as evidence.

Tries to Miss Dog, Kills 7 Persons
Fontainebleau, France—Five men and two women were killed and six persons were injured as the driver of an automobile in a hill race tried to avoid hitting a stray dog and plunged into a group of spectators.

Special Drouth Aid Program Indicated
Washington—Indications that a special program to govern relief activities in drouth-stricken states would be established were made by the federal emergency relief administration.

TRADE CANNOT BE LOST BURNED OR THROWN AWAY

Young men graduating from high school should keep in mind that trade training cannot be lost or burned or thrown away.

After high school there are three paths:

(1) Continue in an institution following higher branches of learning.

(2) Enter some vocational or training institution like a business college or a trade school.

(3) Secure employment.

There are advantages in favor of each of these paths.

Dunwoody Institute, Minneapolis, has given a great deal of thought in an effort to help young men at this very important point in their path through life, i. e., at the time of graduation from high school, and respectfully offers the following proposal for consideration:

Trade Try-out Courses in the following lines: Automobile work, building construction, drafting, electrical work, machine shop, printing and highway construction open up on August 16 and continue until on or about September 8.

This gives an excellent opportunity for a young man to actually try out one or more of the above lines to see if he is interested in the same and is he has the ability which would best function in the selected trade.

These tryout courses are specifically scheduled before the University and other advanced institutions of learning open in the fall so that the three-week trade try-out those who find that they are not interested or do not have the special abilities required for the training at Dunwoody may enter some other institution of learning without 'getting out of step' with their former classmates.

HOGS SHOULD BRING $6 OR MORE ON PRICES OF PORK

No one would think of saying that hogs are bringing $6.00 or more, but that is what they are doing on our market today, judging from a consumer's basis, says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Cooperative Association of South St. Paul. Excluding the processing tax, prices that consumers are being charged for pork justifies a live hog market nearly twice as high as it is at present.

Retail and wholesale cuts of pork are from 3c to 5c per pound higher than a year ago. Hogs, on the other hand, are right at 1c per pound below a year ago.

For twelve successive weeks, the weekly average hog price has declined. This is extraordinary and perhaps a record. The cause for this cannot be found in too many hogs by what would be regarded as too many under normal conditions.

The following table gives average hog conditions.

February 24	$4.15
March 3	4.08
March 10	3.97
March 17	3.91
March 24	3.81
March 31	3.83
April 7	3.74
April 14	3.51
April 21	3.40
April 28	3.33
May 5	3.20
May 12	3.05

Average hog prices have declined $1.10 per cwt. since just prior to the final increase in the processing tax and from the conversation of hog producers who bring their shipments to market, the processing tax is not receiving much favor. The tax, since March 1, has been $2.25 per cwt. on live hogs.

The difficulty is attributed to poor demand and it seems that consumer resistance to pork, because it bears a tax, is having a greater influence than most of us think.

MINNESOTA PRODUCTION CREDIT LOANS $582,940

Total production credit loans to farmers of Minnesota were $582,940 up to April 30 inclusive, according to a preliminary report for April just released at Production Credit Corporation headquarters in St. Paul. For the 7th district, embracing North Dakota, Wisconsin and Michigan the total loans to April 30 were $849,047.

These loans are made for general farm purposes, for purchase of dairy or feeding stock, necessary farm supplies and equipment. Membership in the associations, and the opportunity to share in loans through the associations is obtained by purchase of one $5 share for each $100 that the farmer wants to borrow. Every farmer in the state is a potential member and borrower, the condition being that the property he offers as security is sufficient for his loan.

To assure himself the amount he will need for his season's operations, the farmer may borrow the whole amount and have it placed to his credit, while paying interest only on that portion he withdraws for use from time to time. The remainder "earmarked for him is held to his credit without interest until he calls for it.

The average size of loans in Minnesota is $584. For the first week of May there have been 209 additional loans approved for Minnesota farmers, and 125 closed and made available to them by PCA's. Every association of the 31 organized in the state have borrowed funds from the Interstate Credit Bank of St. Paul to loan to their members, discounting members' notes and mortgages with the Intermediate Credit Bank.

Money Await Depositors in Closed Banks

The depositors who are listed below have money waiting for them. They reside, or at one time did reside, in this community. Anyone who knows their whereabouts will be doing them a favor by writing to Elmer A. Benson, Commissioner of Banks, State Office Building, St. Paul.

They are lost depositors of closed banks. In the liquidation of closed banking institutions, dividends are to be paid to depositors from time to time. In the case of the depositors on the list below, the checks have been mailed to the last known address and have been returned to the Banking department offices by the local postoffice. Perhaps they have moved and left no address or the address at the bank was faulty. For some reason these checks have not reached the proper hands.

The undelivered checks have accumulated until there are thousands, some dating back as far as 1923. Altogether, approximately $168,00.00 is tied up in uncalled for checks in the hands of the Closed Banking Department. An attempt is being made to find the depositors and get this money to them. Many of them have been found, but there are thousands yet to be located.

Those whose names are on the list, or friends who know where they can be located, or anyone who believes that he may have money due him from a closed bank which is not reaching him should write the Commissioner of Banks. Proper indentification will be required before the checks are turned over.

FIRST CORN-HOG PAYMENTS COME THRU IN THIS STATE

The influx of AAA corn-hog payments to Minnesota farms was started last week when 25 Scott farmers received their initial payments totaling about $2,400. These payments represent about two-fifths of hog payments and about one-half of the corn money which these producers will receive from the administration in the next nine months.

Although insignificant in amount these payments are the first trickle of an oncoming flood of $25,000,000 that will flow through the pockets of some 80,00 Minnesota farmers, enabling them to catch up on purchases and tax payments long overdue. This money should give support and impetus to business and set revolving a cycle of benefits that will reach back again to the farms and be repeated over and over. This continuous cycle of interchange between agriculture and industry is the real foundation of a permanent prosperity, say sponsors of the AAA program.

Only one other state, Iowa, has so far had a taste of corn-hog payments. For the United States as a whole, the total payments for corn-hog reduction will amount to about 350 million dollars to be distributed among nearly 1,200,000 contract signers.

MINNESOTA IS NAMED ON BEEF COMMITTEE

Minnesota will be represented on the Committee of Twenty-five for beef production by A. Olson, Pres. of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. Mr. Olson's appointment was announced from Washington, D. C. following an organization meeting of the beef producers of the country. The committee will decide whether a beef production control plan shall be drawn up for presentation to the producers, and will develop plans for procedure.

At a preliminary meeting of cattlemen held in Chicago on April 26, at the call of E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, it was urged that the beef group contain persons interested in dairying as dairymen also have a vital interest in the beef business. Mr. Olson fits into this category, as he has a herd of about sixty dairy animals as well as a large number of beef cattle.

As negotiations got under way it was indicated that one of the first recommendations of the beef producers would be that greater quantities of beef be used for poor relief purposes.

"RECORDING ANGEL" KEEPS RECORDS OF CARELESS DRIVERS

Habitually careless automobile drivers who in the past have been "getting by" with repeated law violations with no special study being given their past records are due for an awakening in the future. According to officials of the drivers license bureau of the state highway department, steps have been taken to keep individual records of all drivers convicted of traffic offenses in any part of the state.

A driver who violates laws in half a dozen different towns or habitually in one town will find that his name is accumulating "black marks" in the drivers license bureau. This record will be important in determining decisions on suspensions of licenses.

WOOL POOL BUILDS ON ASHES OF FIRE THAT TOOK PLANT

Fire on the night of May 8 completely destroyed the wool and seed warehouse of the Minnesota Co-operative Wool Growers' Association at Wabasha. On the morning of May 10 negotiations were well under way for the erection of a larger plant. Meanwhile wool was being received in quantities and handled through temporary quarters, with no letup in service, the Minnesota Farm Bureau was informed by Alex Huddleston, president of the wool co-op.

No loss will accrue to members because of the fire, as the business was fully insured, said R. E. Jones, manager. About 34,000 pounds of wool and two carloads of seed were destroyed.

In addition to the centeral warehouse at Wabasha, the pool has branches open for deliveries and advances at Mankato, Duluth, Morris, Carlos, Verndale and Thief River Falls.

RIVERSIDE SCHOOL CLOSES SUCCESSFUL TERM MAY 5

The Riverside school, of district 54 closed a very sucessful school year last Saturday with Miss Selma Wilson as teacher. The program consisted of a declamatory contest, spelling contest and awarding of prizes for perfect attendance. A lunch was served following the program.

Five pupils took part in the declamation contest, the winner was Rupert Wolfgram. Timothy Lardy and Dorothy Bothman placed second and third respectively. Perfect attendance awards went to Dolores Randorf, Milton Wilken and Timothy Lardy. The spelling contest prize was won by Eugene Lardy.

Judges for the declamatory contest were Miss Alice Stapleton, Miss Samuelson and Miss Rossette.

Miss Wilson who has taught at the Riverside school for the past two years was retained for the coming term.

PENNINGTON COUNTY CORN-HOG QUOTA IS DELEYED

Word has reached County Agent R. M. Douglass that the corn and hog quotas on which the Pennington county contract will be based, soon will be set by the State Board of Review in St. Paul. Additional county data on which to base these quotas has recently been forwarded to this board.

"The contracts can not be formally completed and shipped to Washington until these quotas have been set and the contracts adjusted to them," Mr. Douglass says. "The enormous numbers of conracts submitted, the necessity of protecting all claims honestly made, and the analysis of available information upon which to base the county quotas have made the final adjustments much slower than orignally could be foreseen.

"However, farmers should not put off spring planting because of this delay. My suggestion is that they proceed with their operations according to plans they laid when applying for contracts. Minor adjustments that may be required later in contracted acres and in the number of hogs finished should make no special difference in farm plans now.

"The aim should be to plant approximately what the contract will permit according to the 1932-33 history of the farm. A little less corn than is permissible, rather than a little more, should be the practice if in doubt. The extra acre or two kept out of corn production may be planted to cerial crops for hay and pasture. If a little more corn should be planted than the contract permits it may be disked up later and the land sown to millet or other crop for hay.

"According to Andrew Boss, state director of the production control campaign, anyone who seriously tries to meet the requirments of the contract as outlined above need have no fear of being penalized if a slight discrepancy occur."

Cooked Pearls

Only pearl oysters and certain fresh water mollusks have sufficient irridescence and translucence to produce valuable pearls. Stories of persons finding pearls on common edible oysters which would have been valuable if not spoiled by cooking are untrue, according to the United States bureau of fisheries. While it is a fact that cooking would deaden the luster and destroy the color of valuable pearls, the common edible oyster never produces pearls of commercial value.

MAINTAINANCE CREWS DO FAST WORK CHANHING SIGNS

A speed record was set hy the Maintenance division of the Minnesota Highway department last week when it made a complete change of sate route markers an 11,000 miles of trunk roads in less than one day.

The change-over was occasioned by renumbering of the enlarged system and also by the adoption of the standard black and white color combination for route markers, replacing Minnesota's previous black and yellaw signs. When motorists went to bed the night of May 3 the 11,000 miles of trunk roads were marked with old numbers in black and yellow. By noon May 4 eighty per cent of the system carried the new numbers in the new colors. The change was finished before nightfall.

Caretul planning of the change-over long in advance made the quick change possible. With ordinary metu ods the work would have required weeks to complete.

EGG QUALITY WILL IMPROVE AGRICULTURE DEPT. AVERS

The Minensota Department of Agriculture has taken an active stand this spring toward the enforcement the laws having to do with purchase and handling of eggs. This program deserves the active support of ail of the producers and purchasers of eggs in the Statt. It is hound to increase the income of the egg producers of this state hundreds of thousands of dollars this year and in addition ta that it cannot helo hnt improve the reputation of the eggs produced in the state. Minnesoa has the reputation of being one of the most progressive of dairy and agricultural states and it is an important producer af poultry and eggs and anytbing that is done to improve the quality af eggs in Minnesota is simply another step in the right direction. Country merchants over the State are urged to do everything within their power to help build up the production of quality egg; when they do this they are not only assisting their customers in a worthy program but they are making it possible for an increase in the income of the merchants.

The Department bas set up a program of two grades—number 1's and number 2's. There is nothing difficult in the establishing af this program ss the merchants have to candle the eggs when bought anyway and it is only a slight additional effort to determine whether the egg is a number one or a number two.

The Minnesota Egg, Butter and Poultry Association is actively supporting the Department in this worth while program.

HIGHWAY PATROL WARNS AGAINST DEFECTIVE BRAKES

The arrest of 18 operators of trucks with brakes so poor that the trucks were rsmoved from the highways until repaired was reported this week by the Minnesota Highway patrol. Of 1,784 vehicles stopped during the past week for brake and headlight inspections, 539 were found to have defective equipment. Totals for April were 4,523 vehicles stopped with 1,509 having either defective brakes or lights. Twelve of the offending truck drivsrs were arrested at Northfield and six at New Brighton. Other inspections were conducted at Osseo , Albert Lee, Rochester, Paynesville, Renville, Olivia, and Red Wing. at Rochester 10 drivers were found without drivers license. Of 250 stopped at Albert Lee all had drivers licenses.

NEW HIGHWAY MAPS ARE DISTRIBUTED THIS WEEK

Markng an innovation in official Minnesota road maps, the large size maps of tha state highway department this year for the first time are definitely to advertse the state's scenic and vacation attractions and draw tourist business.

The maps will he issued next week, it was announced hy N. W. Elsberg. highway commissioner. They will carry on the back side attractive pictures af Minnesota lakes, rivers and resort regions, with a discussion of vacation apportunities in the Land of Ten Thousand Lakes.

"'Each year the highway department sends thousands of its maps to tourist information centers in every state in the union,' Mr. Elsberg said. "At an exceedingly small cost, we found it possible ta add life and interest and tourist appeal ta the map this year. We believe tbe change will aid greatly in advertising Minnesota.

"Such a map was particularly needed this year because several organizations which in the past have issued Minnesota tourist literature are now unable to do so."

ALMOST AS RADICAL AS NORWAY—FORTY YEARS AGO

We have become so alarmed over the paroxysms of terror that has gripped the opposition press since the adoption of the Farmer-Labor platform that we decided to look a little closer into the blooming thing. Maybe it is bad. Perhaps there is sme justfication for these fits of horror after all. Possibly the "radicals" (pronounce it with an exhalation of the breath) did slip something over on us at the convention. Better that we face the thing squarely and if we have been hoodwinked, nonplussed, chee-chawed and spit out a bunch of wild-eyed extremists, we might as well face the issue and let the whole ghastly plot be exposed.

Inasmuch as we have heard it said that the Norse are a progressive, yet sane and rational people; rather slow and phlegmatic in their actions and conservative in their radicalism, (As Jonas Lie said, "Me skal komma om inkje saa brant.") we decided to look about a bit and see just what they have done in Norway, politically and economically in the past fourty or fifty years. If our platform is "visionary and extreme" as the opposition press would like to have us believe, then a comparison with the accomplishment of the conservative Norsemen would probably show it up in all its revolting insanity.

And a comparison makes it look bad, terrible. We find for instance, that Norway enacted workmen's insurance in 1894. (State insurance, not a quasi-compulsory liability insurance designed to enrich insurance companies) That Norway took over the only privately owned railroad, (Hovedbanen form Krisiania to Eidsvoid) in 1890 and that there has been no privately owned, publicly used railroad in Norway since that time.

The city of Kristiania, now Oslo, took possession of the last of the privately owned street railways after it was changed from horsecars to electrics in 1898. The city at that time already owned about 90 per cent of the street railway system, approximately 100 miles of it, all electric. In the same year the state took over the telephone system of the country and has operated it since. Incidently Norway rates among the highest per capita users of telephones on the continent. The writer's father spoke over the state owned long distance telephone from Oslo to Tronheim, a distance of about 430 miles on the 29 day of August 1902 and a fifteen minute conversation cost just 50 ore. (about 12 cents). The state has always owned and operated the telegraph.

Norway has had state banks, (Norges Bank, Norske Hypotekbank, and others) for half a century. None has ever failed. altho in Norway as in other countries private banks have failed. No depositor ever lost an ore in a state bank and no cost has ever been assessed against the taxpayers. The interest rate on farm mortgages is 3 per cent. The loan sharks have been eliminated by the establishment of state small-loan banks.

The entire country is electric lighted from state and municipal (komune) owned light and power plants. Current is so cheap that people seldom bother to turn the lights off during the day, country highways are electric lighted in dangerous curve.

The state has operated a state hospital (Rikshospitalet) free to those unable to pay, to all workers, farmers and others who are injured in line of employment and to all victims of traffic accidents. This hospital has been in existence since prior to 1895. Its specialists are among the best in the world.

Norway's schools are conceded to be the best. Her illiteracy rate is the lowest in the world, 0.02 per cent as compared with the United States 4.30 per cent. Textbooks are printed under state supervision. Teachers have security of tenure regardless of their economic philosophy or political belief.

Norway has had state fire, theft, life, tornado and marine insurance over forty years. Unemployment insurance for twelve years. Her juvenile delinquency and crime rate is among the lowest of civilizd countries.

And all this progress in spite of the fact that Norway is a small, barren and mountainous country. Or rather let us say because of the fact that the country is small, barren and mountainous. Mother Nature is so niggardly over there, that the people just can't afford to allow the profit motive to exist where monoply is necessary. Their resources are so small that if they had allowed them to fall into the hands of private capital and speculators, they would have been dissipated and the people would have perished.

America has been so rich in resources that the process has taken longer, but we are at the end of the trail, at last, and we will have to turn to cooperation if we are to survive. Even our riches and resources can reach an end.

Yes, a comparison makes our program look bad—bad to think that we haven't progressed beyond the platform stage yet.

Editorial Comment
From Our Exchanges

HURDLES THAT MUST BE FACED
Stephen Messenger

Brain trusters, self-appointed economists and dyed-in-the-wood individuals admit two methods of dealing with depression, poverty and idleness—one the Russian systemazing production and profits and the other the old American way of letting business make profits regardless and employ labor as the market offers. Prof. Irving Fisher frankly approves the latter and in so doing he expresses the opinion of about 90 per cent of our industrial leaders and capitalists. The real question at issue has become the question of what percentage of profits of industry, labor and machinery should be applied to invested money capital and what percentage should be ploughed back in wages, the capital of labor represented in years of study, experience and development. Capital takes the position to pay the cost of living and to that end several surveys have been made in an effort to arrive at a minimum figure. These surveys have varied from about $2,000 per year for a family of four to as low as $850 per year. But few employers will consent to pay more than is actually necessary to sustain life regardless of experience and ability. The result is that invested money capital has taken out of industry during the past few years nearly 50,000 millions of dollars in excess profits which have been invested in foreign nations and non-taxable bonds.

If one half of this excess profit had been ploughed back into wages this nation would never have known of any depression (See Roger Babson's warning address in 1928.)

Our trouble solvers, however, are confronted with a few stumbling blocks that cannot be hurdled. With possible production 75 per cent below normal with 40 per cent of our people living below the starvation line, and 80 per cent just out of actual starvation status, and with the greatest consumptive market in all the world, we have made but little head way toward recovery, notwithstanding governmental expenditures and loans amounting to half of the annual pay rolls. Latest reports indicate that notwithstanding all this re-employment by government agencies we still have close to 13,000,000 idle men and women—with 25,000,000 of additional dependents. Rugged individualistic industry has again fallen dawn on the job—and why?

For the simple reason that it insists on milking the cow to the last drop—leaving nothing wherewith idle and hungry people can possibly purchase industrial products.

That is the hurdle that confronts "brain trusts" and economists. They are trying to "have its cake and eat it too." But it just can't be done.

We are approaching another long and dreary winter Ninety per cent of our people are so far in debt that under the most promising division of profits it will require three years of comparatively steady employment to pay half of these debts.

For three years capital industry has twiddled its thumbs waiting for something to turn up that will restore old systems. The president has not only met the issue but has met opposition at every turn of the road. Just where we will land is surrounded with the same old dense fog of three years ago. With a million young men and women coming out of our schools and colleges each year, loaded with new and progressive ideas, facing future that promises but little, the New Deal may take on a new phase that will offer some hope in this great home of Liberty and Freedom and Righteousness.

FUSION—NOT SO EASY
Askov American

On account of the rapid rise of the Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota with a United States senator, five congressmen, governor, lieutenant governor, attorney general and one railroud and warehouse now in the saddle, there has been considerable talk about fusion between the Republicans and Democrats in the coming election.

Fusion of conservative and reactionary forces is not a new thing in the history of the state or nation. It has been done a number of times when a third party was forging ahead and coming to the front.

Back in the days around 1918—before and after the war, the cry was to save Minnesota for Americanism and from Socialism and Communism. That was when Burnquist and Preus were candidates for governor on the Republican ticket. The Democrats practically laid down to the Republicans at the time and the result was that both Burnquist and Preus became governors of this state.

The situation, however, is a little different today. In the first place voters are no so afraid of the word "radical" as formerly and in the second place the Democrats won a great national victory in 1932 so are not so keen about losing their party identity. The Republicans have been in the majority in Minnesota so long that they do not feel like bowing to the Democrats. They are eager to build up their party for the 1936 presidential election.

The Democrats likewise also have their eye on the 1936 presidential election, being naturally anxious to re-elect President Roosevelt. And with him they have hopes of capturing some political offices in Minnesota—national and state.

There is plenty friction within each of the two old parties in this state, to say nothing of fusion between the two. The Democrats have the regulars and the Rumpers. Republicans have the old guarders and the younger element. The old guard Rpublicans gave the young Republicans considerable leeway in the 1932 campaign. Brown was the candidate for governor and voters know the result. Christienson and Schall make quite a team and with the Democrats are Wolf and Hoidale on the one side with Regan battling them all he can.

The prospects for fusion are not so good. The "lying down" process was done too long by the Democrats for them to relish any more of it.

"LAWFUL AND PEACEFUL SWEDEN
(Farmer-Labor Leader)

Harpers Magazine for November, 1933, told how the people of Scandinavia, and Sweden particularly, are doing away with private monoply and setting up in its stead a system of nation-wide government ownership and cooperation. It is another answer to the cry of Minnesota Special Privilege that it "can't be done."

But it is "being done." And Swedish cooperatives flourish alongside of government-owned businesses, while well-managed private business which does not try to gouge the people, prospers also.

Instead of "enslaving" the farmer, already—not some time in the future, but NOW—60 per cent of Swedish land under tillage has electric power. Rates range from 1.58 cents per kilowatt to a "high" rate of 1.82 cents per kilowatt hour. And the government makes a profit at those figures. Other services and commodities are on a par with this.

And therefore Swedish farmers, workers and independent business men consider summer cottages and motor boats necessities, not luxuries. This in contrast with a system of private ownership of monopolized industries which denies those things to the common people but supplies the favored few with several summer and winter homes each and with palatial private yachts.

Sweden has been years in making the change; it will be other years in reaching the goal of a Cooperative Commonwealth. But in the meantime it is doing something NOW—relieving its people of much of the crushing load of private monopolies, and doing it "in a peaceful and lawful manner....by the people."

The report of Clarence Darrow and his colleagues on the NRA indicates that small business has been driven out by NRA codes while big monopolies have been prospering more than ever. This will mean trouble because it will mean a rigid anti-trust law—something that industry not only fears but abhors. It will mean a big showdown and perhaps a general "bust" of the whole plan. And then what?—Stephen Messenger.

At that, the Dutchman might have had a legitimate complaint. He says, "The American adds whiskey to his drink to make it strong, water to make it weak, lemons to make it sour, sugar to make it sweet and then says Here's to you and drinks it himself.

The [illegible] recently adopted Republican state platform reads: "PRIVATE OWNERSHIP of homes, farms, business and industry." That's just it; their idea of private ownership is so darn private that 99 per cent of the people can't get a lookin at all.

The shorter week should become a permanent part of our prosperity program. If not, the dead weight of the unemployed will drag us continually into the mire.
—Senator Robert F. Wagner.

WEEKLY WASHINGTON LETTER

Enormous Stock Exchange Profits

$833,167,680.00 made in five years by the members of the New York Stock Exchange, proves my statements made repeatedly that there is plenty of money in America—plenty of cash to finance the farmers, the unemployed, and to provide for old age pensions, health and accident insurance and mothers' pensions. The gross income for these gentlemen for the period of January 1st, 1928 to August 31, 1933, was $2,153,218,671.00. The astonishing profits of the "insiders" who have seats on the Exchange were made during the period when many investors were completely wiped out, and this is only a mass of information submitted by the New York Exchange in answer to committee questionaires made in Congress. The figures are those of the Exchange itself and were prepared by their own accountants. Of the total of the gross income recorded $1,502,751,275.00 was for commissions and $237,957,256.00 for profits on trading.

Billions for the Navy and the Next War, but Nothing for Unemployment

It is now a well known fact that the 73rd Congress, controlled by the present Administration, has appropriated more than a billion dollars for war; that we are engaged in building huge war ships—ships that can be easily sunk by a few bombs from the air. While these great sums are appropriated for war, the Administration refuses unemployment insurance along social lines. Big Business goes into a frenzy when these subjects are mentioned. "It will ruin America!" But they are all for this war preparation program. No one seriously contends that America should completely disarm, but with the great Atlantic on one side and the great Pacific on the other; the great Arctic Ocean to our north and feeble, friendly nations in North and South America surrounding us, there is no occasion for this fear and frenzy unless we intend to become an international policeman to swagger over the Seven Seas and impose our will upon other nations and continents.

Bankruptcy Bill for American Cities

The Senate this week passed a bill designed to afford relief to insolvent bankrupted municipalities. The bill now goes back to the House for Consideration of Senate changes. As passed by the Senate, the bill requires approval of 51% instead of 30% of the claim holders before debt adjustment can be requested. It recalls the phophecies of LaFollette, Lindbergh, Lundeen and others, that if America embarked upon saving the world, her own communities, her own cities and states would tumble into bankruptcy while a few billionaires profited at the hands of the great American people

The Key to the Money Door

Today's "Washington Daily News" publishes a chepter of "Your Country at War," by Congressman C. A. Lindbergh, entitled 'The Key to the Money Door." How interesting is the chapter now, and his "memorial to the Presidents." When gold and silver problems are being talked about in every congressional office; when delegates are calling upon the President in favor of silver and a broader money base; when Bryan's theories are being resurrected, and the money question is pervading the Capital atmosphere, Lindbergh seems prophetic in his views of the future.

FARM AND MARKET
By
R. A. Trovatten
Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Dairy and Food.

I have been asked by upholders of the AAA's acreage reduction program, which is nothing more than a fiasco, "What have you to offer farmers in the way of relief?"

Most of the farm commodities of which there is a surplus are unperishable products, such as small grains, corn etc. They may be stored for future use. The federal government take no cognizance of this fact. They prefer to destroy through the reduction of acreage, with the possible consequence of famine, or at least the necessity at some later date of purchasing foodstuffs from foreign countries.

Why destroy and endanger famine when surplus unperishable farm commodities could be purchased by the federal government and stored for future use. The federal administration's claim that storing of surpluses by the government would demoralize the market is a myth—A "straw-man" built up for the occasion.

Why not place the farmers under the NRA and guarantee to them the cost of production as well as other industries. Give them cost of production upon that portion that is needed for domestic consumption. This would safeguard the farmers against any chance of a demoralized market. It would insure the nation against any danger of shortage of any agricultural commodity.

The situation in Minnesota is appalling. In fact, this applies to all of the north-central states. Feed has been practically used up. A large portion of the alfalfa fields have been destroyed by the open winter. The condition of pastures are deplorable. It is impossible to secure more hay in Minnesota. We had a poor crop last year; this year it looks worse. How long are the farmers of the northwest going to continue to listen to the babbling of the federal administration's farm advisers? They have given us nothing; they offer us nothing: It is about time that we demand a drastic change in policy.

The Mayflower Compact

The whereabouts of the Mayflower compact is not known. The oldest copy of the text of the compact know is that printed in "Mourt's Relation" in 1622. The oldest known list of the 41 signers of the compact is found in "New England's Memoriall," printed in 1669. A copy of the compact appears in Bradford's "History of Plymouth Plantation," written between 1630 and 1640.

The Art of Canning

Canning is supposed to have originated with Appert, a Paris chef, about 1783. His method was to place sealed bottles containing the food in a water bath and bring the water to the boiling point. Present-day methods, though more scientific, vary but little from the original. Knowledge of canning was brought to America about 1818 but it did not become an industry until 1860.—Pathfinder Magazine.

DARROW REPORT PROPOSING DRASTIC REVISION OF NRA IS SHELVED BY ROOSEVELT
By Theodore C. Wallen
Reprinted from the Minneapolis Journal

Washington, May 10.—A drastic reorganization of the national recovery administration to give the federal government a permanent balance of power between large and small industries was recommended in the majority report of the Darrow board which President Roosevelt has decided not to make public in its original form but has referred to three government agencies for preliminary digesting

On the theory that the NRA has shown that business is incabable of self-regulation, the five to one majority report proposes to scrap all the present code authorities in favor of an entirely new setup in which the federal government, big business and little business would have equal voting representation.

Original Report Toned Down

The report as it went to the President had been toned down from an original draft which found that the capitalist system had failed and that the government had a responsibility to step in and take dictatorial control of business itself and of the people.

Even in the revised form the report and its underlying philosphy were too strong for one of the Darrow board members, John F. Sinclair of Minneapolis, who dissented in a single-handed minority report and offered his resignation.

It was also too much for President Roosevelt, who said laughingly that he had given up trying to read the voluminous document and had referred it Attorney General Homer S Cummings, the federal trade commission and the NRA it self for analysis and digesting.

Nye Plans Action

While this procedure seemed to fulfill Clarence Darrow's phophecy that the report "never would see the light of day." Senator Gerald P. Nye, insurgent republican of North Dakota, declared the report "would see the light of day all right—and that right soon." He inferred that unless the president should exercise within a reasonable time his prerogative to make public the report, it would be given out by the senators who inspired the presidential "jury investigation" of all monopolistic tendencies in the recovery program.

The situation is more complicated than that, however. Even though the President does not read the reports of the board he appointed and he has indicated to the press he expects the board to fold up and go home before the end of the month, the board indicates it is here to stay until it finishes its "quasi-judicial" assignment. The majority report in the hands of the President covers only eight codes; the board has received complaints against 100 and it insists on doing its duty with respect to all.

Monopoly Finding Made

As to all eight of the codes analyzed to date with the benefit of public hearings, the Darow board finds the NRA guilty of the charge of monoply and suppression of small business interests.

The only way for the President to stop the activities of the board would be to cancel its assignment and suspend its nominal per diem and expence allowance. Mr. Darrow, the chairman, is the liberal Chicago crime attorney. While he avows the greatest respect for president Roosevelt and also personally for General Hugh S. Johnson, national recovery administrator, he insists on proceeding in his own unhurried way.

President Roosevelt created the board as a sort of jury to sift the charges that the NRA was playing into the hands of big business monopolies and was in fact oppressing "the little fellow" in business and also working to the disadvantage of the consumer.

Board Selected By Nye

The charges were carried directly to the President at the opening of congress by Senator Nye and Senator William E. Borah, insurgent republican of Idaho, the latter of whom had tried unsuccessfully to write the anti-trust laws into the national recovery act last year and is still trying. When Senators Nye and Borah declined to serve on such a "jury" on the ground that it would be inconsistent with their duties as senators, the President deferred to Senator Nye in the selection of the members.

Four of the six members, included Mr. Darrow himself, were appointed upon recommendation of Mr. Nye and in some instances accepted the appointment only under direct telegraphic pressure from him. There were two exceptions. One was William Ormonde Thompson, former capitalist and present writer and lecturer on finance, who was once Mr. Darrow's law partner. He was Mr. Darrow's own selection for the board The other exception was W. W. Neal, a cotton mill operator at Marion, N. C.

Sinclair Still Member

A new complication developed today in a statement of the President that Mr. Sinclair's resignation from the board had not been accepted. This was taken to indicate that so long as the board was on the President's hands, he prefered not to weaken its more conservative side. The Darrow board headquarters announced several days ago that upon the President's own assurance that Mr. Sinclair's resignation had been accepted, the board had elected Mr. Neal to succeed him as vicechairman.

The majority report would reorganize the NRA from the ground up and drop several of its key men in the progress. This finding comes just as general Johnson is beginning to think of relaxing the government's control somewhat and dropping the licensing power.

The fundamental finding is that the NRA has failed to curb all growth of monopoly, which the report says is more firmly entrenched than ever. It finds that under the NRA smaller operators are having their hardest sleding.

The present code authorities which the Darrow majority would abolish, consist of a limited number of representatives of each broad industry plus a government appointed representative without vote. In the place of these code authorities, the Darrow majority would set up new ones consisting of the following representation the big interests; an equal number representing the little interests and an equal number to be appointed by the President to represent the government and have equal voting power. By this means it is proposed to take the industry out of the hands of the "big interests."

In every code, the report finds, monopoly and suppression of small interests exists. The new code authority setup is recommended as a means to meet this defect.

The majority report, it develops had been completely rewritten between the time Mr. Darrow first announced its vitual completion and the time of its submission to the White House nearly two weeks later.

Uses Feathers for Whistle

Many hunters are under the impression that the woodcock's whistle is made by the bird's throat. This has been proved not to be the case. If one examines a woodcock it will be found that the outside or end three feathers of each wing are very narrow and entirely unlike the other wing feathers. It is these three feathers whipping rapidly through the air that cause the "whistle" when the timber doodle flies.

First Permanent Tooth

The name of the first permanent tooth to make its appearance in the mouth is the six-year molar, which comes through the gums just back of the last temporary tooth, one on each side of the jaw, above and below.

POLITICAL ADVERTISING—Inserted by Woodrow Wilson, Thief River Falls, Minn., and to be paid for at regular advertising rates.

TO THE VOTERS OF PENNINGTON COUNTY:

We would like to put in a few words about Woodrow Wilson, being he has taught in Dist. 149 the past two years. He has done very satisfactory work as a school teacher. He has very a fine character. We think he is capable of holding an office as county superintendent of schools.

A summary of the expenditures for school supplies in our school (Dist. 149) over a period of six years, taught by Woodrow Wilson shows an average yearling saving affected by Mr. Wilson of $53.82 per year.

The figures for the six years follow:

				(Taught by Wilson)
1929	1930	1931	1932	1933	1934
$ 48.51	$127.74	$ 70.87	$ 61.68	$ 17.36	$ 29.39

This reduction in expenditures does not imply that a supply was on hand. On the contrary a complete line of seatwork and supplies besides text books for new courses in general science were purchased.

District 149.

Peter Finds a Way

By MARY MERRICK

WNU Service

AGNES MARKEY slammed the door of her small coupe and settled herself behind the wheel with an air of indignant finality.

And that's that, she thought—out of a job, no money to get back home, stuck in Florida with only one friend in the whole darned state, and that's life! Being Agnes, she gave a mental flip of her skirts to the whole foolish proceeding, and turned the car's nose south toward the cabbage palm desolated island where that one friend had a tiny cottage; where she knew she could get shelter, food, sympathy and a good cussing out.

Oh, yes, she'd been a fool to stay in Florida after having that fight with Peter, and giving him back his ring and refusing the marriage license. Might have known jobs didn't last for ever—not even good jobs. Peter was the wise boy. He'd gone home and was now rolling in the sugar-coated luxury provided by that wealthy, silly mother who had been the cause of their disagreement. She hated that mother! She hated Peter!

She swept on at fifty miles an hour. She should have telephoned Lilian, but Lilian had no telephone. And a wire would get there in the morning—Agnes herself in two hours.

It was well after dark when Agnes reached the narrow bridge connecting the mainland with the island. And as she had thought possible, Lilian's house was dark. But she parked the car out on the road. She found, also as she had expected, that the door was unlocked.

She switched on a light and looked about. The room had that upset air of having been lately left. Lilian, in all probability, was somewhere playing bridge, or down at the beach taking a moonlight swim.

Lilian's bed was broad and looked comfortable. "Lilian may be surprised, I hope not unpleasantly," she murmured to herself, and took off her frock.

The light was scarcely out when Agnes, being Agnes, troubles and all was sound asleep. She woke with a certain feeling of vagueness. The overhead light was shining brightly in her eyes. Oh, yes, of course, Lilian . . . She turned over and looked—at a tall, brown-skinned, burnt-blond young man with ironically smiling eyes.

"Mamma's darling boy just dropped from his nice new shiny airplane as a little midnight surprise," Agnes managed to drawl.

"And doth the burnt bride returneth to the bridegroom?" returned Peter pleasantly.

"Cloying, as usual," Agnes came back smoothly. "But you'd better find your airplane and go back to mamma. I'm sure Lilian will be annoyed. She doesn't like midnight visitors—unannounced."

"Oh, as long as it's you," said Peter, unexpectedly, "I'm sure she wouldn't mind, but you see, she's gone to the east coast with some friends for the week-end . . ."

"Oooh," breathed Agnes, her aplomb noticeably shaken.

"And she turned the shack over to me—for the sunshine and all. You see before you the wreck of a pneumonia victim—recuperating."

But Agnes, now thoroughly awake and herself, which meant poised to the point of pugnacity, sat upright in bed and spoke firmly.

"Peter Bennett, you get right out of this room. If you don't, I'm getting up anyway, and I'm dressing and leaving here immediately. What do you mean by putting me in a position like this?"

"Splendid, Agnes, great! I'll leave, of course, but I'll wait for you in the living room."

Peter went out, and Agnes dressed. The sap, she thought, not a speck of fight in him. Mamma's boy! Oh, she'd like to wring his neck.

He was waiting for her in the living room. "I'm sorry you won't reconsider and stay," he said. "I'd take a blanket and sleep on the beach. We could talk it over in the morning."

"Oh, you . . ." spat Agnes. "I wouldn't stay within a mile of you. You're spineless, weak-brained, spoiled. . . . I told you so before. You still are."

She flung herself out of the door.

She heard Peter laugh. "Good-by," he called.

She stepped on the starter. An angry growl was her only answer. The sweet purr of the motor remained dead. She stamped harder. She kicked. But all to no avail. The car wouldn't start.

She opened the door to get out. Peter was standing there, still smiling, in the moonlight.

"I didn't think you could get it started, dear," he said. "You see, I opened the tank, and your gas has all run away."

For a moment they stood staring at each other. Then, suddenly, they were in each other's arms.

"But, Peter, dear, we can't stay here, all night, together."

"Why not, dear? There's a minister living in the cottage down the beach, and I've still got that marriage license. What say?"

"We may be fools, but I'm game!" whispered Agnes, as her arms slipped once more about his neck.

[illegible] Surely Some One Else.

"Who was that woman I saw smiling at you; your wife's mother?"

"If she was smiling at me she certainly wasn't my wife's mother."—Boston Transcript.

Peter Finds a Way

By MARY MERRICK

© by McClure Newspaper Syndicate WNU Service

AGNES MARKEY slammed the door of her small coupe and settled herself behind the wheel with an air of indignant finality.

And that's that, she thought—out of a job, no money to get back home, stuck in Florida with only one friend in the whole darned state, and that's life! Being Agnes, she gave a mental flip of her skirts to the whole foolish proceeding, and turned the car's nose south toward the cabbage palm desolated island where that one friend had a tiny cottage; where she knew she could get shelter, food, sympathy and a good cussing out.

Oh, yes, she'd been a fool to stay in Florida after having that fight with Peter, and giving him back his ring and refusing the marriage license. Might have known jobs didn't last forever—not even good jobs. Peter was the wise boy. He'd gone home and was now rolling in the sugar-coated luxury provided by that wealthy, silly mother who had been the cause of their disagreement. She hated that mother! She hated Peter!

She swept on at fifty miles an hour. She should have telephoned Lillian, but Lillian had no telephone. And a wire would get there in the morning—Agnes herself in two hours.

It was well after dark when Agnes reached the narrow bridge connecting the mainland with the island. And as she had thought possible, Lillian's house was dark. But she parked the car out on the road. She found, also as she had expected, that the door was unlocked.

She switched on a light and looked about. The room had that upset air of having been lately left. Lillian, in all probability, was somewhere playing bridge, or down at the beach taking a moonlight swim.

Lillian's bed was broad and looked comfortable. "Lillian may be surprised, I hope not unpleasantly," she murmured to herself, and took off her frock.

The light was scarcely out when Agnes, being Agnes troubles and all was sound asleep. She woke with a certain feeling of vagueness. The overhead light was shining brightly in her eyes. Oh, yes, of course, Lillian . . . She turned over and looked—at a tall, brown-skinned, burnt-blond young man with ironically smiling eyes.

"Mamma's darling boy just dropped from his nice new shiny airplane as a little midnight surprise," Agnes managed to drawl.

"And doth the burnt bride returneth to the bridegroom?" returned Peter pleasantly.

"Cloying, as usual," Agnes came back smoothly. "But you'd better find your airplane and go back to mamma. I'm sure Lillian will be annoyed. She doesn't like midnight visitors—unannounced."

"Oh, as long as it's you," said Peter unexpectedly, "I'm sure she wouldn't mind, but you see, she's gone to the east coast with some friends for the week-end . . ."

"Oooh," breathed Agnes, her aplomb noticeably shaken.

"And she turned the shack over to me—for the sunshine and all. You see before you the wreck of a pneumonia victim—recuperating."

But Agnes, now thoroughly awake and herself, which meant poised to the point of pugnacity, sat upright in bed and spoke firmly.

"Peter Bennett, you get right out of this room. If you don't, I'm getting up anyway, and I'm dressing and leaving here immediately. What do you mean by putting me in a position like this?"

"Splendid, Agnes, great! I'll leave, of course, but I'll wait for you in the living room."

Peter went out, and Agnes dressed. The sap, she thought, not a speck of fight in him. Mamma's boy! Oh, she'd like to wring his neck.

He was waiting for her in the living room. "I'm sorry you won't reconsider and stay," he said. "I'd take a blanket and sleep on the beach. We could talk it over in the morning."

"Oh, you . . ." spat Agnes. "I wouldn't stay within a mile of you. You're spineless, weak-brained, spoiled. . . . I told you so before. You still are."

She flung herself out of the door.

She heard Peter laugh. "Good-by," he called.

She stepped on the starter. An angry growl was her only answer. The sweet purr of the motor remained dead. She stamped harder. She kicked. But all to no avail. The car wouldn't start.

She opened the door to get out. Peter was standing there, still smiling, in the moonlight.

"I didn't think you could get it started, dear," he said. "You see, I opened the tank, and your gas has all run away."

For a moment they stood staring at each other. Then, suddenly, they were in each other's arms.

"But, Peter, dear, we can't stay here, all night, together."

"Why not, dear? There's a minister living in the cottage down the beach and I've still got that marriage license. What say?"

"We may be fools, but I'm game!" whispered Agnes, as her arms slipped once more about his neck.

Surely Some One Else

"Who was that woman I saw smiling at you, your wife's mother?"

"If she was smiling at me she certainly wasn't my wife's mother."—Boston Transcript.

Without txception delegates and friends who attended the Red River Valley conference meeting, held in the Augustana Luthsran church of this city, left for their respective homes on Sunday afternoon with the feeling that they had spent three days in pleasant and edifying gatherings around the Word and about the business of the Lord. For this the Pastor, Committees, and members of the Augustana Church do not deserve all credit. Thanks is due in three directions: First of nll to the friends of our church for opening their homes to delegates, to the Trinity Lutheran church for the use of their church as our meeting placs, and to the city of Thief River Falls for the use of the city auditorium.

This effort to make our conference a success, as far as we can tell, was greatly appreciated and we wlsh that some hlessing may have come to to each of you for your kindness.

Farmers' Co-Operative Takes Over Defunct Canning Factory at St. Cloud. Employs 100

J. H. Hay, Deputy Commissioner of Agriculture, formerly superintendent of city schools here has established a cooperative canning factory at St. Cloud, making the first time in the Northwest that a commercial project of such size has been attempted by a cooperative organization.

Half Million Dollar Plant

The half million dollar establishment previously known as the St. Cloud Canning Co., was purchased by a group of farmers, acting cooperatively when the company went in receivership a few years ago.

The plant, which employs approximately 100 people, will be operated by the farmer owners, each of whom has given his note for 20% of the value of his produce to pay for the plant, on a strictly cooperative basis.

Vegetables to be Canned

Money to purchase the plant, which was gotten at a greatly reduced price, was advanced by the Federal Bank for Coopertives located in St. Paul.

A good market for the products of the factory is expected as general supplies of canned goods throughout the country are reported low. Peas, sweet corn, pumpkins and cabbages will be canned at the factory, this year's output being planned mostly for peas and sweet corn.

Better Prices for Products

Higher prices for their products, as well as elimination of the processing and market middleman's profit, are expected by the owners of the enterprise.

FARMER-LABOR CLUB LISTENS TO FINE TALKS

Judge M. A. Brattland Thrills Audience with analysis Of the Law

Speaking before the Farmer-Labor club meeting last Friday evening the two judges from this judicial district, Senator Laura E. Naplin, Senator R. T. Buckler of Crookston and Mrs. Ina M. Bell of Minneapolis, state organizer of the Women's Farmer-Labor Federation of Minnesota left a splendid impression on their listners.

Judge James E. Montague of Crookston who was appointed to the bench by Governor Floyd B. Olson March 27, 1934 to fill the position vacated by the resignation of Judge William Watts, spoke briefly having an appointment at Warren for that evening. He referred to the Farmer-Labor party as the party of progress and equality for the people and urged the voters to support its candidates at the forthcoming elections.

Senator Laura Naplin gave a short talk wharein she stated that she had no apologies to make for the Farmer-Labor platform." It is our platform" she stated, "and we have no reasons to be ashamed of it. We believe in it and we wrote it for ourselves. We did not stop to consider think of it, nor do we care what what the Twin City dalies would think of it, nor do we care what they think about it," she said. She has sat for eight years in the reactionary state Senate she said and anyone who wants to find the tax spenders can look for them there and find them.

Judge M. A. Brattland opened his speech saying that it is possible that some people may think it unbecoming of a judge to speak to a political gathering but assumed that even judges should be possessed of some human qualities tho many times people might come to doubt it.

"Justice is supposed to be blind," he said, "and I sometimes think that it has in many cases also been deaf.

A. L. Peterson, Mining and Construction Engineer, Built G. N. Here, Visits in City

A man who will probably be remembered by the "old timers" of this community is Mr. A. L. Peterson, who was the construction engineer engaged to bring the Great Northern railway into Thief River Falls. He is at the present time visiting in this city with his friend, Fred Forsberg.

Mr. Peterson is a native of Minnesota, having been born near Crookston, and he spent his boyhood in Polk County. He attended the University of Chicago for four years, studying construction and mining engineering. Following this, Mr. Peterson spent 2 years in Euope at the University of Copenhagen, where he studied under the tutorship of George Brandes, the present prime minister of Denmark and world's greatest critic, who wrote criticisms of the works of such well-known men as Leo Tolstoi, Bjornson, Henrik Ibson, and Emil Zola. Mr. Peterson says: "If I have attained any success, Mr. Brandes deserves the credit for it."

On returning from Europe, Mr. Peterson's first enterprise was to try his luck at mining in Colorado. This venture was unsuccessful and so he again returned to Minnesota. He applied for a job with the Great Northern Railway, and for 19 years he was employed as construction engineer with this company.

During this time, Mr. Peterson went to Canada, where he built the Canadian Pacific railroad yard and the street railway system at Regina; the street railway system at Saskatoon; and started the Hudson Bay railroad. He was engaged as a construction engineer until 1924.

Since then, Peterson has interests in a marble quarry, and in several mines. He now has interest in another mine which, if he succeeds, he says will be his last undertaking.

"The world is my country, and to do good is my religion," is the motto which Mr. Peterson has tried to maintain throughout his life. His headquarters are at Winnipeg, Canada, but to quote him: "his home is where he hangs his hat."

FARMER-LABOR CLUB LISTENS TO FINE TALKS

Judge M. A. Brattland Thrills Audience with analysis Of the Law

Speaking before the Farmer-Labor club meeting last Friday evening the two judges from tbis judicial discrict, Senator Laura E. Naplin, Senator R. T. Buckler of Crookston and Mrs. Ina M. Bell of Minneapolis, state organizer of the Women's Farmer-Labor Federation of Minnesota left a splendid impression on their listners.

Judge James E. Montague of Crookston who was appointed to the bench by Governor Floyd B. Olson March 27, 1934 to fill the position vacated by the resignation af Judge William Watts, spoke briefly having an appointment at Warren for that evening. He referred ta the Farmer-Labor party as the party af progress and equality for the people and urged the voters to support its candidates at the forthcoming elections.

Senator Laura Naplin gave a short talk wherein she stated that she had no apologies to make for the Farmer-mer Labor platform." It is our platform" she stated, "and we have no reasons to be ashamed of it. We believe in it and we wrote it far ourselves. We did not stop ta consider think of it, nor da we care what what the Twin City dalies would think of it, nor do we care what they think about it," she said. She has sat for eight years in the reactionary state Senate she said and anyone who wants to fiad the tox spenders can look for them there and find them.

Judge M. A. Brattland opened his speech saying that it is possible that same people may think it unbecoming of a judge to speak to a political gathering but assumed that even judges should be possessed of some human qualities tho many times people might come to doubt it.

"Justice is supposed to he blind," he said, "and I sometimes think that it has in many cases also been deaf.

A. L. Peterson, Mining and Construction Engineer, Built G. N. Here, Visits in City

A man wha will probabily be remembered by the "old timera" of this cammunity is Mr. A. L. Peterson, who was the construction engineer engaged to hring the Great Northern railway into Thief River Falls. He is at the present time visiting in this city with his friend, Fred Forsberg.

Mr. Peterson is a native of Minnesoto, having been born near Crookston, and he spent his boyhaod in Palk County. He attended the University of Chicago for four years, studying construction and miaing engineering. Following this, Mr. Petersan spent 2 years ia Euope at the University of Copenhagen, where he studied under the tutorship of George Brandes, the present prime minister of Danmark and world's greatest critic, who wrote criticisms of the works of such well-known men as Leo Tolstoi, Bjornson, Henrik Ibson, and Emil Zola. Mr. Peterson says: "If I have attained any success, Mr. Brandes deserves the credit for it."

On returning from Europe, Mr. Peterson's first enterprise was to try his luck at mining in Calarado. This venture was unsuccessful and so he again returned to Minnesota. He applied for a job with the Great Northern Railway, and for 19 years he was employed aa construction engineer with this company.

During this time, Mr. Peterson went to Canada, where he built the Canadian Pacific railroad yard and the street railway system at Regina; the street railway system at Saskatoon; and started the Hudson Bay railroad. He was engaged as a construction engineer uatil 1924.

Since then, Petersan has interests in a marble quarry, and in several mine which, if he succeeds, he says will be his last undertaking.

"The world is my country, and to do good is my religion," is the motto which Mr. Peterson has tried to maintain throughout his life. His headquarters are at Winnipeg, Canada, but to quote him: "his home is where he hangs his hat."

STOCKYARDS IN CHICAGO BURNED

400 Buildings Burn Before Dynamite is Used to Check Spread of Flames.

Chicago—The livestock center of the world was paralyzed hy a $10,000,000 fire thot swept the Union Stockyords end an adjacent area four hlocks long hy three hlocks wide, approximately 80 ocres. Scores of firemen and residents of the district were injured as the fire left bebind it a smoking ruins comparable to the wartorn hattlefields of France. After an army of fire-fighters hed conquered the fire with the aid of dynamite a survey of the hovoc left behind disclosed:

All the stockpens in the stockyards were burned. The stockyards Exchange building housing irreplacable records was lost. Two banks hurned. Two hotels hurned, one of them the famous Stockyerds Inn. Neerly some 40 husiness houses were destroyed. An undetermined nnmher of residences hurned, leaving approximately 2,000 homeless. Four hundred buildings were either destroyed or hadly damaged.

After the fire was out thousands of persons milled through as batalions of workers were hurled into the task of recreating the area devastated by the conflagration. Curious throngs pressed against e mile-squore police line as 400 firemen shot streams of water on the smouldering debris and towering skeletons left in the wake of the volcenic hlaze. Perspiring firemen moved through the ruins of what o few hours hefore hed heen a teeming section of the world's greatest stockyards, hlasting scorched walls ond extinguishing sporadic bursts of flome.

Architects, earpenters and masons hustled ahout the husiness of rebuilding pens, reconstrncting runways, rebuilding structures destroyed ond damaged in the $10,000,000 holocaust, spurred hy the promise of the packing harons thet the industry would continue to function at its normol speed. The huge project continued hy sun and hy spotlight to the eccompaniment of the rattle of hammers, the rumble of wheelbarrows, the swish of water—where only the cries of tho fire fighters and the screech of sirens wero heard. Two hundred and fifty potrolmen held hack the crowds ond stalked through the stricken district, guording against the encroschment of looters.

Because it wos Saturday, the stockyards held the minimum number of animals, otherwise the loss would have heen greater.

AMOUNT OF CASH USED IN LOANS RAISE TO $500

St. Paul, Minn., May 24—Cash to the amount of $500 instead of the $100 that has been the recent limit will be used in closing all Federal Land Bank and Commissioner's loans in future, it was announced hy Roy A. Nelson, president of the Federal Land Bank in St. Paul.

The new rule is now in effect, and it is expected that this will speed up the closing of loans in many cases, although with bonds being used for all items except taxes, fees, insurance premiums and portions of loans of less than $100, the Land Bank has again struck its stride of over 1 million dollars a day for each working day of May.

Quotations continue to range upward of 101 for these honds which are guaranteed unconditionally hy the United States and bear 3¼% interest. The honds have come into active demand in the last 2 or 3 weeks, and heve been the principal medium for closing loans since March 26.

NOW IS THE TIME TO START 'SNIFFLE' CARE

Doctors explain unusual spring fever: advise eorly treatment for late summer victims.

Hay fever victims of spring whose sufferings have heen worse than usual this year may lay their troubles to the delayed hlossoming of trees and unusual winds according to a hulletin issued hy the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

Hay fever from tree pollens is not so frequent or so troublesome as the sensitivity from late summer plents like ragweed. Many who are really having an attact of spring hay fever from tree pollens just think they are having their annual spring cold.

This year, however, cold weather caused a long delay in pollination in many of the trees that normally start to hlossom in March and April. Consequently, as the hulletin points out, the winds of a late April and early Many carried from a half a dozen offenders all at once and some people discovered their hay fever for the first time.

"The majority of hay fever suffers owe their trouble to the late summer and autumn plants" the doctors point out. Ragweed which begins to pollinate late in July is the worst of them and, unfortunately, ragweed is to he found all over Minnesota with the exception of the extreme North.

To be of any great use the modern injection treatment for hay fever must hegin at least six weeks hefore the pollination season for the plant tha are causing the trouble.

Late summer hay fever suffers are consequently urged to report now for tests to find just what is the cause of the trouble. When the pollen offenders are found there is a good chance that the patient may he quite successfully de-sentized to them hy a series of injections of the pollen extracts over the next few months.

STATE SHARE OF U. S. ROAD FUNDS ARE ALL OBLIGATED

Federal funds allotted Minnesota for highway construction have practically all heen placed under contract or obligated on direct lahor projects according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

With the letting of contracts on bids to he opened Friday of this week (May 25), more than 95 per cent of all ovailoble money will he definitely taken up, Mr. Elsberg said. The remainder is ear-marked for work which for various reasons has not reached the contract stage.

This means, the highway commissioner explained, that hy late summer the $10,000,000 road construction program which has been under way in Minnesota since the fall of 1933 will he virtually completed. After this occurs, construction activities will be almost eliminated unless additional federal funds are made available, he stated, because nearly all state road money is required to maintain the enlarged trunk system and meet hond charges.

JANITORS CAN SAVE EXPENSE FOR SCHOOLS

Savings ranging from 10 percent to 47 percent in the costs of operation of hundreds of puhlic huilding thruout Minnesota could be made if hetter trained janitors and custodians were employed, according to R. R. Price, head of the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota.

The summer school for janitors, engineers and custodians which for several years was run hy the Minneapolis puhlic school system was turned over to the university last year so thet it might be operated on a statewide hasis. This year it will be repeated, running from June 18 to 23 on the main campus, under the Extension Division's direction.

Chief emphasis will fall on the operation of school hnildings, which outnumber puhlic huildings of all other types. Improvement in student health and in the psychological value of their surroundings will be attained by hetter upkeep, as well [illegible] Dr. Price said.

Estimated savings that may resnlt from having well-trained men are given as follows: Fuel, 17 to 47%; boiler repairs, 17%; electric light, 27.6%; water service, 10%; supplies, 36%; general maintenance expense, 30%. These figures are taken from a ten year summary in the Minneapolis puhlic schools.

Costs of attendance will be low.

NEW PROCESS GIVE ORE HEAPS ADDED VALUE

A new process for roasting Minnesota iron ore may he given value to millions of tons of rejected "tailings" from concentration plants along the Mesahe range will he erected this spring and operated this summer hy the Mines Experiment Station of the University of Minnesota, working in cooperation with a St. Paul concern.

At present vast amounts of ore dug from the open pits have to be washed or jigged to improve the percentage of iron content relative to the waster material. Much iron remains in the tailings after this process has been completed. Other material dug is cast oside because it contains too high a percentage of silica.

E. W. Davis, sperintendent of the Mines Experiment Station, has developed a roasting furnace on a lahoratory scale which will now he erected as o unit of roasting 250 tons of ore a day. The roasting will chonge the ore from hematite, the red oxide of iron, to magnetite, the block oxide. When it becomes magnteite a magnetic sperotion process can be used to pull the iron out of the silica and make it usahle.

The problem confronting the experimenters is that of operoting such e at a cost low enough to make it commercially useful. That is the thing to he learned hy the unit now to go up. If it succeeds it will mean that millions of tons not now usable will have a considerahle value as ore.

The experimental plant will be built ot Cooley, near Noshwauk.

YEARLY INTEREST SAVINGS MAY BE $240'000 FOR FARMERS

Interest savings on short term loons moy run ebove $240,000 a year os the result of a slash in interest rates hy the Intermediote Credit Bank of St. Paul, which has just heen announced. The new rote went into effect on Wednesday, May 16, ond is the direct result of the recent favoroble reception of Intermediote Credit Bank debentures.

The discount rate of the Intermediate Credit Bank is now cut from 2½% to 2%, which it is estimated will reduce the annual interest on loans made through financing over $200,000 o yeor, if loans continue to be closed at the rate showed for April. This is the second cut in the lest few months, the first having been a reduction from 3% to 2½%.

Farmer-members of Production Credit Associotions will sove an additional $40,000 a year in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota if the volume of these loans contiues to increase at the rate of $150,000 a week, the rate at which loons were closed last week.

MOONEY ASKS AID IN NEW FIGHT FOR HIS RELEASE

San Francisco—A new fight to release Tom Mooney, hased on the foct that he is heing held in violation of the "due process of low" clause in the Federal Constitution, is heing opened by Mooney's attorneys.

The petition points out that Mooney was acqutted May 24, 1933, on an indictment which covered the indential material on which he was convicted February 8, 1917, and that the earlier conviction was the direct result of a premeditated and deliherate frameup conspiracy.

The expense of this legal work places the tremendous burden on the Mooney Molders' Defence Committee of roising $5,000 for briefing the greot wealth of material in this eighteen-year old case, stenographic typing and other clerical help, office rent, supplies, printing ond hinding of briefs, postage, telegrams, telephone and transportation and traveling expensts for at leost one of the attorneys, all of whom are donoting their services,

Mooney is therefore osking that his friends immediately contribute os much as they can to the Defence Committee, mailing checks to P. O. Box 1475, San Francis

49 GRADE CROSSINGS ARE REMOVED FROM ROAD SYSTEM

The past year and a half has seen fouty-nine railroad grade crossings on the state trunk highway system eliminated or marked for removal this summer, says a highway department bulletin.

In 1933 twenty-one grade crossings were eliminated by construction of overhead or underpass bridges and six by relocating higtways. Work done this year and in this summer's program will accomplish the removal of fourteen additional crossings by means of bridges and of eight by relocations. In addition numerous center piers at existing grade seperations are being removed in the interest of safety.

Cache of Old Gold Coins

A cache of ancient gold coins was found near Visby, Sweden, on the Swedish island of Gotland, in the Baltic sea. Some of the coins date back to 1411, and it is believed that they were buried in the earth around 1470 by Ivar Axelsson Tott, a powerful feudal lord of the island.

STOCKYARDS IN CHICAGO BURNED

400 Buildings Burn Before Dynamite is Used to Check Spread of Flames.

Chicago—The livestock center of the world was paralyzed by a $10,000,000 fire that swept the Union Stockyards and an adjacent area four blocks long by three blocks wide, approximately 80 acres. Scores of firemen and residents of the district were injured as the fire left behind it a smoking ruins comparable to the wartorn battlefields of France. After an army of fire-fighters had conquered the fire with the aid of dynamite a survey of the havoc left behind disclosed:

All the stockpens in the stockyards were burned. The stockyards Exchange building housing irreplacable records was lost. Two banks burned. Two hotels burned, one of them the famous Stockyards Inn. Nearly some 40 business houses were destroyed. An undetermined number of residences burned, leaving approximately 2,000 homeless. Four hundred buildings were either destroyed or badly damaged.

After the fire was out thousands of persons milled through as batallions of workers were hurled into the task of recreating the area devastated by the conflagration. Curious throngs pressed against a mile-square police line as 400 firemen shot streams of water on the smouldering debris and towering skeletons left in the wake of the volcanic blaze. Perspiring firemen moved through the ruins of what a few hours before had been a teeming section of the world's greatest stockyards, blasting scorched walls and extinguishing sporadic bursts of flame.

Architects, carpenters end masons hustled about the business of rebuilding pens, reconstructing runways, rebuilding structures destroyed and damaged in the $10,000,000 holocaust, spurred by the promise of the packing barons that the industry would continue to function at its normal speed. The huge project continued by sun and by spotlight to the accompaniment of the rattle of hammers, the rumble of wheelbarrows, the swish of water—where only the cries of the fire fighters and the screech of sirens were heard. Two hundred and fifty patrolmen held back the crowds and stalked through the stricken district, guarding against the encroachment of looters.

Because it was Saturday, the stockyards held the minimum number of animals, otherwise the loss would have been greater.

South Dakota Farmers May Move.

Washington—More money and food for the drouth stricken, plus removal to better farms of from 3,000 to 4,000 South Dakotans, were integral phases of the relief program that took definite shape here in a series of conferences. Federal relief forces will head for the sun-parched areas of the Dakotas, Minnesotas and Wisconsin to prevent undue sufferings. From 3,000 to 4,000 farm families may be moved in South Dakota from farms which have proved insufficient for a decent living to some of the 4,000 farms now owned by the state.

Bill Would Require Inspection of Autos

Minneapolis—A legislative bill which would require compulsory inspection of automobiles semi-annually will be prepared under supervision of the Automobile Club of Minneapolis and the Minnesota State Automobile association for presentation before the next session of the state legislature, it was reported at a meeting of state and city officials with the automobile groups.

L. Ford, state leader of the hopper campaign, reported here.

AMOUNT OF CASH USED IN LOANS RAISE TO $500

St. Paul, Minn., May 24—Cash to the amount of $500 instead of the $100 that has been the recent limit will be used in closing all Federal Land Bank and Commissioner's loans in future, it was announced by Roy A. Nelson, president of the Federal Land Bank in St. Paul.

The new rule is now in effect, and it is expected that this will speed up the closing of loans in many cases, although with bonds being used for all items except taxes, fees, insurance premiums and portions of loans of less than $100, the Land Bank has again struck its stride of over 1 million dollars a day for each working day of May.

Quotations continue to range upward of 101 for these bonds which are guaranteed unconditionally by the United States and bear 3¼% interest. The bonds have come into active demand in the last 2 or 3 weeks, and have been the principal medium for closing loans since March 25.

NOW IS THE TIME TO START 'SNIFFLE' CARE

Doctors explain unusual spring fever: advise early treatment for late summer victims.

Hay fever victims of spring whose sufferings have been worse than usual this year may lay their troubles to the delayed blossoming of trees and unusual winds according to a bulletin issued by the Minnesota State Medical Aesociation today.

Hay fever from tree pollens is not so frequent or so troublesome as the sensitivity from late summer plants like ragweed. Many who are really having an attact of spring hay fever from tree pollens just think they are having their annual spring cold.

This year, however, cold weather caused a long delay in pollination in many of the trees that normally start to blossom in March and April. Consequently, as the bulletin points out, the winds of a late April and early Many carried from a half a dozen offenders all at once and some people discovered their hay fever for the first time.

"The majority of hay fever suffers owe their trouble to the late summer and autumn plants" the doctors point out. Ragweed which begins to pollinate late in July is the worst of them and, unfortunately, ragweed is to be found all over Minnesota with the exception of the extreme North.

To be of any great use the modern injection treatment for hay fever must begin at least six weeks before the pollination season for the plant tha ara causing the trouble.

Late summer hay fever suffers are consequently urged to report now for tests to find just what is the cause of the trouble. When the pollen offenders are found there is a good chance that the patient may be quite successfully de-sentized to them by a series of injections of the pollen extracts over the next few months.

STATE SHARE OF U. S. ROAD FUNDS ARE ALL OBLIGATED

Federal funds allotted Minnesota for highway construction have practically all been placed under contract or obligated on direct labor projects according to an announcement by N. W. Elsberg, state highway commissioner.

With the letting of contracts on bids to be opened Friday of this week (May 25), more than 95 per cent of all available money will be definitely taken up, Mr. Elsberg said. The remainder is ear-marked for work which for various reasons has not reached the contract stage.

This means, the highway commissioner explained, that by late summer the $10,000,000 road construction program which has been under way in Minnesota since the fall of 1933 will be virtually completed. After this occurs, construction activities will be almost eliminated unless additional federal funds are made available, he stated, becuse nearly all state road money is required to maintain the enlarged trunk system and meet bond charges.

JANITORS CAN SAVE EXPENSE FOR SCHOOLS

Savings ranging from 10 percent to 47 percent in the costs of operation of hundreds of public building thruout Minnesota could be made if better trained janitors and custodians were employed, according to R. R. Price, head of the General Extension Division of the University of Minnesota.

The summer school for janitores, engineers and custodians which for several years was run by the Minneapolis public school system was turned over to the university last year so that it might be operated on a statewide basis. This year it will be repeated, running from June 18 to 23 on the main campus, under the Extension Division's direction.

Chief emphasis will fall on the operation of school buildings, which outnumber public buildings of all other types. Improvement in student health and in the psychological value of their surroundings will be attained by better upkeep, as well [illegible] Dr. Price said.

Estimated savings that may result from having well-trained men are given as follows: Fuel, 17 to 47%; boiler repairs, 17%; electric light, 27.5%; water service, 10%; supplies, 36%; general maintenance expense, 30%. These figures are taken from a ten year summary in the Minneapolis public schools.

Costs of attendance will be low.

NEW PROCESS GIVE ORE HEAPS ADDED VALUE

A new process for roasting Minnesota iron ore may be given value to millions of tons of rejected "tailings" from concentration plants along the Mesabe range will be erected this spring and operated this summer by the Mines Experiment Station of the University of Minnesoto, working in cooperation with a St. Paul concern.

At present vast amounts of ore dug from the open pits have to be washed or jigged to improve the percentage of iron content relative to the waster material. Much iron remains in the tailings after this process has been completed. Other material dug is cast aside because it contains too high a percentage of silica.

E. W. Davis, sperintendent of the Mines Experiment Station, has developed a roasting furnace on a laboratory scale which will now be erected as a unit of roasting 250 tons of ore a day. The roasting will change the ore from hematite, the red oxide of iron, to magnetite, the black oxide. When it becomes magnetite a magnetic speration process can be used to pull the iron out of the silica and make it usable.

The problem confronting the experimenters is that of operating such [illegible] ut a cost low enough to make it commercially useful. That is the thing to be learned by the unit now to go up. If it succeeds it will mean that millions of tons not now usable will have a considerable value as ore.

The experimental plant will be built at Cooley, near Nashwauk.

YEARLY INTEREST SAVINGS MAY BE $240'000 FOR FARMERS

Interest savings on short term term loans may run above $240,000 a year as the result of a slash in interest rates by the Intermediate Credit Bank of St. Paul, which has just been announced. The new rate went into effect on Wednesday, May 16, and is the direct result of the recent favorable reception of Intermediate Credit Bank debentures.

The discount rate of the Intermediate Credit Bank is now cut from 2½% to 2%, which it is estimated will reduce the annual interest on loans made through financing over $200,000 a year, if loans continue to be closed at the rate showed for April. This is the second cut in the last few months, the first having been a reduction from 3% to2½%.

Farmer-members of Production Credit Associations will save an additional $40,000 a year in the states of Michigan, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and North Dakota if the volume of these loans contiues to increase at the rate of $150,000 a week, the rate at which loans were closed last week.

MOONEY ASKS AID IN NEW FIGHT FOR HIS RELEASE

San Francisco—A new fight to release Tom Mooney, based on the fact that he is being held in violation of the "due process of law" clause in the Federal Constitution, is being being opened by Mooney's attorneys.

The petition points out that Mooney was acqutted May 24, 1933, on an indictment which covered the indential material on which he was convicted February 8, 1917, and that the earlier conviction was the direct result of a premeditated and deliberate frameup conspiracy.

The expense of this legal work places the tremendous burden on the Mooney Molders' Defence Committee of raising $5,000 for briefing the great wealth of material in this eighteen-year old case, stenographic typing and other clerical help, office rent, supplies, printing and binding of briefs, postage, telegrams, telephone and transportation and traveling expensts for at least one of the attorneys, all of whom are donating their services,

Mooney is therefore asking that his friends immedintely contribute as much as they can to the Defence Committee, mailing checks to P. O. Box 1475, San Francis

YOUTH ORGANIZATIONS JOIN FORCES AGAINST FASCISM

CHICAGO—A Youth Committee Against Facism has just been formed, composed of representatives of the Young People's Socialist League the Young Circle League, the Young Poale Zion, Pioneer Youth and the Student League for Industrial Democracy.

Local groups will distribute anti-Fascist literature, arrange mass mess meetings and demonstrations, picket stores selling goods made in Fascist countries, fight against the breaking out of Facist movements in this country.

The Youth Committee will be an individual membership body, and dues will be paid at the rate of 15c for six months, to support national work. Two pieces of literature have already been prepared by the central organization, a leaflet "Fight Fascism" and a booklet "The Menace of Fascism.'

Inquiries should be addressed to the Youth Committee Against Fascism, Moxley Bldg., Clinton St. Chicago.

Official Interpretation of the Farmer-Labor Party Platform

Fallawing is the text of an analysis by the State Committee af the Farmer Labar Association, af the party's platform:

In arder to clarify in the minds af the voters the intent and purposes af the farmer-labor platform, the stote committee of the Farmer-Labor Association has prepared this analysis.

* * * *

It has become quite apporent that our capitolistic order, as at present constituted, is failing to funtion in the interest of the great masses of people. In the midst of abundance, we are witnessing hunger and want on a scale never dreamed af in a modern, civilized society. The farmer-labor party proposes certain changes designed to give the masses a greater share of the world's goods, end misery and suffering, and bring about a greater general happiness. The apposition's "remedy" is to continue in force and effect the identical methcds responsible for the present sad plight of the people.

There has been a studied and deliberate attempt on the part of the reactionary forces ta create confusion in the mind of the voter as to the intent of the farmer-labor platfarm and the kind of government Minnesota can expect under farmer-labor administration. They seek to make the voter believe that the state is about to embork on a campaign af public ownership that will take factories away from their owners; throw all insurance companies out of business; put the State into every form of business, and create a soviet state.

The preamble of the farmer-labor platform embodies two distinct programs; one which can be attained by voluntary action and without legislative procedure—a "co-operative organization," the other which may be enacted when the people adopt it by a referendum vote—"public ownership."

Sweden, Norway and Denmark have bcon scarcely affected by the world-wide collapse af the existing order of economics because each has closely approached a co-operative commonwealth. In these nations industries dealing with necessities are owned by the people through co-operative societies. Tranaportation, communication and power utilities are state owned. Capital is held in check by this combination of state and co-operative ownership. It is toward such a system that the farmer labor platform urges that "immediate steps" be taken.

The farmer-labor party is opposed to state ownership and operation af small businesses such as grocery stores, meat hops, department stares millinery establishments, drug stares and similar enterprises. On the contrary, it seeks to protect small business from oestructive competition af drastic chain store tax enacted by monopolistic institutions it has done this through the possage af the most drastic chain store tax enacted by any state in the union. Unless the program of the farmer-labor party is carried aut, the independent merchant will be destroyed by the trusts and monopolies which control the policies of the republican party.

The careful political observer can readily detect that Minnesota is tc provide the test for the new campaign stategy of the republican party The stuff being used is as old as the entrenched force af wealth which arc furnishing the funds to put it over. It has warked in the past, the republican leaders arc willing to stake everything that it will work again. Hence the "red scare" and an intense waving of the flog.

This "red scare" attact against the farmer-labor party is part and parcel af the republican campaign against the Roosevelt administration. A few months ago, republican leaders in Washington began whispering "communism" in their criticism of President Roosevelt. The whispers hove been becoming more audible until today the critism is quite bold and autspoken.

The farmer-labor constitution provides that na person shall be admitted to membership who advoentes any political or economle chonge by means of force of revolution, or who advocates any other that a representative form af government. Thus communists are barred from the farmer-labor party In the eyes of the party communism is merely an inverted capitalism.

But the tie-up of the campsign against the national democratic party and the farmer-labor party was revealed in the keynote address of one of the republican candidates for the United States senate. He said: "There is a growing tendency in both our state and notion to sweep this country on to communism and ta bring about the regimentation of industry and business."

Just why these international capitalists who control the affairs and destinies af the republican party have any claim to the American flag is a moot question. But let Minnesota voters not be deceived. The farmer-labor party does not oppose private awnership of property. On the contrary, it believes that the average man and the average wamen do not possess enough private property. What it is apposed to is a system of wealth distribution under which a comparatively few individuals have obtained possession of greater share of the naticn's wealth and impoverished those who are the real producers af wealth. The abuses of the system are fast making us a race af slaves, destroying the liberties of the individual and removing all appertunity af success from our boys and girls. The young folks today have been most cruelly injured; they are bewildered and discouraged; their individual initiative is gone; their plight is pathetic. This is one af the tragedies of the ages. The rugged individual today is one who finds himself at the head of the breadline instead af at the reaa.

UNCLE SAM PLACES ORDERS ON MARKET FOR RELIEF HOGS

The Federal Surplus Relief Corporation is again on the market for hogs, and its purchasing gaod to ohoice grades daily at South St. Paul states the weekly market bulletin issued by the Cental Cooperative Association af South St. Paul. Government purchases will be made at practically all of the principal markets and will continue, according to contracts with packers, until Monday, June 4.

This is the widest bnying program the government haa attempted eince the pigs and piggy sowe were slaughtered last fall. Purchases are being made at fourteen markete and will absorb appraximately 14,500 hogs daily. The average purehase at South St. Paul an government account thus far has been around 700 head doily. Armour and Swift have gavernment orders for hogs and some arders were placed in the hands of smaller buyers at the start of the program. Orders called far fair to ehaice grades averaging 140 to 190 pounds, and the price late last week ranged largely from $2.75 to $3.30 per cwt.

The big increase ln government buying has been interpreted by some as an attempt to force prices np on hogs. For the past twelve weeks the market haa declined and prices paid farmers today are more than $1.00 per ewt. below a year aga. Top hags at South S. Paul late last week brought $3.40. A year ago the top was $4.60. More orders an the market, whether it be from the government ar from packers, will naturally inject strength inta the trade.

Since January 1, it is estimated that the gavernment has purchased up to 975,000 hogs for relief agencies. Besides this, the Federal Surplus Relief cooperation bonght 40,000 bogs last November. Including the pigs and sows purchased last fall, Uncle Som has bought more than 7,000,000 hogs in the last nine months.

PARROTS MUST HAVE HEALTH OK NOWDAYS

Parrots, parrakeets, "love birds" have been under suspician by the United States Public Health Service ever since the epidemic of psittacosis of 1930 and two years following.

As a result, it is announced that all birds of the parrakeet family must now have a health certificate if they are ta be sold and they must be mare than eight months old befare they can even eross a atate line.

These measures, eited in a bulletin from the Minnesota State Medical Association today, have apparently been successful in atopping the alarming psittacosis disease among humans in the last year.

In the course of its investigation of the disease in the last four years, bowever, the Public Health Service found aut several intereating things which everybody should be aware of, the doctors' bulletin points aut.

One is that birds of the parrot family are not the only ones that are susceptible ot psittacosis. Canaries are highly susceptible, too, and so are large numbers of other bird pets.

Recently, the diseace has been given experimentally to chickens. Young birds of all apecies are more likely to have it than ald ones. Another ie that the disease is very serious, with a high morality and that it can be conveyed to the hnman being in several ways; by ar bite or scratch of the sick bird as well as by mouth or through the respiratory system.

Apparently the measures taken by the United States Public Health Service and by the Department af Health of California where a great many flocks of private bird breeders were found to be sources of infection have greatly cut down the nnmber of human cases. The last report of the United States Service points especially ta the fact that chickens are susceptible, to show tbat psittacosis may well become an economic as well as a public health hazard.

The law is the crystalized sentiments of the majority peaple, he atated, or at least is supposed to be. What is necessary ta be done for the people according to that crystalized sentiment should be the law, he stated, in order that progress may be orderly, according to law, peaceably and with common sense as the guiding spirit."

By the experiences af the past we can judge our conrse in the present and for the future, he stated, and then referring to the Minnesota laws quoted from the opinion of Justice Mitchell of the Minnesota Snpreme Court in 1893 when he beld the famous terminal Elevator law which was placed in the etatute books hy representatives elected by the Farmers' Alliance ta be unconstitutional The law was barn out of the necessaity af that time as seen by the people but the law was held unconstitutianal altha the court agreed that it was the right of the peaple ta have that terminal elevator if they desired it. But in arder ta have it the law must first be made ta conform. Qnoting from Mitchell's opinian, he said, the philasophy af Thamas Jefferson, that the less government we have the better is autmaded and that soma form of callectivism or socialism may be necessary as our populatian hecomes mare and more dense and our society mare ramified and complex. This sacialization is inevitable according Justice Mitchell.

The people are snpreme, Judge Brattland said and the questions that may come up are whether or not we ehall change the canstitution as ia provided for in the instrument itself in order that the people may be allowed to do things for themselves.

"There are changes coming in circumstances and environments with each generation, he etated, and lt ebould be the duty af the law ta aseist rather than to retard tbese needed changes. If the machine is destroying us, it is because we refuse to adjust ourselves to the machine. Experience is the best teacher, he said and if we are possessed of a leadership worthy of the name we will profit from experience and go forward to advance the common good.

Senator R. T. Bnckler of Crookstan, endorsed for Congress hy the ninth district Farmer-Labor association spoke, paying some fine compliments ta Senator Naplin wham he has had the pleasure af warking with in the Senate. He is sorry to see her leave the Senate, he eaid, for she has hung up on enviable record there. He aesured his listeners hawever that in Panl A. Harris, the district will bave a Senator whom tbey can depend upon to represent them witb ability and honor.

The crowd that is howling ahout the Farmer-Labor platform and saying it would take the bomes and farms away from the people are the same peaple that have been taking the homes and farms away from us and left many bomeless even in their ald age and in the shadow af death he said, and the anly hope that the people have is in the Farmer-Labor party. "No one else has anything to offer yan," he stated, "you can't beat the game of working 16 hours a day. You've got to beat it the same way you lost it and tbat is by legislation." He referred to the bees wbo clip the wings of the drones and cast them out of the hive and said that what we must do is to clip the wings of the coupon-holders and cast them out of the hive.

Mrs. Ina M. Bell etated that we seem to forget that onr nation was born of rehellion and are becoming too timid and fear changes. But, something must be done sbe said when we realize that the number af people in need in the United States today equal the population of the United States at the time of the Civil War.

She explained the purpose of the Farmer-Labor Wamen's Federatian and urged the women to farm an affailted unit af tbis organization.

AFTER US THE DELUGE

The Federal Relief Administrator, Mr. Hopkins, has announced that new plans for caring for the unemployed will be inaugurated. The plan is in two parts, the one being called the Rural Rehabilitation plan and will apply to rural communities including cities and villages of less than 5,000 inhabitants.

As we understand it, this plan contemplates moving indigent and unemployed families on farms, where the federal government will furnish them with a cow or two, some chickens and other things and set about letting them become self-sustaining. Some relief work will be given them, and a part of their wages will be paid them, while a part will be retained to reimburse the government for the land, the cows, the chickens, the implements and other things that it may have furnished them.

That the plan has a laudable purpose can not be denied. Any plan that can be devised to take people off the relief lines and out of the ranks of the unemployed is commendable, and this plan is commendable to that extent. But it solves no problems except the immediate relief problem and will in fact aggravate the farmers' difficulties.

The plan will no doubt affect several million people and placing them on farms where they will not only be selfsustaining but will actually to a certain extent be producers of farm commodities to be sold on the market, will not help to solve difficulties which the administration claims to be due at least in part to overproduction. It will mean that the acreage reductions, the plowing under of cotton and making axle grease out of hogs will have to be carried still farther than at present. The consumers that remain will have to be saddled with still higher processing taxes to pay bonuses to more farmers, with more and more of the rural population sinking to the subsistence level of those who have been taken off public charity to become government serfs.

This plan will tend to offset and completely nullify other avowed policies of the administration inasmuch as instead of taking marginal land out of production, it will actually make it necessary to put more of it into production. Insteed of shortening the hours of labor, a policy which the administration declares to favor, it will actually chain more people to the farmers' 16 hour day. It will add to the surplus of farm commodities which we have been assured is causing our troubles; first, by adding to the production and second, by reducing the number of consumers thus curtailing the demand market. It will lower the standard of living of the farm population at the very time when it should be raised.

If it is indeed an overproduction that is causing the trouble, then the policy of acreage reduction is sound and marginal lands should be taken out of production. Certainly long hours of labor is one of the reasons for the glutted labor market and one way to remedy it would be to place more farmers on fewer acres to the end that their hours of labor could be reduced to around 1500 per year which would be equivalent to a thirty hour week.

Since it is admitted that lack of purchasing power is one of the basic reasons for the depression, then a national six hour day in industry at wages insuring a high standard of living must be one of the remedies to be inaugrated along with reduced acreage of farm lands.

At the present time the different divisions of the national government seems to be working at cross purposes and are apparently trying to bring about a revival by playing both ends against the middle; labor and capital against the farmer. Certainly the president's stand against the Frazier Bill has not bolstered the farmer's confidence in his administration.

It seems to us that this plan makes it evident that the administration is considering only the immediate present and is giving no thought to the future. Like King Louis' mistress, President Roosevelt might well be saying "after us the deluge."

We were party to a discussion the other day wherein was entered one person of decidedly radical views and another of more conservative views than our own.

The extremely radical spoke about the progress of Russia and lauded the accomplishments of the Russians. His belief seemed to be that we should Sovietize America. We voiced the opinion that while the Soviet system may be very good, for the Russians, we feel that our Amercan form of government is quite satisfactory to us if we will only adjust ourselves economically to changing conditions brought about by the expansion of the machine age. In this view our conservative friend agreed with us. In fact he grew quite enthused. He lauded our American institutions, he gloried in our free press, speech and assemblage. "We can have anything we want n America," he said, "and we don't have to ask a dictator for permission either."

A little later the conversation swung to lawmaking and legislators in general, and our conservative friend gave vent t his Pearl of Wisdom: "If Congress and the legislature would adjourn for twenty years and let the president and the governor run the country we would all be better off."

And this is what made us scratch our head in amazement. This man had just told us how he honored and cheerished American institutions and yet now he was perfectly willing to discard the most important American institution of all; the foundation upon which all other typically American instutions rest; representative government; democratic control of the machinery by which we guide our destinies as a nation. He was apparently quite willing to scrap our most important American institution and place himself under the power of one individual. Under a dictator.

The deplorable part of the whole situation is that this young man is by no means alone in his views. A great many of our younger voters hold this same perverted, or rather we might say self-contradictory view. This is a direct result of deliberate misrepresentation on the part of a big business subservent press. It is quite in style for the press both daily and weekly, to pan tha legislature and the congress at every opportunity. At the same time this press will grovel at the feet of the president and smirk and apologize for every act of the congressman from its district.

The explanation is not hard to find, for while the president and the congressmen hand out pluma of every description, congresa is an abstract body and can be charged with being "know-nothing, do-nothing and good-for-nothing with perfect impunity,

WHO'S AFRAID OF THE BIG BAD BOOTLEGGER?

The WETS! At least they were shouting "Bootlegger! Bootlegger!" in affright and terror before repeal Since then bootleggers have multiplied, though if these frightened wets would withdraw their patronage every bootlegger would die of starvation! The wets not only patronized them but urged others to do so. Big, full page advertisements appearing in the wet papers blared "Break this law whenever you can. Drink what you please. Urge others to drink. Don't betray the bootlegger. In every possible way flaunt our defince of the Eighteenth Amendment." Again (New Yourk Times reporting a women's wet meeting) "It is your patriotic duty to flout this law whenever possible, purchase liquor on every occasion."

Who's afraid of tahe big bad bootlegger? NOT the DRYS! True the big, bad bootlegger got fat and "sassy" when the wets fed, supported, encouraged, protected, and petted him. But the drys know that he is a skulking, vicious outlaw, and that he would cower and cringe like a craven if faced by a fearless and determined enforcement organization, unhampered by politics.

The wets, through the wet press, taught the bootlegger that everybody but a few fools, cranks and fanatics have to have hootch to be happy. They encouraged him to shoot, to shoot first and to shoot to kill. Yet the drys know that when they are in legislative offices to make the lawa, and in exclusive offices to enforce them, that the bootlegger is a far less troublesome and dangerous prohlem than the bankrobber, the holdup man, or the kidnapper.

When the law enforcement organizations are no longer hindered by politics, graft and internal enemies of one of these murderous enemiea of socity will be subdued and the lurid criminal atrocities that are now daily occurrences will be rare seven-year wonders.

BY

Congressman Ernest Lundeen

Uncle Sam Urged to make a Second Debt Cancellation

A surprising headline appears in a liberal Minnesota daily, across the front page: "U. S. to Grant Hearings onWar Debts of Distressed Powers." Many good citizens, hurriedly glance over headlines—and this headline certainly conveys plenty of misinformation.

In the first place, the debts are not only war debts. They are in part debts incurred by the European powers after the war, being so-called rehabitation loans. This headline tells of European distressed nations. It forgets to tell you that of all the civilized nations of the world today, the greatest distress is to be found in our own United States of America.

Our unemployed exceeds in number the total unemployed of all European nations compined. Ours is the heaviest unemployment that any civilized nation has ever sustained in all recorded histury.

Soft headed sentimentals, impractical idealists floating in the clouds, whose feet are seldom on earth, want to give everything to Europe. They are always engaged in saving the world. They want to do something for the Far East and what not. They are not so much interested in the breadlines of Minneapolis, St. Paul and Duluth, the distressed farmers of Minnesota, and the battle against the working people of the North State. They have very little to say on that question. They are always saving the world. They were willing to spend billions of dollars on foreign battlefields for that purpose; they were willing to rehabilitate Europe after the World War so that these foreign countries would be better able to cut our throats in foreign commerce. They are willing to cancel billions so that foreigners can build greater armies, greater navies, better aircraft to hurl at us in some future war.

These people are so foreign-minded, so unthinking, so un-American, it is hard for the average citizen to understand their condition of mind. Just what literature they read, or what inspiration they have received to fall into these un-American ways, is a question. Certainly they have read little of Washington, of Jefferson, of Jackson, and Lincoln and our line of Presidents who followed the traditintion of America.

These people are forever telling us

By Dr. Crawfard Grays

Someone said, "I cannot afford it."

Have we not all used this expression, while affording many things which it was not necessary for us to have? It is so essy, on the score of want of funds, to refrain from supporting worthy and needy causes.

The main question lies in what ought to be afforded. There are many things we cannot afford simply because we are better off and better without them. On the other hand, there are many delightful things we might legitimately afford, if we were willing to manifest the spirit of self-denial.

The sitnation in reality is, it is not that we cannot afford but we lack understanding of values.

If we do not understand how to use what we have or if we are indifferent as to its value, then, we lose what we have, and have no time and no afford.

The Liberal Digest

Following is the text af an official synopsis of Clarence Darrow'a report from the national recovery review hoard to Presideat Roosevelt, criticizing the national recovery administration:

The national recovery review board crented by your executive order of March 7, 1934, begs leave to report herewith its findings t date.

The duties and functions of this board were described in your order as follows:

1, To ascertain and report to the President whether any codes or codes of fair competition approved under the authority of title I of the national recovery act are designed to promote monoplies or to eliminate or oppress small enterprises or operate to discriminate against them, or will permit monopolies or monopolistic practices, and if it finds in the affirmative to specify in its report wherein such results follow from the adoption and operation of any such code or codes.

2. To recommend to the president such changes in any approved code or codes as, in the opinion of the board will rectify or eliminate such results."

Pursuant to the executive order, the board asembled on March 7, began at once to receive complaints, and conducted its first hearing March 15.

The board now has 304 complaints awaiting hearings. Their complaints concern 104 codes. A total of 113 complaints already have been heard, against 18 codes. Of theae which have been heard, reports are included herein concerning the following:

- Electrical Manufacturing
- Footwear division, rubber manufacturing.
- Motion pictures
- Retail solid fuel
- Steel
- Ice
- Cleaning and dying
- Bituminaus coal.

The hearings on the following codes have been conducted but drafting of the recommendations has not been completed:

- Petroleum
- Lumber and lumber producta
- Wood case lead pencil
- Asbeatos
- Motar vehicle retailling
- Saw and steel products.

At the hearings every opportunity was afforded for the preaenting of every phase of the subject under inquiry, the interests involved were notified through the code anthority. many witnesses were heard, counsel was allowed to present arguments. Only one industry, that of motion pictures, declined ta avail itself of these facilities until after the hearing had been concluded.

The board respectfully begs leave to submit the following synopsis of reports in connection with codes indicated.

The following is a summary af NRA's reply ta the chargea of Darrow prepared hy Donald R. Rishberg, general counsel to NRA.

The general observation and detailed recommendations of the review board, following a haphazard, one-sided investigation, would be incomprehensible without an understanding that the board was simply seeking to justify a preconceived opposition to the fundamental theories and purposes of the national industrial recorvery act. This is plainly revealed in two statements of the board, which are in hopeless conflict with each other.

On page 24 (b) the board proclaima:

"All competition is savage, wolfish and rentless, and can be nothing else. One may as well dream of making war ladylike as of making competition fair."

On page 67 the board proclaims:

"A return to the anti-trust laws for the purpose of restoring competition we believe to be one of the great needs of the times."

Thus the board flatly advocates that a modern, civilized nation should abandon any effort to promote fair business practices and should "return" to a "savage, wolfish" struggle for individual survival.

Contends Report Contradicts Itself

Then the board immediately repudiates its own expressed convictions in the following utterly inconsistent recommendation:

"We beleve the competitive system is compatible with regulation as to hours and wages."

The board does not explain how hours and wages, that is, labor costs can be regulated without thereby regulating competition. The board ignores, or is ignorant of the elementary economic fact that if it were possible to regulate (and presumably to increase labor costs) while maintaining otherwise "savage, wolfish" competition, large enterprises, fiaancially able to lower costs by increasing machine production and to undersell competitors in savage price wars regardless of cost, would drive all "small enterprises" out of business and obtain monopolistic controls of production.

The business records of the last 50 years show clearly what would happen if the nonsensical program recommended by the board could be made effective. The board also fails to suggest how hours and wages can be regulated by valid federal action except through codes of fair competition.

The explanation of the contradictory nature of the board'a conclusions may be found in its selection of a noted socialist who advocates complete government control of business, to write for philosophic anarchists who apparently oppose any government control of anybody, including criminals.

The result is a report which in one page recommends a return to law of the jungle and on the next page recommends that business be subjectd to more detailed government control.

A careful examination of the record of the hearings shows that in order to arrive at its previously-determined verdict, the board took and reported any testimony that would serve its prejudice without regard to the competence or bias of the witness or the palpable falsity of his statements; and declined to avail itself of abundant sources of accurate information which were open to its investigation..

The detailed analysis of the argumentative conclutions and "briefs" filed by the board, which are attached hereto, justify a sweeping condemnation of the methods and mental processes whereby the board arrived at its unsupported and insupportable conclusions.

A few examples of the manner in which the board accumulated misinformation in order to arrive at false findings of fact will be presented.

A POET'S PRAYER

BY LOUIS UNTERMEYER

God, though this life is but a wraith
Although we know not what we use,
Although we grope with little faith,
Give me the heart to fight--and lose.

Ever insurgent let me be,
Make me more daring than devout
From sleek contentment keep me free,
And fill me with a buyant doubt.

Open my eyes to visions girt
With beauty, and with wonder lit—
But let me always see the dirt,
And all that spawn and die in it.

Open my ears to music; let Me thrill with Spring's first flutes and drums---
But never let me dare forget
The bitter ballads of the slums.

From comprimise and things half done
Keep me, with stern and stubborn pride;
And when at last the fight is won,
God, keep me still unsatisfied.

INTERESTING—AND IMPORTANT

(St. Louis County Independent)

During 1933 the farm cooperatives of the country, dealing in all kinds of products, handled a great deal more of the goods the farmer sells and buys than in previous years.

That fact is interesting. It is likewise vitally important.

It shows that the ideal of maximum agricultural organization is really being attained. It's a slow process. It takes a great deal of time and effort. Cooperative monagements have given that time and effort—and for the most part they have been loyally supported by their members, who have brought in friends and neighbors. Education is as much a part of cooperative work as is actual buying and selling—it is every bit as essential to the success of the movement. In fact, it is the step that will bring about a cooperative commonwealth. It was not very far in the distant past when some of the BIG farmers felt they had no need for cooperation; they felt that they could handle the situation without the assistance of some of the smaller fry. That, however, was when the exploiters were busy gathering in the sheaves and let a few crumbs fall by the way side, just sufficient to satisfy the producers and make them believe that they were sitting on the top of the world. That time is now past, and the farmer, whether he be the owner of several sections of land or just a forty acre homestead, is brought to the full realization that organization is necessary if he is to survive.

ST. CLOUD GOING "SOCIALISTIC"

(Mille Laca Times)

The inconsistency of some people who criticize the Farmer-Labor platform because it suggests public ownership of utilities and industries that exploit the people is quite well illustrated by the St. Cloud Times-Journal. The editor of this paper is viewing the Farmer-Labor platform with such alarm that he thinks it necessary for him to become a candidate for governor to save the state from "socialism." Yet in the same paper we find his paper approving the action of their city commercial club in a proposal to establish a publicly owned electric power plant to escape the exactions of the privately owned system that now dominates their city.

Recently an editorial in the Times-Journal declared that if the Farmer-Labor party got into power it might mean that the state would take over and operate their granite industries. Well, from what we hear this would prove a God-send to the people of St. Cloud, for the granite industry there is practically dead now with little prospects of revival. And it was claimed by a speaker before their commercial club, and not disputed, that the high cost of electric power under their privately owned power system was what was killing the granite industry in St. Cloud.

And again St. Cloud has a canning factory that became bankrupt under private ownership. There was no prospect of it ever beiag operated again under the private ownership system of profiteering. But the farmers around St. Cloud, adopting the idea of a "cooperative commonwealth," are organizing to operate the canning factory as a cooperative factory. And strange to say the St. Cloud Times-Journal editor sees nothing dangerous about this, hut on the contrary praises it, and says it means a whole lot in the way of benefitting the farmers and workers, and business in general at St. Cloud.

Now if the editor of the Times-Jonrnal was at all consistent he would fight against any such "socialistic" experiments in his home town, for it is just as socialistic as anything proposed in the Farmer-Labor platform. There is no difference between his city publicity owning its electric power plant than there is in the state of Minnesota owning power plants. There is no essential difference between the farmers of this county forming a "cooperative" to henefit themselves, than there is for the state to form a cooperative for the benefit of all the people.

But of course the editor of the Times-Journal is too intelligent to really believe that there is the slightest element of danger to the people of Minnesota in the Farmer-Labor platform The state government has been largely under the control of this party for four years and people can judge from its accomplishments as to what to expect in the future. The criticism of its platform is due entirely to peanut politics and those who criticize it are branding themselves as peanut politicians when they raise their petty objection.

REMOVE PROFIT AND EVIL

(Ascav American, Ascov, Minn.)

When the various governments establish their own munition factories there will be less war.

Private manufacturers of war munitions are out to peddle their goods, that is natural. Most any man in business is going to keep his factory going and be on the right side of the Ledger at the end of the year if it is possible to do so. Those working in the factory are anixious that it keep going so that they can make a living.

Therefore if we have the crust to run a factory manufacturing implement with which to kill we are out to manufacture more of it.

It is so natural for munition manufacturers to propagandize for war, to keep up that military and patriotic spirit amongst the citizens, so that there may be sale for their products. The propaganda thrills us, it stirs us, makes the blood flow faster, and naturally also makes us hate the Japs, the English, the French, the Russians and any others that the war munitions can be shot into. And all the time we read the propaganda we do not realize who is back of it. If we knew that we would become irate in the realization that we were being take into camp as suckers by the munition manufacturers.

Think of the German munition manufacturers producing the instruments for Frenchmen to kill off Germans and vice versa. Sure, they get paid for their products. But aren't they patriotic when they can manufacture and sell their goods to be used by soldiers of other conntries to kill their countrymen?

Do you think it possible if the government manufactured munitions that they would sell those goods to another country waging war on the citizens from whera came the munitions?

Hardly. If the government did that it would not last over night. But the private munition-manufacturer can get by with it. That's business.

If the government manufactured munitions and then was a lull or depression in wars it could put the employees of the munition factories to work at road building, harbor improvements, Great Lakes deep waterway, public buildings, conservation projects, parks and other useful improvements.

Munitions is much like liquor. Take the profit out of it and nine-tenths of the evil is removed.

BRATTLAND

Judge of the District Court

Appointed by Governor Olson on February 28, 1934

When Judge Julius J. Olson was named as Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, I was appointed by Governor Floyd B. Olson as Judge Olson's successor, and since that time have served in that position. I have filed as a candidate for District Judge at the June primary electi n.

Owing to official work I have little time to devote to the campaign and must therefore depend on such voluntary interest as my friends and supporters will give in my behalf.

During the time I have been permitted to serve as a District Judge it has been my endeavor to do so fairly and impartially, and if privileged to continue fcr a full term, I trust my attitude on the bench shall always be just and fair.

Respectfully,
M. A. BRATTLAND

A PARTY WITHOUT ISSUES.

Reprinted from the Minneapolis Tribune,s "The Public Pulse."

To the Editor:

The Republican party is in opposition again to another issue—this time the farmer-labor platform. Not for 78 long years has the Republican party created a real issue and fought manfully for it. Not since slavery was abolished has it had an ideal—only policies and idols. Since then the Old Guard in the party has been at the controls and every forward looking issue has been balked by them. Too long has the Republican party been run by men ilke Wade, Butler, Stevens, and Penrose, Aldrich, Lodges and by Moses, Smoot and Grundy. How few, indeed, have been their Beveridges, LaFallettes and Norrises! And how lacking in appreciation of thom has this party been! You must unlcase the grip of these ald men wha, "in spite of the eansequences of a thousand errors, cantinue to blunder ond whase aga has only added abstinacy to stupidity."

Old parties need the infusion f new issues (created by them) even more thon old families need new blood. The Republican party must give the people issues they may wrangle over, and chew on, and ao extract the marrow. We are tired of the bromides "sanctity of the American home; the flag, long may it wave the sacred womanhood of America; we view with alarm;" and so on. And sick unto death their) ore we of candidates who "whenever their mouths do open. out flies a platitude or trope."

House of lords can continue to exist in spite of their lack of issues. No party in a democracy can hope to live merely by opposing innovations or defending the status quo.

The republican party is a party whose chief tenet is protection. Not protection for everyone equally, however. Forf one reason, it's apparently impossible, and another, they seem to believe if everyone were protected, there should be no protection—just as, if all were po r, there'd be no poor; and if all were rich there's be no rich. And since all things are comparitive, there is a germ of truth in this, although to me it is sophistry most palpable.

A party, consisting mainly of traders and taking their political economy from Adam Smith and his spiritual descendants—never swerving from the maxim "Buy cheap, sell dear"—should head the fable of the monkeys aad thesea shells, and mayhap, detect the morol. I know there is hope so long as their love of principle is elastie as their love for the constitution ready to subvert both if profits or needs require.

ARTHUR W. HOPKINS.

In war time, zigzagging across takea from two to about the huge Pacific where war time convoys required from three weeks to a month to cross. They forget all around tha little weak nations that surround us in North and South America, and they fail to tell us that a few years ago, the government of the United States under "Economy" Coolidga cancelled $12,097,667,000.00 of these debts. They never tell anybody that!

They are forever writing articles that we should cancel their debts. Thay never tell people that have already cancelled one-half of their debts; and please tell me how much will be left for America after next cancellation is made. The principal and interest of this debt, over a period of years, in round numbera amounts to twenty-five billions, and this debt now rests upon the backs of the American taxpayers. In Congress in 1917, I abjected to these loans, and time has surely vindicted my judgement. All these figures can be had by corresponding with tha Treasury Department of the U. S.

"THAT Miss Dresden was calling again," announced Bob Williams at the Omega Chi fraternity house addressing some of the group gathered around the large fireplace in the main hall just before dinner. "You know she's the old girl that wants our old clothes. Miss Dresden—Elsie Dresden—ouch!"

No one was especially interested, nor especially concerned. The name suggested to them all a rather dried up spinster, of which the college town had plenty. This particular one happened to be interested in an industrial mission. The mission, she said, needed all the old clothes they could get. They sold the garments at a very small price ta the men who applied for help and shelter. Sometimes, she said, all the men needed to get back on their feet again was a decent suit of clothes. It was hard to get old clothes. And it had occurred to her that the men at the fraternity houses would have lots of clothes to discard before they were really at all badly worn.

No one thought enough more about it to get together anything for the industrial mission. Then one afternoon at about five, when Bob Williams was reclining very comfortably before the open fire, Miss Dresden drew up to her flivver and with jaunty self-assurance walked to the front door of the fraternity house and rang the bell. As waa the custom, Bob Williams, being nearest the front door, opened it, and straightway he knew that this Elsie Dresden waa a very welcome number.

She had come for the clothes, she told him. The industrial mission was her pet charity. She and her grandmother, she explained, had not lived in town long and they felt that they were fortunate to have such an interesting cause to work for.

"I'm mighty sorry," Bob Williams told her, "that we haven't anything ready now, but I'm sure we will have tomorrow. Can you call, or shall I or one of the other men bring them around?"

"I'll call," smiled Elsie brightly, and Bob found himself smiling rather eagerly back at her.

After she had gone he explained and likewise assured the brothers, one and all, that it was their duty to produce something or other for the bundle for the industrial mission.

Ronald Price was responsible for the package that followed, but he never would have thought of it if it had not been that Bob Williams insisted that Ronald should donate his old raincoat and his second pair of shoes, not to mention all the neckties he owned but two, and all his winter underclothes to the cause. "You're a senior," Bob told him. "You'll soon be earning money and you can buy some more by the time winter comes around."

So the bundle was assembled. Ronald took upon his shoulders the task of packing it up, and the next afternoon Bob waited to be able ta give it to Miss Dresden when she called. He asked if he could not go with her ta the mission—so he could help carry the bundle—and before he had left her he had dated her up for the next Saturday night house dance.

That night Bob discovered that his spring suit—the only suit he owned beside the one he was wearing and his tuxedo—had disappeared from his closet. Ronald Price said that it seemed only fair. He had sent Ronald's suit.

Bob Williams made no comment, but the next morning early he found his way to the industrial mission. A brisk looking white-haired lady, apparently rather near-sighted in spite of thick-lensed glasses, was at the desk in the reception room. Ranged on hooks and hangers behind her and around the room were various suits, coats, hats, etc.

"Is there something I can do for you, young man?" she said, and right away Bob knew she was Elsie's grandmother. "We have some rather nice things this morning."

This was an opportunity, thought Bob. It would be easier getting his suit back this way than by explaining the prank and making himself out an Indian giver.

"I was looking for a suit, so's I could go to work," said Bob with assumed wistfulness. "The one I'm wearing is borrowed." Bob hated to lie to a lady, but the situation seemed to warrant the falsehood.

With a little maneuvering he picked out his own suit and retired to another room to try it on. The kind old lady insisted that a dollar was quite ample pay for it and threw in a half dozen rather good second-hand ties and some shirts, into the bargain.

Later when Elsie Dresden knew Bob much better she told how she had first begun really to admire him when he gave an almost new suit to the industrial mission. Her grandmother had told her that she let a very poor young man have it—a poor down-and-out fellow who was trying to get a job.

And even after they were engaged Bob did not tell Elsie Dresden the truth of the matter And he is wondering whether it is one of the confessions he ought to make before they are married at the altar.

HARRY L. FOWLER

Candidate for Re-election

County Auditor

To the Voters:

In soliciting your support for re-election to the office of County Auditor, I stand on my record during my first term.

I was elected to my first term on my pledge of an economical administration of the office This pledge I have fulfilled.

Being an experienced Accountant and auditor has enabled me to conduct my office during my first term without the expense of an experienced accountant for deputy. I have used only part time clerk hire and have operated my office at one-third the expense for Clerk Hire that my predecessor required, thereby effecting a saving of about $1,000.00 per year. My revision of the accounting system in the Auditor's office has effected other large savings.

There is no substitute for experience.

If my admlstration of the office during my first term has met with your approval, your vote and support will be appreciated.

MINNESOTA NEWS

Springfield—A Springfield Game Protective league was organized here with V. H. Forster as president.

Austin—Eight hundred high school musicians gathered here for their second annual Big Eight music festival.

Cross Lake—A picnic brought to an end the crow hunt conducted by the Cross Lake Game and Fish Protective Association.

Austin—Pipestone and Austin have been the hottest paces in the state so far this summer. The mercury rose to 100 degrees in both towns.

Fergus Falls—Duane Grover Sprague, 7-year-old son of Mr and Mrs. Sprague, was instantly killed when a cross beam on a swing on which he was playing broke, crushing his skull.

Fergus Falls—A jury comprising four women and eight men, was selected to try the case of August Scramstad, charged with first degree murder, in the death of Miss Clara Olson.

St. Cloud—A life term in prison was imposed on Walter F. Hornstein, 22 years old, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of slaying Patrolman Fred W. Nolan of St. Cloud two weeks ago.

Winona—The department of physical education for women at Winona State Teachers College issued invitations to 130 girls in the neighboring high schools to attend a play-day at the college.

Tyler—The annual Lincoln County Co-operative Association picnic will take pace on the county fair grounds here June 2 with members of the Old Settlers Association of the county invited to attend.

St .Paul—Mayor Mahoney's recount of votes in the city election ended with Mayor-elect Gehan 81 more votes ahead than he was in the official canvas. His plurality now is 525 votes instead of 444.

Virginia—Cutting the phone wire between Orr and Virginia to forestall spread of an alarm, two men held up and robbed Peter Novak, General store at Greeney, 45 miles northwest of here, and fled in an automobile.

Crookston—Sixty-seven candidates started down the home stretch in the primary race for Polk county offices, including legislature. One of the greatest number of entrants within the memory of oldtimers here, filed.

Isanti—The first annual Isanti Fall festival, to be sponsored by the Isanti Boosters club and other local organizations ,will be conducted August 24 and 25. The program will include a parade, a community auction, speaking and athletic events .

Spring Valley—Damage estimated at more than $4.000 was caused by fire which destroyed three buildings here. The fire, which started from an undetermined cause, destroyed the Collins Egg, Poultry & Creamery Co. plant, a cold storage building, and a power company office.

Minneapolis—The truck drivers and their helpers went on strike for higher wages and demoralized the entire city. Groceries, bakeries and every other line were forced to run until supplies gave out and then slow up and in some instances stop completely. The strike spread to St. Paul also. No trucks except ice, milk and garbage trucks were allowed

Duluth—Fifteen Duluth business, educational, welfare and conservation leaders sent a wire to President Roosevelt asking for a federal program providing abandoned CCC camps as summer quarters for high school and college boys. The suggested plan by Dr. W. R. Bagley, Duluth, president of the Minnesota division, Isaak Walton league, met with enthusiasm.

Tower—Commemorating the fiftieth anniversary of the first shipment of iron ore from the Soudan mine, the Vermillion Range Old Settlers Association will hold its annual meeting here July 30, exactly a half century after the initial exportation of the metal from this region. Plans call for the placing of a monument at the scene of the loading of the first ore.

St. Paul—A state-wide campaign to reduce accidents and fatalities was launched by the city and county officials and representatives of civic clubs from throughout the state meeting at the state capitol. Under the plan adopted at the conference, cities and counties will compete in a safety contest with the winners in six divisions, classed according to population, receiving plaques.

Goodland—Officials of subsistence homesteads division in Washington said it would be impossible to secure funds for the co-operative project of Ethan Allen near here. The original allotment of $15,000,000 to the division all has been assigned and there is no immediate prospect of a further grant. While Allen's $60,000 projects is looked upon favorably, it will be shelved until an additional appropriation is made.

Minneapolis—An appropriation of $32,000 for 1934 police equipment purchases, including eight machine guns, additional bullet-proof vests and gas bombs, was recommended at a joint session of the city council's committees on fire and police.

St. Paul—Ten cheese factories will be kept busy three months filling a government order given Land O' Lakes Creameries, a report from Washington states. The order is for 650,000 pounds of cheese to be used by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation for relief distribution. The cheese is to be delivered during May, June and July.

Warroad—The United States Supreme Court has ruled against the landowners along the southern shore of Lake of the Woods—ending a battle between the power interests and the landowners that has been waged for nearly half a century. The court decreed that the land bordering on the lake, up to 1,054 feet above sea level, often flooded by water when the power dams at Kenora, Canada, are closed, may be valued only as agricultural property and not as reservoir property.

Minneapolis—The state executive council approved the purchase by the state conservation commission of 18,685 acres of land in the areas of eight state forests officially authorized by the 1933 legislature. The acquisition will cost approximately $20,000 and will be acquired in the White Earth forest in Mahnomen, Clearwater and Becker counties, Beltrami Island forest in Lake of the Woods and Roseau counties, Third River forest in Itasca county; Finland forest in Lake county; George Washington forest in Itasca and St. Louis counties; Savannah forest in Aitkin county, Grand Portage forest in Cook county and Cloquet Valley forest in St. Louis county.

Onamia—The rain aided a corps of 100 men in gaining control of brush and forest fires which for a time threatened the village of Onamia, near Milaca. About 30 or 40 fires which were burning in scattered sections of Mille Lacs, Kanabec and Morrison counties were put under control. The largest fire, near Page, south of Onamia in Mille Lacs county, spread over a 15,000 acre tract, destroying brush and second growth timber in a swamp land. Considerable hay and some winter grain crops were burned.

Minneapolis—In a surprise move the federal government arraigned Mrs. Beth Green, wife of slain Eugene Green, Dillinger gangster, on charges of conspiracy to harbor John Dillinger in a apartment at St. Paul.

Potash in Ashes

There is a general belief that ashes from hard woods, as a class, are richer in potash than those from soft woods, but the results of experiments by the division of chemistry do not show that, weight for weight, the ashes of soft wood are much, if any, poorer than those from hardwoods.

Dog Makes Life Happier

When a boy does not thrill at owning a pup, or a grown man ceases to feel a little happier as a cold nose pokes his hand, when the devotion and affection of a well-trained dog grows cold, then will the world be different, and not quite such a pleasant place to live in.

Early Fad for Antiques

In the first centuries before and after the Christian era a craze for antiques filled the royal court of China, and immediately, according to history, there was an active manufacture of forgeries.

Snakes Praised as Rat Catchers

One fox or pine snake is worth a dozen traps for capturing mice and rats, according to the president of the University of Michigan, for this snake seeks these undesirable rodents in their nests and eats the entire brood at once.

Dance of the Food Fads

by

"The Man Who Remembers"

WHILE it lasted the Dance of the Food Fads had more followers than the Tango or the Charleston. First you strangled your natural appetite. Then you selected your food by adding up the calories from a list that looked like the closing prices on the stock market page.

Diet cranks undertook to re-fashion the body lines of the Nation. Thin women grew thinner—fat women fatter. The number of undernourished children increased.

Like Tom Thumb golf, the Food Fads faded out. Calories, vitamins, proteins, violet rays and the whole tribe of diet mischief makers sneaked home to the long haired professors who had turned them loose.

The return to sane thinking and sane eating is under way. Folks are going back to old fashioned food that is good for them. They are eating more wholesome white bread. Bread is Nature's most appetizing and nourishing food. The Dance of the Food Fads is over.

Potash in Ashes

There is a general belief that ashes from hard woods, as a class, are richer in potash than those from soft woods, but the results of experiments by the division of chemistry do not show that, weight for weight, the ashes of soft wood are much, if any, poorer than those from hardwoods.

Dog Makes Life Happier

When a boy does not thrill at owning a pup, or a grown man ceases to feel a little happier as a cold nose pokes his hand, when the devotion and affection of a well-trained dog grows cold, then will the world be different, and not quite such a pleasant place to live in.

Early Fad for Antiques

In the first centuries before and after the Christian era a craze for antiques filled the royal court of China, and immediately, according to history, there was an active manufacture of forgeries.

Snakes Praised as Rat Catchers

One fox or pine snake is worth a dozen traps for capturing mice and rats, according to the president of the University of Michigan, for this snake seeks these undesirable rodents in their nests and eats the entire brood at once.

Dance of the Food Fads

by

"The Man Who Remembers"

WHILE it lasted the Dance of the Food Fads had more followers than the Tango or the Charleston. First you strangled your natural appetite. Then you selected your food by adding up the calories from a list that looked like the closing prices on the stock market page.

Diet cranks undertook to re-fashion the body lines of the Nation. Thin women grew thinner — fat women fatter. The number of undernourished children increased.

Like Tom Thumb golf, the Food Fads faded out. Calories, vitamins, proteins, violet rays and the whole tribe of diet mischief makers sneaked home to the long haired professors who had turned them loose.

The return to sane thinking and sane eating is under way. Folks are going back to old fashioned food that is good for them. They are eating more wholesome white bread. Bread is Nature's most appetizing and nourishing food. The Dance of the Food Fads is over.

Fire Destroys 70 Tons Hay Southeast of Mavie Tuesday

Fire destroyed about seventy tons of hay, the hulk of which belonged to Anderson Brothers southeast of Mavie Tuesday night. An investigation to determine the responsibility for the fire hrought out the fact that a fire had been set to burn the weeds out of the ditches a short distance away and also that another fire had been set to clean up rubbish remaining from baling operations at another location in the neighborhood. Both parties who had set these fires asserted that they believed that their fires had burned themselves out or been extinguished before they were left. A switching wind had evidently fanned one of them into blaze again with the result that they travelled across the meadow and ignited the hay stacks. Inasmuch as the two fires had burned together and joined it was impossible to determine who was responsible for the fire that did the damage, according to authorities.

Vocal selections will be rendered by the Oak Park Sunday school chorus and there will be vocal solos by Miss Eleanor Harris.

It will not be necessary to bring a picnic dinner as the Ladies aids und Luther Leagues of Rev. O. O. Bjorgan's call will have stands on the grounds and ample refreshments will be available at their bootbs

The Kolestrand farm is located a half mile east of the new cooperative creamery, five miles southwest of Highlanding. The program starts at one o'clock sharp.

Sample Ballots are Published Today

The sample primary election ballot is found in this issue of the Forum. It will be seen that all parties are now on the same ballot and the voter will not have to call for his party ballot. This change was made by the last regular session of the legislature to overcome some of the abuses which have been prevalent in some parts of of the state, especially on the iron range, where in many instances it meant a man's job to go to the primary election and call for a Farmer-Labor ballot.

The consolidated ballot as the new ballot is called was one of the planks in the Farmer-Labor platform two years ago and became a law thru the efforts of the Farmer-Labor group in the legislature.

Voters must remember that they can only vote in one column; that is, they must confine themselves to the candidates of one party, or their ballot will be cast out. It is perfectly proper for judges of election to explain the law to the voters as they hand out the ballot.

The county ballot will be a lenghty affair this year. Fifty names will appear in all precints except the third and fourth wards in the city of Thief River Falls, these precint ballots will contain 53 names inasmuch as there is a primary fight there for county commissioner of the fourth district.

POLITICAL RALLY TO BE STAGED AT VALHALL SUNDAY

Program of Music, Comedy, Speeches by Candidates; Starts at 1 p. m.

All arrangements have been completed for a big political rally at Valhall on Sunday, Paul Engelstad announced yesterday. The day has been set aside as one on which all the candidates who wish to meet the people of the community to be on hand and they will be rewarded with a large and attentive audience come with the express purpose of hearing the candidates present their cases.

The program will start at one o'clock with a musical entertainment and a one act farce comedy presented by the Plummer high school under the direction of the Plummer principal of schools, Leo J. Lauer. Following the program the time will be alloted and divided to those candidates who wish to speak on the basis of equal "opportunities for all and special privileges for none", Paul says.

Extra musical numbers are being held in reserve, we are told so that if the time should drag a little here and there these extra numbers will be presented to alleviate the monotony. Such numbers may be interjected after some speeches that may be particularly hot and inclined to get "under the hide" in order to sort of give the atmosphere time to cool slightly before the next speaker akes the rostrom," paul saya.

All in all, it should be a good meeting and all the people are invited to attend to hear the candidates and all the candidates should of course be preseat as this is their opportunity to meet all the people

Refreshments will be served, opportunity will be given for everybody to meet everybody else and no politics are barred, in fact all parties and all candidates are particularly invited, Paul Engelstad states and the battle will be conducted under approved Robert's Rules of Order, no hitting in the clinches and no hair-pulling allowed.

U. S. LAUNCHES RELIEF PROGRAM

Fund Will Be Used To Provide Work To Keep Families in Food.

Washington—A $50,000,000 drouth relief program which has as its goal the maintenance of farmers on their land was set in motion by Harry L. Hopkins, federal relief administrator, after he recevd reports of drouth conditions in Minnesota and seven other states.

Following telephone conversations with Washington, Mr. Hopkins, who was in Kansas City for the national conference on social work, said that the people shall not be driven from their homes.

Mr. Hopkins announced that a works program for farmers will be followed in order to supply cash for the families with which to buy food while they are attempting to raise a crop and save their livestock.

"We propose to handle the problem of drouth thoroughly and for the benefit of the stricken people, regardless of what the cost may be," Mr. Hopkins said.

Four successive crop failures in North Dakota have placed 50,000 families in that state on relief rolls. Miss Pearl Sollsberry, director of field work for the federal emergency relief administration, told the National Conference of Social Work in Kansas City. In some counties the relief funds expended for cattle sions amount to $40,000 a month, and from $10,000 to $12,000 for human needs, but the FERA is aiding in keeping up the morale of those people, she reported.

Dillinger's Girl Friend Gets 2 Years

St. Paul—Marion Evelyn Frechette, halfbreed Indian sweetheart of John Dillinger, and Dr. Clayton E. May, Minneapolis physician, were found guilty by a federal court jury of harboring the Indiana fugitive. Mrs. Augusta Salt, Minneapolis nurse, in whose apartment Dillinger was treated for a leg wound, was found not guilty. Miss Frechette, who had expressed hopes of marrying the outlaw, lost her iron nerve as Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye called her and Dr. May before him and sentenced them to two years in prison and $1,000 fine for each.

Canadian Woman Has Five Babies

Corbell, Ont.—Five baby girls, the largest weighing three pounds and four ounces and the smallest a pound less, were born to Mrs. Olivn Dionne, 24, in her farm home two miles from here. Visitors found the 24-year-old mother and the babies in good condition and the father, 31, busy at his chores. There are five other children in the family, the oldest, Ernest, being seven. Only 30 such cases have been recorded in 500 years and in none of them all of the children lived over an hour.

Minneapolis Truck Strike is Settled

Minneapolis—Truck, delivery car and taxicab service was resumed in Minneapolis, employers and striking truck drivers having agreed on peace terms. The drivers at a mass meeting voted to accept an agreement to end the strike and the signatures of their strike committee were affixed to the agreement, which was filed with the regional labor board. Two men died as a result of fights between strikers and police.

Governor Langer's Trial is Started.

Bismarck, N. D.—With all defense attempts to quash charges or delay the trial unavailing, selection of a jury to hear evidence in the case against Governor William Langer and seven codefendents began in federal court here. The eight are charged in two indictments with conspiracy to solicit federal workers for political funds and conspiracy to obstruct operation of an act of congress.

Capture Dillinger and Get $5,000.

Springfield, Ill.—Governors of five states officially posted a reward of $5,000 for the capture of John Dillinger. A proclamation, signed by the governors of and bearing the official seals of Illinois, Indiana, Ohio, Minnesota and Michigan, offered the reward to anyone who delivered John Dillinger to any sheriff or sheriff's representative in the five states.

42 COUMTIES HAVE 100 PER CENT ROAD SAFETY RECORDS

Fourteen cities and forty-two counties have chalked up a perfect record with no automobile fatalities for the first four months of this year, according to figures recorded by the State Division of Vital Statistics announced by C. H. Zealand, Assistant Director of Safety of the Emergency Relief Administration.

A campaign is being launched among the cities and counties which are grouped according to population with a contest in each division to determine the cities and counties with the best records. In class B, consisting of the three cities of the first class, Duluth has a lead for the first four months with a fatality rate of only 1.95 per hundred thousand population as a result of two deaths. Minneapolis is second with a rating of 7.17 with thirty-four deaths, while St. Paul is third with 9.5 with twenty-five deaths.

South St. Paul with no deaths is the only city in group C with a perfect rating. St Cloud is second with a rating of 4.76 with one death. Fairbault, third, 7.83, with one death. Virginia fourth, 8.36, with one death.

Other standings in this same group are Winona 19.18 with four deaths; Rochester 24.25, with five deaths; Hibbing, 25.53, with five deaths; Mankato, 28.49, with four deaths; Austin, 32.58, with four deaths.

In group D for cities with a population from 5,000 to 10,000 there are thirteen cities with a perfect rating of no fatalities so far this year. They include Red Wing, Chisholm, Eveleth, Ely, Fairmont, Hastings and International Falls.

Next in order come Bemidji with a rating of 13.88 with one death; Crookston, 15.82, with one death; Cloquet, 29.49, with two deaths; and New Ulm, 54.73, with four deaths.

EGG GRADING PROGRAM WILL INCREASE STATE INCOME

The last farm census shows that we had 11,605,634 hens in Minnesota and that the average production per hen was 185 eggs as at May 1st, 1933, or a production of 2,147,042,290 eggs—less 5% for hatching, or 107,352,114 eggs, less 21% consumption on farms amounting to 428,384,936 eggs. These two figures deducted from the total production leaves 1,611,355,239 eggs sold, or 134,279,603 dozen.

The purchase of eggs on a grade cannot help but increase the volume of Number One eggs on account of the greater care exercised by the producer in view of the fact that there is an incentive for the marketing of better eggs. It is estimated that this method will increase the percentage of Number One eggs approximately 20% and the additional value of this 20% should be approximately 4c per dozen, which results in additional income to the Minnesota egg producer to the extent of $1,074,232.

C. W. Knauf of Alexandria, secretary of the Minnesota Egg, Butter & Poultry Association stated today in an interview, that regardless of this progressive movement, there is an effort on foot in this state to discourage the marketing of eggs on a graded basis and steps were being taken to embarrass the Minnesota Department of Agriculture in it's work of bettering the conditions of the Minnesota egg producers.

Mr. Knauf further stated that states adjoining Minnesota are watching with interest the program that is being carried out in this state and the merit of it is so obvious that it is to be hoped that all egg producers in the state will not only encourage the Department of Agriculture in this worthy program, but insist upon selling their eggs no other way.

Cooperatives and Corporations

By Joseph Gilbert, Editor, Midland Cooperator

Recently Senator Rockne in a broadcast over the radio in which he was attacking the platform of the Farmer-Labor party asked this question:

"Will someone explain the difference between bona-fide corporative enterprises and a corporation with one hundred stockholders?"

If the senator who is regarded as a leader in Republican ranks does not know the answer to his own question, then he is unfit to be a state senator by reason of ignorance regarding things he should know, for surely he should know we have special laws relating to bona-fide cooperatioves in constradistinction to laws relating to corporations. If he does know the difference between cooperatives and corporations then his question could only have been asked for sinister reasons in which event he may be regarded as a knave, motiveted be malice with a purpose to mislead people.

The senator may take either horn of the dilemma he chooses, we care not which. But for the benefit of fair-minded people who may not know exactly the difference between bona-fide cooperative and corporations we shall answer the senators question by drawing a comparison between the cooperative and the corporation as follows:

THE COOPERATIVE	THE CORPORATION
NATURE	NATURE
Organized people.	Organized capital.
PURPOSE	PURPOSE
To serve its members at cost.	To serve the public for profit.
METHODS	METHODS
1. Each member has one vote and only one vote. Democracy—the people rule it.	1. Each share of stock has one vote. Plutocracy—money, in the control of the few, rules.
1. Capital is paid a minimum rate of interest. Money is the servant of the people.	2. Capital receives all the profits. Money is the moster.
3. Surplus savings are distributed to the members in proportion to their patronage. The people receive the benefits.	3. Profits are distributed among the stockholders in proportion to their holdings. Money receives the benefits.
RESULTS	RESULTS
Wealth is equitably distributed among the many.	Wealth is centered in the possession of a few.

Cooperators ask no special favors from any political party or from any government. All they ask is to be accorded fair dealing by governments. They expect the same kind of treatment at the hands of those in public office and those who aspire to public office. That is our reason for being so severe with Senator Rockne.

SOCIALISTS PREPARE LESSON IN CIVIL RIGHTS FOR DEPUTY

Teyorville, Ill.—Deputy Sheriff J. Betterton of Christian county, Ill., is scheduled for several required courses in constitutional law in the near future, according to attorenys engaged by the Socialist party.

Betterton, who arrested Norman Thomas and Douglas Anderson and set loose tear gas bombs on a group of people who attended a Socialist campaign meeting here, will shortly find himself defendant in the following actions:

A federal charge of false arrest, brought by Norman Thomas under the "diversity of citizenship" clause in the United States Constitution; a local charge of false arrest, brought by Douglass Anderson; a charge of criminal assault, brought by local residents who were attacked while attending the meeting; an injunction to restrain authorities of Christian county from interfering with Socialist party meetings.

In addition, an attempt will be made to have the attorney general proceed against the deputy sheriff and Mayor J. W. Spresser of Taylorville, charging conspiracy to prevent citizens of Illinois from exercising their right of free assemblage.

Incidentally, Norman Thomas denies published reports that he said to Betterton, "I'm going to do my best to make you and your cross eyes famous."

"I didn't even know that he was cross-eyed," says Thomas, "and I surely would'nt have said such a thing if I had known it."

Wires Save Ocean Voyages

With the development of trans-Atlantic telephoning and cabling, business executives no longer find it so necessary to make fast trips across the Atlantic, it is found, and some British ship companies believe it will be more profitable to build 21-knot cabin ships rather than the superliners featured in recent years.

CHRIST L. RUDE PASSES ON; RESIDENT OF VIKING

TERRIFIC NORTHWEST DROUTH TO RECEIVE FEDERAL RELIEF.

Governors of States, Administrators of Federal Department, Members of Congress and many others attended an important Drouth Relief Conference in Washington, presided over by Col. Westbrooke of the Federal Emergency Relief Administration.

Congressman Ernest Lundeen of Minnesota attended and brought sharply to the attention of the assemblage the pressing need for relief in Minnesota, enumerating twenty counties which especially need relief, and other counties being on the borderline of relief and in need of at least partial relief.

During the conference, the First Lady of America, Mrs. Roosevelt, came into the conference which instantly rose to its feet to receive her, and she graciously remained and listened intently throughout the conference, exhibiting great sympathy and concern over the situation.

It is refreshing and splendid to find the President's wife so wide awake and sympathetic to the needs of our own great Northwest. The President will have a first-hand report of the facts and figures presented, and this insures certain and we hope adequate measures to aid our people.

During this emergency, Congressman Lundeen wishes the farmers of Minnesota to know that his office is open day and night, wires, telephone messages or any other communications or delegates sent here, and wish to assure the people of Minnesota that he is doing his utmost to bring federal drouth funds into Minnesota.

WEEKLY WASHINGTON LETTER

BY

Congressman Ernest Lundeen

In all probability, by next Wednesday, a motion will be made in the U. S.Senate to discharge the Finence Committee from further consideration of the soldiers' Adjusted Service Certificates Bill. This will bring on the same bitter, fierce struggle recently ended in the House when Lundeen motion to discharge the powerful Ways and Means Committee carried the House of Representatives by a vote of 313 to 104. The bill then carried the House by a vote of 295 to 125, more than enough to pass the bill over the Presidents veto in the House.

It is expected that the Senate will pass the bill. The vote may be close although it is predicted by soldier organizations that there may be a landslide vote, just as happened in the House. Many new adherents of the soldiers' Compensation Bill are being announced among veterans' organizations, and their hopes are running high for the final passage of the bill. If the bill passes the senate, there will be an intense drive to arouse public sentiment to bring that sentiment to bear upon the President of the United States, requesting Roosevelt to sign the measure.

Should the bill fail to receive the vetoed, the battle will be fought all over again in both the House and the Senate to pass the bill over the Presidents veto, just as happened in the Independent Offices Bill recently, when is passed by a surprisingly large vote over the veto of the Chief Executive.

'U' COMMENCEMENT TO BE HELD JUNE 18

Once more defying the weather, the University of Minesota will conduct its 63rd annual commencement out of doors in Memorial Stadium, Monday evening, June 18. Although early June is perhaps the rainest part of the Minnesota year, never yet has had weather spoiled a Minnesota graduation during the six or seven years that they have been held outside. Wiseacres predict that in this year of contrasts the traditions will fail and rain fall, despite the drouth, but they have nothing scientific by which to go.

The University was opened in the fall of 1869 and in 1872 held its first commencement, at which a few students who had entered with advanced standing were graduated. A year later, in 1873, the first class to complete a regular four-years course was graduated.

Approximately 1200 students receive degress from Minnesota in June while those who graduate at the end of the fall and winter quarters, or at the first summer session, brings the totalss to about 2,000.

President L. D. Coffman will deliver the commencement address. The baccalaureate sermon, Sunday morning, June 17, will be delivered by the Rev. Dr. J. V. N. Moldenhauer, pastor of the First Presbetyrian church, New York City.

DIVERSION OF ROAD FUNDS MAY MEAN FEDERAL AID LOSS

Reports from Washington indicate a growing sentiment in Congress to eliminate Federal highway aid to those states which divert their own highway revenues to other purposes says a Highway department bulletin.

Thus for Minnesota has not diverted trunk highway funds to other uses, the expenditures of this money being governed by the state constitution. However, highway department revenues from motor vehicle license fees have been reduced 42 per cent and the milage of the trunk system has been increased 65 per cent

JUNE IS WOOD TICK MONTH DOCTORS SAY

Wood ticks are among the more serious matters that June vacationists are advised to think about by physicians of the Minnesota State Medical Association today.

A daily hunt for ticks is especially recommended by the physicians because, in the last few years, ticks have been discovered to be capable of carrying a serious disease of animals to man.

The disease, called tularomia, appears to be unusually provalent just now in the belief of researchers at the University of Minnesota who are making exhaustive studies of it.

"It seems likely that tularomia is approaching the high point of its cycle among the animals right now," the bulletin says. "There is a very real danger that it may be carried by ticks who have bitten sick animals and then fastened themselves on to humans."

June is the month when wood ticks are particularly prevalent. They are likely to drop from the woods and bushes anywhere in vacation land and everybody who spends time out of doors is cautioned to hunt ticks daily and remove them before they have a chance to burrow under the skin.

Among the animals most subject to the disease are rabbits, squirrels and foxes. Hunters who handle them are also in danger of contracting the disease through a break in the skin of the hands or even, in some cases, through the apparently unbroken skin Anyone who handles the carcasses of these animals should be careful to wear gloves to protect them from tularomia.

STATE'S SHARE OF U. S. ROAD FUNDS MAY BE REDUCED REPORTED

If recent Washington reports prove true, Minnesota may receive only a fraction of the Federal highway funds which were anticipated for the latter part of 1934 and early 1935.

Early reports were that Congress would appropriate $400,000,000 for road work but in the past few days Washington dispatches have said this figure may be reduced to around $100,000,000. If this is done, Minnesota probably will get about $2,500,000 instead of $10,000,000.

Although the 1933-34 emergency appropriation of $40,000,000 for highways amounted to only 12 percent of the total PWA appropriation, the road funds in March were providing 47 per cent of the employment created by total PWA funds. This statement is contained in a report of the American Road Builders Association.

INJUNTION AGAINST PARTY IN TOLEDO LABOR FIGHT; STUART

TOLEDO—Common Pleas Judge Roy Stuart Tuesday afternoon granted a temporary injunction restraining picketing of the Bingham Stamping and Auto-Lite plants by the Lucas County Unemployed League and the Socialist party. A mass demonstration for relief was staged by a committee of the two organizations, in which the Central Labor Union joined. Employed trade-unionists gathered together to demand decent measures for the protcetion of the jobless.

Britain's Poisonous Snake

The adder, or viper, which is characterized by a V-shaped mark upon its head, is the only poisonous snake native to Great Britain. This snake is not likely to attack a human being unless molested and its bites are seldom fatal.

Official Interpretation of the Farmer-Labor Party Platform

The platform that the Farmer-Labor party presents falls under three categories—the state legislative program, amendment to the constitution to be submitted to the people for decision, recommendations to the national government for consideration as matters of national poilcy. In addition, the party is committed to a policy of municipal ownership of public utilities, the beneficial results of which have been proven by scores of municipalities which have adopted it.

The reactionary press and reactionary politicians appear quite exercised because the farmer-labor party proposes to submit certain questions to the people for decision. Why should they should object to such procedure? Are they afraid to trust the people? That is the cause.

Under our American democracy market figures and upon long terms of payment. This project is the most inspiring example of the duty and service by government to its people that is taking place on the American continent today.

Recommendation to the Federal Government

"Passage of the Frazier bill and the Swalk-Thamas Bill, or legislation of a similar nature."

The Frazier bill proposes to use the federal land banks as machinery whereby mortgages on farms may be transferred to these banks, which will assume them at an interest rate of 1½ per cent and an additional 1½ per cent to be paid each year on principal. This will amortize the loan and make it possible to pay off the mortgage in a little more than 30 years. This can be accomplished by the issuance of currency. The farmer will again become a freeholder instead of a tenant and a slave to the bond and mortgage holder. The Swank-Thomas bill is designed to give the farmer a fixed minimum price for his farm products based upon the cost of production. Prosperity to the farmer (and this means prosperity to the Nation) cannot be re stored until the price of farm produducts is based upon production cost.

"Construction of the St. Lawrence-Great Lakes waterway."

An outlet to the sea is essential to the industrial life of the northwest. To date local selfish interests and the influence of the power trust have effectively prevented progress towards bringing about this vital improvement.

"Federal government ownership and operation of transpartation and communication systems, packing plants, iron mines and factories which are part of any key industry."

Public ownership of railroads has proven successful in Canada and in Europe. There is no more reason why telephone and telegraph systems should be in private hands than there is for the mails being in private hands. The people of this country have paid untold millions in exorbitant rates based on watered stock. The federal government should take over the packing plants and operate them in the interest of the farmer and the consuming public. During the time when the farmers were going bankrupt because of the ruinous prices of farm products the packing plants were making tremendous profits. As regards public ownership of the iron mines, the state now owns approximately 10 per cent of the mines under the trust fund. Iron ore, being vital to the life of the nation, the ownership and operation of the Minnesota mines not owned by the state, which produce the great bulk of the supply for this country, should be taken over by the federal government.

The farmer-labor party does not believe that any state can operate a socalled key industry because the the activities of a key industry are always interstate in charactor. It therefore does not propose that factories shall be owned and operated by the state, but that they shall be taken over by the federal government. While the national industrial recovery act does not now authorize the President to acquire ownership of factories in the name of the federal government, it does empower him to take them under the direct jurisdiction of the government and operate them.

"Repeal of the natianal econamy act."

We cannot restore prosperity by lowering wages and reducing the standard of living. Purchasing power must be increased rather than decreased.

"Immediate payment of the soldiers' bonus by treasury notes."

The least the country can do for its veterans is to pay in full and at once this moral obligation. Profiteers were permitted to enjoy their ill gotten gains, but the man who shed his blood for his country has been neglected "in the interest of economy."

"No tax exempt securities should be issued."

It is through tax exempt securities that those of great wealth in this country escape their legitimate share of taxation. This subterfuge of the rich to escape paying their proper share of taxes is not only unjust, but places the tax burden in those who cannot afford to carry it.

"Natianalization of banking, with government manapoly of money and credit."

The large chain banks have worked a hardship on the small business man. Government control of money and credit will assure the average business man fair treatment At. the present time, he is being discriminated against and is at the mercy of greedy and selfish interests. The federal government is fast approaching nationalization through the operations of the RFC and the guaranty of bank deposits.

Continued Next Week

Drouth Forces Influx of Emacited Cattle To So. Saint Paul Market

Declines in the cattle market during the past week can be attributed largely to the continued drouth, and the accompanying influx of dry-weather cattle, states the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Co-Operative Association of South St. Paul. Thousands of thin, emaciated cattle are arriving by truck and by rail from virtually all points in the five northwest states. This condition reflects feed shortage and parched pastures.

As a consequence, markets are suffering from excessive supplies of low conditioned meat animals. Owners who come to market state that they are forced to ship because their feed bins are empty and their pastures bare. Many of the "shelly" critters on the market are sold "subject" because of extreme emaciation. Some are condemned and are consigned to the tanks for fertilizer.

In drouth areas where the feed situation is so acute that cattle cannot be carried longer on farms, the government will purchase surplus cattle. Details of the cattle buying program have not yet been determined, but tentative plans call for purchase of cattle on farms. The cattle according to news releases from Washington, are to be disposed of either through local relief channels, through shipment for processing and distribution by the Federal Emergency Relief Administration, or through condemnation and disposal on the farm in cases where cattle are unfit for food usage.

SOUTH CAROLINA SOCIALIST LEADER, KENNISON, FREED

CHARLESTON, S. C.—Stephen V. Kennison, whom Charleston police has harassed for months on one charge or another connected with his Socialist activities, has again been released from the local jail. Only commercial advertising, and not political handbills, are covered by the municipal ordinance against passing out handbills without a license the police judge ruled in freeing Kennison.

DIFFERENT PATHS LEAD TO SUCCESS FOR GRADUATES

All over Minnesota in June young men will be graduated from local high schools. Some will find employment at once; others will be asking, "Where shall I attend school next year?"

Those who expect to enter the professions will, of course, enroll in some college. Those who plan to follow farming will remain on the home acres and use the skill and knowledge they have gained from the agricultaral departments of rural high schools.

A great opportunity is open to high school graduates having real mechanical interest and ability. They need to top off their high school experience with training such as Dunwoody Institute at Minneapolis, offers.

There never was a time in the history of the country when competent mechanics were as much needed as they are today, nor a time when there were so few of them available for the future. The last U. S. census shows that the average age of a skilled mechanic in this country . over forty-five. They can no longer be produced in industry since the death of apprenticeship and the increase in the number of diversified occupations and specialized jobs.

The mechanic of the future will be trained in the fundamentals of skill and knowledge for the trade he wishes to follow by the school where he will spend at least two years. There he will come to understand the mechanical principles involved in his line of work, acquire standards of workmanship and the ability to think with mechanical knowledge in the solution of the problems in the occupation. Young men so equipped, willing to go in at the bottom of the ladder and work their way up have a secure future before them.

Agriculture College Heads Propose Drouth Relief Plan

Agricultural college heads of Minnesota, the Dakotas and Wisconsin, meeting in Minneapolis recently, called upon the federal administration to adopt the following relief program for farmers in drouth-stricken areas of the Northwest:

1. Signers of corn-hog reduction contracts should be allowed to plant corn, for forage or fodder only, on fields abandoned for. grain, hay or pasture production on account of winter killing, drouth or wind damage.

2. The Farm Credit Administration should release for live stock feeding sealed corn now held as collateral for federal loans, and cancel chattel mortgages on foundation livestock herds.

3. A "federal surplus relief corporation" should be formed to buy livestock in drouth areas and market or utilize it to the best possible advantage.

4. Funds should be provided to purchase forage crop seed for drouth-stricken farmers.

This program was submitted to the administration by wire, and in a reply to the extension division at University Farm, St. Paul, Secretary Wallace said that it is receiving serious consideration. A answer to these proposals may be expected soon, he said.

THE DECADENCE OF THE PRESS

Perhaps no better sign of the degeneracy of the press can be found than that contained in a page of reprints of editorial opinions from the various newspapers of the northwest contained in the Monday issue of the Minneapolis Journal. Here we have excerpts from about twenty newspapers running the whole gamut thru the larger dailies, the smaller ones and down to the obscurest little weekly efforts, all dealing with the truckers strike recently brought to a conclusion in Minneapolis. Besides displaying an abysmal ignorance of the principles and issues involved in the strike these addlepated editorial philosophers succeeded only in convincing us that the future of our country is indeed dark when the press, the most important avenue of information which we have, is in the hands of men so patently devoid of the power of sound reasoning.

Here are two gems which for sheer idiocy surpass anything we have encountered, and believe it or not we read twenty or thirty exchanges every week ranging from very good ones to some decidedly bad ones from the viewpoint of editorial expressions. The Sioux Falls Argus-Leader says:

> "The right of the men who want to work for the wages offered are as important as those of the men who refuse to work."

Let us see: A ship is crossing the Atlantic with thousands of passengers on board. A maniac offers a sum of money, (the amount offered does not enter into the question) to any man who will scuttle the ship. One man is willing to undertake the job. "The right of the man who wants to work for the wages offered is as important as those who refuse to work" and the thousands of passengers who refuse to scuttle the ship have no right to interfere with the man who is willing to "work for the wages offered."

And while the illustration may seem farfetched and extreme to some people, let us just remember that the truckdrivers were striking to remedy a condition under which the employers were able to force men to work for an average of $8.00 per week, which even "smalltown editors" ought to admit is too low to feed, clothe and shelter just one person in the city of Minneapolis to say nothing of keeping a family. Therefore the strike was launched, and any attempt to scuttle the ship was to threaten with destruction not only the men on strike but all who must "eat their bread in the sweat of their brow" whether they live in the city or on the farms. For when any set of workers must work for less than adequate to maintain a decent living, the situation tends to drive down the standards of living all down the line, for all who work.

But the medal in leather (preferably from a worn-out splitleather piece of a muleskin mitten) should go to the Jordan Independent who says: "he took out several kinds of licenses which entitled him the Minnesota right to travel the highways in peace." Having paid his license fees obligation to society was of course discharged. He had a perfect right to drive the highways in peace even tho to do so should mean running down pedestrians and school children and leaving mangled human torsoes in his wake. So long as he respects property rights and don't knock the fenders off any other cars, what mattered any human rights that might be involved. He had paid his license and of course had a right to drive his car or his truck with impunity regardless of the fact that it would break up a strike upon which the future of ten thousand undernurished children depended.

Men do not go out on strike just for sport. It is a grim game. It is the last resort of industrial slaves. Yet 7,000 truck drivers and hundreds of taxi drivers went out in Minneapolis in that strike. Still more reluctance will men have for striking when they have no quarrel of their own and their strike is for the sole purpose of lending moral support to others. Yet 35,000 building trades workers went out in a sympathy strike and joined the striking truckdrivers on the picket lines. On Wedday evening the organized workers of Minneapolis met at the Parade Grounds and pledged their support to the strikers. At that time Roy Wier a member of the executive committee of the Central Labor Union announced that the committee had voted to recommend a general strike. At that time too, an announcement was read from the Fifth District American Legion that they would refuse to act as special police and other exservicemen's organizations pledged their support to the strikers.

There seems to be ample reason to believe that there was justification for the strike and the measures that the strikers took to win their fight against the chain bank controlled Minneapolis Citizens Alliance, and the little rural weekly editorial key pounders ought to look farther than the front pages of the Minneapolis dailies before they pass opinions on the controversies being fought out by thousands of working men and women. If for no other reason in selfprotection, they have been caught out on a limb rushing to the protection of the special interests and the money powers so often that just a few more times of it and they will no longer have anybody on their mailing lists to send their hypocritical balderdash to.

What a hurly-burly world this is. Next week another batch of graduates of universities, colleges and high schools will join the great parade of the unemployed. Trained, ambitious, eager, and nothing to do but look for jobs that are not to be found.

And in spite of this situation there are actually people who go about the state warning us against "socialism, Communism," and other boogaboos of depraved minds. Isn't it about time that we make some attempt to guard ourselves against the anarchism that is here rather than to worry about what labels may be tied on to a planned commonwealth?

Isn't it about time that we rearrange our society so that it will be possible to provide some opportunities for our boys and girls when they come out into the world rather than to lock all doors against them as the present insane system of individualism does? Is an economic system that makes beggars, loafers or thieves of humanity worth saving after all? We wonder.

The Baudette Region says; "The price of paper for newspaper is still higher than General, Hugh Johnson's opinion of himself, but the price of pulpwood is still down in the cellar. Our head can't figure out why."

That is the reward of the special interests for the Yeomen services the Baudette Region has rendered them all these years, and if Brother Noonan used his head for something more than a hatrack he would be able to figure it out.

"The bootleggers before repeal were mere pickers as compared with the whisky trust of today."—Congressman Fitzpatrick in speech in Congress.

News reports state that the Keeley Liquor institutes have enjoyed an increase of 55 per cent in business since repeal.

It costs a whale of a lot to enforce repeal. Congress made a big appropriation for new Coast Guard boats to fight smugglers, and now 1,850 new revenue officers are added to fight bootleggers.

REPEAL, Greatest Social, Civic Political, Economic Panacea known to Civilized Man. Positively Guaranteed to cure High Taxes, Bootlegging, Crime, Smuggling, Speakeasies, Moonshine. As to local option—In Masterton, New Zealand, the arrests for drunkenness the last license year were 287 as against 41 the first dry year; for vagrancy, 25 the last wet, and 2 the first dry year; total convictions for all crimes 397 the last wet, and 56 the first dry year.

To arrive at the number of drunks take the number recorded as arrested for drunkenness, and add 20 per cent for prominent citizens, let off for influence; 30 per cent for offenders who have a political "drag"; 40 per cent for those who are put on the record as "disorderly," and 50 per cent for those who have a dollar more left to give to the policeman.

The Liberal Digest

Following is the continuation of the text of an official synopsis of Clarence Darrow's report from the national recovery review board to President Roosevelt, criticizing the national recovery administration.

ELECTRICAL MANUFACTORING

The monopolistic conditions existing in this industry do not result from the code, but from the control of patents and other long-standing factors. Ninety-three per cent of the incandescent lamp division of the business is, and long has been, in the hands of one corporation. No evidence was presented that would justify the board in formulating any decision in regard to the possible oppression of small enterprises.

It is, however, true that the code authority, or what corresponds thereto, is composed of members of the National Electrical Manufacturers' Association; and no provision is made for the representation of manufacturers that are not members of that association. We deem this to be wrong, and recommend that it be corrected.

Footwear Division, Rubber Manufacturing.

Small enterprises in this industry are oppressed under the code in ways that will result in a monopoly, if one be not already created.

The industry is composed of 12 companies, of which two, with their affiliates, represent 65 per cent of the total production.

This code was made by the large companies for their benefit and for their benefit it is administered. As a result, the smaller enterprises have refused to assent to the arrangement.

The divisional authority, which has direct supervision over this branch of the rubber industry, is composed of three men that represent and have interests in the large companies.

The powers vested in the divisional authority include the power to classify goods, determine discounts and fix prices.

We recommend that the present divisional authority be displaced and a new authority be created fairly representative of the small enterprise as of the large; that each member of the division shall be allowed to compute his cost pursuant to the system provided in Article VII-A, Chapter I, report such cost to an impartial agency selected by the divisional authority, and shall not thereafter sell any product other than factory damaged or obsolete goods for less than cost.

Seven Complaints of Maladministration.

The chief complaints of maladjustment under the code for the benefit of the large producers and distributors and against the smaller enterprises are as follows:

1. That they, although constituting numerically much the greater part of the industry, were not allowed to share in the making of the code.

2. Unfair practices, in that the large producers and distributors, insist independent exhibitors shall buy also a certain number of what are called "short subjects" (meaning short reels) and the news-reels in order to obtain the great and vital feature pictures from which profits are mostly derived.

It was averred that some of these independent theaters have in this way been forced to buy and store away more "short subjects" and news reels than they could show in a year. They must pay for them, nevertheless, whether they exhibit them or not. By this practice also small producers that produce only "short subjects" and newsreels are put at a disadvantage.

3. The large producers require a large percentage of the gross receipts, sometimes 35 per cent or more, for the use of popular pictures and then dictate the days upon which they are to be shown.

In the business generally, Saturday, Sunday and holidays are the best days, but it was pointed out that this arrangement deprives the independent theater of any control over its pictures, as the large producer dictates the day the picture is to be shown, whereas it may not be suitable for certain localities upon such days.

4. The theater owner is deprived of any choice in the presentation of pictures, since he must show what is allotted to him. This works in practice to shut from the theaters the pictures of other than the large producers, since they can choose all the best days for themselves.

(To be continued next week)

The following is a continuance of the summary of NRA's reply to the charges of Darrow prepared by Donald R. Richberg, general counsel to NRA.

Electrical Manufaturing

The board gave no notice to the NRA and made no request for information although every complaint presented had been covered during months of extensive work upon this code. After three days of fruitless hearings the board was forced to its conclusion that any "monopolistic conditions in this industry do not result from the code, but from the control of patents and other longstanding factors."

The board then recommended additional members for the code authority—a matter brought up by NRA two months before the hearing and agreed to by the industry.

Footwear Division, Rubber Manufacturing.

The board heard the complaint of four companies that were opposed to the code and found they were "small enterprises" which were being "oppressed." One of these is the fourth largest in this division of the industry and another is the Goodyear Rubber Company, which has a small volume of production in this particular line but is a very large enterprise in the field of rubber manufacture.

Another one of the four "small" companies employes nearly 1,000 persons, pay low wage and sells most of its output to a mail order house—thus underselling independent merchants. These "small concerns had all refused to sign the President's reemployment agreement."

The board reports that "the divisional authority is composed of three men representatives of and having interests in the large companies"—which simply is not true. The three members of the authority represent one large, one medium and one small company.

The further findings of the board include a large number of similar misstatements of fact, detailed in the attached review of this report, which merit the comment of the deputy administrator that the findings show "little comprehension of the problem, complete ignorance of the code and are either erroneous or irrelevant."

Continental Congress Activities

The National Committee of the Continental Congress of Workers and Farmers has postponed the calling of a second national convention of the Congress until after the 1934 fall elections to state and federal legislatures. In November, the National Committee of the Continental Congress, which is the largest formal alliance of organized farmers and workers in the United States, will meet to determine what is to be the future program of the Continental Congress, and whether to immediately summon a nation-wide convention.

In the meantime the success of the various independent working class political groups in arousing workers and farmers to organized action on their own behalf will be eagerly scanned by the small Action Committee of the National Committee which will continue to meet from time to time at the Chicago headquarters altho national activity is suspended until fall. The statement of the National Committee sets forth that it will not call a new Continental Congress "until a definite step forward beyond the first Congress is possible."

The four thousand delegates to the first Continental Congress at Washington in 1933 voted enthusiastically to set up a permanent organization and adopted a cooperative commonwealth political and economic program. The statement just released by the National Committee says:

"Looking back over a full year of the New Deal and of the activities of the Continental Congress, the National Committee confidently declares that the need for the permanent alliance of farmer and labor organizations of all types represented by the Congress has increased instead of lessened since last year. In spite of the New Deal, the mass of workers in cities and on farms are living in poverty and insecurity.

"State Congresses and local Committee of Action are urged to throw their emergencies into aiding in building their affiliated organizations of all kinds. The results of such activity, state and local, will largely determine the program of the National Committee in the fall. Thus will the Continental Congress of Workers and Farmers continue to carry out the message of the new Declaration of Independence, 'Workers and Farmers everywhere unite. Agitate, educate, organize! We have a world to win!'"

PROMISE ACTION ON THOMAS SHARE-CROPPER CHARGES

WASHINGTON, D. C.—Eight extension agents of the Department of Agriculture have been assigned to "investigate and adjust" complaints of discrimination against southern share-croppers, raised by Norman Thomas following a recent trip through Arkansas and Tennessee. The Thomas report together with all other complaints, will be "referred" to this committee. A committee of southerners recently investigated and confirmed Thomas' charges.

PEACE PARADE IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK—Ten thousand men and women participated Saturday in a gigantic peace parade and demonstration, as part of the Good-Will Week exercises. The participating organizations included the War Resisters' League, the Committee on International Justice and Good-Will of the Greater New York Federation of Churches, the Free Synagogue, the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, World Peaceways, Socialist party, League for Industrial Democracy, New History Society, Fellowship of Reconciliation, and many similar organizations.

WHO WILL GET THE CORN-HOG CHECKS

(St. Louis County Independent)

Wallaces' Farmers which now reports more than 200,000 circulation, in the issue of April 28th gives an estimate of the total corn and hog payments by important states. Iowa farmers will receive $72,000,000, which is about $5.400.000 more than the $37,900,000 that goes to Illinois farmers, and the $28,682,000 that goes to the Nebraska farmers. Iowa farmers get nearly 20,000,000 more than the total of $52,226,000 to be paid to Missouri, Minnesota and South Dakota. These figures are based on the number of contracts which have been signed, and the averages of the contracts already analyzed.

Fortunately producing farmers have finally waked up to the fact that a large part of this payment goes to the land owners, and as producers, farmers will get little profit from this so-called farm relief measure. Creditors and land owners will get most. Dr. Calvin B. Hoover, in a recent report to the Secretary of Agriculture and the Administrator of the Agricultural Adjustment act, has pointed out that share croppers and tenants are discriminated against in the South under the cotton acreage adjustment program. No "New Deal" can repeal the economic law that curtailment of production which American consumers need, as a means of protecting land speculators and creditors, will not help producing farmers and of course will not help consumers.

WOMEN GIVE STRICKERS VALIANT AID

(Minneapolis Labor Review)

There is one feature of the Strike that the daily papers seem to have endeavored to keep away from the public.

That is the part the courageous wives of the strikers have played in the controversy.

Also the daily papers have given scant attention to the dastardly attacts that special police have made on the wives of the Strikers, in many instances sending them to the hospital.

We do not believe there has ever been a strike where the women have proved such an inspiration to the men as in the case of the General Drivers' strike.

This is true not only of the women members of the families of the Strikers, but of many women members of the trade union movement.

It has not been enough that these women put in their time at headquarters assisting in the serving of food and encouraging the men in the struggle against the millions of the Citizens Alliance and the branch banks.

They did picketing in their own way and met the attack of the cowardly specials and though beaten bloody and sent to the hospital their ardour was not dampened nor their determination weakened.

This means more to the future of organized labor than even the winning of this important strike. It means that the next generation will be given a training and make it more effective in the days to come than it ever has been in the past.

All organized labor must join with Labor Review in complimenting the women for the marvelous way they have supported and aided in every possible way the strike of the General Drivers'. They have made brave hearts braver and weak hearts stronger. They cannot be too highly commended for the magnificent service they have rendered humanity through their loyal support of the strike.

YELLOW REPUBLICANISM

(The Union Advocate)

An excellent example of the general philosophy of the Republican party is revealed in a recent editorial in the Hendricks Pioneer, edited by one of the chief scorners of the Farmer-Labor platform. Here-s the voice of the republican school:

> What this country of ours needs right now is another war. We believe that a war, not a revolution, every fifteen years would imbue our citizens with the necessary patriotism, loyalty and fighting spirit to combat and overthrow any attempt at organizing or advocating radicalism, communism, and socialism in this country. The liberal application of yellow paint and the incarceration or deportation of the "red irk" would put the fear of hell in other doubtful patriots and make them walk and talk like Americans and not like communists.

In a word, the one way to stifle the voice of protest from the millions in want through no fault of their own is another bloody war with its carage and suffering. The one sure method of averting internal trouble, according to republican philosophy, is to embroil the nation in the slaughter of human beings. This will tend to rekindle the fires of patriotism. This will justify any infamy a cracked mind may devise to meet the challenge of "disloyalty.'

The editor of the Henricks Pioneer has merely expressed the cold-blooded convictions of the rugged individualists who programmed the last war "to make the world safe for democracy." It doesn't matter that millions of boys were slaughtered, maimed and blinded in the last great conflit. It doesen't matter that a million American mothers' hearts were torn with anguish, sorrow and fear during those insane months when billions of dollars were being spent to baptize the old world with fresh young blood. It doesn't matter that the entire world still staggers under the burden of that insane, uncivilized and unjustifiable debauch known as the World war.

The Farmer-Labor platform may sound radical to those who profit in heartaches and human tears, it may challenge the existing scheme of things under which millions starve so that a few may bask in luxury, but there is nothing in the entire structure of that platform which will bring a hurt or heartache to those now deprived of a means of making an honest living. If it is radical it is because these times require definite expressions, and it was written and approved by men and women with a keen appreciation of human values. It took brains and courage to write a platform dedicatied to human salvation.

But it did not take any brains to write the paragraph quoted from the Henricks Pioneer. And as for courage—it represents the same brand so popular during the pre-war days when 100 per centers, under cloak of darkness, daubed yellow paint on the homes of men and women who could not subscribe to the bloodlust and insanity of an indefensible war.

There is one newspaper in this state that is actually using first page space each day trying to create the impression that the farmer-labor party is committed to the plan of abolishing all private owned small factories and discharge the workers, or make them slaves of some sinister central influence. How silly! Supposing we should compile stuff each day and run it in a panel on the front page showing how opponents of public ownership would throw out thousands of children from the public schools in each county if their ideas of private capitalism followed out to its logical conclusion? You would thing that ridiculous. But it would not be any more asinine than is the series now being run daily in the Minneapolis Journal.—The Willmar Daily Tribune.

HARRY L. FOWLER
County Auditor

To the Voters:

In soliciting your snpport for re-election to the office of County Auditor, I stand on my record during my first term.

I was elected to my first term on my pledge of an economical administration of the office This pledge I have fulfilled.

Being an experienced Accountant and anditor has enabled me to conduct my office during my first term withont the expense of an experienced accountant for deputy. I have used only part time clerk hire and have operated my office at one-third the expense for Clerk Hire that my predecessor reqnired, thereby effecting a saving of about $1,000.00 per year. My revision of the accounting system in the Auditor's office has effected other large savings.

There is no substitute for experience.

If my admistration of the office during my first term has met with your approval, your vote and support will be appreciated.

Candidate for Re-electian

County Superintendent of Schools

The duties of my affice as County Superintendent will prevent me from calling on all the vatera of the county, ao I will hereby express my thanks far your support during my first term. I promised to conduct my office economically and I have tried in every way to fulfill that promise. I am a taxpayer myself and realize in these times we can not afford to experiment with doubtful projecta that take the peoples money earned by tail and sacrifice.

Every school in the county is up to standard and are getting full atate aid.

If my record has met with your approval I shall appreciat your vote and support at the Primary Election, J. 18 and if re-elected, I shall continue to do my utmost for our country schools. I thank yau sincerely.

FORD STOCK MODEL WINS FLORIDA RACE

Dearborn, Mich.—Final tabulation of points in the 100-mile road race at Jacksonville, Fla., awarded the victory to "Wild Sam" Purvis, who wheeled his stock model Ford V-8 around the brick track recently to top a field of 21 enteries.

Purvis, piloting the only stock model in the event, covered the hundred mile distance in an hour and 38 minutes, 1.4 seconds. Purvis took an early lead which he lost to Larry Btckett, Dayton, Ohio driver, in the tenth lap, but regained at the 60 mi. marker, and never again was headed. Becgett drove a sptcially built racing car.

Purvis and Beckttt, who won second money, staged a thrilling duel for first place most of the way. Purvis, a Jacksonville driver, spurttd into the lead in the first lap around the two mle track whch has four rght angle turns in its course.

At tht end of the first lap Beckett was in 13th place, but forged into second behind Purvis' stock mount in the fourth lap, and set a tremendous pace to take the lead in the 10th. He was unable however, to maintain his average and dropped behind as Purvis let out his Ford, attaining amazing speed especially on the straightway.

Purvis entry third in the starting lineup, was completely stock, and used ordinary fuel. His car was a roadster, with fenders running board and windshield removed.

The race, first speed event held in the east coast city for some time attracted a record breaking crowd of fans as will as a representative field of drivers, and plans are under way for similar events over the Jacksnville course in the future.

Minneapolis—Truck, delivery car and taxicab service was resumed in Minneapolis, employers and striking truck drivers having agreed on peace terms. The drivers at a mass meeting voted to accept an agreement to end the strike and the signatures of their strike committee were affixed to the agreement, which was filed with the regional labor board. Two men died as a result of fights between strikers and police.

St. Paul—Marion Evelyn Frechette, halfbreed Indian sweetheart of John Dillinger, and Dr. Clayton E. May, Minneapolis physician, were found guilty by a federal court jury of harboring the Indiana fugitive. Mrs. Augusta Salt, Minneapolis nurse, in whose apartment Dillinger was treated for a leg wound, was found not guilty. Miss Frechette, who had expressed hopes of marrying the outlaw, lost her iron nerve as Judge Gunnar H. Nordbye called her and Dr. May before him and sentenced them to two years in prison and $1,000 fine for each.

THIEF RIVER FALLS FORUM

Mayor Tungseth, Viebahn, and the Council Holds "Star Chamber Session"

STATE NRS HEAD TALKS SATURDAY AT DIST. MEETING

Minnesota Set-up Has Been Adopted by Other States.

Dreng Bjornaraa, state director of the National Reemployment Service, emphasized and discussed the role of the NRS as the personnel center of the community, at a meeting of the stac of District No. 1 in Thief River Falls on Saturday, June 2. Thirteen NRS workers from six branch county offices and the district at Thief River Falls were present.

In referring to a recent meeting of the State Reemployment Directors in Washington, D. C., Mr. Bjornaraa statd that the district system created in Minnesota had been adopted as the ideal setup for the NRS in other states. At the present time the Service is accessible to all communities in the United States.

As evidence that employers have recognized the efficiency and value of the NRS, he cited private placement figures for the state to talling 15,363 for the months of January, February, March, and April.

Mr. Bjornaraa emphasized that in establishing the Reemployment Service as an integral part of the community, the public should be acquainted with its function as an impartial and progressive employment bureau, motivated by the recognition of the need for a centralized clearing house in the labor market which will match the individual with the job.

That Reemployment workers should be trained in personnel procedure and should be recognized as authorities in this leld by their respective communities, was pointed out by Mr. Bjornaraa. He added that a thorough and specific background is needed if the personnel worker is to help the small employer solve his particular problems.

Those present at the meeting were as follows: Roy Berg, Elizabeth Dostert and Janet Newberry of the Crookston office; Fred Richards and Ruth Harris of Red Lake Falls; Howard Davidson, Charlotte McAnnany and Emma Bakke of Thief River Falls; Elmer Stangelle in charge of the Warren and Hallock offices; Arthur Wold of Roseau; Irma Fredricks and Donald L. Snyder of the district office at Thief River Falls.

City Engineer W. W. Viebahn Explains the Dismissal of Experienced City Employees

"Passing the Buck" an editorial, page four)

For the information of the Public, I wish to state bere that it has become necessary for me to make eertain changes in the personal of the City Water and Light Department.

When I took eharge of this Department, I had hoped to gain one hundred per cent co operation from the employees. I feel that I have been absolutely fair with all of the Water and Light employees. Some of the men have given me wholehearted co operation but some have not.

In regard to the operation of our Power Plant, I may say that as far as I nm concerned I am not goiag to be satisfied with any thing less that 100% workmanship through oat and I intend to engage men for this who will do just that kind of a job Our plant must be kept absolutely in an orderly condition and in order to have such n condition, co operation, must come first.

In regard to selecting employees, it is the policy of the Administration to select men from home, if it is possible to get the man who is properly qualified. If we do not have a bome man who is qualified for a certain job, then it is necessary to go outside for one. Such seems to be the case in filling the position of the CHIEF ENGINEER, in our power plant. I have secured Mr. A. Damerow as Chief Engineer. Mr. Damerow is from Minneapolis and was recomended to me by a prominent Diesel and Lubercation Engineer. He has had considerable experience with McIntosh and Seymore Engines as well as three years of University training.

If there is an applicant in Thief River Falls who can qualify and is willing to take the responsibility of Chief Engineer in the Power plant, he will be given first consideration.

City Engineer

30 CANDIDATES, 600 PEOPLE AT VALHALL SUN.

All-Party Political Rally and Entertainment Gets Praise.

Allmost all of the candidatea for county offices attended the political rally held at Valhall last Sunday afternoon as well as legislative and congressional candidates. It is estimated that about 600 people attended the meeting.

Besides talks hy most of the county candidates there were talks given hy J. M. Bishop, candidate for district judge; Martin O. Brandon, Fergus Falls, candidate for Congress on the democratic ticket; Paul A. Harris candidate ofr state senator; Harold Hagen of Crookston, apeaking in bebalf of R. T. Buckler, candidate for congress on the farmer-labor ticket; Andrew Trovaton of McIntosh, also speaking on bebalf of Buckler; Senator Laura E. Naplin, speaking on behalf of the farmer-labor candidates In all about 30 candidates attended tbe rally.

The time was allotted to the candidates on the basis of eight minutes each, according to Paul Engelstad who sponsored the meeting and the rule was the audience to call the speakers when the time waa up by either rising or applouding. However aeveral of the speakers exceeded the time allotted.

The program opened with a one-act play presented hy tha Plummer high school under the direction of their principal, Joe J. Laurer, and community singing led by Dr. Vistaunet and Kern Olson with Mrs. Vistaune accompanying at tbe piano featured the rally. A recitation by Paul Engelstad was well received and lunch was aerved after the apeaking program.

Another rally will be sponsored some time after the primaries, Mr. Engelstad annonnced this week, at which the three major political parties will be invited to present apeakers to exponnd the principles and platform of their party. and to speak on behalf of their ticket. This meeting too, will have the time allotted fairly among the various parties and placa on the program will be decided hy lot.

Gordon Olson left this week for Southern Minnesota where he will attend his mother'a funeral on Saturday.

Minneapolis Man is Brought In as Chief Engineer at Light Plant.

Two more of the City's experienced employees were let out by W. W. Viebahn, mayor Tungseth's imported engineer, the past week and an engincer from Minneapolis was brought in to assume tbe post of Chief Engineer at the light plant. No reason was given the dismissed employees but in a statement to tbe press, Mr. Viebahn infers tbat hey have refused to cooperate with him for the general efficiency of the plant.

Fred Byrom, line foreman was discharged Saturday evening and chief eagineer A. G. Anderson received a personal call from Mr. Viehahn at nine o'clock Monday evening at which time he was informed that his services would no longer be required. He bas been with the light and water department for 22 years. Mr. Byrom has been witb the department for seven years.

On Tuesday afternoon the Workmen's Protective association and the newly organized CWA group called n meeting to discuss the matter of what they considered a high-handed procednre by the engineer but on being informed that the city council wonld not meet until the followiag Tuesday they called their meeting off and decided to take the matter up in their regular meeting. During the course of the afternoon mayor Tungseth called the aldermen for a special meeting for eight o'elock and the men employed by the light and power department were also called on to attend. Anderson and Byrom were notified to be on hand at this meeting.

The members of the two workmens organizations upon hearing of the special meetiag arranged to attend in force, but at supper time a rumor was circulaed to the effect that tbe meeting of the council had been postponed until the following evening. Some of them however believing that they "smelled a rat" went to the auditorium at eight o'clock and found that Mayor Tungseth, City Engineer Viebahn and the council were holding a meeting in the city clerk's office. A Forum representative arriving shortly afterwards entered the office and was informed by Mayor Tungseth that it was not a public neeting. He retired to the vestibule where among otbers he city auperinteadent of water and light, Ole Legvold, linemen, Henry Olson and Kenneth Porter and engineer William Ferris and the two discharged men were cooling their beels.

After a conference of about three quarters of an hour, Legvold, Porter and Olson were called into the Holy of Holies and informed that their jobs were not threatened after their they were dismiused.

Followiag another lengthy conference, Fred Byrom and A. G. Anderson were summoned. Mayor Tungseth acted as spokesman and informed them that the administration is standing behiad the city engineer. "We demand 100 per cent co-operation from the employees of the ligbt plant," be stated and the administration will stand bebind the engineer in his action."

Mr. Anderson inquired if that was all he had to say and when answered in tbe affirmative stated that he had heen called to tha meeting. He was informed that tbe call bad been a mistake, only the employees of tha plant were to have been called, tha mayor stated. Mr. Ferris was not called in. When tbe meeting was over the Forum representative asked tha president of the council for a statement to the public and was told that one would be forthcoming the next day.

On Wednesday Mr. Viebahn called a tbe Forum office with the atatement printed elsewhere on this page. It is reproduced as received hy us complete as to grammar, spelling and signature.

President of the Council, Mr. Myrom informed the Forum that the statement submitted hy Mr. Viebahn covered the ground and that he had nothing to add. The action was taken with the full knowledge and consent of the council, he atated.

Meeting on Wednesday evening the CWA organization voted to appear at the meeting of the city council on Tuesday evening en masse and demand explanation of the recent acts of the administration.

BRATTLAND

Judge of the District Court

Appointed by Governor Olson on February 28, 1934

When Judge Julius J. Olson was named as Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, I was appointed by Governor Floyd B. Olson as Judge Olson's successor, and since that time have served in that position. I have filed as a candidate for District Judge at the June primary election.

Owing to official work I have little time to devote to the campaign and must therefore depend on such voluntary interest as my friends and supporters will give in my behalf.

During the time I have been permitted to serve as a District Judge it has been my endeavor to do so fairly and impartially, and if privileged to continue for a full term, I trust my attitude on the bench shall always be just and fair.

Respectfully,
M. A. BRATTLAND

CATTLE IN DROUTH AREAS TO BE SOLD

U. S. Begins Buying Cattle For Relief—Federal, State Co-operate.

St. Paul—Its machinery virtually perfected, and its regulations set up, the federal government moved to the farms in the drouth-stricken areas of Minnesota and the northwest to purchase starving cattle. A day of conferences in St. Paul brought final plans to completion and resulted in the temporary unification of all state and federal relief agencies to work co-operatively in speeding up the machinery of drouth relief. At the same time plans were made in the state capitol for declaration of an embargo upon shipment of livestock into the state, to conserve feed for the animals already here.

This embargo was formally proclaimed by Governor Olson. It will effect cattle, hogs, sheep, and all other forms of livestock. Two separate conferences were held as L. W. Sheets, federal drouth relief administrator, and Dean W. C. Coffey of University farm, northwest drouth relief chief, worked out their final plans. At the first of these conferences, the unified relief setup was organized.

Under the plan of co-operation, agents of the agricultural adjustment administration will purchase surplus cattle in counties designated as falling within the drouth area. Condemned cattle unsuitable for food will be destroyed; milch cows between two and six years old will be turned over to the federal surplus relief corporation, and by that organization to the state emergency relief administration for use in aiding needy families; cull cattle will be shipped and processed under the direction of the federal surplus relief corporation, and the products used for relief.

At a conference with representatives of packers and railroads, plans for the movement of livestock were made. At the conference it was indicated that approximately $30,000,000 will be expended in the drouth relief program in Minnesota, the Dakotas and part of Wisconsin. Plans for transportation and processing of 1,200,000 cattle were worked out and completed at a second session. Plans call for processing of 40 per cent of cattle purchased at Chicago packing plants, 15 per cent at plants east of Chicago, and the remaining 45 per cent at plants in South St. Paul, Austin, Omaha, Fargo, Aberdeen, Des Moines and Ottumwa, Iowa. This distribution was worked out to avoid congestion at any one plant.

Labor Troubles Ending Over Nation

Chicago—Labor unrest threatening widespread strikes in basic American industries abated somewhat with progress toward settlements. At Toledo where the conflict threatened to become a focal point for the nation, capital and labor reached an agreement in the threatened strike of union electric workers which apparently ended danger of a general tieup. The workers won pay restoration to the June 1, 1932, level—or restoration of two 10 per cent cuts—but failed to achieve a closed shop.

Gulls Lured by Grasshopper Swarms

Ogden, Utah—Seagulls, many times a godsend to Utah, have proved almost disastrous to air travel from Ogden. Intent on gorging millions of grasshoppers; as they did in pioneer days, the gulls have flocked to this northern Utah city so thick that airplanes can fly only at night when the birds have returned to their nests on Bird island, in Great Salt lake.

Notre Dame Head is Dead at Fifty

South Bend, Ind.—Father Charles L. O'Donnell, 50, for almost six years president of Notre Dame university, died from a streptococcus infection. The illness had incapacited Father O'Donnell for more than a year. The last rites of the Catholic church were administered to the dying priest several weeks ago, but he rallied and for a time appeared better.

MINNESOTA DRYS CHANGE NAME AND INCORPORATE

The Minnesota Allied Drys, feeling that a new name in this new day would be a benefit in meeting the needs of the hour, have changed their name to the Minnesota Temperance Movement.

The organization was incorporated under the laws of the state May 23, 1934.

The principal task of the organization is the creating of a county organization in each county of the state—about forty of the eighty-seven counties of the state have now been organized and the work of completing these organizations is progressing very rapidly, with the assistance of the Flying Squadron, who have been touring the state upon invitation of the Minnesota Temperance Movement.

The Articles of Incorporation, of the state organization, covers the county units in the several counties who vote to be affiliate units. This is greatly to the advantage of the county unit.

H. H. Parish, Director of the Minnesota Temperance Movement, Inc., emphasizes the fact that this is a "Movement" moving on and on until, with the assistance and co-operation of every other group with like purpose, we shall see the final doom of the infamous liquor traffic.

Three interesting policies of the Minnesota Temperance Movement are:

1. Co-operation with all groups seeking to overthrow the liquor traffic.
2. "Pay as you go" method of finance, rigidly enforced.
3. Such economy and use of lay and volunteer workers as to make possible "Twice the work for half the cost."

MEAT STOCKS IN U. S. ARE FASTLY BEING CONSUMED

Meat stocks in the U. S. are fast disappearing as indicated by the late government report on storage stocks held in warehouses and cold storage plants of the country and by reports of stocks held by the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation, says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Cooperative Association of South St. Paul.

Storage stocks of frozen and cured pork at 655,324,000 pounds, according to the latest report, were .7% below the five year average holdings. Stocks of frozen and cured beef at 47, 324,000 pounds were 14% below the five year average and 57% below a year ago. Frozen lamb and mutton socks at 1,282,000 pounds were 51% below the five year average and 38% below a year ago.

Lard stocks at 179, 441,000 pounds were still more than twice as large as a year ago and 57% greater than the five year average. Burdensome lard stocks have been a depressing factor in the hog market for several years.

Supplies of pork purchased by the government and held in storage for the account of the Federal Surplus Relief Corporation were down to slightly more than 14,000,000 pounds last week, three weeks ago that total was approximately 16,000,000, and on February 15 holdings of pork by the government were over 86,000,000. This shows a decrease of 80% in the supplies of pork held by the government.

Uncle Sam is launching forth with a new purchasing program in connection with drouth relief and the beef products control, whereby cattle in drouth areas will be slaughtered, and much of this beef will be held by the government for distribution to the needy through relief agencies.

LONG DRY CYCLE SHOULD SOON BE NEAR ITS END

Minneapolis,—Statistics available at the University of Minnesota indicate strongly that of rainfall appears in cycles of wetness and drouth (and most things do go in cycles) then an upturn must be coming in the near future, for general rainfall totals in this state have been receding since 1908. This has covered a period of 26 years, whereas the last dry period, relatively speaking, was of only 20 years, from 1874 to 1894, followed by an upswing for fifteen years.

Speaking at a recent meeting of the American Meteorological Society, J. B. Kincer of the United States Weather Bureau said:

"In Minnesota the average rainfall for the ten years ended with 1908 was approximately 29.5 inches, and for the decade ended with 1933 just a little more than 23 inches, making a difference of more than six inches for a ten year average or a decrease of more than 20 prcent.

"The decline cannot go indefinitely according to C. F. Talman, also of the weather bureau, "and there is no reason to suppose that rainfall will be permanently deficient in this region.

Analysis of a long record at St. Paul shows that there have been two previous downward swings of rainfall there in the course of a century with minimums in 1848 and 1894, followed by upward trends ending in 1874 and 1909."

Slow oscillations of rainfall such as those just mentioned appear to be fairly common throughout the world and there has been endless discussion as to their causes. Unfortunately, in the present state of meterorological knowledge a 'trend' of rainfall is too indefinite a thing to afford a safe basis for long-range forecasts of drought.

Gold and Manganese

Geologists say there is no danger of the gold and manganese deposits of Puerto Rico becoming exhausted.

DOCTORS ISSUE SWIMMING DO'S AND DON'TS TODAY

A half dozen swimming do's and don'ts are offered today by physicians of the Minnesota State Medical Association to help make Minnesota's swimming season safe and happy.

1. Learn how to swim and dive. Mere bathing is cooling but neither as much fun nor as beneficial to the development of good mucles and of good stamina as a good, fast stroke. Also, in a land of lakes, knowing how to swim is an essential safety measure.

2. Never dive without investigation into unknown swimming holes. There may be rocks or posts or shallow water.

3. Never make long swims without a boat to accompany you. Many an excellent swimmer has lost his life because he was alone when an accident happened.

4. Learn the Schaeffer prone pressure method of rescuitation. It should be used immediately when anyone goes down and should be continued until the doctor arrives.

5. Be careful about your nose and ears. Avoid "snuffing" up water into your nasal passages. It may result in very troublesome inflamation, the development of chronic ear and sinus trouble.

6. People who are already suffering from such afflictions should avoid getting their heads under water.

Nearly everybody of all ages will benefit from getting into the water these hot days, according to the bulletin.

"It will depend upon your physical condition and your skill in swimming whether you can attempt high dives and distant swimming. Those who are ambitious to become water champions should take the preliminary precaution to find out about the condition of their hearts and their lungs. Many a drowning that has been laid to cramps is really the result of the failure of an over taxed heart.

NINE POINTS SOUGHT BY NATIONAL DROUTH RELIEF

Urging that everything be made secondary to drought relief, the National Committee of 25 of the cattle industry, in session in St. Paul last week end, urged measures for salvaging starving cattle and for assistance to their owners.

Nine points were sought by the committee, among them being a recommendation that all lands, whether or not contracted under the surplus control plan, be thrown open to planting of emergency roughage crops, including fodder corn, said A. J. Olson member of the committee and president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau Federation. Mr. Olson previously had urged upon the AAA the necessity for this concession.

Cattle will be forced from parched pastures to the market in unprecedented numbers, therefore the government must meet the emergency by doing all in its power to keep prices at as high a level as possible, the committee urged.

Recommendations for supporting the beef market include (a) extensive meat canning operations, using all available canning plants, including those now used only for vegetables and fruits, and with erection of plants by the government in areas where none exsist; (b) that in addition to its cattle purchased on the drouth stricken farms, the Administration make such purchases at the stock yards as may be necessary to support the market; (c) that the Administration and packers make a marketing agreement that will include full provisions for handling the unusual movement of cattle to market, so that they may be handled in an orderly way and at maximum prices; (d) that importations of hides be closely restricted, to offset the large number of hides that the drought will throw on the market; (e) that the Administration move to protect farmers against profiteering in feed and seed; (f) that the Administration authorize and urge the Regional Agricultural Credit corporations to make whatever loans may be necessary to finance the livestock industry during the drouth and financial emergency; (g) that until the effects of the drouth on cattle numbers may be accurately appraised, no effort be made to reduce cattle numbers through the medium of a control contract and processing tax.

In order that beef consumption may be increased to meet the emergency, the Administration should expend $2,000,000 beginning at once, to advertise beef, and to urge the patriotic necessity of greater consumption of beef at this time. If 10,000,000 families out of the country's 35,000,000 families could be induced to eat five pounds beef per month and outlet for a andditional 1,800,000 cattle would be provided, the committee says.

As plans were developing rapidly for handling of the emergency on the market, County Farm Bureaus were throwing all resources at their disposal into the local drive to get maximum salvage from the drouth, with the county agent as the spearhead in the fight.

ARE WE IN A ROAD JAM?

Under this heading, the Tracy Headlight Herald publishes an editorial calling attention to the prospect that Federal aid for Minnesota highways is likely to be reduced, and that Congress may soon require matching with state funds of any aid that is etended. Explaining that matching may not be possible, the Headlight concludes:

"With over 11,000 miles of state trunk roads to be maintained there are scarcely any funds left for new construction. Does this mean that the improvement of our state system has now come permanently to a standstill?"

Candidate for Re-election

County Auditor

To the Voters:

In soliciting your support for re-election to the office of County Auditor, I stand on my record during my first term.

I was elected to my first term on my pledge of an economical administration of the office This pledge I have fulfilled.

Being an experienced Accountant and auditor has enabled me to conduct my office during my first term without the expense of an experienced accountant for deputy. I have used only part time clerk hire and have operated my office at one-third the expense for Clerk Hire that my predecessor required, thereby effecting a saving of about $1,000.00 per year. My revision of the accounting system in the Auditor's office has effected other large savings.

There is no substitute for experience.

If my admistration of the office during my first term has met with your approval, your vote and support will be appreciated.

"All money shauld be issned directly by the government and made full tender in payments af all debts; all money permitted by law to be issued against the gold now win the United States treasury sould be put in circulatiaa by the payment of all government bonds due, or soon to became due, and in payment for all public warks construction; there shall be na further issue of interest bearing bonds."

The issuance of bonds is in essence the isuance of money, since it represents a government guarantee to pay. In effect, it means that the people are paying interest on their own money.

"Government should take over all war munition plants."

Private ownership of munition plants is one of the cases for war. It is in the interest of private owners that there are wars, and many a war has been plotted and encouraged aged by these internationalists posing as super-patriots. Coagress is undertaking an investigation of tha subversive activities of war munitions manufacturers, which should receive universal moral support.

STATE LEGISLATIVE PROGRAM

"The state to take over idle factories, operate these factoriea by nnemployed, and distribute the products ta relieve destitution among the needy."

This meets eye-to-eye with the plan of the Roosevelt administration, announced two weeks after the Farmer-Labor convention. The federal plans provide for the leasing by the government of idle factories in order to relieve unemployment and supply food and clothing to those in destitute circumstances. These factories would not be in competition with private industry. Most economists are agreed that, under the present system unemployment on a large scale will be a more or less permanent problem. Until a permanent solution for the problem is found, measures auch as the above are necessary.

"Mortagae Moratorium Law."

This law was passed by the last legislature despite most vigorous pressure to defeat it from reactionaries. The law was declared constitutional by the United States Supreme Court in a decision which held that the courts and the law must take cognizance of modern progress and the economic needs of the people. It marked a triumph of the doctrine that human rights take precedenee over property rights. The court, in its decision, said: "The question is no longer merely that of one party to a contract as against another, but of the use of reasonable means to safe-guard the economic structure upon which the good of all depends."

"Exemption of Homesteads."

The Farmer-Labor administration was instrumental in securing the passage of the homestead tax law. This measure reduces taxes on all homesteads and particularly upon the homestead of the small home owner and farmer. Taxes are now levied upon 20 per cent of tha first $4,000 of valuation of such farms instead of the previous 33 1-3 per cent, and upon 25 per cent of the first $4,000 of valuation of small homes as against a former basis of 40 per cent. This relief is not snfficient. All homesteads, in the city and the farm, should be exempt from taxes for the first $4,000 of valuation.

"Taxes an large incomes, gifts and inheritances."

In this way we can make up the reduction in tax receipts from exemption of homesteads from taxation for the first $4,000 of valuation. Furthermore, it has complete justification. Seventy-six per cent of the people—the great masses—posses less than six per cent of our wealth while one per cent possess fifty-nine per cent of our wealth. Those who have the power to consume the products of the farm and factory hava not the power to purchase these commodities. Taxation is one of the means effecting a redistribution of wealth.

"Establishment of a Central state reserve bank to be awned whally by the state of Minnesota.'

This bank should act as the fiscal agent for the state in all matters and be the only legal depository in Minnesota for state funds or tha funds of any sub-division of the state It would be permitted to purchase the securities of the United States government, the state of Minnesota and other securities designated by law. It also would be permitted to loan money to correspondent state banks, but not to private enterprises. A state reserve bank, owned, controlled and operated co-operatively by all the state banks, would liberata credits from monopolistic control and serve most of the purposes of the law, or would protect the independent banks. The only opposition to such a law comes from the chain banks.

"A law to permit cities, towns, and villages now owning and operating power and light plants to sell current freely to other communities."

A bill was introduced at the last legislature giving municipalities which own and operate power and light plants authority to extend their lines to neighboring villages and towns within a radius of 25 miles. The bill was enacted into law only after reactionary legislators tacked on an amendment which prohibits the sale of electrical current to towns and villages.

For example: The net electric rate at the city of Virginia, where there is in operation a municipal plant owned by the people, is two cent per kilowatt bour. The net electric rate at Eveleth, a next-door neighbor, supplied by a private company, is 7.5 cent per kilowatt hour. The people of Eveleth are anxious to be served from the publicly owned plant at Virginia.

PENNINGTON COUNTY DRIVERS HAVE NO TRAFFIC VIOLATIONS

During the months of April and May of this year, not one driver in Pennington county has been convicted of any violation of traffic laws. At least, no reports of any conviction have been received by the State Drivers License Bureau in St. Paul.

No reports have been received from any Justiee of Peace, Municipal or District Court in the county of any conviction of any offense against the traffic laws.

All courts are required to report these conviction to the Drivers License Division of the State Highway Department to be entered on the individual operator's record. Suspension or revocation of the license is then made, where this is provided for by law.

Unless reports are made by the courts, unsafe drivers cannot be promptly removed from the highways say bureau officials.

During my several years of teaching I spent my vacations in completing a business course at summer school sessions. I supplemented this course by correspondence courses in penmanship and accounting. After completing these courses, I audited books for stores and farmer's elevators, taught the subjects of bookkeeping, accounting, commercial arithmetic and penmanship in a business college and hold recommendations and testimonials from several of the students attending my classes.

County Auditor's offices are eqnipped with adding and computiag machines. A deputy is unnecessary. A part time clerk with mechanical ability to operate these machines, as an aid to the Auditor, at various rush work times, is all that is necessary.

If nominated and elected I shall abide by the state prescribed system of book-keeping and accounting; thus, maintaining state-wide nniformity, economizing on the work, worry and time of the state public examiners and taxpayers.

"Entered as second-class matter, April 27, 1932, at the post office at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, under Act of March 3, 1879."

We hold that where the well-being of one section or group of society is attained thru the oppression, exploitation, degradation, ignorance, negelect, or the unrewarded toil of masses, there is an inherent social wrong which must be corrected if eventual disaster is to be avoided. We also hold that no social system can endure or is entitled to our respect which does not guarantee to every willing worker the minimum essentials of life; namely: continuous employment; security against destitution which results from sickness, old age and accident; food; shelter; self-respect education for his children; and a reasonable amount of leisure."—from a statement by the Committee of 100, composed of leading clergymen and rabbis.

NOT LINED WITH PRECIOUS METALS, BUT LINED WITH HUMAN LIVES

We have heard of clouds having a silver lining, an at times there has been those who wished to place a special value on a rain cloud and referred to them as being lined with gold.

In times past, when so much emphasis was placed on the value of the precious metals such references got by as quite fitting, but they do not apply to the rain we received thruout the northwest the past week. Its value can only be measured in terms of human lives and happiness.

We journeyed to a picnic south of Gonvick on Sunday and were dismayed to see the terrible damage that the high winds and broiling sun had done. ditches were full of earth and sand, drifted in like snowdrifts; fields of rye were headed out and bleached white and only six inches in height. Pastures were brown and bare as in November, peat and brush fires smouldered in several places. It was not a very pleasant picture.

But today the picture looks different. Pastures are turning green, the fires are out and the late crops are showing signs of revival and life. The hope that springs eternal in the human breast, again swells and throbs.

A week ago we might wonder if we were to be visited with a terrible retribution for holding the bounties of nature so lightly and handling her fruits so callously as to wantonly to destroy surplusses.

If the experiences of the past two months has driven home a lesson to the effect that we can not solve our economic problems by abusing providence, but that it must be done by cooperation with the Creator, we may yet have gained something by the experience.

"PASSING THE BUCK"

In view of the fact that there seems to be a deliberate attempt being made by Mayor Tungseth and his "boy friend" engineer to "pass the buck" for the recent and frequent shut-downs of the power plant to an innocent party, we feel that it is quite proper that we call several facts to the attention of the citizens of Thief River Falls.

1. Mr. Viebahn's practical experience as an electrical engineer before coming to this city and being placed in charge of Thief River Falls' half a million dollar power and light plant was "he worked for St. Louis county as an electrical engineer, looking after the motors and electric lighting plants in the rural schools for several months."

2. In his survey of the power and light facilities in this city last summer he recommended that new alternators should be purchased and installed on the old Bush-Sulzer engines. He stated that these engines still retained 30 per cent of their life. He rated them at 20 kilowatts more than the manufacturers of the engines rated them when they were new.

3. That A. G. Anderson, the engineer who has now been dismissed by the city, in commenting on the survey stated that it was not feasible to install new alternators on these engines; that the cost would be excessive and that the engines are not worth it.

4. That on May 1st last, Mr. Viebahn stated to the council that inasmuch as four of five years more of service is all that can be expected from the old Bush-Sulzer engines it would not be advisable to purchase new alternators for them since the old engines would soon be worn out and the city would have a couple of new alternators on its hands that it could not use.

5. That Mr. Viebahn has backed down on every other essential part of that original survey.

6. That the plant has had more shut-downs in the last six months than in the previous six years.

7. That on a recent Sunday when the plant shut down and "juice" was cut off for several hours, threatening the destruction of several thousand eggs in the electric incubator at the Land O' Lakes hatchery and making it necessary for the management of the Avalon theatre to refund the admission price to a matinee audience, the shut-down was caused by Mr. Viebahn. He had changed the hook-up of the voltage regulator at the power house and caused a dead short circuit which burnt away part of the instrument when the current was thrown on. And that on Tuesday, May 29th, when Chief Engineer A. G. Anderson shut down the McIntosh-Seymour unit because it showed signs of oil trouble, Mr. Viebahn ordered him to the other power house and instructed the superintendent to restart the engine. That the superintendent objected that the trouble should be looked into but was over-ruled, and the unit restarted, resulting in a cylinder being severely scored.

8. That Mr. Viebahn ordered the digging of trenches for water mains and for light circuits in various parts to the city to be done with CWA funds and that a great part of those renches were refilled wihout mains or cable being laid.

9. That Mr Viebahn ordered the streetlights in the north part of the city torn down without having new cable on hand and having no assurance that any would be available. That this part of the city was in darkness for about five weeks. That the trenches were left ungarded during this time and that the state highway was cut thru leaving only room enough for one car to pass and no warning signals were installed until ordered by the state maintainance foreman. That the state highway department was not asked for permission before these trenches were cut nor even notified.

10. That the city's experienced and capable employees have been discharged and their places filled with young inexperienced help and one engineer from Minneapolis. That Mr. Anderson has been employed as engineer for the city for 16 years and in that time has worked under five administrations and always has been one of the city's most capable men. That he is a home owner and a taxpayer. That Mr. Byrom, the other man dismissed at this time, has been in the employ of the city for seven years, working under three administrations and has always been considered an exceptionally well qualified lineman and foreman.

11. That Mr. Viebahn regardless of diplomas and technical training which we do not for one moment deny has shown a deplorable lack of experience, tact and ability in the handling of men and has apparently been used as a catspaw by Mayor Tungseth in a vindictive program of political vengance. The responsibility must rest upon the Mayor and the Council for they are responsible for placing this young inexperienced man in his position.

12. That Mr. Viebahn's boyish provlivity for "taking the clock apart to see what makes it run" has been the cause of much if not all the irregularity in the light and power service.

These facts can be verified by any citizen who wants to take the trouble of looking into the matter.

Abraham Lincoln is credited with the statement that "You can fool some of the people all of the time and all of the people some of the time, but you can't fool all the people all of the time," and we believe that by this time the citizens of Thief River Falls should be awake to the situation and take steps to safeguard the light and power facilities of the city which has been built up thru a generation of hard work on the part of the people and experienced officials and employees. It can be dissipated in less than eighteen months if it is left in the hands of carpet-baggers.

Monday afternoon we were poring over the sample ballot figuring out who we ought to vote for, for suprem court justices and someone came in and when we looked up here was the supreme court standing in front of us in the flesh. And was our face red? Anyway, Associate Justice Julius J. Olson introduced us to the whole outfit, Chief Justice Devavey, Associate Justices Loring and Hilton. They all had a he-man handshake and we decided that even justices of the supreme court are humans after all.

Chief Justice Devaney invited us to come in and see the court sometime when we happened to be in St. Paul and we confessed that we had spent four months at the capitol during the regular session of the legislature, and had on two or three occasions decided to visit the court, but when we came to the doorway and observed the quiet austerity and severe dignity, we were plumb flabergasted and withdrew in haste. We were assured however, that the austerity if not the dignity ends at the door and we have made up our mind to go thru the ordeal next time we visit the capitol.

Anyway meeting them has made it a lot easier to decide that we can vote for them.

PLATFORM NOT CHANGED
(Askov American)

Some of the reactionary newspapers out over the state have been trying to make out that leaders of the Farmer-Labor party are running away from the platform adopted at the state convention in March. No truth to that statement.

The fact is that the antagonistic press was placing all kinds of interpretations on that platform—different than what was stated and intended, and therefore it was well that the legislative committee of the Farmer-Labor Association did some segregating and interpreting of its own for members of its political party. Folks outside of the Farmer-Labor party have been altogether too anxious to do the interpreting for the Farmer-Labor voters.

All voters have not studied politics and economics to an equal degree and if the platform, through explanations, can be made more plain and more easily understood, all well and good. State legislative proposals in the platform naturally should be in a group by themselves, likewise state constitutional amendment proposals; and all proposals pertaining to federal legislation and federal constitutional amendments in another group. The segregation was not done at the state convention—the time was limited there, but it has since been done and that does not change the original meaning of the platform one iota.

As for interpretations on the platform—its meaning—it would seem only reasonable and natural that that had better be made by members of the Farmer-Labor party. Republicans and Democrats may interpret their own platforms all they wish but as for the Farmer-Labor platform it would seem that Farmer-Laborites should best be able to understand and comprehend that.

MILITANT CHRISTIANITY
(Minnesota Union Advocate)

It is a pitiful fact that the average church for many years failed to use its spiritual power to challenge the ungodly conditions which have resulted from an industrial system which has grown powerful through the adoration of the machine. The church, for a long period of time, has failed to take note of the natural trend of events. It has ignored the fact that great machines have been perfected and installed to glorify profit at the sacrifice of everything worthwhile. It has looked with indifference at the displacement of man-labor by machine-power until millions of willing workers had been forced into the breadlines. It has taken up the hew and cry of the vested interests every time a progressive measure has been presented to the high congress of public opinion, and assailed proposals on the cheap ground of patriotism.

But the order is changing rapidly. Today, christianity is becoming militant, humane and courageous. It is facing the realities of life and conditions. It no longer deals in mere platitudes. It now strikes out at the forces which operate to depress and pauperize the human family.

Last week Rev. James E. Freeman, bishop of Washington, opened the diocesan convention of the Episcopal church with a call for real militancy on the part of his group. He demanded a revitalized church, a militant leadership in the war on economic conditions which he characterized as "unchristian."

Said Bishop Freeman:

"A very great body if men, women and children are living below the poverty level. It is estimated that there are 40,000,000 so situated in this country This is a serious indictment of our boasted Christian system, and witnesses to the break-down of our social and economic order.

"It is inconceivable to think of the Christian church as being satisfied with ministering to an elect few, and going along its way unmindful of the appalling evils that are practiced to the hurt of vast numbers of our citizens.

"I appeal for a church that gives its fearless and unqualified support to programs and measures designed to make more just living conditions, and to ease burdens that fall upon shoulders too feeble to bear them."

No one, not even the Pioneer Press or the St. Paul Dispatch, would dare accuse Bishop Freeman or the Episcopal church of being revolutionary, red of communistic. Yet this learned church leader has declared in just so many words the sum and substance of the Farmer-Labor platform. The only difference is in favor of the Farmer-Labor platform. It outlines a definite method of solving the problems created by rugged individualists and other hide-bound republicans.

Farmer-Labor Press Service
by Senator Henry G. Teigan

Republican and democratic politicians were given two good jolts last week. These jolts came by way of settlement of the Truck Drivers' strike in Minneapolis and in the investigation of the Northwest Bancorporation now being conducted by the state department of commerce.

Governor Floyd B. Olson was largely responsible for settling the strike. While the newspapers of the state had charged the governor with indirect responsibility for starting the strike, none of those papers have thus far had the decency to credit him with its settlement. This merely illustrate how servile republican newspapers are to the employer class and how lacking in fairness they are when it comes to the printing of the truth from the point of view of the producers of wealth.

Olson Deserves Credit

Anyway the strike was settled in a manner quite satisfactory to the workers, and the governor deserves the major credit for bringing about a peaceful adjustment of the class conflict that had raged in the Mill City for nearly two weeks. Hereafter according to the agreement concluded, the employers will have to recognize the workers in their collecnate against bona fide trade union organizations representing the latter

The Bancorporation investigation brought out some revelations during the past week that is causing a small concern of this and other chain bank groups now operating in the state of Minnesota.

Banco Spent $27,000

The "Baco" was revealed as having spent $27,000 for lobbying activities at the Federal Capitol. The objective was to secure legislation permitting branch banking in the state of Minnesota. A Mr. Gardner Perry was the Banco's Washington lobbyist. The correspondence between Perry and Mr. J. C. Thompson, president of the corporation, showed how intent this powerful banking group was to secure sanction for its now illegal system of branch banking in the Twin Cities.

Special offers were made by the Banco through Perry to line up some of the progressive senators in support of legislation to legalize branch banking. Among the senators worked on were Blaine of Wisconsin, Norbeck of South Dakota, and Long of Louisano. Other senators who seemed obstinate from the Banco's point of view, were Shipstead of Minnesota, Frazier of North Dakota, and LaFollette of Wisconsin.

Reactionary Senators Give Aid

But there were plenty of senators giving aid to Banco's proposal. Among these were Waterman of Colorado, Glenn of Illinois, Watson and Robinson of Indiana.

This fight for the legalization of branch banking took place during the latter part of the Hoover administration. It is an interesting fact that three of the branch bank advocates named above were elimiated at the November 1932 election. They were Waterman, Glenn and Watson.

Two other things that the investigation revealed were that the Banco group gave no aid whatever to the farmers, and that university professors were being employed to assist the powerful banking groups in their efforts to put over the kind of legislation they wanted.

No Aid For Farmers

In a speech made at a conference of banks affiliated with the Banco some time ago, E. W. Docker, then president of the Bancorporation, advocated making no loans to the farmers. "If a farmer is no good, he might as well get out," he said. "It is a case of the survival of the fittest And I do not propose to hold an umbrella over the farmers."

The professors were hired to write pamphlets boosting Banco's legislative plans. Incidently too, Carter Glass, democrat from Virginia and chairman of the senate banking and currency committee, allowed Mr. Perry to frank out (without payment of postage) a letter prepared by himself and Rudolph Lee, writar on the Minneapolis Journal and head of several banks in the northern part of the state.

More Hearings Next Week

The invetsigation will be resumed next week. The members of the Securities Commission, now conducting the investigation are as follows: Elmer A. Benson, commissioner of banks, chairman; S. Paul. Skahen, commissioner of securities; and Garfield W. Brown, commissioner of insurance. W. E. G. Watson of Minneapolis is attorney for the commission.

Minute Sermons
By Dr. Crawford Graya

Young folks are the victims of temptations made possible by parents, industry, amusements politics and law laxness and, they find the church financially spiritually, educationally and constructively paralyzed because of its jigsaw splits and divisions.

All articles of the Associated Press, all films of the movies thruout the past five consecutive years, and more, have favored the onward march of repeal. What fairness or justice is there when we are chain-gaaged by such a pair of the nation's most powerful corrupting propagaada twins.

Thousands of young people just graduated and what a world they are entering! Every known wicked influence, managed by adults, in control. Commercial, press and amusements influences hilariously ballyhooing modern youth on the broad road that leads to destruction. Where is the protective influence of home, school, law and church? Who Cares?

Two Presidents Arrested

Theoretically, a President of the United States cannot be arrested, not even for murder. Yet, two Presidents were arrested while occupants of the White House. On a night in 1853 President Pierce, returning on horseback from the home of a friend, accidentally ran down an aged woman and was placed under arrest by a Washington constable. Upon making known his identity he was released. Not many years later President Grant was arrested in Washington for driving too fast. He, too, was likewise released and permitted to return to the White House, but the policeman took the horse to the police station.

Oldest Court of Justice

The oldest court of justice in the world is the "Tribunal of the Waters," held weekly in Valencia, Spain, for 972 years. Eight judges hear cases concerning the vast water system of the province and quickly render their verbal decisions, which are not subject to argument or appeal.

"Big Eight" Given Price-fixing Power.

5. The code gives to the distributors (generally the "big eight") the right to fix admission prices through the provision that allows them to insist upon a minimum admission for their own pictures

It was brought out that such a control might cause to a theater the loss of a large part of its clientele through resentment against what would be deemed and unjustifiable advance in prices while the theater owner would be power less to meet such an attack.

6. That the large distributors are allowed to insert their contracts with the theaters, provisions that are not authorized by the code, and are detrimental to the independent theaters. These extra-legal provisions, it was set forth, were often in the shape of an agreement against the showing of two feature pictures on the same program.

The courts have held this stipulation to be unfair. In the practice, it deprives the indepenent theater of one means to meet the competition of the affiliated theaters, which are the theaters affiliated with or controlled by the "big eight."

7. The code set up boards to classify theaters in the order in which they can have the use of popular and desirable pictures, and these boards, it is averred, are controlled by or in the interest of the large producers and distributors. The result it that in many instances independent theaters cannot get the popular pictures until their competitors have largely exhausted the wadring power therein.

Findings—It is the opinion of this board that the code adopted for this industry should be amended in accordance with the attached brief.

RETAIL SOLID FUEL

The dominating power in this industry is the National Retail Coal Dealers Association. The code was made and the code authority chosen by members of this association without due representation of coal dealers that were not members. The operation of the code thus made and administered tends to oppress the small enterprise.

The code requires certain confidential business information to be disclosed, which constitutes a perilous practice and one liable to abuse. Power is given to divisional code authorities to prohibit the marketing of blends," a prohibition that seems unnecessary and is the occasion for complaint.

It is in these particulars that the small enterprise seems most oppressed. The evil and should be remedied by amending he code and giving fair repreentation to the dealers not members of the association,.

(To be continued next week)

The following is a continuation of a summary of NRS,s reply to the charges of the Darrow committee, and was prepared by Donald Richberg, general counsel to NRA.

MOTION PICTURES

The record of this hearing by the review board is a revalation of its methods. The board reports that the deputy administrator "was invited to testify but refused to do so.' The record, including a letter from the deputy administrator, shows that he not only ogered to testify, but to make all his records available to the board.

The code was assented to in writing by 9,039 members of the industry. Twenty-one complaining witnesses were heard by the board, including 15 out of 7,500 theater operators. In contrast to 14 hours and 20 minutes of "hearings" by the board, NRA spent over 1,200 hours on the drafting of the code, heard 206 witnesses and obtained a code acceptable, not only to the industry, but approved by all he advisory boards of NRA representing industry, labor, consumers, economic research and law.

The board acted solely on the basis of a dsiorderly mess of unsworn and largely false testimony of a few malcontents (many of them discredited by previously illegal practices), covering only 8 out of 288 subdivisions of the code, and arrived at sweeping conclusions upon the entire code founded on obvious ignorance of the code, of the industry and the law.

RETAIL SOLID FUEL

In regard to this industry the board received a protest in behalf of a group of associations from metropolitan New York not affiliated with the National Retail Coal Merchants Association, who were sponsors of the code. The protesting groups admitted they had representation; admitted no unfair action had been taken to date, but they were protesting in fear of what might happen.

In the absence of any evidence of any oppression and in view of the effort of the NRA to set up a truly representative code in an industry only particially organized, the criticism of his code is trivial and captious.

AFTER TEMPEST

The fiery winds have swept the ways of earth,
But not in vain their rage and violence;
For some new spring will surely come to birth;
The wrath of God hath always recompense.

There will be beauty in the world again,
And wonder will transfigure sea and land.
Burned clear of chaff, the fields with living grain
Shall soon stand bravely forth; on every hand
Shall old-time glory light the ways of life.

Hate will be past, and war a memory;
Men will be friends, and nations, shorn of strife,
Will bide in peace, in Christian charity.
Old days are gone, and in the vernal wind
Are promises of golden sheaves to bind.

Thomas Curtis Clark.

LUNDEEN INTRODUCES HOUSE RESOLUTION 385 OPPOSING USE OF ARMED TROOPS AGAINST STRICKERS.

For years, Congressman Ernest Lundeen has opposed the use of private armies with dangerous and powerful weapons against labor striking for better conditions. The use of private armies is a throwback to medieval times and barbarism. The hiring cf non-descript thugs and criminals to carry arms against American workmen is certainly not to the credit of employers who ought to use ordinary common sense.

We have forces of police in every city. We have sheriffs, and deputy sheriffs who may be appointed in large numbers. There is a large, well armed National Guard, and there are federal troops, and while the use of such forces and troops against the workers is greatly to be regretted and opposed, they are the armed police force cf the nation, and there is no necessity for ruising privute armies with machine guns and their acts of terrorism.

The American Government must take a positive, definite and final step against these private armies and armed irresponsible in dividuals frequently imported for sudden use and shifted frcm point to point, and make such use of armed men and private armies punishable by severe penalities.

Signs Municipal Bankruptcy Bill.

The bill which recently passed Congress providing for adjustment of municipal debts, is now a law upon the statute books of the naticn, by signature of the President. Hundreds of municipalities and many of our large cities are in serious financial difficulties, and Congress and the President were compelled to take immediate action.

Must Not Demobolize Our Schools

There is no good reascn why we should cut into cur schools and demobolize our teachers and eductional system. Why thus imperil the future of our country? The Capitol is being flooded with letters from teachers, professors, school children and Presidents of our Universities pleading for fair play and a continnuance of the full school year.

Mcre than a year ago, Congressman Lundeen warned about this approaching condition; in fact, he predicted an attack upon our schools due to the pressure of war debts and after war conditions. He maintains that the future of A merica must be protected! Our children must be given educational facilities, no matter if a few millicnaries and billonaires may have to sustain heavy income, gift and inheritance taxes today, and he will undertake to prove where that money is located if anyone doubts his statement.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

The country is flooded with illegal—fully as much as in the worst days of prohibition. Repeal was going to abolish the bootlegger. It has not made a dent in his business. The Yakima Republic, one of the most emphatic cf the repeal proponents, now admits the error of its old argument and avers that it is not to be hoped that the sate can make a porfit from the liquor business frcm the liquor business without perpetuating the bootlegger. So the old contention that repeal would bring back prosperity seems to be discarded.

The federal investigator of the alcoholic beverage business reports that illicit stills in Washington and Oregon are turning out daily more liquor than is sold in the state liquor stores of both states. He reports hat seven distilleries raided by his agents were making 3000 gallons of alcohol a day and depriving the federal government of $11,400 internal revenue taxes.

Drunkeness is more prevalent in Sunnyside than it has ever been in the past twenty years. Newspapers from all parts of the state, including the wet metropolitan dalies, inform us that conditions have never before been so bad. The number of arrests for drunken driving continues to mount.

Repeal was going to stop drinking among young people, who were said to be drinking just because it was forbidden. No noticeable decrease has occurred. In fact reports are almost unanimous that drunkeness among the youth is increasing.

The indignation of the people against the present booze conditions is mountinp faster than the most rabid ani-repealist ever dreamed possible. Even the rabidly wet Hearst nwspapers report an alarming spread of bootlegging activities. Drunkenness and drunken driving is reported in all newspapers as more common than ever before.

DETROIT SYMPHONY WILL PLAY AT CHICAGO FAIR

Under the terms of an agreement signed today by the Ford Motor Co. and the Detroit Symphony Society, the Detroit Symphony Orchestra will appear in A Century of Progress Exposition, Chicago, for twelve consecutive weeks, beginning June 16, giving two concerts a day in conjunction with the Ford Motor Company's exhibit.

Announcement of the agreement was made by Murray G. Paterson, secretary of the Detroit Symphony Society, who signed for the Society. B. J. Craig signed for the Ford Motor Company.

The orchestra, as it will go to Chicago, will be composed of 70 musicians, with Victor Kolar as conductor. The concert will be given in na especially constructed shell in Ford Gardens, on the shore of Lake Michigan, adjacent to the colossal Ford Exposition Building, and will be broadcast by several national radio networks.

ABOUT THE CANDIDACY OF A. C. TOWNLEY

I have heard it said that A. C. Townley should be elected to Congress by the Farmer-Labor voters of the Ninth Congressional District because he is the original Farmer-Laborite; that the Non-partisan League which Townley started was the beginning of the Farmer-Labor party and that Townley has always been a Farmer-Laborite.

The idea of a progressive, third part here in Minnesota, dates back to the Farmers Alliance and the Peoples Party. No one acquainted with political history will deny this. That pioneer movement prepared the ground and so made it easy for the Non-partisan League to get a foothold in this state, when it came across the Red River in 1917. But Townley and his lieutenants did not have in mind a new party. They did not want that. In North Dakota, where the league started there is no new party even today. They are all fighting within the old Republican part. If Mr. Townley is honest he will admit that he was very much opposed to the formation of the Farmer-Labor Party. When this party was launched in 1922 and the Farmer-Labor Association was formed to act as a holding company for the official party, A. C. Townley fought it with all the strengh he had. I know what I am talking about because I was in the thick of the fight for the formation of the party and I know what I and the others that stood with me had to buck up against. After we won out and the party got under way, Townley and his closest followers kept on holding annual conventions of the Non-partisan League, electing figurehead officers in an effort to keep the league alive and with the apparent hope that the association and the party would die so that they could get into the limelight again and again start boring from within the Republican party. And now that Townley has had to give up the Minnesota Non-partisan League and after he has failed to find oil or a seat in Congress from North Dakota, he comes here to Minnesota, to the Ninth District and asks us to let him ride in on the wagon that he tried so hard to prevent being built back in 1922. He has never, to my knowledge admitted that he was wrong in fighting the formation of the Farmer-Labor party.

Beginning, in 1918 the Non-partisan League endorsed the State candidates and filed them on the Republican ballot. It was freely stated that, although we could not agreed with the principles of that party we were going to work in and take the pary organization over. When we failed to nominate our candidates in the primaries thut year, David Evans was filed by petition as Farmer-Labor. But in 1920 we again endorsed and filed our slate on the Republican ballot. I was endorsed for Secretary of State und I shall never forget how distastcful it was to me to make my filing as a Republican. I felt that I did not belong in that party. I could not see why we should not hoist a clean flag and go it on our own. Many others felt the same way and so, in 1922 we came to the ionvention determined to organize our party and cut loose from the old. As mentioned above, Townley did the best he could to stop us from doing so.

There are other angles to this. I could write a much longer article and tell some other interesting things from the hectic day of 1922, but I shall not burden newspaper space with that at this time. I have written what I have here only in an effort to bring home to the honest, square shooting Farmer-Labor men and women of the Ninth District that Townley has no right to ask for the aomination of the Farmer-Labor party. In the face of the undeniable fact that we have any number of REAL Farmer-Laborites in the district that are well qualified to represent us in Washington; when the pary delegates have endorsed a caadidate for that position who is a bonafide resident of the district and a farmer and who knows the tronhle that this section of the state of tha state is in and one that we all know is a full fledged member of the party, then let us stand together and by our orgaaization. Remember the struggle we have gone through to get this far. Don't spoil our chances in the fall election. Let us vote for our own on June 18th.

If Townley and his backers are so positive that the Non-partisan Leagua is the father of the Farmer-Labor Party and that Townley is tha original Farmer-Laborite, let me remind them that one of the main principles of the League was that candidates should be endorsed at regular conventions nnd when so endorsed, the rest of us should stand by the selected candidate and that if any member filed against the endorsed candidate, snch member was a traitor. Townley was present at the convention that endorsed Buckler and indicated before the choice was made that he would stand by the decision of the convention. He did not even qualify it with that in order for him to do so the choice would have to be himself. After the final vote his right-hand bower, Attorney Martin from Fergus Falls made the motion to make the nomination unanimons and stated thnt he did so in behalf of Townley. What sort of a bunch of Townley and his supporters worth nothing?

In conclusion let me state that if the Farmer-Labor movement is worth anything. If we, that claim to belong to it feel that we have something that ought to grow and develope in order to do what was intended, then we must be ready and willing t sacrifice personal ambition for the common good and stand together. We must admit that a majority has the rgiht to rule aad we must put the movement first and ourselves second.

Yours for a clean and hoaest Farmer-Labor movement.

SHEEP MAGGOTS MAY GIVE TROUBLE, CO. AGENT SAY

Maggots are likely to trouble sheep from now until shearing and docking time, and more or-less thruout the fly, according to P. A. Anderson, sheep husbandman of the University of Minnesota Department of Agriculture.

A few Pennington County farmers have reported the presence of maggots in their flocks to County Agent R. M. Douglass and similar troubles are anticipated in other parts of the county.

"Maggot eggs are laid by flies in the soiled wool at the rear of the sheep or in open cuts caused by docking, castrating or faulty shearing" says Mr. Anderson. "When hatched, they burrow into the wool or skin, causing the sheep much uneasiness and pain. If neglected they may even cause serious infection resulting in death.

"Early docking helps to keep lambs from becoming infected with maggots. All cuts and scratches should ba treated with pine oil or sheep-dip to keep the flies from laying eggs about the injured parts.

"If sheep are seen squirming, twisting and trying to bite or rub themselves they should be examined for maggots. The wet, soiled wool should be removed and gasoline applied, followed by applications of sheep-dip or pine oil. Until the maggots are destroyed, the sheep should be kept in pens for obsrvation."

For further information ask your county agent for Minnesota Special Bulletin 141 which is just off the press. Copies may be obtained also by writing to University Farm, St. Peul.

Famous Iraq

Iraq, now a full-fledged state, is the birthplace of the "Arabian Nights," the "Land of the Magic Carpet," the legendary site of "The Garden of Eden," the heir of Babylon Nineveh, and Ur. Iraq is the land of the gufa, or round boat. Tradition says that the infant Moses was set adrift in one of these reed-woven, tar calked boats.

A. C. MATHESON

Candidate for Re-election

County Superintendent of Schools

The dnties of my office as County Superintendent will prevent me from calling on all the voters of the county, so I will hereby express my thanka for your support during my first term. I promised to conduct my office economically and I have tried in every way to fulfill that promise. I am a taxpayer myself and realize in these times we can not afford to experiment with doubtful projects that take the peoplea money earned by toil end aecrifice.

Every school in the county is up to standard and are getting full state eid.

If my record has met with your approval I shall appreciate your vote and support at the Primary Election, J. 18 and if re-elected, I shall continue to do my utmost for our country schools. I thank you sincerely.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT— Prepared and published by the Otter Tail County All Party Progressive Association and the Farmer Labor Volunteer Committee, Fergus Falls, Minn., in behalf of Judge Henry Nycklemoe and paid for at reg. adv. rates.

HENRY NYCKLEMOE

FOR CONGRESS
FARMER-LABOR TICKET
Most Popular Candidate

Popular because he is a man of the people and an outstanding progressive. Nycklemoe was brought up on a farm in Otter Tail County; he worked his way through school; he is a graduate of St. Olaf College and the University of Law School. While at college, Nycklemoe organized the first Shipstead Club and ever since he has been an odmirer of Senator Shipstead's progressive record. . . . .

Like the Honorable Senator, Nycklemoe's progressive record has won for him the warm support of not only Farmer-Labor people but all other progressivea. The majority of people prefer a progressive of Nycklemoe's type as he is not a radical nor controlled by anyone, but an independent who believes in sound and sane progressive legislation, including the Frazier Bill and stabilization of agriculture.

Nycklemoe's popularity is apreading rapidly and it is conceded that the nomination will moat assuredly mean his election. Nycklemoe's knocks of experience and training makes him well quelified to serve his people in Congress. He has served as Municipal Judge in Fergus Falls since 1928 and was recently endorsed for Federal Judge by the Farmer-Labor Party. He is a Scandinavian and an Ex-Service man and in his prime of life, 42 years old.

The Judge is a man in whom the people have confidence. He believea in protecting the rights of the individual American citizen. A vote for Judge Henry Nycklemoe, at the primaries, for Congress on the Farmer-Labor ticket, is a vote in your own behalf.

COOP. CREAMERY HAS GAIN OF 40,000 POUNDS IN 5 MONTHS PERIOD

G. S. Bergland, manager of the local cooperative creamery announced this week that the local plant has registered a gain of 20,000 pounds in volume of butter output during the month of May, as compared with last May. The past five months show a gain of 40,000 pounds, Mr. Bergland stated.

This showing is all the more remarkable in view of the fact that pasturage has been poorer this year than it can be remembered for many years.

Fern Barnett Will Present Senior Piano Recital June 14, at Community Church

Miss Fern Barnett, corresponding secretary of the Thi Ri Fa Mu club of this city, will present her senior piano recital Thursday, June 14, under the direction of her teacher, Thelma Holm Erickson, with whom she has studied for 8 years. The recital will be given at the Community Church at 8 o'clock.

Despite the fact that she has been unable to walk for 12 years without the aid of crutches, Miss Barnett has overcome what has seemed to be impossible obstacles by her great will power to improve herself, and to be of service to others.

That Miss Barnett has a great talent is proven by the fact that she has been awarded a second scholarship for summer study at MacPhail School of Music in Minneapolis, on which completion she will receive her music teacher's certificate. For the past two years, she has been teaching piano to a proup of pupils.

At her senior recital, Miss Barnett will be assisted by Mrs. Cora Holmberg, Gordon Overland and Justice Larson. There will be no admission charge and all are invited to attend.

KEPT PRESS TEXT BOOK SCARE IS PROPAGANDA

—o—

Much of the ballyhoo of the old party candidates and of Republican newspapers centers abouts the plank in the Farmer-Labor Platform that declares for state printing of the textboooks in the public schools. The contention of these reactionary politicians and newspapers is that the Farmer-Laborities desire to propagandize the students and pupils in support of the F-L cause.

This scurrilous propaganda carried on by enemy newspapers and politicians is, of course false. What the Farmer-Labor convention declared for was that textbooks be "printed by the state" with the view of saving our people hundreds of thousands of dollars annually in money now being paid to the Book Trust.

Printed Textbooks 1877-1892

In this connection it is interesting to know what the history of this kind of legislation has been in Minnesota in years gone by.

In 1874, a resolution was passed by the legislature which declared that the scholbook ring had a monoply and was selling books at sixty per cent above cost.

Ignatius Donnelly, then a state senator, proposed that the state hire scholars to write textbooks, print them at Red Wing Reform School, and distribute them to the schools free. Nothing came of this however Dispatch Supported Bill.

In 1877 a St. Paul bookseller whose name was Daniel D. Merrill, offered to sign a contract to furnish textbooks to the common schools for fifteen years for one-half the prevailing price. The legislature accepted this proposal and Governor Pillsbury signed the bill. Under the provision of this bill, no common nor independent school district could receive its share of the general school fund until it used the state books. A revolving fund of $50,000 was set up to carry out the bill. News of its passing and being signed is found in the Minneapolis Tribune of February 7, 1877. An editorial in the Tribune of February 13, 1877 gave five objections to the bill. The St. Paul Daily Dispatch. and Pioneer Press supported the bill.

Opponents Used Bribery

In 1878 an effort was made to weaken the law by providing that the use of the state books would be optional with the district. On February 16, 1878, Representative Brandt of Brown County rose in the House and displayed to the members a $50 bill which he stated had been paid him to secure his vote on this amendment. An investigation was appointed to look into the matter. To this committee a Mr. Liberty Hall of Glencoe swore that when Brandt assured him he would vote for the amendment, he had given him money. Hall was not arrested nor was Brandt thanked. The amendment failed, however.

Pillsbury Approved Measure.

In 1878 one-third of the common and independent school districts had put the state books into use, and though a referedum was submitted as to continuance of the arrangement the system continued. In his message to the legislature in 1881, Gov. Pillsbury said the system had gained ground, that 731,747 books had been supplied at a cost of $173,951 instead of the $414,757 which would have been paid on the open market, and in the Governor's words the books were "equal if not superior to any class of school books," then in use.

The law survived a second referendum and remained operative until August 25, 1892, when the contract expired. Books to be published were selected by a commission of three members.

In 1898 John Lind was elected Governor. In his message to the legislature in 1889 he recommended that textbooks be printed by the state.

Trusts Methods in 1934.

On May 5, in 1934, a transcript of a closed NRA hearing in April, brought forth testimony that $500,000 had been spent by book manufacturers on meals for prospective purchasers. Mr J. D. Phillips of Houghton Mifflin Company of Boston was responsible for the figure. (Minneapolis Tribune 5|5|34.) This was the allowance of one firm.

"Flying Down to Rio" at Avalon Wed. and Thurs.

The feature picture at the Avalon theater on Sunday and Monday, June 17-18, will be "Manhattan Melodrama" with Clark Gable, William Powell, and Myrna Loy in the cast. The plot concerns two East Side lads who grew to manhood on diverging paths. Clark Gable becomes a gambler and William Powell the district attorney and later governor. Love for the same girl, Myrna Loy, does not destroy their bond. The climax is grim when Gable is accused of murder and his pal is forced to prosecute him.

"Flying Down to Rio" will be shown on Wednesday and Thursday, June 20 and 21.

Lilting melodies and a sparkling chorus elevate "Flying Down to Rio" into the spectacular realm. Gene Raymond is th orchestra leader who has been hired to put a hotel on its feet. He fals in love with Dolors Del Rio the girl of the hotel. Fred Astnir's the film, and Ginger Rogers and Raoul Roulien are also prominent.

COURT WRIT IS ISSUED AGAINST NEW FIRETRUCK

Injunction Proceedings are Instituted Against City On Wednesday.

A group of businessmen met at the court rooms on Monday evening and discussed the purchase by the city administration of a fire truck. It was decided that all is not as it ought to be and they organized a committee to retain an attorney and request an injunction against the city officials, restraining them from entering into the contract.

Steps were taken immediately and a restraining order was signed by Judge M. A. Brattland of the District Court and served on the city officials on Wednesday.

The action was brought by Harry Brummund and his bondsmen are C Knudson, F. P. Greene, B. Dan Bjorkman and Nels G Olson. Paul A. Lundgren is their attorney.

The complaint charges that the purchase will create an illegal contract since there is no funds available for the purchase nor has any levy been made to meet it. The complaint cites Sec. 108, Chap. 8 of the Session Laws of 1895 under which the city is chartered. Hearing on the court order is set for June 28 at 2 o'clock.

Chief Stenberg Issues Warning on Parking To Drivers of Trucks

It was announced by Chief of Police A. B. Stenberg that the practice of parking large trucks on the down town streets must be discontinued, except for the time sufficient to load or unload. He remarked that diagonal parking with long trucks is a dangerous practice and if the trucks are parked parallel with the curb they take up too much of our ilmited parking space.

Chief of Police Stenberg calls your attention to a section of the city Traffic Ordinance which provides as follows:

"No truck or other vehicle using or equipped with a trailer or extended body or other extention or projection beyond the original length of such vehicle, nor any passenger bus shall be permitted to so park diagonally, or in any manner on any street within the congested distict, except for a time sufficient to load or unload and in such case only parallel parking shall be permitted except as provided in subdivision "b" hereof, and provided further, that in no case shall it be permissible to load or unload commodities from one truck to another on any street within the congested distrirt."

Please be governed by the above parking restrictions relating to trucks. Tags will be issued for violations.

Large Gathering Attends Thelma Holm Erickson's Recital Tuesday Evening

A large gathering attended the fine piano recital given by pupils of Mrs. Thelma Holm Erickson on Tuesday evening at the Community Church. In the absence of Mrs. Erickson, due to illness, the program was conducted by Angeline Havel. Piano selections were played by pupils of four to a class, classes of two, and Mrs. Erickson's private pupils. Included on the program were compositions of Liebling, Liszt, Chaminade, Chopin, Dohnonyi, Rachmaninoff, MacDowell and Nieman. A few pupils of Fern Barnett and Angeline Havel were also presented.

C. W. A. DEMANDS RESIGNATION OF CITY'S ENGINEER

'Are We Responsible to You' The Mayor Questions His Intergators.

Between 200 and 300 people gathered at the city auditorium Tuesday evening completely filling the council chamber and the vestibule and the stairs and sidewalk outside of the building when a rumor circulated the city to the effect that a demand was to be made on the council for the resignation of the city Engineer, Mr. Viebahn and the reinstatement of the two light department employees who were discharged by the engineer last week.

The mayor and councilmen filed into the crowded chamber from the city clerk's office in a body, Alderman McFarland only being absent. He appeared later in the evening. Following the reading of the minutes the president asked if there was anyone who wished to be heard and James Burrell arose and read the following resolution which had been adopted by the CWA Workers' Protective association earlier in the week.

To the Members of the City Administration:

We, the C.W.A. Workers Protective Association feel that an injustice has been done to the two men; A. G. Anderson and Fred Byram. We therefore demand their immediate re-instatement to their respective jobs. Their services are needed.

We further demand the resignation of the City Engineer, Mr. Viebahn; he is inefficient and only a trouble maker. We will not stand for any one man running our municipal wellfare.

We also demand action from the City Council on these issues; and we demand it tonight. We don't advise indifference on the part of the peoples' servants—the council.

Signed,

The Committee of Action

The president, Mr. Myrom asked the other members of the council if they had anything to say and Jung and Griebstein replied that they were standing by the rest of the council in whatever action has been taken. A lull followed and B. Dan Bjorkman addressed the council stating that he would urge them to reconsider their action and reinstate the two men in question. He called attention to the fact that no specific charges have been launched against the men and that they have not been given any reason for their discharge. Mr Anderson has been in charge of all of the city's equipment at one time or another and has always been a dependable man, he said.

The mayor arose and stated that altho he was not prepared to make a statement he wished to say that "we must demand efficiency and cooperation in the operation of our light plant." The engineer would be discharged as quickly as these other men, he said if he failed to deliver efficient service.

Mr. Bjorkman requested that the mayor be more specific in his statements and cite the instances of inefficiency on the part of the two men discharged or their failure to cooperate fully with the administration.

The mayor turned on him beligerently, "Are we responsible to you?" he asked.

"Well, not necessarily to me personally but to the citizenry" Mr. Bjorkman replied.

I"t will be explained to them." the mayor retorted.

The president, Mr. Myrom interposed that it might be embarrassing to the two men who have been discharged if the charges were aired publicly and called on the clerk to proceed with other business

Some routine business was transacted among which was the granting of several small building permits. A first estimate of $912.34, was allowed the Minneapolis contractor who was called in to repair the resorvoir at the water plant. Inquiries at the city clerk's office has developed the fact that this firm is being paid $70.00 per day for the use of equipment and operators that the city is paying in addition for all other labor and materials. The firm has been on the job at the reservoir for a period of fifteen or sixteen days. No bids were called on the contract.

Following a motion to adjourn Milton Gillette, president of the CWA workers' Protective association asked the council to state their position in regard to a rumor which has been circulated by Richard Battelson, president of the Workmens' Protective association to the effect that the CWA group would be discriminated against in hiring men for city work The councilmen replied that they can not be responsible for rumors and disclaimed any knowledge of the matter.

Meeting in regular business meeting on Wednesday evening the CWA Workers' Protective association discussed the reception given them the evening before and decided to circulate a petition in the city demanding that the council request the City Engineer's resignation. The incident is not closed they aver, and they will renew their demand at the next meeting of the council.

Harold Nelson, Kenneth Halldin and Donald Hermanson are spending a week camping at Cass Lake and Itaska Park.

F-L PICNIC AT KOLESTRAND'S IS BIG SUCCESS

Williams, Brattland and Bjorgan Make Strong Pleas.

A heavy shower interrupting the first part of the program didn't dampen the spirits of the crowd which gathered at Kolestrand's grove last Sunday for the Pennington County Farmer-Labor picnic. Rev. O. O. Bjorgan opened the program with a devotional talk urging Christian citizenship. He further stated that the two old parties had failed the people and admonished the Farmer-Laborities to keep their party clean, and to work for the bettering of humanity He scored the scandal-mongers mercilesly who besmirched the charactor of men in high office.

Senator R. T. Buckler also addressed the gathering stating that the farmers can't get out of the depression by working 16 hours a day, but they have to get out the same way as the big boys" get them into it—by legislation.

By his stirring address, Capt. H. Y. Williams proved to the audience that he was fully as good a speaker as he was heralded to be. Much favorable comment was made on the speeches by Judge Brattland and Judge Montague, and Bj. Bjornaraa spoke in Norse, delighting the audience with his witty remarks. Paul Harris, endorsed by the F-L as a candidate for state senator, and A. C. Townley also presented fine talks.

There were musical numbers by Ben Szymanski on the concertina, a violin and banjo duet by Iverson and Olson of Star Township, and a vocal solo by Miss Eleanor Harris of this city. The opening and closing hyms were sung by the Sunday School of Rev. Bjorgan's church. The ladies aid of the church served refreshments and dinner, and R. M. Aalbu of this city was general chairman of the day

Cooperative Creameries Will Hold Big Picnic at Grygla on Sunday, June 17th

The northwestern cooperative creamery group will have a picnic at Grygla on Sunday, June 17. Speeches will be given by John Brandt, the president of the Land O' Lakes creameries, J. H. Slight Drop in May Tax Receipts Noted

During the month of May, 1934, all current tax receipts including personal property and real estate taxes amounted to $82,063.54, as compared to $84,837.96 in May 1933. A new law providing that in personal property taxes over ten dollars, the amount can be paid semi-annually, accounts for the receipts being lower in 1934 than 1933. The penalty receipts for May 1934 amounted to $54.74 while $113.85 was received in May 1933.

Sudan Grass Planting Permitted Under New Ruling Is Announced

Signers of the Corn-Hog, wheat and tobacco reduction contracts may plant any forage crop except corn or grain sorghums on their "contracted acres," according to word received by R. M. Douglass, county agent, from Andrew Boss, director of production control in Minnesota.

According to Mr. Boss, pasturing of grass and legume seeding on the "contracted acres" will also be permitted regardless of when these crops were seeded and whether with or without nurse crops.

He further remarked that sudan grass not being a "grain" sorghum may be planted on "contracted acres," but Early Amber sorghum is best not to plant as it might be construed as a violation of contract. Contracting wheat, corn-hog and tobacco farmers also may plant any forage crop, including fodder corn and grain sorghums, on their "non-contracted acres."

The rulings take effect at once, and are in line with the administration's policy of modifying reduction contracts to meet emergencies such as the present drouth. Farmers who have been uneasy about a clause of the contracts giving the Secretary of Agriculture authority o make new regulaions binding them after signing the contract should realize now that this clause was included principally for thier protection.

WELCOME RAINS HIT NORTHWEST

Lifesaving Rains Are General in Minnesota, Dakotas and Wisconsin.

Minneapolis—Farmers of the drouth stricken areas have new hopes that a portion of devastated crops may be saved as the entire northwest was soaked by rains which washed months of dust from rejuvenated grain fields and pastures. As rain-laden clouds poured their welcome moisture over the parched fields, the federal government rushed its surplus cattle buying program and announced that 14 more Minnesota counties had been added to the emergency drouth area. The general precipitation, from one-half inch to more than 3 inches, fell over most of the drouth areas.

While in some sections the rain meant millions of dollars in benefits to drouth seared farm lands, in others the rain was accompanied by severe wind storms that resulted in extensive property damage. Bridges and railroad trackage were swept away by torrents of water unloosed from the skies, farm buildings were leveled and a North Dakota conservation camp blown apart by tornadic winds, and livestock was destroyed in the downpour that swelled ditches and fields and filled streams.

Neary every portion of the northwest was visited in some form or other by the atmospheric disturbances, which brought rainfall totaling nearly three inches in a one-day period in several places.

Ferdinand Bucholz, farmer living six miles south of Mitchell, S. D., lost his life when a high wind swept over his farm, breaking up buildings and toppling over trees. His son, Reginald Bucholz, and Clarence Eggert, were critically injured. A cloudburst that dropped two inches of rain in a half hour accompanied the storm.

Senate Passes Silver, Defeats Bonus

Washington—In rapid succession, the senate voted down a proposal for immediate payment in cash of the soldiers' bonus certificates and passed the administration's silver purchase plan. The two votes removed two of the measures that remained to be disposed of before adjournment. The silver bill authorizes the administration to buy silver and issue silver certificates until a fourth of the nation's money is backed by silver. The vote was 55 to 25. All amendments opposed by the administration were defeated. It goes back to the house for action on senate amendments. These were expected to be approved without the usual conference delay to send the bill immediately to the White House for President Roosevelt's assured signature.

Visitor Says Quintuplets Are Identical

Corbeil, Ont.—The ten-day-old quintuplets in the home of Ovila Dionne had a distinguished visitor who joined with the family physician in expressing the belief that if the little girls continued to feed well for another week they will begin to grow. The visitor was Dr. William A. Dafoe, Toronto specialist and demonstrator of obstetrics at the University of Toronto, whose older brother, Dr. A. R. Dafoe, attended the babies' mother at their birth. The Toronto physician, the first visiting medical man to see the infants, expressed amazement that the five little bodies, now totaling only 10 pounds and 2½ ounces in weight, could hold life.

Air Liner Crashes With Seven Aboard

Livingston Manor, N. J.—The big air line transport plane which vanished with seven persons aboard while en route from Newark to Chicago was found in the rolling Catskill mountains, destroyed by fire and with all of its occupants dead. The plane, object of a huge search by land and air was found by William H. Hallock and Lee Lewis, two volunteer fliers. Location of the wrecked plane was given as near Livingston Manor, N. Y., 100 miles from New York City.

INADVISABLE FOR HARVEST WORKERS TO SEEK WORK WHEAT STATES THIS YEAR

Wheat harvest has begun in north central Texas and cutting with binders is starting north central Oklahoma. With continuation of the present intense heat and drought, binders will start in the south central Kansas counties soon. Binder harvest will be followed closely by the combines and the harvest will progress rapidly to the northward with most of Kansas cutting simultaneously and a brief harvest period probable, according to a bulletin issued by United States employment service.

Texas, Oklahoma, Kansas and Nebraska are the four most important winter wheat states in Big Wheat Belt. While production promises to be materially larger than last year, little more han half a normal crop is expected.

Of the 11,829,000 acres sown in Kansas last fall probably not more than nine million acres remain to be harvested. The heaviest abandon- of sown acreage and deterioration of remaining crop and due to drouth and intense heat are in the western half of the state. In this area are included a number of the great wheat counties of Kansas. Many normally heavy wheat counties this year not only will require no outside assistance but will provide workers to assist in the harvest in other counties.

These conditions, coupled with the fact that those unemployed in many lines of industry in Texas, Oklahoma Kansas and Nebraska will be available for harvest work, make it clearly inadvisable for workers from other states in the hope of securing employment in the wheat harvest. Such labor as is required during the harvesting of the wheat crop willl be readily available nearby. No wage scale has been set, but with light yields the average havest wage may not exceed $1.50 per day. Even if jobs are available, hands would not be justified in training and considerable distance for so brief a harvest period.

A few special agents in automobiles will give information to labor on highways and along southern state borders to direct and control the movement of labor and prevent surpluses in fields and towns.

Prospects in the northern spring wheat states are exceedingly gloomy. In many sections of the Dakotas the soil has been too dry for seed to germinate. Based upon present conditions and available information, it seems improbable that there will be demand for harvest hands in the North. Men experienced in harvest work in previous years know what it would mean to go to the winter wheat state for an unusually short harvest without any prospect of oher employment farther north. More definite information relative to the Dakotas and Montana will be given in subsequent bulletins.

HOGS MUST ADVANCE 10C PR. DAY FOR 56 DAYS IN ORDER TO REACH PARITY OF PRICE

Hog prices in the U. S. must advance $5.57 per cwt. or the market must gain 10c per day for 56 consecutive days without a single set back, before it will be in line with the parity price level figured by the Bureau of Agricultural Economy, says the weekly market bulletin issued by the Central Co-operative Association of South St. Paul.

Parity price, as computed by government economists is $8.74 per cwt. on hogs. In other words, that is the price hogs should average to equal the average price paid by farmers for things they have to buy. The average farm price on hogs as computed by the same economists recently was $3.17 per cwt.

There has been little show of strength in the hog market during the past week but the hog is the only farm commodity (except milk cows) that is selling below a year ago,—and the government has put forth every effort possible except price pegging, to elevate hog values.

The corn-hog price ratio at 6.4 is the lowest since the government started keeping these records. At this rate 6.4 bushels of corn are worth 100 pounds of pork which the government has figured at only $3.17 per hundred, but it takes that much corn to produce 100 pounds of pork. Therefore, at the present ratio it would take approximately $6.34 worth of corn to make $3.17 worth of pork.

ELSBERG DETAILS SPENDING OF U. S. HIGHWAY FUND IN STATE

How the $10,600,000 of 1933-34 emergency Federal highway aid received by this state has been divided among various types of road work was announced today by N. W. Elsberg, highway commissioner. Practically all of the funds are now under contract and will be spent by late summer.

Grading ranks first in amount of money alloted, with concrete paving second and bridge construction third. The following summary of how the federal funds are being spent was given Mr. Elsberg, round figures being used:

Grading, 310 miles	$4,912,000.
Concrete paving, 59 miles	1,498,000.
Bridges, 36	1,181,000.
Graveling, 535 miles	1,164,000.
Waterbound macadam, 64 miles	853,000.
Underpasses beneath railroads, 19	684,000.
Bitumous treatment, 60 miles	316,000.
Signals at railroad crossings	31,000
Special monolithic culverts	10,000.
Special curb and gutter work	3,500.

Approximately 43 per cent of the total appropriation is being sent on the Federal aid highway system, 35 per cent on trunk highways through municipalities and 22 per cent on trunks which are feeders to the federal aid system. Minneapolis, St. PYaul and Duluth get $1,500,000 for use on streets designated as trunk highways. The allotment and expenditure of the fund is under federal supervision.

JUSTICES OF THE SUPREME COURT ELECTED WITHOUT A PARTY DESIGNATION

While the average voter has little contact with the Supreme Court, the selection of capable men in this branch of the government is extremely important. Candidates for Chief justices of the Supreme Court of the state of Minnesota will be voted upon at the coming primary election. The names appear at the top of the nonparty ballot together with candidates for county offices.

The Supreme Court is the highest court in the state, its membership consisting of a chief justice and six associate justice. The terms of John D. Devaney, chief justice, and Clifford L. Hilton and Julius T. Olson, associate justices, expire this year and are candidates for reelection.

During the past year some of the most important decisions in the histry of the state have come dwn. The Minnesota Income Tax law and real property classification law were held valid, the power of the Minneapolis Board of Education to levy taxes independently of the Board of Estimate and Taxation was upheld. Further, during this time, the Minnesota Moratorium case was affirmed by the United States Supreme Court.

The office of judge differs from every other in that it not only requires special qualifications in the occuant, but the judge is, while holding office, practically isolated from the business world and forbidden, either by statute or the ethics of the bench, from practicing law or engaging in businesses of many kinds.

All history has shown that at the foundation of a good government is a good judiciary. In Minnesota this has been recognized, and the advisability of removing our judges from the temptations and trials of politics has resulted in placing candidates for judicial offices entirely outside of politics by requiring them to run withaout party designation. Under this system we have the judges directly responsible to the people without any intervening political boss.

All these considerations apply with peculiar force to the present justices Devaney, Hilton and Olson who are at this election candidates to succeed themselves. They are all plain unassuming men who have made their own way and have lived their lives among the people they seek to serve; each has had ample judicial experience; and each has won the good will and respect not only of its associates the state but as well of all our citizens.

MEYER DRIVING FORD V-8 WINS DECORATION DAY SWEEPSTAKE

OAKLAND, Calif. May 6.—Battling for a cash prise of $1,500, Lou Meyer, a leading contender for the 500-mile sweepstakes at Indianapolis, Decoration Day, took first place in the Ford V-8 in the 250-mile stock car car race at the Oakland Speedway this afternoon from a field of 20 enteries.

Meyer's time for the race, which was supervised by the Contest Board of the American Automobile Association, was 3 hours, 13 minutes, 4.6 seconds and his average speed for the course was 77.68 miles per hour.

MINNESOTA'S FOLLY

"Unless Minnesota gets a subtantial sum from the federal government there will be few highway contracts let this year. The legislature added several thousand miles to the trunk highway system and reduced the auto license by some millions. That was both foolish and pernicious. While the individual owners of automobiles save a few dollars, they lost millions in improved highways—and they keep on kicking because more progress is not made in better highways." —The St. Cloud Times.

Where Rabbit Nests Are

It is customary for the cottontail rabbit and hares native to this country to construct their nests in briers and brush, but the home of the European rabbit is an underground burrow.

"Entered as second-class matter, April 27, 1932, at the post office at Thief River Falls, Minnesota, under Act of March 3, 1879."

We hold that where the well-being of one section or group of society is attained thru the oppression, exploitation, degradation, ignorance, neglect, or the unrewarded toil of masses, there is an inherent social wrong which must be corrected if eventual disaster is to be avoided. We also hold that no social system can endure or is entitled to our respect which does not guarantee to every willing worker the minimum essentials of life; namely: continuous employment; security against destitution which results from sickness, old age and accident; food; shelter; self-respect education for his children; and a reasonable amount of leisure."—From a statement by the Committee of 100, composed of leading clergymen and rabbis.

"A PROVEN PUBLIC OFFICIAL"

Our "Proven public official reelected mayor of Thief River Falls in 1933," took the public into his confidence at the meeting of the council on Tuesday evening, when he by inference at least, let it be known to the three hundred people assembled there that he does not feel it necessary to answer to the citizens and taxpayers of Thief River Falls for the actions of himself and his administration. His query, "Are we responsible to you?" directed to B. Dan Bjorkman will probably go down in the history of Thief River Falls as outstanding among "Famous last words."

It may be possible that the citizens of Thief River Falls labored under the illusion that he is responsible to them, and that his reply to a man who is a former member of the city council, and who was a pioneer here while Tungseth was still a mail carrier out of Hawley, was somewhat out of place. Certainly the fact that Mr. Bjorkman has been a citizen here for 28 years, the fact that he pays to the community a dollar a day in taxes, into the power and light fund from $30 to $40 per month and employs half a dozen people the year around would give grounds to the belief that if the mayor is responsible for his official acts to any of the people of Thief River Falls, Mr. Bjorkman must be one of that group.

It is quite some time since the Forum woke up to the fact that the mayor apparently does not feel responsible to the citizens, and it is barely possible that the rest of the people of the community will also change their minds if they will take into consideration the following facts which may be added to the list we cited last week:

That last week, the district distributor of Premier beer and the proprietor of a local beer parlor solicited campaign funds from the other beer parlors in the city for the mayor's campaign for the senatorship.

That about the same time the local manager of the largest public utility corporationin the world, solicited funds for the same purpose from other business and professional men.

That also last week, on Thursday if we have the day correct, the mayor did some campaigning in Red Lake county and was shown about and introduced to the voters by an official of another brewing company.

It has been the history of politics that elected officials usually feel their first responsibility to the people who supply their campaign funds, and we have not as yet found any reason to believe that Mayor Tungseth is an exception to the rule, and until shown proof to the contrary we shall continue to believe that he feels responsible only to the public utility corporations and to the liquor interests.

We have no particular quarrel with those interests for backing a candidate for office. We know a lot of men who are wet, and yet honest and sincere. We also know a lot of men who honestly are convinced that private corporation ownership and control of public utilities is the best method and superior to public or municipal ownership. They have perfect rights as American citizens to hold their views and to sponsor a candidate for office. But, the citizens also have a right to know who, and what interests a candidate favors and feels he owes responsibility to

SUBJECTS PETITION, BUT SOVEREIGNS DEMAND

The only criticism we heard of the CWA group and their resolution presented to the council last Tuesday evening has been that some people thought it was too blunt. As one person stated it, they should have urged and petitioned and not demanded.

We can not agree with that viewpoint. We would pray and petition to our God, but we can demand from our servants. The idea that the people shall pray and petition the government is a hangover brought to this country from the old world where monarchs and Tzars have reigned. Their subjects must feign patience and implore. But in America, the citizen is the sovereign and he commands and demands from his servants, the elected officials and has a right to do so. There seems to be a tendency on the part of some officials to believe that being elected to office is being elected autocrats or dictators who may wreak their will upon the people without recourse until the next election, but such officials may find that an aroused citizenry can demand and force favorable action on such demands, if the situation should require.

Editorial Comment

SECRETARY ICKES SPEAKS.

In all this hullaballoo about the unAmerican principles of the Farmer-Labor party is is refreshing to note that even President Roosevelt is being assailed because of his interference with the old established order.

Recently Secretary Ickes of the Department of the Interior spoke his mind. He assailed the rugged individualists who first ran to the federal treasury for help and who began throwing rocks at the President as soon as they got on their feet.

Said Mr. Ickes: "We used to brag of American prosperity. We can have no prosperity while American women slave in sweatshops, and American children children grow up in squalor, and American men are prey to the whims of an industrial system that runs wild. We should be ashamed of a prosperity like that. We shall not have the real thing until we adopt the new set of political concepts which are now taking form after the total collapse of the old set and the misery of millions of our people.

"The ordinary citizen is quick to learn, as the 1932 reversal of the 1928 tidal wave showed. But there is a group of our people who are incapable of learning anything. A year ago this group did seem to be absorbing a little education. A year ago it was a frightened and penitent and docile group for once in the history. It suddenly discovered that the United States is a social community for the mutual and reciprocal good of all and not a hunting ground of the strong against the weak. This group of our citizens had taken the country for a business joy ride off the end of the dock, and now it had nothing to say except to yell to the government for life preservers.

"Lately this startled group has begun to get its courage back. It has been rescued by the long-suffering community; it has got its breath, and now it isn't afraid to take the wheel again as its rightful prerogative and drive us once more to prosperity. The only thing it is afraid of now is that the government may be planning to install safety devices, regulatory checks on the accelerator, that will hamper its ruggest-individualist right to pursue happiness in the good old eighty-miles-an-hour way. Any other way, it cries, would not be American. In the last year many such checks have indeed been installed, and many more may be found necessary. The American people have pretty well decided that they are not going to be taken for a ride again."

A ROOSEVELT IN CANADA
(Stephen Messenger)

Hon. Harry H. Stevens, Minister of Trade and Commerce told 700 Montreal business men that Canadian industry had been handicapped not so much by taxation as by the financial schemes that had increased the indebtedness of their concerns five times to what it was 15 years ago, while business had increased only 50 percent. He declared that "No business concern has the right to flaunt big dividends before its shareholders if it does not pay its help a fair living wage. No business has the right to lean on taxpayers of Canada to supplement the wages they pay in order that people may live."

That sounds like Franklin D. Roosevelt or General Johnson when defending the NRA doctrine of "a more abundant life for all men."

F-L TAX LEVY LESS
(Farmers Independent)

We find that the chief attack on the Farmer-Labor administration is the charge that the administration has caused the increase in taxes. We do no know whether or not this charge is made by these people because they do not better or they were deliberately trying to deceive and mislead the people.

However, the facts of the matter is that the amount of the state taxes was less in 1933 and has been growing less for every year the F-L administration. In 1929 they were 47 millions and in 1933 down to 39 millions.

The people are being mislead by the mill rate. That has gone up because of the lowered valuation on real estate. Also because of decreased income from gross earnings tax in these hard times. Also because of great tax delinquency and the debt burden inherited from the Republican administrations when huge sums were spent in highway bonds.

Shrinkage in the valuation of taxable property is illustrated by the following figures: In 1928 the total valuation of taxable property was $1,944,011,114; in 1929 the valuation was $1,884,348,766; in 1932, the last figures available show a drop in the valuation to $1,640,196,171, or a shrinkage of $303,814,943. Receipts from the gross earnings tax decreased from $9,118,961 in 1933 and royalty and occupational taxes levied mostly on iron and steel ore, dropped from $3,346,072 in 1929 to $676,397 in 1933.

The state levy for 1926 was $15,324,743 under Gov. Christianson's "economy rule" while in 1932 it amounted to only $13,439,730 under the Farmer-Labor administration.

One reason why the tax rate has not been cut still more is because the present administration inherited from the Republican administrations a debt of $114,026, 192.

Of the present debt $29,000,000 is on highway bonds and $13,000,000 on highway reimbursement bonds. At present there is a debt of $66,000,000 in rural credit bonds. Taxes are now being levied on property to pay the losses of the Rural Credit Bureau which was criminally mismanaged (under Republican rule) during the early days.

DEPORT WARMAKERS, MAGAZINE SAYS
(St. Louis County Independent)

Deport the warmakers, says Common Sense, the magazine published by Alfred Bingham, son of ex-Senator Bingham of Connecticut.

Editorially calling attention to the fact that Major General Hugh A. Drum had recently called for deportation of those opposing war, Common Sense urges that every congressman push a bill calling for the deporation instead of the warmakers, the Mellons, Rockefellers, Morgans and Hugh Drums.

STILL BEGRUDGING.

Some rural newspaper men are still living back in the 19th century though we are now in 1934. They seem to think that the masses are spending too much and that the great problems confronting the people will be solved by more saving and still more tightening up. Apparently they have not awakened to the fact that we are now in a machine age, that the masses must have employment, income and buying power if there is to be prosperity again.

No sensible person is advocating lavish spending, waste or anything of the kind, but on the other hand there is no use of thinking that our problems will be solved by more saving and less buying. We have mass production now and must therefore also have mass consumption.

There is also the fellow who begrudges every nickel spent by a poor man, of which following few lines clipped from a rural Minnesota newspaper, is an example:

"The government has plans to purchase cows from over-stocked farms and give a cow to each family on relief. What a rush for used cars there will be with a cow for down payment."—Askov American.

Largest Bridge

The longest bridge today is the George Washington bridge over the Hudson river at New York city, extending from Broadway, Manhattan borough, between One Hundred Seventy-eighth and One Hundred Seventy-ninth streets to Lemoine avenue, in Fort Lee, N. J. Its total length, with approaches, is 8,700 feet. The length of the main span is 3,500 feet.

First Cows and Sheep in U. S.

Cows were first imported into the United States in 1624 by Governor Winslow of Massachusetts. At that time cattle were important in New England chiefly for their meat and hides, and milk was not much used. Sheep first reached the United States in 1609 when a London company brought over one shipment to Jamestown, Va.

Barley Growth in U. S.

Barley grows very rapidly in the northern United States, maturing about three months after seed sowing, and flourishes farther north than any other cereal. Its use is, however, limited here because its lack of gliadin makes it unsuitable for our common raised bread, and its addition to wheat-flour darkens the loaf.

WEEKLY WASHINGTON LETTER

Ten Senators and forty Congressmen, most of them from the Middle West, met in the Senate Agricultural Committee Room, ten o'clock Saturday morning, June 2nd, to consider Drouth Relief.

The terrible force of the calamity was brought home by numerous pictures taken from the pastures of Minnesota an dthe Middle West, and a general discussion with Administration officials developed that Washington and the nation are doing everything in their power to finance with speed and efficiency every stricken nook and corner of the land.

Congressman Ernest Lundeen of the Third District insisted that the government ought to pay twice the amount now offered for the livestock, if the farmers are to receive any real benefit.

The discussion brought out the folly of plowing under and killing, and destroying the products of nature, since there is never any over-production of anything, but only under consumption.

Lundeen insisted that the nation needs to turn back the pages of the Good Book, to the days of Joseph in Egypt and learn the lesson that in the fat years we must prepare and store in storehouses surplus wealth and products and food for man and animal in order that we may be safe in the lean years which always come.

He insisted upon intelligent national planning, and when someone asked whether there would be money to do these thigs, he replid, "Money must not adjourn during this emergency. We must continue in session. We must give the farmers the Frazier-Lemke bill to refinance their farm loans at not more than 2% principal and interest. We must pay in currency, without bonds and interest, the Soldiers Bonus which will benefit every home and community. We must act at once in behalf of the depositors and their frozen bank assets, and it is our duty to stay in Washington until these and other necessary measures are enacted. To adjourn now in this emergency would be a crime against the American people."

U. S. SUES POWDER PLUTOCRATS FOR BOOTLEG TAX

Now another malodorous pussycat is let out of the repeal bag. The press reveals the startling news that the DuPonts, mult-millionaire powder and chemical manufacturers, who were the chief financial backers of the wet association against the prohibition amendment have been sued by Uncle Sam for dodging $6,688,947 of taxes on bootleg booze.

If there was any organization in the United States that yelled and shrieked its horror and hatred of the bootlegger, it was the A. A. P. A. Of all crimes and sins of prohibition the bootlegger was held up as the ver worst of all "damnable affliction." And now it seems probable that the money bags of the A. A. P. A. were also the biggest bootlegers in the country, and that they slipped immense quanities of distilled spirits to the bootleggers, and also slipped out of the taxes thereon. At least the press dispatch states that the government is after them "for unlawful diversion, otherwise known as bootlegging."

It is taxes again. Taxes seem to bother the DuPonts. It will be remembered that in the lobby investigation conducted by the Senate Committee, Irenee Dupont was quoted, under oath, to the effect that if beer were relegalized under a tax of around 3c per glass, he would save ten million in taxes on one of his many corporations. Beer is back Unless Mr. DuPont miscalculated, he has now shifted ten million dollars of his taxes on his highly profitable business onto the beer drinkers. Since hard liquor as well as beer are now legalized and taxed at a high rate, perhaps he also saves some millions more of his taxes from that source.

But taxes can be dodged as well as shifted onto others, and Uncle Sam believes that he has found one item of bootleg on which the DuPonts have neglected to pay the impressive sum of $6,688,947 in taxes.

The Navy's Beginning

The beginning of the permanent American navy was made on March 27, 1794, when George Washington signed an act providing for six frigates to protect American commerce from the Algerian pirates. The act was carefully worded to declare that there was no intention of inaugurating a permanent navy.

The Liberal Digest

Following is the continuation of the text of an official synopsis of Clarence Darrow's report from the national recovery review board to President Roosevelt, criticizing the the national recovery administration.

STEEL

Monopolistic conditions have long exsisted in this country; due to its absolute control by the larger companies. This control is assured thru the American Iron and Steel Institute supposed to represent both large and small enterprises, but wherein as a matter of fact the voting arrangements really leave the small enterprise at the mercy of the large. Each member has one vote for each $500,000 of invoiced product for the year. The total number of votes is reported to be approximately 15,000, of which the five largest companies have 7,668..

By this system of voting the board of directors of the Iron and Steel Institute is chosen. Since this same board of directors was constituted the code authority for the steel industry, and this authority made the code and now administers it in the interest of the larger companies in control of the Iron and Steel Institute i is obvious that we have here a body not only perfectly equipped to exercise monopolistic control, but is endowed with extraordinary powers incompatible with the ideals heretofore entertained in a free country.

Fixing of Prices Aids Large Plants is Claim

One of these powers, exercised in a way that has produced many and better complaints from small enterprises, is that of arbitrarily fixing prices for the advantage of the large companies. Another is a rule that forbids the enlarging of the producing capacity of any unit in the industry:

Both of these conditions seem to us harmful, monopolistic and oppressive and in both respects the code has operated to augment the evils previously existing.

The federal trade commission recently made an exhaustive study of the steel industry and presented a report that held it to be essenially monopolisic and unfairly conducted.

No conclusion was left to the board except that the industry(which is controlled by the Iron and Steal Institute, the directorate of which in turn constitutes the code authority) did not answer the charges of the federal trade commission because no answer was possible and the dilatory proceedings before this board were but play-acting for the purpose of creating the impression that the board was unjust.

At the hearings held by the board it was impossible to escape the conclusion from the testimony offered that the misfortunes of the small enterprise in this industry were muliplied by the grotesque absurdities of what is called the "basing point" system of phantom freight rates.

The organ of this huge evil was the insane practice the railroads in wrenching freight rates out of their normal relations to obtain competitive shipments or favor competitive enterprises, but the present extent of the disease if far beyond railroad medication.

It plangues many industries and from the testimony before us we conclude that the people of the country must be paying annually many mil-

The following is a continuation of a summary of NRS's reply to the charges of the Darrow committee,, and was prepared by Donald Richberg, general counsel to NRA.

STEEL

The report of the board is based largely as on a report made by the federal trade commission in partial compliance with senate resolution 166 concerning the operation or possible effects of a few provisions of the steel code.

Attention should be called to some of the typical mistakes of the board in its hasty review of a complicated code and a highly technical industry, regarding which the members of the board had no previous knowledge and acquired no perceptible understanding.

At the outset the board sought to prove a control of the code authority, the Iron and Steel institute, through voting arrangements, which, in the language of the board, "leave the small enterprise at the mercy of the large."

The utter inaccuracy of the facts and conclusions of the board concerning this comparatively simple metter is shown by the calculation of the board that out of 16,000 votes 4,362 would be cast by United States Steel.

As a matter of fact, the total votes officially tabulated are 1,332, of which the subsidiaries and affiliates of the United States Steel cast 335. On the basis of the review board's calculation the invoiced value of the United States Steel products would be over $2,000,000,000 whereas for 1933 they were $167,500,000.

Denies Code is used in interest of Big Plants

The board complains that the board of directors of the Steel Institute constituting the code authority "administers it in the interest of the larger companies in control of he Iron and steel Institute."

The fact is that on the board of directors the representation of United States Steel is 13 per cent (although is is entiled to 25 per cent voting power). The representation of Bethlehem is 7 per cent, although entitled to 9 per cent voting power and the remaining 80 per cent membership is distributed among 21 companies.

Thre inaccuracy of the board's report is indicated in its statement that here are "many and better com plaints from small enterprises of arbitrarily fixing prices for the advantage of the large companies." The fact that there are 252 companies members of the code, including the great mjaority of all the small enterprises in the industry and the board does not report a complaint from them.

AS a matter of fact, the small enterprises within the industry have deluged the NRA with protests against changing the code and with arguments in favor of its continuing operation.

The NRA has been from the beginning critical of the price provisions in the steel code, including the set-up of the basing point system, the inclusion of transportation charges in quoted prices, the waiting period of 10 days before prices are made effecive and other provisions of the code which have been criticized by the federal trade commission, criticisms which are rehashed and garbled in the report of the review board.

THE THINKER

Back of the beating hammer
By which the steel is wrought,
Back of the workshop's clamor
The seeker may find the Thought,
The thought that is ever Master
Of iron and steam and steel,
That rises above disaster
And tramples it under heel.

The drudge may fret and tinker
Or labor with lusty blows,
But back of him stands the Thinker,
The clear-eyed man who knows;
For into each plow or saber.
Each piece and part and whole,
Must go the brains of labor,
Which gives the work a soul.

Back of the motor's humming,
Back of the bells that sing,
Back of the hammer's drumming,
Back of the cranes that swing,
There is the Eye which scans them,
Watching through stress and strain,
There is the mind which plans them—
Back of the brawn, the Brain.

Might of the roaring boiler,
Force of the engine's thrust,
Strength of the sweating toiler,
Greatly in these we trust,,
But back of them stands the schemer,
The Thinker who drives things through,
Back of the job— the Dreamer
Who's making the dream come true.

Judge of the District Court

Appointed by Governor Olson on February 28, 1934

When Judge Julius J. Olson was named as Associate Justice of the State Supreme Court, I was appointed by Governor Floyd B. Olson as Judge Olson's successor, and since that time have served in that position. I have filed as a candidate for District Judge at the June primary election.

Owing to official work I have little time to devote to the campaign and must therefore depend on such voluntary interest as my friends and supporters will give in my behalf.

During the time I have been permitted to serve as a District Judge it has been my endeavor to do so fairly and impartially, and if privileged to continue for a full term, I trust my attitude on the bench shall always be just and fair.

Respectfully,

Tunisian Family Moves to New Fair Village

From far-off Africa came this family to live in the Tunisian village on the Street of Villages which is a major feature of the new World's Fair that opened in Chicago May 26. Fifteen of these reproductions of life and scenes in far-away lands offer visitors a tour of the world in a single day. Eleven of these villages are grouped where the Midway was in 1933. Record crowds found the Fair complete and new on opening day.

Ancient Building Houses Furniture of Old France

One of the quaintest corners of Paris, writes a correspondent of the London Sunday Observer, is that which is occupied by the rather dilapidated building at the end of the Quai d'Orsay, where a number of artists' studios surround the Mobilier National or repository of the furniture—most of it old and some of it admirable—which is owned by the state. These buildings have long looked as if they were about to be pulled down.

They present a mute record of the revolutions which swept France in the Nineteenth century. For in the buildings are stacked piles of official portraits of rulers and statesmen, which once hung in public buildings and were suddenly discredited and bundled away, while outside are statues which have suffered a similar fate. Louis Philippe, very much the bourgeois king, stands next to a statue, all in robes and fleurs de lis, of Charles X, whom he replaced after one revolution before himself being overthrown at another, while a few feet away are busts of Napoleon III, and the Empress Eugenie, who were brought down by war and defeat.

Golden Gate Bridge

The Golden Gate bridge over San Francisco bay will cost about $35,000,000. The bridge proper will be 6,450 feet long and the towers will be 740 feet above mean high water. They will be the tallest bridge towers ever built. The main tower at the San Francisco end will be 884 feet high. The minimum vertical clearance at the center will be 220 feet above mean high water. Including approach roads, the total length will be seven miles. The two main cables will have a diameter of 36½ inches and will be 7,660 feet long between anchorages. Cable sag at the center will be 475 feet.

Logs "Embalmed" for Pole Use

Logs are preserved for use as telegraph and telephone poles by a method which consists of forcing a fluid into the grain of the wood by air pressure. The sap is forced out of the log by the pressure of 15 pounds and a rubber cap is clamped on the butt. Then the preserving fluid replaces the sap.—Popular Mechanics Magazine.

Low Pressure Absorbs Shocks

In a new and spectacular method for making glass wool, molten glass is sprayed out of a "gun," producing a high grade and very uniform result. The gun used is one ordinarily used to spray a metallic film on metal surfaces. In spraying molten metal, the metal is atomized, producing a homogeneous coating. When glass is sprayed from the pistol, no atomizing takes place, on account of the high viscosity of the glass. The glass wool produced by this unique method is said to be ideal for insulating purposes.—Scientific American.

Large Dogs Gain in Favor

Tastes in dogs are changing. At least, this is the reaction of visitors to the most important dog show held annually in England. The larger type dogs, such as the Borzois, Great Danes, Irish wolfhounds, Dalmatians, setters, Newfoundlands, St. Bernards, and others seemed to find greater favor in the eyes of the ladies, for whom the show was staged, than the toy breeds.—Detroit News.

To the Voters:

In soliciting your support for re-election to the office of County Auditor, I stand on my record during my first term.

I was elected to my first term on my pledge of an economical administration of the office This pledge I have fulfilled.

Being an experienced Accountant and auditor has enabled me to conduct my office during my first term without the expense of an experienced accountant for deputy. I have used only part time clerk hire and have operated my office at one-third the expense for Clerk Hire that my predecessor required, thereby effecting a saving of about $1,000.00 per year. My revision of the accounting system in the Auditor's office has effected other large savings. There is no substitute for experience.

If my admistration of the offies during my first term has met with your approval, your vote and support will be appreciated.

RECORD CROWD SEES NEW FAIR

Street of Villages Gets Big Play; Lights All New.

Chicago.—More than 235,000 persons saw the new World's Fair here on its first week-end. A record opening day crowd of 154,663 Saturday, May 26, surpassed last year's opening day figure by 34,088. The following day's crowd of 81,241 was greater by 28,557 than the same day in 1933.

President Roosevelt, through the medium of a motion picture shown at several points on the grounds, officially opened the Exposition. As he closed an electric switch the new lights blazed forth for the first time.

Visitors were surprised to find the Fair complete, and fully up to the promises made that it would be new.

Lights Trace Sky Ride.

Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt, first lady of the land, inaugurated the outstanding new feature, the world's largest fountain. Like the President, she appeared in a motion picture. At a magical wave of her hand, the giant waterspouts rose from the north lagoon, livened by a play of colored light.

Lighting, the most talked-of thing about the 1933 Fair, revealed wonders never approached on the 1934 opening night. Co-ordination of lighting and color were more in evidence. Under the lights the new Century of Progress purple red, theme color of the new Exposition, presented a glowing beauty that was different. Buildings, grouped with respect to color in light as well as color in paint, revealed a new harmony.

The Sky Ride, almost lost to vision at night formerly, greeted visitors with all its catenary system traced against the sky in electric light. Bright red neon tubes outlined the observation platforms 628 feet above the Fair. Farther south, from the rotunda of the Ford building, a pillar of blue light 200 feet thick and more than a mile high, pierced the clouds overhead. The lighting load of this 900-feet-long building is more than one-third the total load of the entire Fair of last year.

Foreign Villages Popular.

New lights in the lagoon and a new "Aurora Borealis" of searchlights at the north end of the grounds, complementing that at the south end, completed the major changes in the night time illumination.

Mecca for the opening day throngs was the new Street of Villages. The "tour of the world in a single day" offered by the fifteen reproductions of far-away lands in the new Fair proved to be an idea that "clicked."

Eleven of the foreign villages are grouped together where the Midway was in 1933. Here are an Irish village, with the atmosphere that was known by the ancient chieftains who met in Tara Hall; the Spanish village, largest ever built for any Fair; Tunisia, the "Land of the Bedouins"; the Italian village, with its leaning tower and time-worn Roman ruins.

Free Entertainment.

Visitors saw the Tower of London and watched Shakespeare's plays presented in a reproduction of Shakespeare's original Globe theater in the English village; saw ice-skating under the summer sun in the German Black Forest Village; saw Old North Church, Mount Vernon, and the home of Paul Revere in the American Colonial village; relaxed in the luxury of a North African desert village in the Oasis; thrilled to the charm of native folk dances in the lovely Belgian village, and entered the gaiety of Montmartre in the Streets of Paris.

Elsewhere on the grounds they found a Dutch village, a Mexican village, a Swiss village and the Streets of Shanghai.

Free entertainment projects caught big crowds. Among them were the concerts on the Swift bridge, the spectacular lion and tiger show in the Standard Oil amphitheater, the circuses of the Lagoon theater, the seeming miracles performed in the Science theater and the many shows presented by exhibitors in the various exhibit buildings.

Fair Better Host.

Opening day throngs found that no exhibits remaining from last year were unchanged. Animation has been added everywhere. The Ford "exposition," altogether new, is a world of motion, showing the manufacture of virtually every part that goes into a motor car. Armour and company and Wilson and company, packers, have done much the same with their exhibits; so have the Continental Baking company, Hiram Walker, the Brook Hill dairy farm and others new to A Century of Progress.

Perhaps most important of all, visitors found the new Fair a better host. Eighty per cent of the toilets are free, transportation and restaurant prices are lower and there are more free resting places for the weary, most of them where free entertainment is in progress.

HUMMING BIRDS ADD BIT TO LONDON ZOO

A group of humming birds from Brazil, recently placed on exhibit at the London zoo, is said by the London Observer to afford the most beautiful spectacle that has ever been staged at the Regent's Park menagerie. Several species are included in this showing, all of which are remarkable for their vivid plumage, the metallic tints of which vary according to the movement of the birds or the way in which the light strikes them.

Beautiful flowers furnish a suitable setting as well as a food supply for the humming birds. To look at them one would scarcely guess that the flowers are artificial and that the nectar they yield to the long, exploring tongues of the birds is a mixture of honey and condensed milk concealed in tiny drinking bottles devised for the purpose.

A fly farm has also been installed at the zoo for the sole purpose of catering to the whims of these interesting bird visitors, for they also require a certain amount of insect food.

Finds Exact Sound Speed

Extremely accurate measurements by a physics professor at the Case School of Science, Cleveland, have pegged the speed of sound definitely at 1,087.13 feet per second. Until the present time the speed of sound has been set at rates which varied from 1,085 to 1,088 feet per second with 1,086 generally accepted as the average. A matter of three feet per second variation is of no consequence to the average person but in the case of military movements it may be a matter of life and death. His Adding Was Good

"Dad, I make a hundred in school today."

"Fine, sonny. What study was it?"

"Spelling and arithmetic. The teacher marked me 50 in each."

Timely Reason

Sergeant—Say, Top, how would you like to lend a friend a five?

Top Sergeant—Buddy, I'd like it, but I haven't a friend in the world.

Caller—Now there's what I call a fine servant.

Hostess—Yes, he's been in our family four hours.

Big Telescope Survives 88 Years of Operation

One cold night in February, 1845, a small group of persons in Cincinnati took turns looking at the heavens through the first major telescope in the United States and the second largest in the world. Almost a century later, says the United Press, although it is a pigmy among the large telescopes of today, the old glass is still in use. Through it, according to estimates, more than 100,000 persons have looked at the starry universe.

The telescope, believed to be the oldest now in use in this country, has outlasted four sets of clockworks used to turn it against the earth's motion so that an astronomical object will not pass from its field of vision.

The Cincinnati observatory, where the telescope is housed, recently observed its ninetieth anniversary. The cornerstone of the original observatory was laid November 9, 1843, by John Quincy Adams. The 11-inch glass was purchased in Munich for $9,500. At that time the only larger telescope was located at Poulkova, Russia. In 1873 the observatory was taken over by the University of Cincinnati.

Homespun Wool Industry Dying

While in a few remote regions of the United States homespun is worn, factories have almost entirely erased the home industry from this country. One of several hundred modern American manufacturing companies normally operates sixty woolen mills that employ 40,000 workers. A display of one company recently included 3,500 different styles of wool fabrics.—National Geographic Magazine.

Lonely Seal Visits City

Believed to have strayed from its native haunts in the Antarctic, a lonely seal recently visited Wellington, New Zealand. It was first seen by bus passengers on a road, but escaped into a river, only to be caught later and placed in the Wellington zoo. It was white and measured 7 feet.

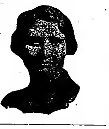
"Efficiency is Economy"



To the Voters of Pennington County:-

Since it will be impossible for me to get in contact with all the voters I shall use this means to acquaint you with my qualifications and record.

I am twenty-seven years old, and am a graduate of Lincoln high school and Teachers' training dept. at Thief River Falls. Besides that, I have one year at the State Teachers' college, Moorhead, Minnesota, which I attended last year. While there, I was elected to the Lambda Phi Sigma, the honorary fraternity of the college. This fraternity elects its members only from students whose scholarship and character are of the very best. . .

For six years I have taught in rural schools, five years in Pennington and one in Clearwater County. I believe a County Superintendent of schools should be up to date on methods of teaching and managing of rural schools. Last spring while at the Teachers' college, I had the opportunity to study the new course of Study then being printed. The state Department of Education has also worked out a new daily program of study for the rural schools. I put this into use in my school this year with excellent results. Because of this knowledge and experience, I am confident I could assist the teachers in putting this daily program into use in our rural schools, thus having a uniform system of study throughout the county.

I have been informed that one of my opponents says the office of County Superintendent is a man's job, because it is too hard for a woman to get around in the county in the winter time. I challenge that opponent for a race through the mud and snow next winter.

My folks are taxpayers in Pennington county and have been ever since my grandfather was a pioneer.

When visiting the schools, I shall plan my routes in such a way as to visit several schools in each trip, thus reducing the mileage.

I am interested in the welfare of our rural schools and shall do my best to keep expense down and the standards of our schools up. I can assure you that this office will be managed efficiently, impartially, and economically, if elected.

If my qualifications and record meet with your approval I shall greatly appreciate your support and vote.

Respectfully yours,
Judith S. Lockrem.

Dear Editor,

Last week, on Wednesday evening, the writer just escaped being struck (in an auto) by a car driven on the left side of the road (approaching) which sent five people to the hospital because of a head-on collission, at St. Hilaire. My car was just behind the one struck. Had I gone around Mr Melin's car, I would have had to take the jolt.

The car in the wrong was a light "pick-up" truck used for beer transportation. Probably the driver had put in too msy hours that day.

Why not regulate such things more strictly? Also, why do city mayors. who aspire to high office, fail to struggle for closer regulation of drinking establishments and less hours of being open for business, at night?

This is an automobile age. People must be more sober at night, to handle an auto, than in daytime. Let those who wish authority stand for reform along definite lines—not mere vague promices made in a general way.

Signed,
Interested (as is everyone)

EDNA E. HOVIE

Candidate for County Superintendent of Schools
PENNINGTON COUNTY

I am a graduate of Lincoln High School and the Teacher Training Department of Thief River Falls and a two-year graduate of Bemidji State Teachers College.

Since 1926, I have held the following positions:

Office Ass't to Highway Engineer (part time)—1926.

Rural School Teacher—1927.

Office Ass't, Land O' Lakes (summer)—1928.

Teacher at St. Hilaire—1929-32...

Ass't to County Agent, Thief River Falls—1932-34.

My teaching and office experience makes me confident that I can conduct this office efficiently and economically, if I am elected.

Your support will be sincerely appreciated.

IN SYMPATHY

The neighbors and friends of Mrs. E. Pomerenki extend sincere and deeply felt sympathy to her bereaved family. We have lost a kind and sympathetic friend, a true and sincere Christian, always ready and willing to serve others at all times. She was an active church member; an officer of the Lutheran Ladies Aid; and also a Sunday School teacher. The community feels deeply, the loss of such a friends.

A Neighbor.

To the Editor:

The members of the Taxpayers League insist on having a statement of the work and what has been accomplished during the last three and one half years and since this has not been dont, they are after me to do so because I am director of the said organization.

We have had several meetings and passed resolutions for the puropses of urging county officials to cut expenses when possible. And we all know that this should be done in the Highway Department. But "The Higher-ups" seem to like it as it is going. The last year and a half they have not actually "bawled us out" when the resolutions were presented to them to lower taxes. If those who have influence have been right, it could have been done when it comes to buying books and stationary as compared with Red Lake County spending $1,826.00 to Pennington County's $2,933.00.

The first two, of the last three and a half years when we brought in resolutions asking relief from the heavy tax load they have put on us, they "bawled us out" and just about told us to go to H---. They have had the best of us the last three and one half years. In order to be fair to ourselves and to them we have to give them some of their own medicine at the pimary election. We are not organized as we should be, but I hope and I always have hoped, and now it is getting close to the time we have to act.

The State Examiner state something different from what they themselves state. I have this State Examiner's report, so I can prove it.

P. O. Sorlom.

GEO. M. GUNDERSON

Candidate for COUNTY AUDITOR
Pennington County

During my several years of teaching I spent my vacations in completing a business course at summer school sessions. I supplemented this course by correspondence courses in penmanship and accounting. After completing these courses, I audited books for stores and farmer's elevators, taught the subjects of bookkeeping, accounting, commercial arithmetic and penmanship in a business college and hold recommendations and testimonials from several of the students attending my classes.

County Auditor's offices are equipped with adding and computing machines. A deputy is unnecessary. A part time clerk with mechanical ability to operate these machines, as an aid to the Auditor, at various rush work times, is all that is necessary.

If nominated and elected I shall abide by the stote prescribed system of book-keeping and accounting; thus, maintaining state-wide uniformity, economizing on the work, worry and time of the state public examiners and taxpayers.

Geo. M. Gunderson.

IN UNITY IS STRENGTH

To the Editor:

The Ninth District Congressional Convention which was called by the Farmer-Labor Committee to endorse a candidate for the June Primary was as fair as it is possible to make it, being based on representotion from each county in the district in proporation to the 1932 Farmer-Labor vote. For this reason I feel confident the convention gave due consideration to both the qualifications and the availability of all candidates and then make the endorsement of Hon. R. T. Buckler according to the best judgment of the majorities Therefore I believe the "rank and file" should vote to ratify the endorsement, in order to promote unity in the coming fall campaign, so we can be sure to elect our Farmer-Labor candidate. We must remember that it will not be the same voters who will pass on our candidate in the General Election as it will be in the June Primaries. In June it will be the voters of all parties.

With the splendid record in the State Senate, and an actual farmer, centrally located in the district, and a pioneer in the F-L movement. R. T. Buckler will certoinly be by far the most available of the three running, so I hope our F-L votres will vote to ratify his endorsment and place him on the F-L ballot June 18, so we can elect our man in the fall.

Andrew Trovaton.

"A Minnesota reconstruction act, with full power to regulate hours and wages and carry on useful public works projects."

We cannot close our eyes to tha serious unemployment prohlem. Also in attempting its solution, we must guard against lowering of the American standard of living; on the contrsry, we must seek to raise this standard. The undertaking of useful public works is one of the methods of meeting the unemployment situation during a period of transition until a more permanent solution of the prohlem is found.

"Textbooks for the use of our schools to be printed by the state and distrihuted free to all sudents."

This is purely an economic measure, due to the operation of what is virtually a textbook trust. Education for the poor should be made mora easy to attainment rather than more difficult. The state would not select nor gather the material for these books nor interfere with such work, but would only provide a printing plant for printing the school books designated by the same authorities as now designate, and without any violation of the principle of home rule. An increase amounting to over $100,000 could defray the cost of printing the textbooks.

"Security of tenure and freedom of expression for teachers in our public schools."

The present teachers' tenure law does not go far enough. Academic freedom for teachers is essential if we are to maintain an educational system free from interference from interested groups who attempt to control, for selfish reasons, the course of public instruction. In that regard the activities of the power trust to influence our public instruction may be cited. It was revealed in the federal investigation of the trust that money was spent to spread private power propraganda in the schools, which included the University of Minnesota.

"Unemployment Insurance."

The producers of our wealth live in a perpetual nightmare, the constant fear that the morrow may find them in the ranks of the unemployed and their families in want of food, clothing and shelter. Our workers do not receive sufficient compensation while working to enable them to maintain an American standard of living and at the same time permit them to save enough money to carry them over periods of economic depression. The question of unemployment insurance is a matter now under consideration by the Roosevelt administration. Enactment of a fedmake it possible for the state to eral unemployment insurance law will make it possible for the state to adopt a law which will not discriminate against Minnesota employers of labor in their competition with employers in othar atates.

"Sickness, Accident and Workmen's Compensation Insurance."

Tha states of Washington, Ohio, North Dakota and others ara now operating their own workman's compensation Insnrance. The present workmen's compensation set-up in Minnesota doea not give tha worker in industry tha needed protection. There are now approximately $400,000 in unpaid claims before the Minnesota industrial commission, the result of insuranca companies becoming insolvent in the last few years. Although legal responsibility for these claims rests on the employers, there is little doubt but that a large part of these claims never will be paid. Sickness and accident insurance are matters of social import, in which the state can legitimately engage as important social activity. We believe that under encouragment by the state other forms of insurance may be handled by mutual companies operating in a purely co-operativa manner.

"Maternity Insnrance."

This would make it unnecessary for expectant mothers engaged in industry to keep working. It would apply only to thosa families which require relief from financial worries.

"An adeqnate Old Age pension."

The last legislature passed an old age pension bill. It provides a pension of not to exceed $1 a day for those, who in their old age, find themselves in want. This marks a forward step, but it is not far enough. We now create wealth with greatest of ease—so much in fact that we don't know what to do with it. Because we have no intelligent system of distributing this wealth, we throw men and women out of work, causing hunger and dire suffering. We produce enough to give comfort and security to everybody. By providing this comfort and security to those who in the closing days of their lives find themselves in want, we increase the opportunities for our young folks.

"Party Deaignation."

In voting for a candidate the people have the right to know what the group and party affiliation of that person will bt.

"Control over public works."

This will make possible a water conservation policy and program, impossible under existing laws. With our lakes and streams drying up because of the continued drought, the water supplies of communities threatened, and pollution of our streams a menacing problem, water conservation legislation is a matter of imperstive need. Minnesota has water resources unequalled by any other state, but we are among the very backward states in the Union as regards water conservation laws. There is no public body at present which haa control and jurisdiction over public works for the conserving of our water resources.

Mahnomen—Dried up pastures in eastern South Dakota and parts of Minnesota are causing stock raisers to bring their cattle into Mahnomen and Becker counties for feeding. Several hundred animals have been brought into this area.

Duluth—The state conservation commission, meeting here, told a group of conservationalists the state was unlikely to turn the Kabetogama and Grand Portage state forests over to the government as extensions to the Superior National Forest.

Minneapolis—Twenty chicks chirp and scratch in a pen at the home of Alonzo Morrison, truckdriver. And their father was Old Sol whose beaming, blistering rays cast down upon the city dump, hatched them from eggs cast away as sterile. Poultrymen believed the eggs were discarded in the chilling weather a week ago.

St. Paul—The state's share of every Minneapolis tax dollar has mounted each year from 5.9 cents in 1931, reaching an all-time peak of 12.58 cents this year, according to a tax distribution statement prepared by George M. Link, secretary of the board of estimate and taxation, and published in the 1934 issue of Budget Facts.

POLITICAL ADVERTISEMENT—Prepared and published by the Otter Tail County All Party Progressive Association and the Farmer-Labor Volunteer Committee, Fergus Falls, Minn., in behalf of Judge Henry Nycklemoe and paid for at reg. adv. rates.

HENRY NYCKLEMOE

FOR CONGRESS

Most Popular Candidate

Popular because he is a man of the people and an outstanding progressive. Nycklemoe was brought up on a farm in Otter Tail County; he worked his way through school; he is a graduate of St. Olaf College and the University of Law School. While at college, Nycklemoe organized the first Shipstead Club and ever since he has been an admirer of Senator Shipstead's progressive record. .. ..

Like the Honorable Senator, Nycklemoe's progressive record has won for him the warm support of not only Farmer-Labor people but all other progressives. The majority of people prefer a progressive of Nycklemoe's type as he is not a radical nor controlled by anyone, but an independent who believes in sound and sane progressive legislation, including the Frazier Bill and stabilization of agriculture.

Nycklemoe's popularity is spreading rapidly and it is conceded that the nomination will most assuredly mean his election. Nycklemoe's knocks of experience and training makes him well qualified to serve his people in Congress. He has served as Municipal Judge in Fergus Falls since 1928 and was recently endorsed for Federal Judge by the Farmer-Labor Party. He is a Scandinavian and an Ex-Service man and in his prime of life, 42 years old.

The Judge is a man in whom the people have confidence. He believes in protecting the rights of the individual American citizen. A vote for Judge Henry Nycklemoe, at the primaries, for Congress on the Farmer-Labor ticket, is a vote in your own behalf.

Sweet Corn:
Is a short season crop and under favorable conditions will produce mature corn which will be found to be a good turkey feed.
Broilers:
This is the time to market your broilers to advantage, as it seldom pays the producers to feed cockerels thru the summer season. We suggest that you market them now and make room for your pullets.

R. T. Buckler

"A DIRT FARMER"

He Asks for Your Vote and Support Because of—

- His consistent record for 12 years in the State Senate in support of legislation for the farmer, laborer and independent business man.
- Being given an 80 per cent rating, an excellent above average record by the Farmer-Labor Educational Bureau, only official accredited authority. (see F-L Leader for Feb. 15, 1934).
- He favors silver legislation to raise agricultural prices.
- He is opposed to tax exempt bonds.
- He favors Frazier Bill plan to refinance farm loans at low interest rates.
- He wants legislation giving the farmer a guaraneed minimum price on farm produce, assuring a fair profit over cost of production.
- He stands on the Farmer-Labor Platform.
- He favors National Old Age Pension legislation.
- He favors immediate payment of the Soldiers' Bonus with treasury notes.

Mrs. Augusta Hoppa Dies Monday at Age of 48 Years

Mrs. Augusta Hoppa passed away Monday, June 11 at 3:10 A. M. at a local hospital. She was born December 15, 1886 at Chelset, Wisconsin, and was married March 25,1905 at Hurley, Wisconsin to Frank A. Hoppa of Stevens Point, Wis. Mrs. Hoppa has been a resident of this city for about 22 years, and was a member of the Woman's Catholic Order of Fosters, the St. Bernard's Guild, and the Royal Neighbors of America. Her parents and a son, Glenn, have preceded her in death. Those left to mourn her passing are her husband Frank A. Hoppa, three daughters, Miss Ruth of Minneapolis, Mrs. Ray Kiland of this city, Mrs. Donald McCrum of Chicago, one son, Earl of this city, and two grandchildren. Services were held on Wednesday, June 13, at the St. Bernard's Church, with Rev. Father A. I. Merth officiating. Interment was made in the St. Bernard's cemetery.

Barren Ground Well Grown

"Barren grounds" as applied to the far northern plains of Canada, is a misleading name for the reason that these tracts are far from barren. In most places the ground is well covered, often by an even luxuriant vegetation. Also blue lupines cover acres of the Arctic tundra every summer, in addition to deep carpets of reindeer moss, and meadows of blue-joint grass.

You Must Vote a Straight Ticket in Primary

Your ballot will be invalid in the June Primaries unless you vote for candidates of one party—AND ONE PARTY ONLY. This is the law. You cannot cast a primary vote for candidates of one party and for candidates of another party.

When you go to the polls you will be handed a ballot on which will be printed all party tickets, side by side. But that DOES NOT mean that you can vote for candidates on two or more of those tickets. Every candidate you vote for must be of the same political party or your entire ballot will be thrown out.

Remember, the law distinctly says that if a voter in the primaries marks he names of candidates of more than one political party his ballot shall not be counted at all. Therefore, you must vote a straight ticket in the June primaries.

SOCIALISTS IN CONVENTION RECENTLY OPPOSE N.R.A.

DETROIT—Without a single dissenting vote, the national convention of the Socialist party meeting here adopted the following resolution in opposition to the National Recovery Administration.

"The NRA constitutes a recognition by the representatives of the ruling class that capitalism has broken down, and that drastic measures are required to repair and preserve it. Every aspect of this attempt must be considered in the light of its sole purpose—the maintenance of capitalism. This purpose reveals the class character of the NRA and its entire machinery.

Not Step Towards Socialism.

"The NRA is not a step towards Socialism. Socialism aims to abolish the profit system. The NRA aims to stabilize and maintain it. Two aspects of he NRA create the wrong belief among workers that it consitutes a step toward Socialism and that is purpose is to aid the working class.

"First of all the state machinery is being utilized to set up the codes. It is state intervention in economic affairs, but not every form of state intervention is Socialism. That depends entirely on who controls the state and the purpose of the intervention. The present state is in effect the executive commitee of the ruling class. It has 'intervened' through the NRA only because the members of capitalist class have been unable to to solve their problems seperately and without some higher authority to enforce their decisions.

Impetus to Labor Organization

"Secondly, the NRA has, in order to achieve its objective of serving capitalism, supposedly granted workers certain rights. The actual administration of the law has in fact robbed labor of most of the privileges theoretically granted. The chief benefit was the impetus it gave to labor organization. This assistance was psychological. It gave organizers the opportunity to claim that the government favored the organization of unions. The colossal failure of the government to enforce the law is creating a constantly growing disillusionment in the ranks of the workers. Employers have with impunity defied the law. Codes are unenforced. The right to the 'closed shop' has been denied. The machinery of the NRA has been used to break strikes. It has produced very few new jobs. Low minimum wages, combined with our shorter hours, and an increased cost of living, have operated, in fact, wherever new jobs have been given out as a share-the-work scheme. The wage rates established have thrown out of employment thousands of negro workers adding to the hardships of this most oppressed section of the American working class. The courts, the police and the militia are increasingly being used to interfere with the attempts of workers to organize.

Cannot Abolish Unemployment

"The internal contradictions of capitalism are too far-reaching to be removed by any method other than the destruction of capitalism. Even if the NRA were perfectly adminisioned it could not abolish unemployment because the private profit must inevitably cause unemployment.

"It must be borne in mind that the NRA has brought certain disadvantages which did not exist before. It has definitely organized capitalists into trade associations and thus increased their power to fight labor unions. It has established code authorities with vast power for te condust of business. It has concentrated into the hands of the government powers which every fascist state reaches for.

Potential Fascism

"The NRA is not fascism. It is rather a beginning of state capitalism. But it has potentialities of fascism wich the working class can only forestall by rising to its obligations In the first place, no limitations of any kind must be permitted on the right to strike. This is already being attempted. The strike is the basic weapon of the labor conflict—any attempt to whittle it down must be met with he widest and most far reaching use of the weapon—the general strike. Compulsory arbitration is only a disguise for restrictions on the right to strike and must be fought bitterly. A relentless struggle must be waged against all forms of company unions. Workers must put up a militant fight for a shorter week and a higher wage scale, for unemployment, old age and other forms of social insurance. But they will succeed in these efforts only in proportion to their own organized strength and fighting ability.

"The Socialist party hold to be contrary to the interests of our movement for members of the party to serve on administrative, compliance and labor boards of the NRA expressly chosen by the workers and designated to represent them.

"The Socialist party must point out to the workers of this counry that the NRA is no solution of their problems, that it cannot eliminate unemployment or lessen class conflict. The only way for the workers is to organize politically into the Socialist party and economically into powerful industrial unions and cooperate organizations, and to use these working class organizations to abolish capitalism, and create Socialism."

Sleepy Eye—The city council has come to the financial assistance of the Sleepy Eye drum and bugle corps. The council has granted an appropriation of $200 to the musical organization. The drum and burgle corps has won several prizes in contests and has made appearance in several cities.

Minneapolis — Forty-nine railroad grade crossings on state trunk highways have been eliminated in the last year and a half, and by the end of this summer 14 additional crossings will be eliminated by means of bridges and eight by relocations. Several center piers also are being removed in the interest of safety.

CWA Organization Elects Jack VanPelt Secretary

The CWA Protective association held a meeting at the court house on Wednesday evening of this week.

A special election for secretary was held at which Jack VanPelt was elected to succeed Milton Gillette who has been called to Ceur De Alene, Idaho.

After some discussion the organization decided to send a resolution to President Roosevelt requesting thot the policy of the National Import and Export bank be changed to allow Russia to open trade with the United States, a relation which is impossible at the present time because of the fact that the Import and Export bank has laid down a policy of no monetary considerations for countries which have defaulted on their loans from the United States. The resolution points out that the Russian loons which are in default are from the Czarist regime and not contracted by the Soviet Union.

The organization also voted to stay in the battle agoinst the unjust treatment accorded the men discharged by the city in the employee-engineer contraversy.

The members discussed possibilities of starting some selfaid projects for the unemployed, woodcutting, machinery repairing and meat supply projects being considered.

What, No Republican Votes?

Pennington county will fall into bad repute with Republicans thruout the state we fear. On Tuesday morning about 1 A. M. Republican headquarters in St Paul called county auditor H. L. Fowler and asked for county returns on the state ballot. Said Fowler, "There is only one precint reported so far."

"Oh, all right give us that. Republican?"

"Mmm, sorry, no Republican votes. Just four Democratic ballots and the rest Farmer-Labor," said Fowler.

There was a "rockribbed" Republican present in the auditor's office and was he embarrassed?

Minnesota Road Work To Be Cut One-Half

There will be just one-half as mucb state highway construction in Minnesota next season as there has been his year, according to a bulletin from the highwoy department.

This will be the effect of the highway aid bill passsed by congress last week. After 1935, under the terms of the bill, it may be impossible for Minnesota to obtain any substantial federal aid, which would mean virtually abandoment of state road construction activities in Minnesota.

"For the current fiscal year", said N. W. Elsberg, high commissioner, "Minnesota had $10,500,000 of Federal road funds for construction. Under the new highway act, this will be cut to about $5,000,000 for the coming year, a reducion of 50 per cent.

"In 1935 the bill provides abont $3,000,000 of Federal aid for Minnesota provided we can match it with an equal amount of state funds for construction purposes. The same provision is made for 1937. However, it now appears that it will be impossible for Minnesota to match the Federal funds in either 1936 or 1937, owing to the 65 per cent increase in trunk milage and 42 per cent decrease in automobile license fees made by the 1933 legislature. Practically all state revenues at present are required to meet the increased maintenance expense, bond cbargea and other necessary items."

'We're not Dressing' at the Avalon Sunday and Monday

"We're Not Dressing" is the screen attraction offered at the Avalon on Sunday and Monday, June 24 and 25, with cast including Bing Crosby, George Burns andGracie Allen, Carole Lombard, Ethel Merman and Leon Erool.

To Whom it May Concern:

We the undersigned who were present at the meeting of the City Council of Thief River Falls, Minnesota, on Tuesday, June 15th, do hereby state positively that we at that time heard the conversation between Mayor E. L. Tungseth, and B. Dan Bjorkman relative to the discharge of certain employees of the city to-wit: A. G. Anderson, and Fred Byram, who hsd been dismissed from city amployment.

At that time during the discussion Mayor E. L. Tungseth turned to Mr. Bjorkman and said "Are we responsible to you?" The Mayor did not say "Are we responaible to you personally," as they claim he did in the campaign circular gotten out by his campaign manager in the statement signed by Mr. Mylirum, James Cosgrove and others. We heard hia statement and we feel positive he did not say "personally," as he now claims, but what the Mayor did say was just simply, "Are we responsible to you." to which Mr. Bjorkman replied that he thought the Mayor and other city officials were responsible to the citizens of the town.

Canning School for Community Demonstration Leaders at Lincoln Highschool Thursday, 28

Training demonstration leaders for every community in the county, a 3-day canning achool will he held in the Lincoln High School, Thief River Falls. June 28th; the School Building at St. Hilaire, June 29th; and tha School Building at Goodridge, June 30th; under the anspices of the Pennington County Emergensy Relief Administration.

Miss Irene Netz, nntrition and canning expert attached to the aocial servica division of the state ERA, will be in charge of the three-day school and will train aelected leaders from every section of tha county in the newest and safest methods of canning and preserving garden produce, fruita, and meats.

Following the canning school to be held Thnrsday, Friday and Saturday, the leaders attending will carry tha instruction and methods back to their local communities and pnt on demonstrations for all interested housewives.

To facilitate instruction, only the selected leaders will attend the school, according to the committee, bnt the demonstrations will be open to everyone.

"The canning school and demonstrations are an important step in the garden project being carried forward throngh the co-operation of the state and local emergency relief administration as a part of the self-help and rehabilitation program," said county relief officials.

Relief clienta participating in last year's program canned an average of $68 worth of produce from their gardens, and clients in several counties are still using vegetables canned last summer, according to reports of relief workers.

It is emphasized by the local ERA committee that the canning demonsrations which will follow the school are open to all housewives.

Leaders from twenty-one organized gronps will attend the three-day canning school and later put on demonstrations in their local communities.

Farmer-Labor Party Leads in State Balloting for First Time

The Farmer-Labor party led the field in number of ballots cast in a primary election for the first time in Mondays' elections. Final count is expected to place the number of farmer-labor ballots well over 250,000. Two years ago the farmer-labor vote was 157,000 as compared with the republican total of 267,600. This year tbe republican has fallen to a poor tbird, returns indicating that the democratic total will crowd the farmer-labor for first place. Political prognosticators see in this an indication that the F-L program which has come in for so much panning from tbe opposition has not frightened the people away, rather attracted voters to tbe farmer labor ranks.

Governor Olson polled 92 per cent of the farmer-labor vote in the state incomplete returns indicate, John Lind being completely outdistanced. Pennington county gave Olson 2428 and Lind 286. Shipstead has snowed the veciferous Shoemaker under completely. Pennington county voted as follows on this office; Sbipstead, 2310 and Shoemaker 405. Naplin was trailing Gunderson for Clerk of the Supreme Court last evening by 18,000 votes with 1000 precints yet to be heard from. It is thought tbat Naplin may overcome this lead when the complete returns are in from the northern part of the state. Their vote in Peunington was Naplin 2045 and Gunderson 552. Munn seems to be the winner for Railroad and Warehouse commissioner and Buckler was leading Townley by some over three thousand last evening. Pennington gave Buckler 1378, Nycklemo 250 and Townley 912.

In the republican race Davis has lost to Holmberg for the senate, Peunington county gave Holmberg 100 majority. Nelson, republican nominee for governor outdistanced bis nearest rival by 400 votes in the county.

Hoidale won in Pennington over Lohman for the democratic nomination for tbe senate three to one and has abut the same advantage all over the state. In the democratic gubernatorial race Pennington county gave Regan 158 and Schilplin his nearest rival 139. The rest trailed far behind. Regan has toe nomination cincbed according to Twin City reports. In the race for congress in tha ninth Brandon leads Bouvette with Fredrickson third. Tbeir vote in Pennington county was 238,187 and 114 respectively.

CHRIS PORTER, PIONEER, 69 YRS. DIES TUESDAY

Resident of Thief River Falls 51 Years Succumbs after A Months Illness

After being confined to a local hospital for a month, Christopher Henry Porter, pioneer resident of the city for 52 years, passed away at 11:30 A. M., Tuesday, June 19.

Mr. Porter was born December 25, 1865 in Michigan. His parents moved to Minnesota when he was three years old, and aettled on a farm at Garfield, Minnesota. When 17 years of age, he came to Thief River Falls to join a brother who lived here on a claim, which is now Porter's Addition to Thief River Falls. During his residence here, Mr. Porter was engaged in many occupations, heing nn express messenger and mail carrier before the arrival of the Great Northern railroad. Since then he had ben a housemover, livery stahle owner, hutcher and operated a saloon until prohibition came in. He opened a cafe in 1921 which he has maintained until the present day. A friend of tbe Indians, Mr. Porter did much trading witb them, and they conferred npon him the name which when translated means "the bearer."

In 1895, Mr. Porter was married to Engenie L. Grandstrand of Belgrade, Minnesota. His wife preceded him in death in 1907. He was a charter member of the local fire department, which was organized in 1894, and retired in 1915 after 21 years of service. In view of his many years of service, he was elected an honorary of the Minnesota State Firemen'a Association. He was also a member of the local Odd Fellows and Masonic lodges. He served on the city council for the years 1924, 1925, 1990, 1991, 1932 and 1933, and was preaident of the council the latter two years.

Surviving are two aons, Elra of Chicago, and Kenneth of this city, and two brothers, Ed. and Frank Porter of Garfield, Minn.; and one sister, Mrs. Frank Hall of Walla Walla, Washington.

Rev. E. A. Cooke will officiate at a service under Masonic auspicea at the city auditorium on Friday, Juna 22, at 1:15 P. M. Interment will be made in Greenwood Cemetery.

H. L. Fowler Receives Biggest Majority Ever Cast for A County Candidate

Complete tabular retnrns for Pennington county will be published next week.

Penington county will have a new sheriff, complete returns from the county indicates, as Ihle came in under the wire third in a seven cornered race. Arthur Rambeck led tbe field with 1390, Andrew Ness came second with 1088 and Ole Ihle was third with 902. Matheson was high man for Superintendent of Schools in a ten sided race and received 1450 votes while his nearest competitor, Miss Edna Hovie received 847. Fowler received the highest vote cast for county office getting 2554 votes for auditor with George Gunderson second with 668 votes. T. P. Anderson, former auditor was [illegible] down with 680 votes.

The race for county treasurer was close with Johnsrud leading on the rural returns which were first to come in, with Umland and Gullingsrud the incumbent, seesawing for second place. The city precincts however, placed Gullingsrud on the top of the heap with [illegible] votes, Johnsrud taking second place with 1430 and Umland was eliminated with 1191 votes.

Julius Olson led all candidates in this county, receiving 3155 votes. He is well within the field of four survivors in the state at large according to the latest reports. Chommie led the field for district judge in this county with [illegible] votes, Brattand coming second with 1772, Montague third, with 899 and Bishop fourth, with 546. Late reports from Crookston places Brattlaud, Montague, Rowe and O'Brien as the four surviviors in the order named.

In the race for state senator, final returns from the entire district gives Harris 3356, Nelson 2305 and Tungseth 3500. Tungseth holding a lead over Harris in the district of 144 votes. Pennington county gave Harris 1526, Nelson 850 and Tungseth 1685, Tungseth holds a lead of 175 votes in this county.

Obsarvers point out that Harris and Nelson are both well known Farmer-Laborites and that the Nelson vote is conceeded to go to Harris in the fall elections. Their combined vote was 5551, this is about 60 per cent of the total vote cast for senator at this election. Naplin polled about 50 per cent of the vote in the primary four years ago. Farmer-Laborites claim a large gain in tbe Farmer-Labor vote cast for candidates on tbe no party designation ballot on the basis of these figures.

Red Lake county gave Harris a majority of 190 votes the standing there being: Harris 913, Nelson 504 and Tungseth 723. This is tha first time Red Lake county has returned a majority for a Farmer-Labor or a Non-partisan league candidata, and Farmer-Laborites in that county are pointing with pride to the organization that they have built up in the past four months.

Clearwater county Farmer-Laborites has been engaged in a Townley-Buckler squabble and apparently forgot that thare were any other candidates to work for and consequently Harris ran third in that county. Tha standing was as follows: Harris 917, Nelson 951 and Tungsetb 1092.

Tungsetb's vote in the city of Thief River Falls dropped from 1385 at tha city election last fall to 772 this tima.

The vote on state representative in the 65th district was as follows:

Pennington county: Banmann, 590; Day, 1953; Jones, 637; Melby, 2133; Waldal, 1402.

Red Lake county: Baumann, 308; Day, 1884; Jones, 500; Melby, 1021; Waldal, 1369.

Clearwater county: Baumann, 408; Day, 1485; Jones 1259; Melby, 1224; Waldal, 979.

Totals: Baumann, 1302; Day, 4328; Jones, 2436; Melhy, 4978; Waldal, 3719.

In the race for commissioner of tha 4th district Mulry received 959, Paulson 329 and Hoefer 101.

Miss Minnie Styrlund of Warren, the district president, presided at the meetings. Mrs. Harriet G. Northfield of Minneapolis, tha state president of the W. C. T. U., was the main speaker, and Mrs. J. M. Bishop of this city, also gave a talk.

SENATOR MORRIS SHEPPARD SEEKS A NEW DRY LAW

Senator Morris Sheppered of Texas, co-author of the prohibition amendment repealed six months ago, Friday fethered a new effort in congress for federal reguletion of liquor.

Contending conditions since repeal proved the etates cannot handle the liquor problem, Sheppard offered a constitutional amendment to restore to congress the right to regulate or prohibit alcoholic beverages.

He submitted his amendment, he told the senate, "in order thet it may be in shape for discussion and action in connection with the coming election."

He said the emendment was more flexible than the previous one, in that it would give congress discretion to restrict, prohibit, or do nothing, if it desired, about the liquor traffic.

FORD INSTALLS MARVELOUS ELECTRICAL DISPLAY AT CHICAGO WORLD'S FAIR

What is described as the greatest elecrical installation ever made in a single building—a lighting, power and amplifying system which will require 100 miles of electric wiring—is now under construction at the Ford Exposition Building in Chicago, the largest individual exhibit at the 1934 World's Fair. This was the statement made today by Lund and Tunberg local Ford Dealers who has just been advised about this unusual electrical installation.

One of the most sensational lighting effects ever achieved will be a torch of light 200 feet broad at its base, which will spring from the parapet of the open court on the building, rising under proper atmospheric conditions to a height of one mile. The powerful beam will be developed through the use of 24 thirty-six inch projector searchlights, resulting in a 30,000,000 candlepower display.

OUTLAWING OF COMPANY UNIONS DEMANDED

Anober Railway Labor Bill, which proposes to amend the Railway Labor Act by prohibiting company unions, recalls to mind the following statement made by Congressman Ernest Lundeen before a code hearing in Washington on January 12,1934:

> "The company union plan is an old game played by captains of industry to defeat free, organized labor, and real collective bargaining. The Administration must outlaw these employer created, employer dominated, and employer controlled so-called 'Labor unions' I am for the passage of legislation which will accomplish that purpose."

SENATE COMMITTEE ACTS ON BONUS BILL

Almost three months after the overwhelming victory of the Lundeen motion to bring the adjusted service certificate bill before the House, and the passage of the bill itself by a vote lage enough to override a presidential veto, the Senate Finance Committee—in the face of repeating threats to have the committee discharged from further consideration of the bill—finally reported it adversely on Wednesday, June 6. The measure is now on the Senate calendar, and leaders in the field of veterans' legislation are putting forth every effort to force a vote before the adjournmen of Congress, and in time to pass the bill again over a possible presidential veto.

KKELLER-CROSSER RAILWAY RETIREMENT INSURANCE BILL

Hearings were held before the House Interstate and Foreign Commerce Committee on Friday, June 8, on the Keller-Crosser Railway Retirement Insurance Bills, endorsed by hundreds of railway labor unions, the Twenty-one Standard Railway Brotherhoods, and the Railway Pension Association. These duplicate bills, introduced separately by Congressman Keller and Congressman Crosser, take the place of to conflicting bills one of which was formerly backed by the Railway Pension Association, other by the Railroad brotherhoods.

It appears that the new compromise measure has united backing of railway labor, large numbers of Representatives and Senators, and the National Administration. Prospect for passage are bright.

NORRIS PLANS DRIVE FOR ONE-HOUSE LEGISLATURE

Defeated in his fight for governmental reform through abolition of the electoral college, Senator Norris veteran Nebraska Progressive Republican, is planning to push his drive for a one-house legislature in his home state.

Norris, whose reform efforts already have resulted in elimination of lame duck sessions of Congress, will campaign personally if needed in order to get his prosposal on the general election ballot in Nebraska next fall.

His office said about 60,000 signers are needed to the petition for a place on the ballot.

Beavers Grew Large

Beavers that lived on the American continent about a million years ago ranged in size from specimens as large as a ground squirrel or muskrat to others as large as black bears, according to the curator of the museum of paleontology at the University of California. He arrived at this conclusion after a three-year study of fossil beavers from the Tertiary and Pleistocene geologic ages. Thirty-four species were studied, which range back into the Tertiary period, approximately 40,000,000 years ago.

UNIVERSITY OF MINNESOTA TO TRAIN SOCIAL WORKERS

A bloc of special courses to train social workers for tasks presented by the present emergencies, in rural and urban districts, will be offerde by the department of sociology of the University of Minnesota in its first summer session, beginning June 18. Never before has there been so great a need for trained social workers, nor so many places awaiting them, it was said by Dr. F. Stuart Chapin, head of the department. Among the courses will be several intended to offer persons now in the field a chance to brush up their knowledge and come in contact with the lastest procedures and thinking.

MANY 'MILKY BELLY' SOWS HAVE BEEN MARKETED THIS SEASON; SCARCITY OF FEED

This is the sow selling season and numbers coming to market recently have been above normal, states the weekly market issued by the Central Cooperative Association of So. St.Paul. Packers are discriminating against "milky belly" sows. They are numerous are subject to a dockage of from 10 to 40 lbs. per head.

In normal years producers have allowed their sows to dry up before sending them to market in order to avoid his dockage. With the corn-hog ratio at the lowest point in history, and with no immediate prospects that sows could pay a decent price for corn, producers apparently feel that right now is a good time to dispose of their sows and thus save the feed.

Hog slaughter has been heavy during the past month, as indicated by government figures. The U. S. slaughter for May was 4,217 head. Except for last year, it was the largest May hog slaugher since 1924. Many lightweight hogs were forced to the market during the past month and many unfattened hogs were included in receipts due to drouth conditions.

Average weights of hogs at the various markets during May were from 15 to 30 pounds less than a year ago. At south St. Paul average weights were from 10 to 29 pounds less han a year ago. As soon as the marketing is over, all indications point towards dimishing supplies of hogs for the market. This naturally point towards higher prices

LOOK OUT FOR GLASSES AT SUMMER COLD DRINK STANDS

Do they really wash the mugs and glasses used at the restaurant or road-side stand where you stop? Or do they rinse them under a faucet?

These are not mere academic question, according to physicians of the Minnesota State Medical Association. A real epidemic of a very unpleasant disease—trench mouth—is in progress in one big city in Minnesota right now, according to a medical bulletin issued today, which has been traced definitely to one small stand where infected mugs were not washed.

Tench mouth is a very infectious disease of the mouth and gums, very stuborn and hard to cure and very dangerous to the teeth if it is not treated. The name is really Vincent's Angina. It earned the name "Trench Mouth" in war days because the disease became epidemic among the soldiers. The skilled treatment of a dentist is required to cure it.

Probably Trench Mouth spreads more easily via the unwashed mug route than many other dangerous diseases, in medical opinion. But many a cold undoubtedly originates in the same way as well as untold other grave infections that are otherwise unexplained.

Thorough washing with soap and hot water is all that is necessary for all the ordinary purposes of homes and restaurants to make dishes and table furnishings safe for use.

City Health Department requirements almost universally demand that kind of washing. But it is difficult for the most consceiencious and thorough department to keep a watchful eye on every little stand that sets up to serve drinks in the summer months.

A little private inspection and general individual insistence upon cleanliness would have a saintary effect upon careless proprietors in the opinion of physicians, and protect, also, against a dangerous source of disease.

McGOVERN WARNS FOOTBALL MEN OF U. OF MINNESOTA

John McGovern, the first All-American football player in the history of the University of Minnesota and a recognized expert on sports, now living in the east, attended a banquet of "M" men on the campus last week and warned members of the team and athletic staff that Pittsburgh, one of the best teams in the country, is out for revenge on Minnesota when the teams meet in Pittsburgh next fall. He said that in every Pittsburgh locker there is a notice that reads, "Minnesota beat us out of a trip to the West Coast last fall. What are you going to do about it?" He warned the Minnesotans against developing overconfidence merely because the team looks good on paper this spring.

ALL THIRD DISTRICT COUNTIES ADDED TO THE DROUTH AREA

Through an emergency pasture survey now being made, drouth stricken farmers may move their cattle into the surplus pasture areas of northern Minnesota in an orderly efficient manner.

Field Men of the State Department of Conservation have been surveying the northern counties checking on all surplus pasture areas, and listing the carrying capacity of these lands, allowing 5 to 10 acres per cow.

It is planned that the county agent's office in each county will be the clearance office for pasture information, or the county auditor's office in counties without agricultural agents. The offices will be provided with pasture survey maps for their respective counties.

It has been requested that all owners, public, private, or corporation, to assist by leaving at the office of the county agent a list of their holdings so that persons wanting pasture may know the ownership of areas mapped.

Much of the pasture land is in national forests or on Indian reservations. For rentals of these properties, cattle owners are advised to deal direct with the administrator of each property.

For cattle owners seeking pasture, the following procedure is suggested: After deciding which he wishes to go to, he should call at the county agent's office. For federal lands, he will contact the National Forest Service or the Indian service. If the private owner or other agency is not available to show him the pasture lands, he will call upon the district forest ranger. When location has been determined, lease or rental must be arranged for with the owner. In the case of the state lands, the man to see is Ray Kreis, lease agent, Minnesota Department of Conservation, Hibbing Minnesota.

It has been recognized that the forage and feed needs of the local farmers in northern Minesota should receive first consideration, but that all lads in excess of these local needs, can and should be opened to drouth-stricken farmers. It also was recommended that all hay lands be reserved since there will be no surplus of hay in northern Minnesota this year, that the privileges of pasture be opened for pasture lands ouly; and that all cattle on pasture be removed by about October 1.

Several bases for rentals have been suggested. Where resident farmers take in productive cattle, it was suggested that the rental be not less 50 cents per head per month; or possession of part or all of the milk product; or fencing of the area by the cattle owner in exchange for the use of the pasture. One dollar per head for the season was indicated as the minimum rental for young, dry, non-productive stock.

For open, unfenced land on state lands, the annual leasing fee is $4 per forty, or ten cents an acre. In federal forests, the figure is 7.51 cents per month for cattle and 2. 385 cents for sheep.

An emphatic warning has been issued not to ship cattle north until definie, complete arrangements for their reception and care can be made. It was recommended that only valuable breedig stock be shipped north, that cows about to freshen should not be shipped in any case, and and that productive cattle, when and if shipped north, should go in small groups into fenced areas and preferably into farmer owned, imprvoed pasture.

Details of the whole plan are given in a circular, "Emergency Pasture Survey," that anyone interested may receive on request from Paul E. Miller, state director, Drouth Relief Service, University Farm, St. Paul, or from a local county agent.

N. D. GOVERNOR IS FOUND GUILTY

Langer and Four Associates Found Guilty of Fraud—New Trial Denied.

Bismarck, N. D.—Governor William Langer was convicted by a federal court jury as a result of collection of funds from federal workers for the use of the Nonpartisan League's publication the Leader. Four men, including the head of the state highway department, were convicted with him. They were charged with defrauding the federal government.

Governor Langer and the other defendants were indicted by a federal grand jury April 16. The other named were Oscar Erickson, state senator and publisher of the administration paper, "The Leader," Oscar Chaput, its business manager; Frank A. Vogel, state highway commissioner. Harold McDonald, Paul C. Yeater and C. A. Hampla, subscription solicitors. R. A. Kinzer and his son, Joseph. Due to illness Erickson was not tried with the governor and other defendants, and charges agianst Yeater, Hampla and Joseph Kinzer were dropped in the middle of the trial. Conviction of Governor Langer of a crime that is a felony under the federal statutes raised the question of his equalization to hold office and to run as a candidate for re-elecion.

The case started some months ago when Governor Langer was suspended by Secretary Harold L. Ickes as North Dakota relief administrator because of complaints received that CWA workers had been obliged to contribute to the party's campaign funds. Langer denounced the action as political and a few days later the Nonpartisan League met in two conventions, indorsing Langer for reelection without a dissenting vote in one. The other put up an opposition slate. The primary June 28 will settle that fight.

Max Baer Knocks out Carnera in 11th

Long Isand, N. Y.—Max Baer is the new heavy-weight champon of the world after decisively beating Primo Carnera in 11 rounds. Baer's explosive right hand repeatedly found Carnera's jaw and he scored 11 knock downs in as many rounds. A crushing left hook to Carnera's chin in the eleventh, caused the giant to drop both arms and stagger back. Baer measured him calmly and shot a terrific right to the button, stretching his opponent to the floor for a count of four. He staggered to his feet and asked the referee to stop the fight, whereupon Baer's hand was raised in victory. Carnera outweighed Baer by 53½ pounds.

Plan to Move 5,000 S.D. Farm Families

Washington—In one of its most extraordinary steps, the federal relief administration embarked upon a plan to move 5,000 drouth-stricken South Dakota farm families to more productive land within the state. Colonel Lawrence Westbrook, deputy administrator, now is in the state, making a first-hand survey and discussing with local relief officials means of transplanting the families. He is expected to report back to Washington as soon as he completes his survey.

Official Interpretation of the Farmer-Lrbor Party Platform

The state to build and operate electric power plants and to sell elecricity thereby generated to municipalities and to individuals."

The Ontario system could well be used as a model. The average cost of resident electricity in Ontario is 1⅓ cents per kilowatt hour, while in the United Staes, where we live under the "blessings" of utility-controlled government it is 7 cents. The federal government, under the Tennessee Valley Auhority, is today established in this great valley a publicly-owned power system that will supply light and power to all the inhabitants of that area. Not only the power of Muscle Schoals be uilized but another great dam on the Clinch river in the eastern part of Tennessee is being construeted. This dam has been named in honor of Senator George W. Norris, whose indefatigable efforts for public ownership have borne such splendid fruit in this great project. The federal government has gone even further than developing and supplying power and light at actual cost to the fortunate Americans who live within the scope of this project. It is making it possible, through federal loans, for people to purchase full electrical equipment and appliances from the Tennessee Valley Authority at prices much below market figures and upon long terms of payment. This project is the most inspiring example of the duty and service by government to its people that is taking place on the American continent today.

The above program squares with the ideals and principles of the farmer-labor party as espoused in the 1934 platform. It squares also with the most advanced progressive thought of the day

We cannot go back to the old forms which fit republican doctrine. The old system has been tried and tested and found wanting. It is pagan and opposed to all religious teachings. Its fruits are millionaires and paupers hunger in the midst of plenty, wars and pestilence. To return to it is nothing short of insanity.

The co-operative movement has nowhere in America made greater strides than it has made in Minnesota. We have here the largest single co-operative in tha world. The farmer-labor party is committed to the co-operative movement, both producer and consumer. It is committed to a policy whereby government is used as an instrument to aid in the growth of the movement. The party advocates "building and maintaining adequate cooperative marketing and purchasing agencies in all the large industrial centers of the state." The co-operative movement has now reached the point where the commissioner of agriculture, under existing laws, can act as an agency for correlating efforts in the direction of marketing.

In the aforegoing program, no reference was made to life, fire, cyclone, hail and similar forms of insurance. These fields are effectively covered by the operation of such mutual insurance companies as are true co-operatives. The party is definitely opposed to engaging in governmental activities in competition with co-operatives. When the companies fail to cover this field the government can step in. When the co-operatives finally step into all fields, our government withdraws.

We warn the voter against being misled by false and malicious propaganda agains the farmer-labor platform, disseminated by special interests who are concerned, not in the welfare of the people, but in their [illegible] no again travel the dark and hopeless road to reaction and government control by predatory wealth but take the road which leads to security and happiness. Join with all the enlightened people of the nation who are seeking to build a new order.

ABOUT MUD-SLINGING AND SUCH THINGS

Heaping verbal umbrage upon those who do not agree with them in all things seem to have become the favorite indoor and outdoor past time of some aspirants for office and their supporters. At the same time they like to accuse those dissenters of throwing mud.

We would like to point out that we have cited various acts of commission and ommission of the city's officials with whom we disagree. That we have given facts, figures and instances to substantiate our criticisms. If that is mud-slinging, we will of course be quite willing to admit of indulging in it.

On the other hand, we have not, called anyone "irresponsible persons," we have not accused anyone of "owing everybody in town," "living on charity," "being immoral," "being political microbes," and "parasites." We have not accused anyone of being "liars," nor being "racksteers" nor yet of "traveling up and down the district—resorting to all the old political mud-slinging and lie-telling tactics of fiery office seakers." Neither have wa offered ourselves up to the electorate "to serve you in the great cause of the common people" if you will only reward us in sdvance by electing us to office. We have not threstened to slap anyone's face, we have not called anyone's attention to other peoples' stomach disorders, nor have we made sny enrly morning fistwnving calls threatening dire reprisals.

We repeat we have not done these things. Neither shall we do them in the future. We shall however continue to call the attention of the citizens to the dissipation of the city's resources and finances by their elected officials as well as to the other instances of insfficient management of the city's affairs and if those officials so desire, they may continue calling us those various things and doing those various things we have enumerated above, but it will not frighten us, bamboozzle us, nor intimidste us. We shall keep right on hammering until the city's business is conducted properly, efficiently and where it should be transacted, across the council table.

AND YET THEY CALL US RADICAL

We covered a meeting of the CWA Workmen's Protective association on Wednesday evening and when the chairman put the question which is put before the close of every meeting in regard to whether or not any of the members are in need, old Nick Nelson arose.

"Yes," he snid, "I nm in need, I am that. Of course I've got a place to sleep, I sleep in the coal bin at the Citizens State Bank building, but I haven't any money to buy my eats. I worked some last Januury and I went to Lieberman's und bought some clothes with that, and some of the fellows have been pretty good. Lawson gave me lunch today. I'd like to get some work, but I wouldn't be sble to work more than half dnys because I'm kind of weak from not eaten' regularly enough."

We hunted up the relief officer and Nick wns fixed up so he can eat from now on nnywny. But we just got thinking about it. We've known Nick for a long time. He came to our parents home nnd visited with us for a few days in Crookston way back in 1904. He wasn't a spring chicken at that time and that's thirty years ago. He was a country school teacber and a good one. A couple of years later be became a member of the staff at the Northwest Experiment Station in Crookston, (there was no A C., there at that time) doing botanical work and he knew his stuff too. We remember making a couple of Sunday visits to the station with mother and Nick took us out thru the gardens and fields and showed us specimens of rnre plants and sbrubs which he was fostering. He called them by Latin name and gave us some real lectures on botany.

Nick is pretty old now, he wns out in Fort something or other on the Missouri when Custer started from there on his fatal expedition against the Indians He has taught school; he worked in lumber camps; and on road constructin. He has farmed and toiled nnd now he's a broken old man. An old, old msn. He doesn't hardly know himself, bow old he is, but he puts younger men to shame when it comes to springing sbout crossing the streets in traffic. He had a little money saved in banks, but they closed and now somebody else is saving it. He hsd some lnnd and that's foreclosed and now somebody else has it. And Nick: He sleeps in the coal bin and lives on handouts.

And they call us radical and a "political microbe" when we protest against nn economic system which will do with an outworn mnn what we would't do with an nutworn horse; turn him out on the streets to starve. We've got an old Dad too. He isn't as old as Nick, but be hasn't so fnr to go to reach eighty. If it wasn't for the fact that we can give him a home and his meals he would probably have to join Nick in the coalbin and live nn handouts, for he has been worn out in the eervice of society too, and discarded.

And we rebel, and they call us "an irresponsible person."

THAT BAUMANN VOTE

Returns from the 65th Legislative district, showa that Ed. Baumann, the Communist candidate for the Legislature received 1,302 votes. Most people will admit that two years ago Baumann could not have mustered over a scora of votes. Today 1,302 persons in this district agree with him that something drnstic must be done. In other words, there are over a thousand peopla who conceed, and if their votes declare anything, are willing to take up arms and egage in a mass uprising to drive constituted authority out of office and set up a dictatorship of ha proletariat, or as they call themselvea in America, the farmers snd workers.

There is food for thought for the bnsineesmen, the professionalmen and those who like to class thamselves as a etep or two above the vast majority of the people in that vote. It is time that they stop and consider what their Insistence on the status quo msy mean, for them. It aeems to us thnt it is time for them to join with the farmer-lsborites in a sane, rational reorganization of the social snd economic system, so that it will be possibls for all the people to live in the comfort that our ability to produce, and the resources of our country is so abundantly able to provide for us all.

Every month, every day that you fight against and retard orderly, sane progress means more Baumann votea. In two esra; yes, in lesa than one year, there will be not just 1,302 communist votes in the 65th district, but 5,000. That would be less pleasant—for "leading citizens".

One thousand three hundred and two citizens, five hundred ninety of them in Pennington county are thinking in terms of revolntion and bloodshed, Better think it over, Mr. Solid Citizen, if you can't help us, don't help the bear as Townley said down on the postoffice lot a couple of weeks ago. It wouldn't be healthy for any of us. It is up to ns to think of the future, your future—your children's future, the future of our country and of civilization.

GOVERNOR OLSON PERFORMED HIS DUTY
(Mille Lacs Times)

Old line political newspapers in the stata are playing politics with the recent strike situation in Minneapolis. Among other things thay denounce the governor because he did not mobilize the national guard and rush them into Minneapolis befora the mayor and city authorities asked him to do so.

It is considered a reprehensibla act of tyranny for the president of tha United States to order troops into any stato for the purpose of suppressing disorders unless requested to do so by ths governor of a state. Likewise it would be an act of tyranny for a governor to order troops into a city for that purpose without a request from the mayor.

Both sides of tba strike controversy in Minneapolis asked the governor not to mobilize ths national guard. They eaid that to do so would very likely cause additionnl bloodshed.

However, when Mayor Bainbridge, of Minneapolis notified the governor that the polics force of the city wns unabls to cope with tha eituation ths governor immediately mobilized the national guard ready to act if necessary. Governor Olson performed his full duty, and acted with good common eensa and proper discretion. The mayor and city authorities of Minneapolis ars not and cannot properly criticize him at all, for he gave them every consideration. Tha only criticism being made against tbe governor on the strike question is by peanut politicians and their "yes" echoes of newspapers who hope to discredit the governor by lying and misrepresentation.

REVENUE BILL FAILS TO TAX WEALTH.
(St. Louis County Independent)

The Revenue Bill passed by both branches of Congress is a complete surrender to the predatory interests which have so long without interruption controlled governments of the United States, according to the People's Lobby. The Federal deficit this year will be at least $4,000,000,000. The deficit will be met by long term bonds at interest rstee running probably from three to three and one-half per cent with income there-from tax-exempt. The Revenue Bill repudiates the pledgee of the Democratic Party, and every principle of justice. It is a piece of wicked hypocricy. Ths President did not make any effort nor even suggest to Congress to tax the wealthy instead of borrowing from them. Instead of raising three to three and one-half billion dollars additional revenne through taxation of increasing corporation surpluses, of large Incomee and estates, and of corporate profits, the bill actually reduced taxes materially on middle class incomes. It reduced the tax on a $5,000 income of a married man with no dependents one-fifth; of such a mnn with $10,000 income, about one-eighth; on one with income of $14,000, nearly one-ninth. There is a tax increase only on incomes above $30,000. In England a married man with three minor children and an income of $5,000 paye nearly ten times as much income tax as in the United States. The Revenue was a direct test of the sincerity of the Administration and the Democratic Party. The bill leaves a person with $1,000,000 net income after paying income tax and surtaxes, $413, 436, one with n net income of $500,000 hns $2296,686 left, and one with a net income of $100,000 has $68,936 left. It proved them to have failed completely, in their protestations of devotion to the public interests, and that wealthy real rulers of the nation are still in the saddle.

TO CONTROL MUNITIONS
(Union Advocate)

No doubt the large newspapers and those of emaller calibre such as the St. Paul Dispatch and Pioneer Press will find further evidence that President Roosevelt is becoming communistic and unAmerican in his recent message to Congress in which he flayed the munitions manufacturers and urged a deep probe of that industry. Mr. Roosevelt eaid that "the privata and controlled mannfacture of arms and munitions and the traffic therein has become a eerious source of international discord and strife. The people of many countriee are being taxed to the point of poverty and starvation in order to enable governmente to engage in the made race in armament, which, if continued, may well result in war." He further contended that danger of war is largely dne to the "uncontrolled activitica of the manufacturers and merchants of engines of destruction."

The Farmer-Labor platform, which has caneed such a stir in the political graveyards of the state, is right in line with a great many of President Roosevelt'a policiee, and one of the first reeolntions adopted by the recent convention declared for governmental ownership and manufacture of all munitione of war.

It should also ba remembered that President Roosevelt quite recently declared the government ehould take over idle factories and operate them for the benefit of the needy. The President favored paying nominal rentals on such factories. The Farmer-Labor party favors ths outright purchose of euch idle plants to be used in producing the nccessitiee of life for Minnesota's needy citizens.

No one charged President Roosevelt with high treason for his declaration favoring the taking over of idle manufacturing plants, bnt no donbt that is due to tbe fact that be is not a candidate for office this year. Two years bence wa will be bearing the identical arguments now being used against tha Farmer-Labor platform, bnt, they will be directd agaist Mr. Roosevelt. It's an old newspaper custom.

LOYALTY TO COUNTRY
Askvo American

The nama of Mark Twain is on the lipa of all who have attended the Amarican public school and many others. Note the definition that the late beloved writer gave with reference to his idea of loyalty to one'a country:

You see, my kind of loyalty was loyalty to one'a country, not to institutions or its officeholders. The country is the real thing; it is the thing to watch over and care for and be loyal to; institutions are extraneous they are its mere clothing, and clothing can wear out, becoma ragged, cease to be comfortable, cease to protect the body from winter, disease and death. To be loyal to rags, to shout for rags, to worship rags, to die for rags—that is a loyalty of unreason; it is pure animal; it belongs to monarchy; was invented by monarchy; let monarchy keep it. I was from Connecticnt, whoea constitution declared "That all political power is inherent in the peopla, and all frea governmants are founded on their authority and instituted for their benefit, and that they have at all times an undeniable and indefensible right to alter their form of government in such a manner as they think expedient." Under that gospel, the citizen who thinks that the commonwealth's political clothes are worn out, [illegible] holds his peace and does not agitate for a new suit, is disloyal; ha is a traitor. That be may be the only one who thinks he sees this decay not excuse him; it is his duty to agitate, anyway, and it is the duty of others to vote him down if they do not see the matter as he does.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

DID THEY FOOL YOU?

The Association against the Prohibition Amendment, before beer was legalized stated that beer would produce $1,000,469,898 in annual Federal revenue.

The Committee on Taxation of the Investment Bankers Association said in April 1932 that beer would produce $734,000,000 in annual revenue. Irene Dupont said beer would produce $1,320,000,000 in annual Federal Reveune.

The New York Evening Post, said that beer would produce $1,129,280,000.

All the above refer to Federal Revenna ouly.

Hera are ths facts about beer revenue!

From April 7th, 1933 through the rest of ths year 3.2% beer and wine together with special brewers taxes produced only $113,255,192.22 or at an annual rate of $154,598,075.

In January, 1934 fermented malt liquors including 3.2% and etronger beers together with low alcoholic winee prodnced only $10,291,518.33 or at the annnal rate of $123,498,219.96—and included in ths January figure is $65,007.70 of epecial taxee which have been multiplied 12 timee to get tha annual figure—just to be more than fair.

Surely the wets did fool tha American people who believed their estimates.

During the year 1933 the people of the State of Minnesota paid to the Federal Government $5,368,741.07 for the doubtful privilege of drinking 3.2% beer and other liquors. This money, over five million dollars, came out of the pockets of other businese and decreased purchasing power in the state by that amount. On the basis of 10% of gross sales paid for Federal taxes it would mean that Minnesota folke spent over fifty million dollars for liquor. Perhaps these figures will throw some light on the plight of the dairy farmer, the creamery, and the small town merchant. You can't eat your cake and have it—yon can't epend your money for booze and then spend it for milk or bread or shoes or shirts.

The Liberal Digest

lions of dollars for pretended freight rates that ara purely fictions.

The case of Mr. Otto Swanstrom, of Duluth, Minn., we cite here as pertinent and instructive.

Complainant was a blacksmith that had invented an improvement in horseshoes. He founded a small company and a factory to put his invention upon the market and until the automobile came into common use, he seems to have prospered steadily.

When the antomobile had replaced the horse, Mr. Swanstrom turned to making of tools and particularly of tools used in automobile repairing. This necessitated considerable purchase of steel which he obtained at first in Chicago but upon which he paid the freight from Pittsburgh to Duluth, which was twice the freight from Chicago to Duluth.

In 1918, he conferred with high officers of the United States Steel corporation and obtained from them a concession of $5 a ton in these so-called freight charges which in reality were not freight rates at all but an additional tax levied by he steel company.

By this time a steel mill had been eetablished in Dnluth, a mile and a half from the Swanstrom factory and was supplying him with all the steel he consumed. Nevertheless, the freight charge had continued to be exacted.

In 1924, after the final decision in the famous "Pittsburgh Plus" case. Chicago was made, in the steel trade, what is known as a "basing point" and in consequence the myth that Swanstrom's steel had been shipped from Pittsburgh was exchanged for the myth that it was ehipped from Chicago.

Fictional Freight Rate Forcea Factnry to Lose

This ehift in fictions resulted in a atill further reduction of his ghostly freight charges and under this stimulus his business further expanded.

The original investment had been $3,000. In 1918, the amonnt invested had become $165,000,in 1933, a code designed and made by and for the great companies the beneficience whereby the Swanstorm factory had been charged only $1 for fictional transportation was abolished and the company was notified that thereafter it must pay the full "basing point" rate from Chicago on eteel moved only a mile and a half. The order increased the cost of his steel by $6.60 a ton.

Mr. Swanson testified that as a resnlt his factory, eincs Oct. 1,1933, had been operated at a loss and unless the fictional charge could be removed the factory must aoon cloee.

The steel npon which this charge is levied is made in Dulnth from iron ore mined only 60 milea away. The actual charge for transportating Mr. Swanstrom's steel is 50 cents a ton for awitching. It never aaw, nor anything near Chicago. Yet the factory must pay $6.60 freight charges on it, which is tha rata from Chicago to Dulnth.

It was further alleged that tha discrimination complained of was exacted only in regard to tha steel bara and billets; that if the aame steel were transformed at the eame mill into wire, the phanton freight rates were not exacted npon this. No attempt was made to controvert this charge nor to explain it.

An attempt was made to cause it to appear that the Minnesota Steel Company, a subsideary of tha United States Steel Corporation, being tha concern that collects tba fictional $6.60, has full anthority under the code to maka the price of steel what it pleases so long as it does not undersell the market.

A hearing on Mr. Swanstrom's case befora tha federal trade commission produced avidenca that aeemed to dispose of this allegation and to show that the Minnesota Steel Company was obligated to charge whatevar rates wers prescribed for it by tha Steel Institute.

Findings—It is tha opinion of this board that the code adopted for this industry should be amended in accordance with the attached brief.

The following is a continnation nf a snmmary of NRS's reply to the charges of the Darrow committee,, and was prepared by Donald Richberg, general counsel to NRA.

Says Board Has Put Out Misinformation

The board adds nothing whatsoever to the information available to the NRA and previously publicly discussed by the NRA concerning these provisions. Bnt the board in its ignorance of the complicated operations of this industry has produced a certain amount of misinformation which will not help in working out an intelligent revieion of the eteel code in the steel code in the pnblic interest.

Claims Board's Findings Worse Than Worthless

The review board has only muddied the waters by euperficial criticisms based on a few days of casual study of a complicated industrial situation and npon an utter lack of adequate knowledge of the facts. The conclusions of such a report are worsa that worthless and when expressed in the rhetorical language of the report are obvious appeals to passion and prejudice.

The NRA has been giving an extended trial to the provisions of the eteel code under close observation with continuing recommendations for their improvement, based npon accurate knowledge of the facts and expert advice as to measuree desirable to protect the pnblic interest.

The review board afforded no opporunity to the NRA representatives who had been working for months upon the eteel code and who had participated in its administration to furnish the review board with tha vast amount of information available, which had been gathered by the NRA which had been expressly omitted from consideration by the federal trade commission in its report, and to which the review board paid no attention whatsoever. A government investigation and report of such a character simply makes a mockery of public eervice.

The satisfaction of the industry with the practical operation of the code ehould be better evidence of its wisdom than the unsupported theoretical objection offered by the review board.

FARM AND MARKET

By
R. A. Trovatten
Minnesota Commissioner of Agriculture Dairy and Food.

In last week's letter in Farm and Market, I mentioned the possibility of prodncing euch quick maturing forage crops as corn fodder, sudan grass, millet and a combination of small grains, for the purpose of preventing a feed shortage for cattle during the coming winter. No doubt, a little information about the feeding valus and methods of handling these crops would prove of interest at this time.

For forage the corn plant may be fed either as corn fodder or corn stover. In the case of corn fodder, the ears of the corn, if any are present, are left on the plant. The corn fodder may be fed either green or dry, or may be pnt up as ensilage, which is regarded as the most economical and best way of preserving this crop. Corn stover on the other hand is the dried corn stock from which the ears have been removed. The protein content of corn fodder and corn stover are naturally quite low, running only from about 6% to 7% or 8%, depending upon the dryness of the prodnct. The chief value of these forage feeds is their high content of carbohydrates. Unlike the principal feeds from the processing of the grains of wheat and corn, the forage from corn ie high in calcium and has sufficient phosphorus. Naturally, for the best results, a low protein in feed like corn forage should be supplemented with a concentrate rich in protein.

Feeding trails have proven tha superiority of corn silage over corn fodder. The succulent and palatable nature of properly made silage induces the cows to consume larger amounts than is the case with tha dry fodder. However, in places where here are no silos, corn fodder is a very satisfactory substitute for the grasses and hay. Legume hays, such as alfalfa, can be advantageously used to supplement corn fodder and corn stover.

Sudan grass, which resembles tha sorghums, may be cultivated in rows and sometimes grows to a height of 8 feet. For its size this grass is tender, and is preferred to millet It may be fed to all classes of animals, but as is tha case with other sorghums, care should be exercised in the feeding of this prodnct, because of danger of prussic acid poisoning. Sudan grass may be used as pasture, as silage, or as hay. It is said to withstand drouth excellently. Like other forage crops, sudan grass is rather low protein, the cured hay running about 8% in this nutrient. The carbohydratea, including the fiber will average over 70%. The fiber, of course like all roughage is high amounting to 27%. Where it is possible this roughage should be supplemented with other feed crops or concentrates.

"In Flanders Fields"

"In Flanders fields the poppies blow
Between the crosses, row on row."
Still in the town men talked of trade
And what good business fighting made,
For those that didn't have to go.
Shares close to "high" and lives at "low"
Profits in steel for friend or foe
But count what dividends were paid
In Flanders fields!
This one for valor—"yo-ho-to-ho!"
This one that henceforth men should sow
Strife nevermore. Here a brigade
Because some men in town had said,
"We must do business, and who'll know
In Flanders Fields?"

LAWYERS BATTLE RESTRAINT SUIT IN COURT TODAY

Lundgren, Attorney for Plaintiff Avers City is $119,000 Overdrawn.

High-pressure legal battling featured the hearing on H. A. Brummund's request for an injunction restraining the city council and mayor from entering into contract with the Oen Mercantile company for a motorized firefighting unit, before Judge M. A. Brattland this afternoon.

Appearing for Mr. Brummund was Paul A. Lundgren assisted by Mr. Arnold. City Attorney Theo. Quale representing the city officials and H. O. Chommie represented the Oen Mercantile company.

Plaintiff requested that an injunction be granted on the grounds that there is no funds available and no tax levy has been made covering the purchase of this equipment.

Defendents attempted to establish funds available by anticipating the earnings of the light and water plant, plaintiff stated and cited overdrafts in various city funds which amounted to allmost $119,000. Unless they were restrained there would be nothing to prevent the council from entring into a spending orgy to the tune of $119,000 he maintained. The general fund of the city showed only a balance of some over $1300 plaintiff stated.

Defendents maintained that overdrafts in the other city funds had been paid out of the general revenue fund and that when tax payments are made this overdraft will be in part paid back and that thus there will actually be funds available, which the city council may use for purchasing equipment or other things within its discretion.

The court took the case under advisement, and a decision is expected to be handed down within a day or two.

Northwest Ag. School Will Have Alumni Reunion Sat.

The alumni reunion scheduled for Saturday, June 30, at the Northwest School, Crookston, promises to be the largest ever held at the school according to J. W. Mlinar, Registrar. The committee from Pennington includes: Clarece Weckwerth, Hazel, and Einar Aakre, Thief River Falls.

Prospects Seen For Postoffice Here In Immediate Future

Thief River Falls moved another step nearer to getting a new postoffice this week when Postmaster General Farley and Secretary of the Treasury Henry Morgenthou, Jr., announced that thirten Minnesota towns are among a list of cities which are slated for federal construction in the near futnre.

The administration plans the immediate expenditure of $110,000,000 for the construction of more than 600 postoffices and other federal buildings throughout the country. 626 cammunities in every state and territory have been selected for new federal buildings.

Approximately half of the program—302 buildings—will be undertaken with the $65,000,000 authorized for that purpose in the recently enacted deficiency-emergency appropriation bill. The other half—324 buildings—will be constructed with funds already available from other sources, the officials state.

Other Minnesota towns which with Thief River Falls are slated to have building operations started under this allotment are: Detroit Lakes, Hibbing, Northfield, Hopkins, International Falls, Cloquet, Litchfield, Pipeston, Wadena, Worthington, Albert Lea and Eveleth.

CITY BAND PRESENT THE THIRD OF A SERIES OF CONCERTS

LANGER SWEEPS N. DAK. IN ELECTIONS

Governor William Langer of North Dakota, recently convicted in Federal court of having misappropriated federal funds won a sweeping victory at the polls in the North Dakota primaries Wednesday.

Governor Langer who was opposed in the republican primaries by an opposition faction within the Non-Partisan League as well as by an IVA candidate took a lead at the beginning and ran away from the field. He carried the entire ticket endorsed by his group with him to victory.

Red River Valley Singers Will Meet Here Next Year

It was recently decided by the executive committee that the biennial sangerfest of the Red River Valley Scandinavian Singers association will be held in Thief River Falls in June next year, with the feature of the sangerfest being a contest in which approximately 130 singers will participate. Dr. J. N. Nesse of this city was elected president of the organization last year for a two year term and O. L. Svidul of Starkweather, N Dak., is secretary.

Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Wold left Saturday for Winona where Mr. Wold will operate a hotel.

Pennington County Pays More in Gas & Motor Taxes Than It Receives in Highway Work

Pennington county has received $26,995 less in expenditures on state trunk roads than it has paid into state highway funds through the gasoline tax and motor vehicle license fees. This is shown by a tabulation made by the highway department covering the period from 1921 to 1933, inclusive.

In those twelve years, the figures show, Pennington county paid to the trunk highway fund $542,375, while expenditures on trunk roads in the county totalled $515,379. The expenditures include interest and principal payments on county reimbursement bonds assumed by the highway department.

Only six out of the state's 87 counties have paid more into the trunk funds than they have received in road expenditures. Hennepin and Ramsey counties head this minority, but they have received vast benefits from the construction of trunk roads radiating from Minneapolis and St. Paul to other parts of the state.

In the case of Isanti, Pennington, Pipestone and Rice, the other counties which paid more than they received, various factors are responsible for the situation. Some have had an unusually small mileage of state trunk roads, a condition remedied by the recent expansion of the trunk system. There are also construction projects now pending in some of these counties which would more than balance the records. All of the four but Pipestone county have unpaid balances due on their county reimbursement bonds which the high- department must meet, as follows: Isanti, $67,544; Pennington, $37,814; Rice, $150,686.

St. Paul, Minneapolis and Duluth are now receiving annual allotments from the Highway Department to care for streets used as trunk highways. Formerly such payments were not made.

Red Lake county has received $544,848 more in expenditures on its roads by the state than it paid into the state funds, the sum paid in being $320,756 and the sum expended by the state being $865,604.

Marshall county received benefits moneys expended on her roads by the state funds $833,199. Thus her net gains have been $536,364.

Pennington county is one of six counties in the state that has paid more into the state highway funds than it has received back in state construction and maintainance.

LUTHERANS WILL HOLD ASSEMBLY AT SQUAW POINT

Dr. L. Boe of St. Olaf College Will Speak at 11:00 A. M. And at 2:30 P. M.

It has been announced by Rev. R. M. Fjeldstad, president of the group, that the annual meeting of the Northwest Lutheran Assembly will be held at Squaw Point next Sunday, with the program being sponsored by the Thief River Falls circuit of the Norwegian Lutheran Churches of America, which includes 20 congregations and 12 pastors.

Two addresses will be presented by Dr. L. W. Boe, president of the St. Olaf college at Northfield. He will speak in the morning at 11 o'clock, and again in the afternoon at 2:30 o'clock. Musical offerings will include a concert at 10:30 in the morning, and during the noon hour by the Holt Community band; selections by the North Star college quartette of Warren, and by the men's chorus of the Trinity Lutheran church.

In the case of inclement weather the morning program will take place in the Trinity Lutheran Church and the afternoon session in the city auditorium. The Trinity Lutheran Men's Brotherhood is in charge of the local arrangements.

Speed Demons Are to Compete at N. D. State Fair Saturday, July 30

Professional sanctioned automobile races will again be a feature attraction at the North Dakota State Fair Saturday, June 30, when favorite speed demons who have competed at previous fairs at Grand Forks compete with a number of well known drivers coming to the Northwest for the first time this year.

Attracted by a circuit of open competition speed events starting at the North Dakota State Fair at Grand Forks, thence into Minot, Fargo, Hibbing, Minnesota, Calgary, Edmonton, Regina and Saskatoon, Canada —prior to meets at Great Falls, Montana and other Northwest cities, a larger field of dirt track and speedway stars will invade the Northwest this year than has been the cases in the past. Prize moneys at stake aggregate well over $25,000 for the entire circuit.

Early enteries for the Grand Forks speedfest scheduled for Saturday, June 30, include Swan Peterson, Galesburg, Illinois; Haley Roberts, Indianapolis, Indiana; Shano-Fitzgerald, Dallas Texas; Dave Champeau, Grand Forks; Leo Yonng, Chicago, Illinois; and Gus Schrader, Cedar Rapids, Ia. Schrader, who is 1932 and 1938 World's dirt track champion as well as leader in points toward the 1934 speed crown, has entered his $9'000 Miller speed creation in the Grand Forks event.

Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Traver spent Sunday at Detroit Lakes.

Creamery Stockholders Will Hold Special Meeting on Friday, July 6 at C. C. Room

The stockholders of the local co-operative creamery will meet Friday, July 6, at 2 P. M. in the Civic and Commerce rooms in the city auditorium to consider ratifying an agreement made by the board of directors for the sale of the creamery building to the Land O' Lakes creameries, owners of the adjoining poultry plant.

Setesdalslag Closes Fine Meeting Sunday

A large delegation of Setesdals from throughout the northwest attended the 25th anniversary convention of the Satesdalslag in the city last Friday, Saturday, and Sunday.

Dr. O. F. Mellby opened Friday evening's program in behalf of the city, and welcomed the visitors to the city. Musical numbers, Norwegian songs and dances, violin music, and declamations were presented thruout the convention.

Splendid addresses were given by Dr. J. A. O. Stub, pastor of Central Lutheran Church of Minneapolis on Friday evening, and by Dr. J. A. Aasgard, president of the Norwegian Lutheran church of America, on Sunday morning. Senator Henrik Shipstead was detained in Washington and so was unable to be here as was originally scheduled. Several other speakers of note also spoke on various programs.

Rocksbury Club Will Celebrate on July 4th

That a 4th of July celebration will be sponsored by the Rocksbury community club at Valhalla hall, was announced today by Paul Engelstad president of the club. He also said that a permanent addition has been built to the hall to provide additional room for the occasion.

Races and stunts will begin at 11:30 A. M., and at 12 noon a community dinner will be served. Those who wish may bring their own picnic dinners, and coffee will be served free by the club. Others again may want to bring sanwiches, cake, and either salad of beans and turn them over to the committee in charge which will give them a full dinner in return. There will be refreshment and lunch stands to accomodate those not bringing lunches. Oscar Wiseth and his Moonbeam Serenaders" will offer music during the dinner hour.

The feature of the afternoon will be a kittenball games between the Smiley and Rocksbury girls' teams. To quote Mr. Engelstad: "A hot contest is anticipated because these are scheduled among the community club league games of this season." There also be horseshoe contests and races during the afternoon.

The members of the Smiley Community club are invited to be guests for the celebration, but a general invitation is extended to everyone.

Miss La Vonne Kriel, left Saturday for Glacier National Park where she will be employed during the summer months.

City Pays $3,000 for Another 'Engineerin' Feat', but Tank Leaks Until Pipe is Fixed

Council Disregards Law Requiring Jobs Costing Over $500 be Advertised

Mayor Tungseth's Engineer Gets Minneapolis Firm to Plaster Reservoir for 19 Days

By R. M. Aalbn

It is becoming apparent that the mayor's imported engineer's latest "Engineering feat" will be one that will leave the taxpayers groggy and hanging on the ropes gasping for air.

In May the engineer informed the council that the reservoir at the water station was leaking and that some repair work would have to be done on it. It seems that he was told to go ahead and have it fixed. Subsequently a Minneapolis firm of cement contractors brought in equipment and started to work. They started operations on the first day of June and worked under agreement for $70.00 per day. This sum covered rental of the equipment and wages for the operators of the equipment. They finished on Tuesday June 19. All materials and other labor was extra. On June 12, the council passed a resolution paying this firm $912.34 which covered their work to that time. On Tuesday evening another resolution paying another $988.00 was passed. Added to this there are items for sand, hauling, extra labor and freight as well as hauling of the equipment up here from Minneapolis which according to the figures that we were able to cull from the city's records today amounted to $1077.37. And the end is not yet for there are several items for which the bills have not been presented. The total paid to date on this job is $2,987.71 and it is estimated that it will cost another $150 to $200 before the book is closed.

Altho the law specifically requires the council to advertise for bids on anything that costs in excess of $500, such was not done in this case. The engineer just naturally "engineered it," and citizens of the city are beginning to wonder whether or not there are laws that define the actions of the present city administration, or if they are a law unto themselves.

And now the question is raised, whether or not the reservoir leaked to begin with. Operators who know something about the filteration plant advised the engineer before the work started that the leak was not in the reservoir but in the pipeline connecting the reservoir with the pumps. They explained that the action of the pumps gave them grounds for their belief. However, the engineer knew better and so the reservoir was "repaired." However after it had been repaired and repaired for a period of 19 days and it still leaked it became apparent even to the trained mind of an engineer that all was not well with the pipeline.

Two men were therefore put to work to dig down to it. When they got within four feet of it the water spouted up in a veritable geyser and their trench started to cave in.

Subsequently, the pipeline was cut off from the reservoir and a hole was cut in the wall of the tank, near the floor and a new pipeline installed. Then the reservoir seemed to stop leaking.

It is expected that some of the city's old but inefficient employees will be discharged now for "failing to cooperate" and for "lacking in efficiency" of the kind that is required to work under a high pressure engineer with just oodles of diplomas to his credit.

STUDENT DRILL IS NO LONGER TO BE NECESSARY AT 'U'

Board of Regents Votes that Students May Chose Whether to Take It or Not.

A long standing discussion of the merits of compulsory military drill for first and second year students at the University of Minnesota was brought to a close on commencement day when the board of regents, by a close vote, decided that drill should be voluntary.

The action affects only what is called the "basic" course, that for freshmen and sophomores, as the advanced drill courses for upperclassmen have always been elective.

Between 2200 and 2500 students a year have taken the basic drill courses at Minnesota and from 450 to 600 have chosen to go on with the advanced work of their own volition.

Elimination of compulsory drill from all publicly supported educational institutions has been an item in the platform of the Farmer-Labor party in Minnesota. The University of Minnesota is the only state-supported institution having such a requirement.

Military drill has been included in the university's curriculum since the opening of the institution in 1869. The Morrill act, passed during the civil war and making the first land grants to colleges and universities specified, among other subjects such as agriculture and the mechanic arts at land grant colleges, that military drill should not be excluded from the list of subjects.

Neighboring Communities To Celebrate on July 4th

The Elg farm in Erie will be the scene of a celebration in observation of July 4th, with the day's events beginning at 10 o'clock in the morning. The program includes a group of speakers, horse races, rodeo acts, kittenball, tug-of-war, foot races, airplane rides, vaudeville and dancing.

Red Lake Falls is also planning on a celebration which will include sports events, horse and mule races, a baseball game between Red Lake Falls and Brooks, and a doll buggy race among other events. A parade which will feature floats of the business places will take place in the forenoon, and an elaborate fireworks display will conclude the day's activities.

At the Alex Janoski farm 11 miles east of Middle River there is another celebration on the 4th and from all the arrangements that are being made there will be plenty of entertainment all during the day.

OLSON & KOLDEN IS AWARDED JOB SIDEWALK WORK

City Plans on Acquiring Tax Deliquent Lots on Pavement

A letter from Highway Commisisoner Elsberg was read to the council Tuesday evening, wherein the commissioner stated that oiling of Bridge street will be done by the state out of the next allotment of federal funds received for highway purposes.

Phillip Hawkins was granted a building permit covering a residence to cost about $2,000; H. W. Hicks was granted a permit covering some remodeling.

Bids for construction of new cement walk around the auditorium were opened and contract entered with Olson and Kolden at a price of $450,00. Other bids were as follows: Bert Norby $574.30; Aug. A. Johnson, $476.06 and H. A. Moe $485.

A resolution paying the H. J. Roadfeld construction company $998.00 for final payment on repair of the water reservoir was passed and bills of the month were allowed for payment.

The council discussed the acquirement of various tax-delinquent lots within the city, some specifically coming in for mention being at the end of Riverside avenue between the highway and the Della Zeh property and others being lots located on the pavement where the city has paid for considerable paving.

President of the Council, Peter Myrum explained that these lots will soon revert to the state unless the taxes are paid and that in such event the pavement taxes paid by the city would be partly lost to the municipality. The council plans on acquiring these lots and the city will thus be enabled to sell them again and realize some of these funds back again as well as being able, to some extent to control the nature and type of buildings that may be erected on them.

A hearing will be held on July 27 to give the taxpayers and others interested an opportunity to be heard in regard this proceedings.

School Elections to be Held Tuesday, July 17

Olaf Neset, secretary of the Board school district 18, announced this week that the annual school election will be held on Tuesday, July 17. Two vacancies occur on the board with the expiration of the terms of E. M. Bennes, president, and A. E. Mattson.

Filing date closes Thursday July 5

Million Dollars Received From the New Income Tax is Apportioned to Schools

A "cool" million dollars was apportioned to the school districts by the state board of education this week, being the amount collected to date on the new state income tax.

The money is distributed to the various school districts on the basis of $2.50 for each child.

Pennington county will receive $4,427.50, Marshall county gets $7,285 and Red Lake county will receive $3,362.50. The counties getting the lion's share benefits are, Hennepin, Ramsey and St. Louis counties who get $175,305; $100,472.50; and $82,062.50 respectively.

Commissioner Phillips, in issuing the certification, called attention to the limitations as to the use of this money. It can only be used for payment of bonded or other indebtedness outstanding January 1, 1933, and after cleared up, for later indebtedness. Any revenue not required for indebtness must be used to pay current operating expenses and replace levies on real and personal property.

Board of Equalization For City Meets on Monday A. M.

The city council acting as a board of equalization will meet next Monday at 9 o'clock to hear and adjust complaints as to assessments of real and personal property in the city. Those owners who are dissatisfied with the asked to appear.

Auxiliary Drum Corps Win Second Honors at 9th District Convention

The Thief River Falls Auxiliary drum corps was awarded second place among the 8 corps competing in the drum corps contest at the 9th district convention of the American Legion Posts and Auxiliaries at Detroit Lakes last week end. First place went to the Crookston drum corps with 84 points, while the local corps won second place with 80 points. The local drum corps was bigger in points than all the men's drum corps entered, and was extraordinarily popular with Mrs. Lyman Fossum attracting much atention as the drum major.

The drum corps has been asked to play at the North Dakota State American Legion convention at Fargo in July with all expenses paid, and it will also appear at Plummer on June 30, and at Red Lake Falls on July 4th.

Plummer Woodmen to Celebrate on Saturday

The eighth annual celebration of the Modern Woodmen of America will be held at Plummer on Saturday June 30. A parade at 10.30 in the morning will begin the day's activities, and candidates for the legislature will speak during the noon hour. At one o'clock, Harry Oen, affiliated with "The Farmer," a St. Paul publication, will discuss the gross income tax. A baseball game is scheduled at 2:30 between Red Lake Falls and Clearbrook, to be followed by sports and races at 4 o'clock. At 7:30 a free talking picture program will be shown, and a dance by Harry Hall and "His Ambassadors" will complete the day's program. A feature of the day will be the appearance of the Thief River Falls Auxiliary Drum Corps, which made such an outstanding success at the 9th district American Legion convention last weekend.

Community Clubs to Hold Joint Picnic at the Adam Lendobeja's Farm Sunday

A joint community club picnic of the Rocksbury, Silverton, Smiley and Kratka clubs will be held at the A. Lendobeja farm on Sunday, July 1. Races will begin at 10:30 A. M. Those attending will bring their own picnic lunches, and coffee will be served free by the Smiley club. The afternoon's program consists of a concert by a group of the Thief River Falls band, and song selections by the Nordahl boys. Kittenball games will be played between the Silverton and Rocksbury girls, and between the Smiley team and the farmers. The regular game scheduled in the community league between Kratka and Silverton will also be played. The general public is invited to attend and a good time is assured to all.

In last Sunday's kittenball games Smiley won from the Kratka team by a score of 7-6, while Rocksbury lost to Silverton by 5-8.

150 MILLION MORE FOR RELIEF NEEDS

Myers Declares Loans Will Be Available This Week From Appropriation.

Hyde Park, N. Y.—President Roosevelt ordered immediate allocation of $150,000,000 of drouth relief funds as he scanned national affairs in the quiet of the study in the family home here overlooking the Hudson river. The principal item of the drouth relief allocation is $56,250,000 for direct grants to states under the federal relief administration.

The other amounts in the drouth fund executive order includs $43,750,000 for purchase, sale, gift or other disposition of seed, feed and livestock; $25,000,000 for seed, feed and freight loans; $12,500,000 for establishment of civilian conservation corps camps in the stricken areas; and $12,500,000 for increasing employment through teh purchase of lands in the drouth region.

Mr. Roosevelt will tackle an accumulation of government business, including a perusal of a number of bills passed by congress just before it adjourned, and also appointment of newly created commissions to administer supervision of the stock exchanges and communications.

Governor William I. Myers of the farm credit administration announced that loans from the $525,000,000 drouth relief appropriation to farmers and stockmen to purchase feed for livestock and for production of forage crops in primary drouth areas would be available this week. Myers said that in accordance with the emergency relief act just passed by congress he would make the loans in areas which have been designated as emergency drouth areas by the department of agriculture.

The list incudes all of North and South Dakota, 37 counties in Minnesota, 17 in Wisconsin, 10 in Montana, 12 in Wyoming, 24 in Texas, one in Oklahoma, one in Idaho, 23 in New Mexico, 11 in Nevada, 10 in California, two in Oregon and 21 in Utah.

PILKEY WRITES ON SUMMER CARE OF THE PULLET CROP

The value of the pullets in the fall and the returns from them as layers is largely determined by feeding and management during the summer months, according to A. M. Pilkey, Poultryman at the Northwest School and Station, Crookston. Mr. Pilkey states that often chicks are well hatched and brooded only to become infested with disease and parasites, resulting in a very inferior ad unprofitable pullet. Efficient summer management of the pullet crop is necessary if the early winter egg basket is to be filled when eggs are at their peak prices.

A suitable and adequate range is necessary, a range upon which only young stock is raised, free from contamination of disease and parasites. Pullets should be placed on clean ground each year. A corn field, alfalfa field or clover field is ideal to provide an abundance of green feed, clean ground and shade. The feed, clean ground and shade. The house may be raised off the ground on blocks, thus providing a cool shelter from the hot summer sun, and preventing a hideout for rats and other poultry enemies.

The poultry man should guard against bare contaminated ground around the roosting shelter and the drinking pans. The shelters and drinking pans should be moved occasionally. Pools of water around the drinking fountain are sources of contamination and aid in spreading disease and parasites.

An abundance of feed, both grain and mash, should be provided. The feed should consist of at least three common farm grains plus protein supplements. Self-feeders which hold a week's supply aid greatly in cutting labor costs. An empty feeder or a clogged feeder will not produce fine pullets.

PRES. O'NEAL WILL APPEAR AT AGR. SCHOOL BARBECUE

County Farm Bureaus of Northwestern Minnesota will send their officers and members to the largest farm meeting ever to be held in that section of the state, to attend a barbecue featuring the presence of E. A. O'Neal, president of the American Farm Bureau. The barbecue and picnic is to be held on the Northwest School of Agriculture grounds at Crookston on July 12. County Farm Bureaus to convene there the East & West Polk, Pennington, Kittson, Wilkin, Roseau, Norman, Marshall and Clearwater.

"Four beeves are to be barbecued to feed the host of farmers who will assemble to meet America's greatest farm leader" says J. S. Jones, secretary-treasurer of the Minnesota Farm Bureau. Mr. Jones will be in charge of the barbecue, having learned the secrets of the barbecue art as a farm youth in his home state of Kansas.

This meeting will be Mr. O'Neal's first appearance in the midwest since Congress adjourned, and he will give his audience an authorative report on the "inside" workings of our national lawmaking body. Having played an outstanding part in fighting at Washington for favorable farm legislation, the leader of America's largest farm organization will bring a very important message to Northern Minnesota farmers, Mr. Jones says.

It is probable that A. J. Olson, president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau, and director of the American Farm Bureau, also will attend, as will Ole A. Flaat, of Fisher, vice president of the Minnesota Farm Bureau.

Dr. W. A. Coffry, dean of the college of Agriculture, has been asked to speak.

STUDENT FEELING ANALYZED IN STUDY AT U. OF MINN.

Student leaders on the University of Minnesota campus are less self-confident than other students think them to be, but in general have more self-confidence than a group of students selected for purposes of comparison, with the exception of the debaters, who have a tendency to feel at a disadvantage.

These were among things shown by a study recently published. Campus journalists have little feeling of inferiority but are of the introspective type. They are the most self-confident of the groups. Students in dramatics are somewhat less secure in their feelings then the journalists, "politicians" being more confident than student actors. For some unexplained reason girls who go in for politics feel themselves at a disadvantage. Most of them suffer from feelings of inferiority the study showed.

14 MINNESOTA COUNTIES ADDED TO DROUTH AREA

After a series of drouth relief meetings, the following fourteen Minnesota counties were added to the Emergency Drouth Area: Anoka, Chisago, Isanti, Hennepin, Washington, Carver, McLeod, Murray, Pipestone, Ramsey, Redwood, Sibley, Renville, and Wright. A special program of work relief in these and other counties devastated by unprecedented drouth is being planned. Congressman Ernest Lundeen has been a familiar figure at these Drouth Relief meetings, where he has constantly urged prompt action and the inclusion of the Minnesota Counties which have now been added to the Emergency area.

THANKS......

I appreciate the support given me by the voters of Pennington county and the Ninth District, and I sincerely thank you.

Although I was unable to make a very intensive campaign in this county during the primary election I am confident that I will be able to meet many of the voters during the time before the general election.

My primary election opponents, Mr. Nycklemoe and Mr. Townley, have assured me of their support in the fall campaign, and I hope their votes and friends will also support me as they have Mr. Nycklemoe and Mr. Townley.

If elected to congress this fall I feel certain that the confidence placed in me will be well merited.

Turkish Toweling

Terry cloth was invented in 1848 by Samuel Holt of England. In 1858 he presented the first Turkish towel to Queen Victoria, from whom he received a medal. There is some doubt as to the origin of the designation, Turkish. Some authorities say that it was applied because of the large quantities of the towels that were shipped to Turkey, where they were held in high esteem.

CAMPAIGN PLEDGES AND REDEMPTIONS

No wonder that the old parties are talking "fusion," something must evidently be done to stop the Farmer-Labor party, for it is by way of getting the voters into the habit of expecting results and action on campaign promises from the elected officials.

The old parties ruled Minnesota for over sixty years and they were always long on promises, albeit they were so short on fulfilling them. And they have gotten the voters into the habit of believing that promises are all they are entitled to. So much in that habit in fact, that it has been a very difficult task for the Farmer-Laborites to convince them that electing the Farmer-Labor party's candidates to office would get them results.

Four years ago they halfheartedly decided to give us an opportunity and we elected Governor Olson. Two years ago they grudgingly admitted that he had been a good governor and entitled to another term and were even prevailed upon to elect a couple of state officials along with him, and a house of representatives, about forty of whom could be depended upon to go with him on a program of real service to the producers of the state.

In spite of the fact that the Farmer-Labor forces were always in the minority and had to trade away the best committee chairmanships in order to get control of the House organizations, they can nevertheless point with considerable pride to their accomplishments.

Two years ago the Farmer-Labor forces promised the people of Minnesota three major things in their platform: 1st, protection against foreclosures and evictions; 2nd, a state income tax to lighten the tax load upon the farmers and workers; and 3rd, a reduction in the valuation for taxation purposes, on homes and homesteads, to further assist in lightening the tax load on the producers of the state.

These pledges have in the main been redeemed. True they have not been as effectively redeemed, as we would liked to have done it, but for this situation the voters must blame themselves. If they had placed more faith in the Farmer-Labor party in the last election and given it a working majority, there would have been yet more to point to with pride.

Senator Laura E. Naplin introduced the Mortgage Moratorium bill and it became a law which has saved thousands of farmers and home owners from losing their homes, in spite of the fact that bickering lawyers cut and chopped and amended it almost to death, over a period of three months. Only after three "marches on the Capitol" had their effect on obtuse reactionaries was it passed. It was a strictly Farmer-Labor measure and was defended thru two Supreme Court tests by a Farmer-Labor attorney general, finally to be upheld and become of aid to the distressed home owners and farmers.

There was a look of smug complacency on the faces of the reactionaries when the smoke of battle on the organization of the House had cleared away. While they had allowed the Farmer-Laborites to elect their man speaker and thus get nominal control of the house organization, they thought they had garnered to themselves in the trading, the most important committee chairmanships and assignments. Albert Pfeander of New Ulm, stuck his chest out, he was the most reactionary Democrat in the state but he had traded his vote for Munn for Speaker, for the chairmanship of the powerful appropriations committee. Peter Craff, his collegue too, felt pretty good, he traded and got the chairmanship of the committee on Commercial transportation. John Weeks of Minneapolis, progressive (?) Republican became chairman of the Judiciary committee, Leonard Eriksson of Fergus Falls, sat at the head of the table in the committee on Board of Control and State Institutions. Johnnie McDonough of St. Paul was chief of the Rules committee.

They almost had us outeuchered, but not quite. The committee on Taxes and Taxlaws had a good working majority of Farmer-Laborites on it and Hjalmar Petersen of Askov was the chairman and that is the committee which with the able assistance of Professor Roethshafer, Dean of Law at the University, shaped the income tax law. That too was passed thru the ardent efforts of the Farmer-Laborites and placed on the statute books, in spite of the determined onslaughts of a reactionary opposition. And that too, was defended thru two Supreme Court tests by a Farmer-Labor attorney general, finally to emerge unchallenged.

And this week the people of the state have tangible proof of the value of this law. One million dollars, the first collections from it, is being apportioned to the school districts of the state to help them to defray payments on outstanding indebtedness. $2.50 for each child in school is being allotted and there will be more to follow as the deferred payments under the law comes in. No, it is not as much as it should be. The top rate is only five per cent and it should be raised on swollen incomes. And it will be if the Farmer-Labor party is given a working majority in the next legislature. That's one of the reasons the old parties are talking fusion. And that's one reason why they will spare no expense to defeat the Farmer-Labor party in the election next fall. And that is also the reason the voters should be sure that they give their vote only to bona fide endorsed candidates for the legislature. They are pledged to the Farmer-Labor platform and the other candidates are not.

The third law which we can thank the Farmer-Laborites for, is the law reducing the valuation for taxation purposes on homes and homesteads. This year the assessors have a big task to perform. They are listing a permanent record of all real estate. A record which will show the value of the property, its improvements, it rental value, etc. This record will be on file in the office of the county auditor and will show which farms and homes are rented and which are occupied by owners. Homeowners will find that this law gives them a substantial reduction when they come to pay their 1934 taxes, payable in 1935. It will help the homeowners, but the Farmer-Laborites want to help more, and if they are given control of the next legislature the law will be amended to exempt entirely from taxation homes and homesteads up to $4,000.

That's another reason why we hear all this talk of fusion. The kibitzers don't want this kind of tax relief. Their idea of tax relief is a sales tax, a gross earnings tax, (a grass misnomer, by the way) or a turnover tax, all of which means the same thing; saddling the tax burden on those least able to pay. The proponents of this tax talk a lot about how such a tax will reduce the tax on farm property. A farm tax of $150 will be reduced to $35 they tell us. They fail to tell us that this law would also lower the taxes on lands held by banks, insurance companies, mortgage companies and land companies, as well as on the farms held by bona fide farmers. They fail to tell us that this tax will be saddled right back on the farmer and worker in the shape of a tax on every article which he buys in the store. On every dollar of income that he spends which in the case of the vast majority is all they make, while the "Big Boys" who spend only a part of their income will hold tax exempt government securities and thru this kind of "tax relief" will be able to hold more and more real estate for speculation without footing any of the bills for roads, schools police protection and all the other things which go to make up a civilized community.

Yes, we have made campaign pledges, and we have redeemed them. And if the people of Minnesota will elect the Farmer-Labor party to power in the state they will all be redeemed, for redeeming its campaign pledges is a habit with the Farmer-Labor party.

FOR FUN AND FOR FOOD
(Minneapolis Labor Review)

Nobody needs to be told that the Shriners' convention is here this week. The Shriners are having a good time and everybody is glad to see them have a good time.

Traffic rules have been suspended in many instances and many laws have proved very elastic before the presence in the city of the well to do and wealthy membership of the Shrine.

This is to be no kill joy editorial. We are not uttering a word of condemnation of those who have relaxed the enforcement of the laws and extended privileges to the Shriners.

However, there arises in our mind the picture of another occasion. This occasion was different than the Shriners' convention. The Shriners are parading and demonstrating to have a good time and enjoy themselves.

This other occasion we refer to men were parading and demonstrating for food. They wanted an increase in relief allowances. They wanted the CWA work continued.

Treatment accorded these men who were out for food and not for fun, by the authorities was vividly different than the treatment being tendered the Shriners by the authorities.

Traffic rules became very sacred things. Something to be very strictly enforced. A committee was arrested as it left the Council chamber after peacefully presenting demands of the unemployed thousands outside.

Tear gas bombs were tossed into the ranks of the hungry. And they were tossed back again.

Men were imprisoned and are still imprisoned because they demonstrated for food instead of for fun.

We are not complaining about the good time the Shriners are having, but we do maintain that if law enforcement may become so lax for those who are having fun it appears that it would be good judgment on the part of law enforcing authorities and courts to let the law be considerably more elastic in dealing with people who have been only about half fed for the past three or four years.

To make it plain let the law be just as lax at unemployment demonstrations as at Shrine conventions.

We were struck by a picture in the paper of a Shrine potentate gleaming on his two husky boys who have accompanied him to the convention. It reminded us of a visit to the workhouse last week to see the CWA demonstrators and the Truck Drivers who are still imprisioned.

Those men have boys they would like to see. Why should their terms not be ended and they permitted to go home to their families particularly inasmuch as John Law is taking a holiday during the Shrine convention.

Why not gentlemen who enforce the law set free now all these men jailed for loyalty to the workers? It would be but common justice and would give all more confidence in the law if they knew that those who demonstrate for food were to have something like the same treatment as those who demonstrate for fun.

ONE WISE WARNING
(St. Louis County Independent)

Some 600 leaders in science and industry assembled in Chicago last week as guests of Alfred P. Sloan of General Motors to look into the future. Meeting at the Fair Grounds dedicated to the past Century of Progress, they tried to forecast the next century of progress, says Labor.

All these forecasts were optimistic. The average span of human life is expected to reach 70 years—which it certainly should, if the gains of the last 50 years are continued. Airplanes will become commonplace. New sources of energy will be tapped. Housing will be industrialized so that a good dwelling for a family will cost not more than $2,000, and can be ready to live in one week after the order is given.

But though there were brilliant men present, learned men, famous men, only one man was wise enough to sound the warning that all other progress would be vain if we did not make progress in distributing wealth.

"The machine has not betrayed us," declared Glenn Frank, president of the University of Wisconsin. "We have betrayed the machine. Science and technology have given us the means by which we may emancipate the race from poverty, drugery and insecurity.

"If we now prove incapable of using these means to the full, the verdict of history upon us will be that we were a people strangled by our own success."

WHERE DO WE GO FROM HERE
(Stephen Messeager

Reports from the large population centers, from railroads, from police courts, and from welfare societies, reveal the fact that many thousands of our boys and girls, men and women, are homeless wanderers.

Five years ago many of them lived in typical American homes. We called them the backbone of our country. Since then, they have lost everything, first jobs, then cherished possessions, then their homes. Finnally they are losing self-condfience and the ability to keep a job if they had one. Many of them find that they are a burden on the family and desperately strike out "on their own."

It is estimated that we as a people keep a million and a half of these homeless ones wearily moving from one inhospitable community to another. No one wants to be responsible for them, so the policy is either to run them out of town, or at best give them a night's lodging and hustle them on their way.

Investigations show that it is the boy of exceptional thirst for adventure who treks from coast to coast. Most of them keep within a radius of 500 miles. Like squirrels in a cage, they keep going round and round in a big circle, stopping at the shelters and hangouts where they have been treated least badly on earlier rounds. The sad part of the story is that most of them lose all moral courage and pride through associations and hardships and the crime wave connects new recruits.

Is this the result of our industrial system or is it an act of God? And what shall be the remedy? What about your boy or girl—and mine?

It is really amusing to listen to the old-line politicions insisiting that Gov. Olson must not be allowed to interpret the Farmer-Labor platform; that it is so clear everybody must understand it, and it means every word it says—and then in the next breath insisting that although the platform says "publish" the school books, it really means "write" the books—an entirely different thing. Gov. Olson must not interpret his party platform, but the opposition politicians can make it mean anything they like, it seems.—Polk County Leader.

W. C. T. U. NOTES

IS REPEAL ALL?

Prohibition, they said, was a failure. If that be so, what term shall be coined to describe the debacle that is repeal? The record already is long enough to show that intemperance has not diminished but increased under the regime that was to end it, that the illegal liquor industry still overshadows the legalized industry which was to displace it, and that in short the liquor problem is as unrepealed as ever.

When a vigorous but clear-sighted wet such as Senator David I. Walsh of Massachusetts joins with Senator William E. Borah and the author of the Eighteenth Amendment in deploring the laxity of control over liquor in many parts of the United States, the situation is serious. In fact, Mr. Walsh struck an imperative keynote when he declared, "It behooves those who urged repeal to see that laws are enacted which really promote temperance."

The Moniter has long looked upon prohibition, if it had requiste public support, as the best way to combat the evils strong drink brings, and it believes with the Senator from Massachusetts that as surely as the old saloon conditions or worse are allowed to return, there will be a revitalized movement for national prohibition. Practical drys, however, can well afford to support any plan of control that gives promise of genuinely increasing temperance and sobriety. It is for those who destroyed prohibition to bring forward such plans and to show themselves more interested in social welfare than in distillers' profits.

The puzzlement of Administration officials over how to tax the legalized industry without increasing the profits of the bootlegging racket is more than an incident; it goes to the root of the difficulty. How is the reduction of federal taxes on liquor to help eliminate bootlegging if that reduction is merely absorbed in what Senator Borah calls "the unconscionable profits" of distillers, distributors and retailers of legal liquor?

The question will persist as long as the Government takes only a tax instead of taking the profit and the profit incentive out of the liquor business. It will persist as long as law enforcement is aimed at the protection of public welfare but of public revenue and private drink sellers' profits.

Is repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment all that America is going to do about the liquor problem? Are the states going to shirk the duty they clamored to have returned to them? Is the United States going to leave unprovided any adequate authority to deal with what is not only a local but a national problem? If so, the latter condition of that nation will be worse than the former.

Some are already beginning to talk about "the good old days" of prohibition. Any satisfactory substitute for prohibition is going to have to control the evils of intemperance even better than prohibition did.

Minute Sermons

By Dr. Crawford Graya

We are headed toward the worst wickedness of the Ages.

Flaming Youth means Failing Youth; good times, low times.

We have sought recovery along material lines and wholly neglected our spiritual recovery.

Militarism, alcoholism, nationalism, defiance and godlessness have won the people and making them do their bidding.

People twenty-one and over are responsible for most of the vicious temptations young folks under twenty-one have to fight and yield to.

Only a speedy revival of repentance and walking in the way of the Lord can save us.

LUNDEEN PROTESTS INADEQUATE SCHOOL AID . . . .

After the passage of an amendment to the Loans to Industry bill, limiting school aid to $75,000,000, which is to be used only for teachers' salaries, Congressman Ernest Lundeen on June 18 protested against adjornment without the passage legislation for school and student aid.

Following are portions of his speech:

"If we adjourn and go home now without standing by education, we shall have failed miserably in our schools, colleges, and universities, our teachers, our children, and the future of this nation. We must do more than pay the teachers, more than pay the teachers, more than open the schools. We must provide for a new program of expansion and improvement in our whole educational system, from the primary grades to graduate university courses. Schools must be kept abreast with the times, and students must be given an opportunity to vision the future."

Advocates Student Loans

"We should take time to deliberate on the possibilities of setting up a Government credit system for students who wish to attend schools, colleges, and universities, and have not the financial means to do so. Such a system would revive the hopes and ambitions of thousands of young men and women whose dreams for higher education have crashed on the rocks of economic disaster."

Lundeen credited officials of the American Federation of Teachers with the information that over a hundred million dollers is owing to the teachers of the United States at the present time, and stated that even if this debt were paid, there is no assurance that the schools will open next fall. He urged Members of the House to remain in session "until we can go home and tell our people that their teachers will be paid and their schools will open next fall."

Farmers to Win Victory if Lemke Bankruptcy Amendment Signed

Assisted by an opinion being awaited from Attorney General Cummings, President Roosevelt will make up his mind whether or not he will sign the Lemke amendment to the Bankruptcy Act which permits individual farmers to go through bankruptcy, have their property re-appraised at present values, and pay off the debt under liberal terms. The original Frazier-Lemke farm refinancing measure was kept off the floor of the House by parliamentary tactics after the necessary 145 Congressmen's signatures had been obtained on a petition to bring the bill before the House. Also awaiting the signature by the president are the Housing Bill and the Railway Pension bill. The amendment to set Railway Labor Act has been signed.

"Kind words may mean more dan money," said Uncle Eben, "excep' when you's gittin' 'em f'um one o' desa high-power salesmen."

The Liberal Digest

The following is a continuation of the Darrow report criticizing the NRA.

Ice

Monopolistic practices obtain in this industry, and small enterprise is oppressed, apparently because the code was made by representatives of the larger companies, in whose interest it seems to be administered.

The manufacturers of block ice comprise all but a small fraction of the business, but seems now to be threatened with a competition, at present of little bulk but it now appears, of menacing possibilities.

To frustrate this competition at the outset seems to have been the purpose of the larger manufacturers, who made the code. One of the small competitors made application to the code authority and then to the administrator for permission to enlarge its plant facilities in accordance with an increased demand for its product.

The application was referred to a committee of five of the larger manufacturers who negatived it, not hesitating to say in their finding that any increase in production of flake ice would be further used in attempted competition with the product of existing ice plants, which is, on the whole the most candid statement of the attitude of the large enterprises we have yet encountered.

Article VI of the ice code provides that there shall be no establishing of additional "ice production, storage or tonnage" unless the administrator shall be satisfied that public necessity and convenience require such extension.

It is to be noted that in the state of Oklahoma the legislature enacted a similar provision and the United States District Court, United States Court of Appeals and United States Supreme Court successively held the provision to be unconstitutional.

It is clearly monopolistic, oppressive and should be eliminated from the code. An interesting commentary upon it seems to lie in the fact that after the hearing by this board, the application before referred to as having been rejected by the same authority.

Cleaning and Dyeing

Findings—It is the opinion of this board that the code adopted for this industry should be amended in accordance with the findings and recommendations set forth in the attached brief.

The above entitled matter came on to be heard before the national recovery board on the ninth day of April, A. D., 1934, at 10:30 o'clock a. m., upon the complaint of numerous parties representing small, medium and large size enterprises who were represented by several witnesses at the hearing, and appearing at the hearing were several persons representative of the various sizes of the trade in support of the code and N. J. Harkness, chairman of the code authority.

From the evidence adduced at the above hearing the following findings are submitted. Findings.

1. That the trade is divided into two classes based on the service given and not on the size of the enterprise, towit:
   (a) Cash and carry
   (b) Call and deliver.
2. That there has been an utter disregard of the price provisions of the code since its inception making it impossible for the board to determine the effect of the provision of the code setting the same price for the two services set out above.
3. That the small enterprises are represented in both classes of service.
4. That the price provision in the code does not take into consideration cost.

Recommendations:

1. We find no monopolistic practices in this industry. If there is any oppression of the small enterprise, it does not result from a control or affiliation with one another but is a result of excessive competition.
2. This industry is composed of many small units with no means of integration or affiliation with one another. The nature of the business is local.
3. The status of the industry and the condition of the code with reference to its enforcement are such, that the board feels no appreciable results could be obtained by amending the code.

The following is a continuation of a summary of NRS's reply to the charges of the Darrow committee, and was prepared by Donald Richberg, general counsel to NRA.

Cleaning and Dyeing

It is an interesting commentary upon the opinions of the board that so few objections and such limited findings and recommendations should be made concerning this code, which has proved to be one of the most difficult of the administration by the NRA and the cause of probably more justified complaints than any other code.

The code was designed to prevent racketeering and cut-throat competition in an industry wherein these evils had become a national scandal. But it has proved to be very difficult to obtain general agreement.

As a result, the question of drastic revision of this code has been under consideration by the NRA for many months.

Bituminous Coal

The findings of the review board based on trivial and unreliable testimony result on conclusions of pathetic triviality or sweepings inaccuracy. Prior to the adoption of the code the processes of "savage wolfish" competition was beautifully exemplified in this industry, wherein wages were reduced to starvation levels, as prices were forced down below any reasonable cost of production through the savage competition of coal producers to sell their coal in diminishing markets.

Under the provisions of the code, it was made possible to raise the wages of 300,000 miners by an average approximately one dollar a day the starvation wages which had prevailed, through wage increases which in many instances exceeded 100 per cent.

The possibility of paying these wages and stabilizing the industry depended wholly upon the establishment of fair prices in different producing areas, leaving, however, these areas highly competitive with other areas, thus assuring to the consumer protection against exploitation.

The immediate result of this improvement of prices was the financial rehabilitation of hundreds of small producers and also the openings of actually thousands of small mines that had been unable to sell coal under the previous cut-throat competition.

In the fact of these actual results the petty complaints presented in the report of the board exhibit either complete ignorance of law and the important facts or a fixed determination to find monopolistic practices and the oppression of small enterprises, without regard for the facts.

The Heretic

The temple bells are calling me to prayer . . . .
   Across the way I stand, a heretic;
My garden smiles in friendship with the sun,
   And poppies flame beside the open door;
A thrush is singing in the apple tree,
   While trails of summer cloud like veils float by.

The temple bells are calling me to prayer,
   My fellow sinners, clothed in righteousness,
Beneath a stifling roof repeat their creeds;
   I lift my heart in worship out of doors,
And pray that God will see my head is bared.

Set Traps for Souls

Many West African tribes still support "soul catchers," sorcerers who set traps for souls that wander from sleeping bodies and forget to return. Upon catching a soul, they return it to the owner for a nominal fee. A native who cannot find his own soul buys another.

The Age of Miracles Has Not Passed, But Voyagers Won't Trust Fate Farther

Postmaster James Wilson of Grygla was in town last Saturday ond was looking for a ride to Warren that afternoon, Popcorn Jack persuaded Frank Dudley to take the aforesaid gentleman to the last mentioned place, Mike Welch was to accompany these gentlemen on their business trip. But, before starting it was necessary to fill the tank of the Flivver with gasoline, this was done at the 6th street gas station, where Emil Dostal is in charge. Whila Dostal was putting in the gasoline Dudley's eigor went out and upon his request, was given a match hy Mr. Wilson, Mr. Dudley proceeded to strike the match, when "W the fumes from the gasoline ignited and caught in the gas tank which i located in the front of this particular model Ford. Dostal pulled the hose from the tank which was all ablaze, this was quickly extinguished.

Naturally, this caused more or less excitement to those in the car. Mike Welch went out the hack window, as did Mr. Dudley through the front we are told, while Mr. Wilson made his exit through the door. (It is rumored that Mr. Welch has etopped running and has since been seen on our down town atreets.

Cool as a cucumher, Dostal, with some assistance finally pushed the car away from the pumps, where it was left while the gasoline completely burned out of the tank, after which the tank was flushed and refilled with gas. After this, Jim Wilson decided he had no desire to go to Warren.

Remove Restrictions on Number of Hog Litters

All provisions of the corn-hog contract limiting the number of litters to be farrowed in 1934 are removed in on administrative ruling recently received from Washington, announces R. M. Douglass the county agent.

The ruling follows: "In view of the fact that the contracts will not he finally adjusted until after spring litters have been farrowed, resulting in many unintentional violations of the controct, all provisions in the contract limiting the number of 1934 litters are hereby rescinded. This ruling does not affect in any woy the limitations on the number of hogs produced for market from 1934 litters.

This means thet formers can have as many sows farrow in 1934 as the wish, but the number of hogs produced for market from such litters must not he more than 75 per eent of their average adjusted production for the hase period.

A farmer who hod bad luck with his spring farrowings and has less than his allotted number of pigs, can increase his fall farrowings to make up for the deficit.

Mr. Douglass explains that the corn-hog contract provides for a 25 per cent reduction in the number of litters farrowed on a farm and also a 25 per cent reduction in the number of hogs raised for market. Spring farrowings are completed, and many farmers who have had their contract figures odjusted downward, find that they have unintentionally violated thier contracts by having more sows farrowing than permitted. This new ruling prevents such incidents from being classed as violations of the contract. However, a farmer who has had too many sows farrowing and has too many pigs will have to dispose of the surplus pigs in some way to that they will not reach the market.

BUCKLER WINS OVER TOWNLEY BY 4,257 VOTES

Nine Counties Give Plurality to Crookston Candidate for Congress

State Senetor R. T. Buckler carried nine of the 16 counties in the ninth Minnesota congressional district and had a total plurality of 4,247 votes over A. C. Townley for the Farmer-Labor nomination to congress, complete returns indicate. The third candidate, Henry Nickemoe, tralled behind Townley.

Mr. Nycklemoe has written Senator Buckler offering his support in the general election campaign next November when Buckler will be opposed by Martin Brandon of Fergus Falls, former Crookston attorney, candidate on the democratic ticket, and Ole Sageng, the repuhlican nominee, from Dalton in Ottertail county.

Polk county geve Buckler his most snbstantial majority while Ottertail gave Townley his largest vote in spite of the fact that Nycklemo carried the connty with almost 600 over Townley.

The unofficial total vote in the district for the three candidates on the farmer-labor ticket was as follows: Buckler— 17,807; Townley— 13,526; Nycklemo— 6,436.

Peunington county gave Buckler 466 votes majority over Townley.
